No Action On Rail Underpass

Mooreville now will reach higher into Southern Railway's management hierarchy for help with the town's proposed rail underpass.

The Town Board met Monday night with Southern Railway representatives and discussed the project, but the railroad spokesmen said they didn't have authority to answer the questions the town asked. Attending the session were two of Southern's Carolina division officers, Jerry Williams, assistant superintendent, and E. W. Carney, division engineer.

The town wants to build a two-lane, 60-foot tunnel under the railroad and Broad Street near Oak Street. The work would cost about $160,000, and engineers

Neal Grose National 4-H Winner

An outstanding Iredell County 4-H Club member has won national 4-H honors, according to an announcement made this week at National 4-H Club Congress, which is in session in Chicago, Ill.

Neal Grose, a member of the Joyner 4-H Club, won national recognition in Dairy Achievement, and will receive a $700 scholarship to the college or university of his choice.

Grose is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Beecher Grose of Harmony, route 2.

In addition to Grose, two other state 4-H winners from Iredell County are attending the

Shoppers' Edition Published

The Mooreville Tribune today publishes its annual Christmas Shoppers' Guide! This edition offers to the buying public of Mooreville and the surrounding trade area a complete guide to better holiday buying.

The Mooreville merchants shopped far and wide, and early, too, for the Christmas trade. They are unveiling their array of Christmas wares, and are putting the merchandise on display for early Christmas shoppers.

Counters and store windows are lined with hundreds of gift items and other articles suited for the occasion.

The Mooreville stores are packed with a wide variety of Yuletide merchandise that has the best prices available anywhere, and at the very best quality, too!

Quite aware of the fact that many shoppers have had the habit of visiting nearby cities in search of greater variety, Mooreville merchants this year have taken greater care to offer the widest variety ever put on the market here. Therefore, it is a matter of civic pride, gratitude, and common sense to give your hometown merchants a chance first.

Now that you have this special edition in hand, examine it carefully, and patronize the hometown merchants.

To accommodate the shoppers, Mooreville stores plan special open hours during the Yule shopping season.

Beginning last week and continuing each week through December, member stores of the Mooreville Merchants Association will forego their regular Tuesday afternoon closing in order to accommodate the buying public who will be busy with Christmas shopping.

To further accommodate the Yule shopper, Mooreville stores will begin staying open longer, starting with Wednesday, December 12.

A majority of the Mooreville

Thousands Watch Mooreville's Biggest... And Best Yule Parade

"Absolutely fantastic...the crowd was tremendous and well-behaved and receptive to our guests. It was one of the biggest small-town parades I ever seen."

These were the words of Jim Causby, overall chairman of Mooreville's annual Christmas parade, following the Mooreville Jaycee-sponsored holiday festival last Tuesday.

And, Causby wasn't the only one who had words of praise for the 125-unit seasonal pageant.

North Carolina Attorney General Robert Morgan said it was "the only parade I have ever enjoyed being in," due to, to a great extent, to the friendliness

Iredell's '70 Census Increased To 73,433

Did you think you had more neighbors in 1970 than the national census count indicated? If so, you were right! The U. S. Census Bureau admitted in a recent bulletin, "Small Area Data," that its 1970 census count was an estimated 2.6 per cent off.

That means there were 2.6 per cent—or 5.3 million—more people in the United States in 1970 than the Census Bureau first said.

It also means a sizable difference in the number of people in Mooreville, Iredell County, Statesville and the small incorporated towns within the bounds of Iredell County.

The Mooreville Tribune has used this 2.6 per cent undercount and compiled a new population count for this decade.

It includes the following: Iredell County, 73,433 persons instead of 71,572, representing an increase of 1,861.

Mooreville, 9,035 persons instead of 8,800, representing an increase of 235.

Statesville, 23,803 persons instead of 23,200, representing an increase of 603.

Nationally, the new increase of 5.3 million—more

Energy Conservation Urged By Town Board

Everybody talks about the energy crisis, but nobody does anything about it.

The Town Board Monday afternoon took note of this understandable side of human nature. The commissioners decided to impress on townspeople the importance of every energy user's participation in a conscious effort to conserve fuels and electricity.

As part of its program of energy education, the board adopted a resolution urging the Merchants Association not to use downtown Christmas lights at all during the holiday season.

Last week, the association announced a sharply curtailed schedule of downtown lighting. In past years, the lights have been turned on nightly from 5:30 p.m. until 2 a.m. Last week's action cut use of the lights to weekends until December 12, then nightly from 6 p.m. until 9 p.m. through Christmas Day.

Roger Neill, association president, said Tuesday the full membership is being polled regarding the board's resolution, "but I think we'll go along with it." Neill added that "we've all got to do our parts, and certainly the association wants to set an example."

Town Manager Tate Mills recognized that "electricity is not in particularly short supply

Kerr And Templeton Directors

Robert K. Kerr of Mooreville and a Mooreville native who now is residing in Statesville, Dr. Thomas B. Templeton, have been elected to the Statesville board of directors of the North Carolina National Bank.

J. Allen Knox, of Statesville, vice president and NCNB Statesville city board chairman, said the action was taken at a meeting of the bank's general board of directors in Charlotte recently.

Kerr is executive vice president and manager of Belk's in Mooreville. A Mooreville native, he is a graduate of the executive training program at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He has been manager of the Belk store since 1962 and was given additional responsibilities as a group supervisor last year.

He is a director of the Mooreville Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Mooreville Merchants
