charge Marine World $140,000 to tap the municipal sewer system. This means the park developers will be paying 30 per cent through the town's books.

In return, the town will permit Marine World to collect future fees from a specified number of additional sewer taps along the line. In this way, the park will recover at least some of its expenditure over the years.

The county government will be asked to provide the remainder of project costs, with the idea of recovering its investment in taxes over the next decade. The park is planned as a $6 million enterprise.

Mayor Buys First Poppy

As regular as the second Saturday in November, the Tom Swann VFW Post Auxiliary sells "buddy poppies" downtown. And just as regularly, Mooreville Mayor Joe Knox buys his poppy early to publicize and officially sanction the upcoming sale. Mrs. John Mills, the Auxiliary's poppy chairman, pins on the mayoral poppy. Members of the Auxiliary and girl volunteers will be offering the familiar ornaments here November 10 in exchange for a donation. The poppies are made by disabled veterans, and proceeds from the project go to aid veterans and their families.
