

Better Than Nothing

Residents of the Mount Mourne School attendance area will vote October 2 on whether to become a part of the Mooresville school district.

For what it's worth, which is precious little, we can give you our opinion of the issue to be decided: It's a step in the right direction. It's a giant step for Mount Mourne, a small step for Mooresville public education.

We have said many times that we favor consolidation of all public schools in the county into one or two systems. The number of administrative units is not as important as the application of some common sense.

It simply is not sensible to bus children from south of Mooresville past perfectly good Mooresville schools to schools north of Troutman. When school administrators say this can't be helped because Mooresville is one school system and the county is another, they are begging the question. Their approach should be what can we do for the good of the child, not why we cannot do it. If there are legal hangups, such as Mooresville's total autonomy and its supplementary tax, efforts should be toward removing the obstacles, instead of using them as a reason to maintain administrative separation.

There is no compelling reason the Mooresville and Iredell County school board cannot cooperate in creating one school administrative unit to serve the south end of the county. Mooresville simply prefers a how-not-to policy to a how-to policy.

The Mooresville board, quite frankly, is satisfied with the present arrangement, although the local superintendent says he favors "consolidation in principle." The superintendent recognizes that consolidation is no cure-all. He has worked in a consolidated system, and he says consolidated schools are forever "fighting brush fires of discontent."

But the superintendent serves the school board, which serves the people, and the Mooresville Board of Education's we-don't-need-them, they-need-us anti-consolidation policy clearly is a mandate from a great majority of citizens it represents. But the Iredell County Board of Education clearly is not functioning to everyone's satisfaction. Some Mount Mourne people want school consolidation and, lacking school board leadership, they are trying to handle the matter themselves.

After all is said and done about cooperation among the county's three school systems, a great deal more is said than done.

Mooresville has no particular interest in Mount Mourne. The claim that the local system is grabbing for more supplementary tax money is without substance. If Mount Mourne School should become a part of the local system, chances are we would spend more there than the revenue we would realize from the expanded tax base. The position that Mount Mourne would be "giving our school to Mooresville" is silly. A Mooresville citizen has just as much invested in Mount Mourne School as does a Mount Mourne resident. Schools are built with everyone's taxes. And certainly the notion that Mount Mourne School would be closed has no basis in fact. Mooresville cannot adequately accommodate the elementary-grade children it has, it isn't about to bus more into town. Mount Mourne School would continue as a community school, serving children convenient to it who are below junior high age. Mount Mourne would have all services available to present Mooresville schools. When a child reached seventh grade he would attend nearby Mooresville Junior High, not Troutman Middle School.

Reduced to its essentials, the question to be answered October 2 is rooted in a practical approach to education. The decision is for Mount Mourne alone. Whatever the outcome, all concerned can live with it without rancor or undue hardship.

But, as we said, for what's worth we think some consolidation is better than no consolidation.

Parson Jones' Pulpit

DEAR MR. PUBLISHER:

As you know, each year I go over my membership roll with a fine-toothed comb and put 'em in certain categories. Last year I put 'em in house-building categories. The sleepers were the ones who didn't do nothing but snooze. The pillars were those who carried all the churches' weight. The walls were those who divided the congregation. The doors brought others into the church. And the windows were the ones you could see right through. I found this breakdown a little complicated.

This year I'm just having two classifications: the out-boarders and the in-boarders. I call this the motor boat system. As you know, Mr. Publisher, an out-board motor is one that pushes the boat from the outside.

We've got a lota members in the out-board category. They do pretty well as long as they're pushed from the outside. The only trouble is that with these folks it takes one person to push 'em. To do it right, you need one pusher for each boat.

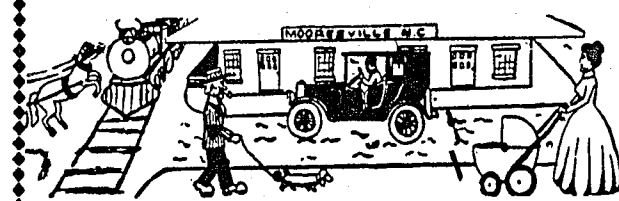

We don't have that many pushers. And if the preacher winds up trying to push 'em all he'll be as tuckered out as a man trying to push a freight train. By the looks of the roll, I'm gonna have a pretty long freight train this year. Then there are those I call the in-board folks. An in-board motor is one that's inside the boat. They've got a lota power. I've got a few members who have their own in-board motors. These folks have a self-starter and push themselves. They don't stop, and fizzle and jerk and jump, they just purr along under their own power. I'm not afraid to take 'em with this brand of special criterion. I'd give my right arm for more in-board church members.

I'm debating as to whether or not I should make my list public. My wife says I should. My head deacon says I shouldn't. He allows if I do, the congregation will get mad and put me in a category—"missing person."

Well, I must be signing off for this time. Keep your spunk clean. You never know when you'll have to make a trip or pull in a stalled boat. See you next week!

Yours Truly,
Parson Jones

IN OTHER 1922 YEARS... 51 YEARS AGO

The finals of the Mooresville High School will be held tomorrow (Friday) night at the First Presbyterian Church, when Prof. M.C.S. Noble, of the faculty of the University of North Carolina, will deliver the annual address to the graduating class. Grown people and children from the immediate families of the members of the senior class will be invited to the church. This steps is taken on account of the lack of seating capacity in the auditorium in the church building. The exercises will begin promptly 8 o'clock. The class is the largest that has ever gone out from the Mooresville High School in the history of the school.

The class motto is "L'amour, l'honneur, la fidelite."

Class flower: Daisy
Colors: White and gold.
Officers for the year were: Viva Colleen Rogers, president; Herbert Bell Troutman, vice president; Mary Lee White, secretary; Joe Parks Hudson, treasurer.

Class Hall—Elizabeth French Boyd, Ruth Grier Brown, Elsie Bradley, Mary Louise Brawley, Elsie Stinson Cranford, Irene McDuffie Clarke, Mary Lenore Cashion, Jane Violet Davidson, Mary Moore Deaton, Ruth Hunter Ervin, Lois Creola Frazier, Clifford Leith Goodman, Aubrey Robert Gresham, Lena Weeks Harrison, Sara Martha Horton, Harry Earl Hethcox, William Stewart Horton, James Horton, Joe Parks Hudson, Julia Johnson, Harris Dewitt Mills, Samuel Wilson Moore, Mary Augusta McNeely, Mary Eugenia Patterson, Viva Colleen Rogers, Maggie Sue Stiles, Helen Shumaker, Henry Hunter Smith, Herbert Bell Troutman, Mary Ophelia Voils, Mary Lee White, Virginia Mae Waters, Rowena Belle Williford, Joe Doy Young, Mary Eva Young.

About 4 o'clock Monday morning Esquire C. V. Voils, who lives on North Main street, was awakened by some sort of noise, and after looking to see the time of morning, he thought probably some member of his family had been up. He turned on the light in his room which opens at the back hall door, and he emerged through his room door he was within reaching distance of the person going out the back door. He at first thought it was Mrs. Voils, but when the party went hurriedly down the back steps and ran against a small gate at the foot, the intruder flashed a light for the 16th part of a second and was gone. When the squire saw the flashlight, he knew that it was not his wife or other member of his family. An examination of the house and premises showed that nothing had been taken, and it is presumed that the burglar had not made any headway towards robbery before he was frightened by the appearance of Mr. Voils on the scene. At 7 o'clock Chief Wagstaff's bloodhounds were put on the trail, but, when they reached the sidewalk at Main street, this was lost. There is no clue as to who the burglar was, but it is evidently someone who is familiar with the premises. The squire was somewhat excited over the experience, it being the first of the kind ever to happen to him, and he has been housekeeping for the past 37 years.

Mr. Rankin Allison gave her husband a surprise birthday supper last Saturday evening at their home on Statesville avenue. Mr. Allison knew nothing of the event until he had finished the chores about the house and a few friends began dropping in. He was of course delighted to have callers at his home, and especially those with whom he is associated at the Mooresville Flour Mills, but though nothing of their appearance until it dawned on him that he was 38 years old. An elegant supper was served to the following friends: W.M. Lentz, Floyd Smith, Ed Brawley, J.G. Kennerly, J.A.B. Goodman, and Thomas Youngblood, the latter a brother-in-law of Colemanee.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cathey received a telegram last Saturday announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Cornelia Cathey, at Asheville, at noon on that date, to Mr. Charles W. Kendrick, of Florida, who has been a resident of Asheville for some time. Mrs. Kendrick is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cathey and is now teaching in the West Asheville school. Mr. and Mrs. Kendrick will continue their residence in Asheville until after the close of the present term of school before determining on where they will locate, in Asheville or Florida. The bride has numerous friends here who will learn with interest of her marriage.

Misses Margaret White and Hazel Houston, students at Queen's College, and Miss Mary Lee White, of Mooresville, and Mr. Lathan Mills of the A. & E. College, spent the last week-end as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mott at their home near Mount Mourne.

The following music pupils of Mrs. Eugene Johnston's class constitute the honor roll for the month of March: Margaret Baker, Ethlyn Barger, Margaret Davidson, Mary Davidson, Mary Moore Deaton, Mary Celeste Frontis, Elizabeth Donald, Mary Frances Johnston and Ruth Shoaf.

Iredell County School Board Adopts Budget Of $6.3 Million

The Iredell Board of Education, meeting in Statesville last week, adopted a total budget of $6.9 million for the 1973-74 school year, accepted the resignation of one board member, and awarded several contracts for various services.

The board accepted with regret the resignation of the Rev. Paul L. Conrad, who will be leaving Iredell County, having recently resigned as pastor of a Statesville church to accept a call to become pastor of Epiphany Lutheran Church in Winston-Salem.

According to Board Chairman Kenneth Wooten of Mooresville, no action was taken on a successor to Mr. Conrad. Wooten hinted that the board might fill the vacancy at a special meeting, scheduled for August 28.

Taking care of the budget for the coming school year, the board adopted a current expense budget for the county system for the coming year that totals $6,702,300.45.

Further adopted a supplementary budget for instructional services that totals $105,765.

Approved a capital outlay figure of about $106,000 that will go toward equipping West Iredell High School and repairing facilities in the system.

The board also increased the prices of student lunches from 30 to 40 cents each in the elementary schools and from 40 to 50 cents each in the county system's two high schools—South Iredell and North Iredell.

When it came to contract-awarding time for services to the system, the board awarded several.

Included, was a contract for the furnishing of ice cream to the schools of the system. This contract went to Mooresville Ice Cream Company of Mooresville.

Long Meadow Farms, Inc., with a plant in Mooresville, and Dairyman's, Inc., of North Wilkesboro, received contracts for the furnishing of milk to the schools. Dairyman's, Inc., will furnish milk to three schools—Central, Harmony and Union Grove. Long Meadow will furnish milk to all the other 18 schools in the county system.

The board appointed S. L. Collins, Jr., as food service director in the county system.

The contracts of a number of teachers were approved, and several other matters of more or less routine nature were passed upon.

County's Retail Sales Increase

Gross retail sales in Iredell County in May climbed to $19,552,544.

This represented a gain of $2,833,399 over May 1972, when sales were $16,719,145.

It was an increase of $5,851,388 over the 1971 May figure of $13,707,156.

Sales in Statesville in May, 1973, were $12,228,862, compared with $10,828,337 during the same period in 1972 and $8,764,708 in 1971.

Family Dollar Stores, Inc., which has an outlet in Mooresville, realized a 28 per cent increase in corporate sales and earnings during the business year ending August 31.

Leon Levine, president of the Charlotte-based chain of 162 retail soft-goods stores, said this week that sales were "in the range of $47-$48 million, and net earnings approximate 70 to 75 cents per share."

Levine predicted that fiscal 1974 would see sales for Family Dollar reach $50 million and net earnings to approach 95 cents per share.

The Travel and Promotion Division of the North Carolina Department of Natural and Economic Resources, with headquarters in Raleigh, today announced that its slogan contest "is showing all the signs of being one of the most successful project ever conducted by the division."

The contest started July 15 and will end August 31. Purpose of the project is to select a new travel slogan for the State's vacation opportunities.

Winner of the contest will receive a week's vacation in any one of the state's three areas—coast, Piedmont, or mountains. The vacation will be donated by members of the travel industry.

"We are pleased not only with the number of entries but with the quality of the entries," Hastings noted. "We are impressed with their originality and this is what we are seeking. If the rate of entries keeps up, the slogans could run over 2,000 by the August 31 deadline," he added.

Those desiring to enter the contest should send their entries to Slogan Contest, Department of Natural and Economic Resources, P.O. Box 27807, Raleigh, North Carolina 27611.

The contest is open to North Carolina residents only.
