Carrigan Couple Honored At Golden Anniversary Reception

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Carrigan on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary, an open house was held at their home 1206 North Main Street, Mooresville, on October 28, by their daughters and sons-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Baker of Asheville and Mr. and Mrs. Joe R. Lyerty of Mooresville.

MR. AND MRS. HARRY LEE CARRIGAN

The home was beautifully decorated at focal points throughout with appointments of fall flowers. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Alexander, of Mooresville, niece and nephew of the couple, greeted the guests and presented them to the honored couple and their daughters. The anniversary table was overlaid with a gold linen cloth bordered with gold lace. In the center was a three-branched candelabrum with fall flowers and gold tapers. One end of the table contained a silver punch service from which Mrs. William G. Cooke, Jr., of Mooresville, niece of the honored couple, served golden fruit punch. Silver trays contained cheese, rosettes, decorated minis, and salted nuts. The four-tiered anniversary cake was decorated in yellow and gold with a nosegay of fall flowers. Mrs. James C. Linker, sister of the couple, completed the serving of the cake from a round table overlaid identical to the anniversary table. Grandchildren, Rick and Kathy Lyerty and Sammy and Emily Baker, assisted during the afternoon, as did Eddie Kistler. Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce R. Carrigan, of Mooresville, and Mr. and Mrs. Beryl R. Hobbs, of Kannapolis, brothers of the couple. Approximately one hundred and fifty guests called between the hours of three and five o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Carrigan were married October 31, 1923, at her home in Iredell County, with Reverend P. A. Underwood officiating. Mrs. Carrigan is the former Sarah Cordella (Cordie) Hobbs. Mrs. Carrigan wore a geranium polyester dress complemented by a white yellow-throated orchid corsage. Mr. Carrigan was remembered with a yellow rose boutonniere.

Garden Club Has Advance Tickets to Christmas Show

Dedicate open filigree stars with a center medallion of simulated semi-precious stones from Nepal; Handmade gold-washed brass animals studded with tiny stones of turquoise, coral, moonstone, lapis lazuli and jet colors also from Nepal; Powder flower pins from Denmark; Buffalo horn necklaces; Brilliantly colored bread dough dolls and animals for a Christmas tree from Ecuador; Heavy, smoked pottery, each piece molded by hand in stages by the daughter of a Catawba Indian chief just as her ancestors had made it for generations. These unique craft items are to be found in a small gift shop called the Collector's Corner at the Charlotte's Nature Museum on Sterling Road. Catering to unusual handicrafts and merchandise related to nature or science, the Collector's Corner is, for most of the items it carries, the only outlet in the Carolinas, according to Mrs. Peggy O'Bar, chairman of the shop for the Museum's Guild. "We try to stock books as well as other items that are related to the workshops that the Nature Museum sponsors. For instance, dinosaur collections are very popular when the dinosaur class is being taught, and loose gems and minerals can be purchased to add to a collection when the rocks and minerals classes are going on," she said. Birdhouses and feeders, Indian and Eskimo dolls, hand-carved wooden bird pins, radiometers, science games and experiments, and recycled note paper are a few of the varied articles the shop stocks. Many of these gift items will be available at the Nature Museum's booth in the Southern Christmas Show, November 7-11, at the Charlotte Merchandise Mart. "They make excellent Christmas gifts for teachers," Mrs. O'Bar said. But they make good gifts for anyone. "A woman from England bought 6 or 7 pieces of the Catawba pottery to take back home because it is a craft fast disappearing with the tribal way of life." Guild members have "bought 6 or 7 pieces of the Catawba pottery to take back home because it is a craft fast disappearing with the tribal way of life."

Upon arrival of the honored couple, flowers were presented to them by the hosts. Refreshments of finger sandwiches, cheese balls, assorted crackers, butter minis, petit-fours, mixed nuts, stuffed dates and spicy apple punch were served from a table appointed with a floral arrangement of blue and lavender carnations complementing love napkins. Thirty-five out of town guests were present for the party.

England, recent guests for two weeks of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Stewart at their home on West Center Avenue. From here, Dr. and Mrs. Lankester went to Syracuse, N. Y., where they will visit Dr. and Mrs. Donald Stewart, Jr., before returning to their home in England. Dr. Lankester and Dr. Stewart, Sr., are cousins.

Miss Sarah Turlington of Washington, D. C., spent the weekend here, visiting her sister, Mrs. Donald Stewart and Dr. Stewart.

Miss Brenda Garmon, December 22 bride-elect of Mr. Glenn Fox, was honored at a luncheon on Saturday, October 27, at The Lincoln House in Lincolnton.

The twelve guests were greeted by the hostesses Mrs. Tom Trot and Mrs. Jerry Blanton of Kings Mountain. Upon arrival the honoree was presented with a corsage of pink carnations. The table was centered with an arrangement of red roses and pink carnations. Garlands of ivy accented with pink candles and bows completed the decorations. A gift of silver in her chosen pattern was presented to the bride-elect. Special guests included the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Herbert D. Garmon of 216 North Academy Street, Mooresville, and Mrs. Roscoe Fox of Taylorsville, mother of the groom-to-be.

Miss Sandy Shoe, November bride-elect, was guest of honor at a linen shower on Saturday evening in the Blue Room of the First Baptist Church. Hostesses were Misses Joanie Adams, Bridgett Wade and Vicki Davis. A fall color scheme was used in the bride's appointments and the guests arrived in the foyer, they were asked to autograph a rolling pin which was placed on a table arranged with leaves, colorful gourds, small paper pumpkins and a two-branched candelabra with lighted green tapers. Individual tables were arranged in the Blue Room with centerpieces of fall flowers and pyracantha berries. The honoree's table was centered with a lighted candle surrounded with leaves and berries. The gift table was marked with green ribbon bows, centered with orange pyracantha berries and a wedding veil drawing with the inscription "Best Wishes, Dennis and Sandy" completed the decorations. Wearing red and black slacks with a black sweater knit blouse, the honoree received a corsage of Starburst pompoms from her hostesses. Two games of bridal bingo was directed and winners received prizes which they presented to the bride-elect. Guests completed the evening's entertainment by designing a wedding gown of crepe paper for the honoree. The gown, when completed, was modeled by Miss Shoe. Refreshments of decorated cake squares, cheese rosettes, and fruit punch was served to the sixteen guests, which included mothers of the engaged couple, Mrs. Arthur Shoe, Jr., of Marion, S. C. and Mrs. John Foltz, of Mooresville. Miss Shoe was the recipient of many lovely gifts of linen and the hostesses gift was a set of bed linens in Cannon Mills international design.

Free Information Offered By Office Of Home Agent

BY NANCY I. MYERS
Home Extension Agent

The mother at home rearing a young child has been called the most isolated and lonely person in America. True or not, the mobility of our population has left many young parents in new towns without trusted aunts and grandparents as baby sitters and advisors. For free home economics information, these women are welcome to call the office of the Iredell Home Economics Agent, 872-7454, in Statesville.

Also the Extension Service and Iredell County library offer books for these lists for 25 years and conduct a county-wide reading program. Under the direction of Mrs. John Watt, County Education Leader, the club members have read thousands of books in 1973. The awards for the reading contests will be announced at Iredell Achievement program, Tuesday November 27 at 10:00 a.m. at the Haze Street United Methodist Church in Statesville.

The book list includes Henry Kane's "A Care for Nature" with delightful drawings to help the youngest appreciate need to save our environment. A book of exercises for child and mother, a book on handywoman repairs, and crafts for rainy days show what a variety of books has been chosen with care by librarians in the State Library System.

In fact Iredell's own Miss Violet Cofer helped select books for this 25th year list of suggested books. Dr. Eloise Cofer, Assistant Director of Extension, N. C. State University, says: "Over the years these books have offered pleasure, instruction and friendship. These books are chosen because they: (1) speak to the issues of the day; (2) reflect the moves and concerns of a nation; (3) provide entertainment; (4) offer help for everyday living in the home and community; (5) add to the knowledge of the reader."

"The reading list cannot provide references to all the good books you may wish to read. This is only a guide to good reading. If you would like a copy, call 872-7454 and it will be sent to you free of charge."

As a special offering, the librarians have selected some

Miss Mildred Alexander, 53-year-old resident of Mount Mourne, died Monday, following a long period of declining health.

A native of Iredell County, Miss Alexander was born on May 9, 1920, a daughter of the late Harry A. and Margaret Gough Alexander.

Surviving are: the stepmother, Mrs. Harry A. Alexander of Mount Mourne; one step-sister, Mrs. Robert Keever of Raleigh; and one step-brother, H. Arnold Alexander of Waynesboro, Va.

Funeral services for Miss Alexander were conducted at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the Cente Presbyterian Church, with the pastor, Rev. Dwight Barker, officiating, and burial was in the church cemetery.

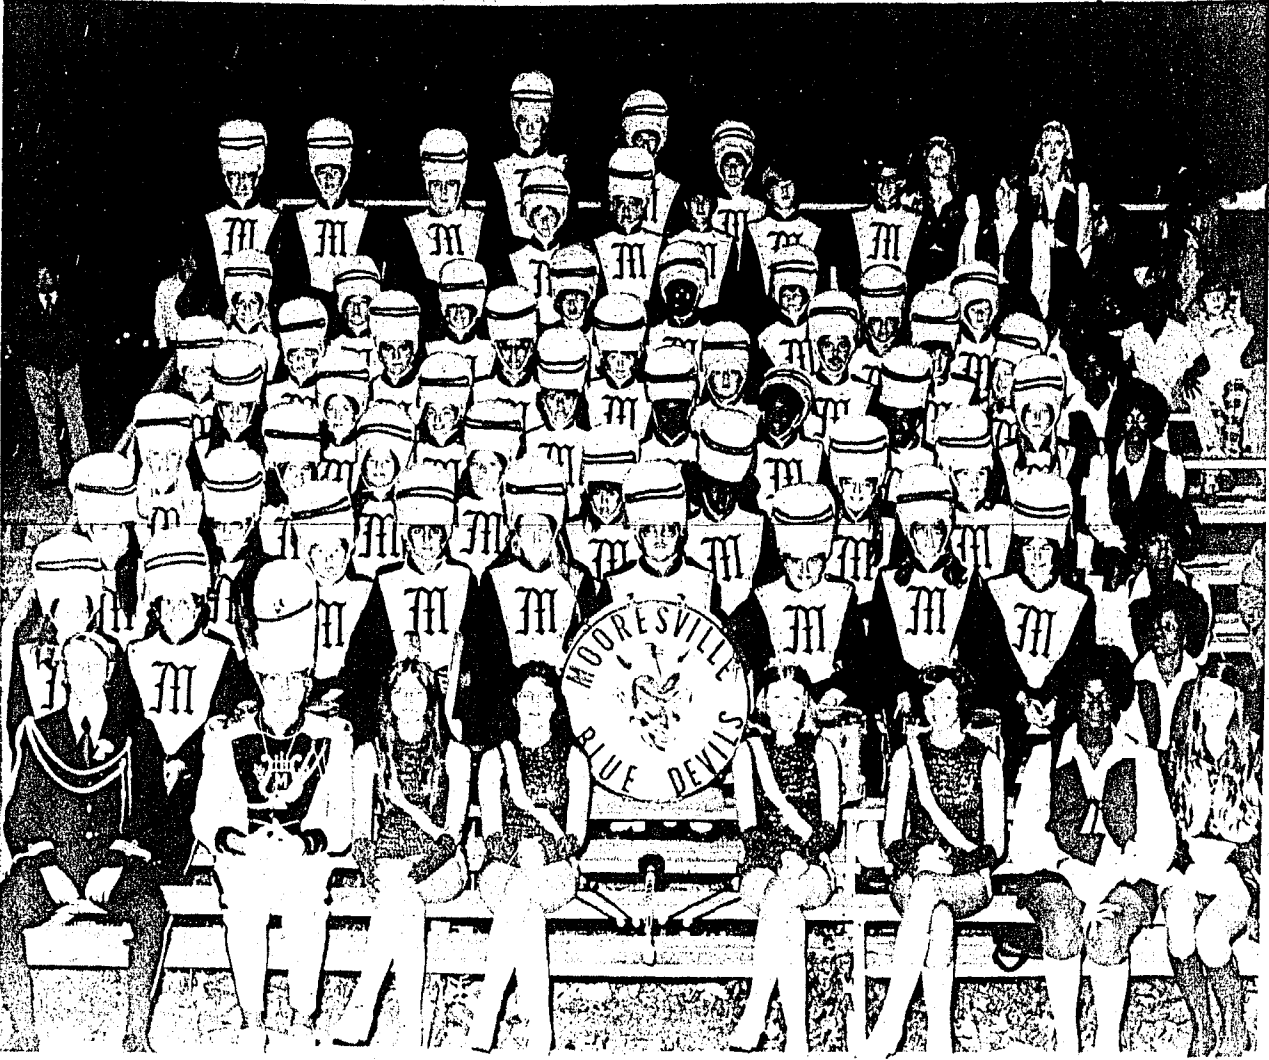

In addition to the players in the band, there is a drill team and a color guard. These two groups are outside the band program. The color guard is a part of the band and are led by Laura Erskine.

Beaver has had to use Junior High members because of lack of interest among Senior High students. The band lost 27 members in the last year for many unknown reasons. In the Senior High band there is a total of 44 members, nine of which are on the football squad. In the eighth and ninth grade band there are twice as many, 88, the largest number in quite a while.

In the beginners band, there are 66 seventh graders, the largest turnout in several years. So Beaver has the "minor league" with which to build a top-notch varsity band—and he's doing it. He already is encouraged by the tremendous boost in student interest produced by use of Junior High students in the band.

The whole band program involves 198 students. The drum major is Marshall Morrow, and he is part of the band. Of the four majorettes, Toyette Rathbone is the feature twirler.

'Don't Knows' Topic For NAACP Meeting

"Ignorance may not be an acceptable excuse in the eyes of the law," said the Rev. J. E. McKenize, "but surely it is the cause of a great deal of misunderstanding in our society; and it is the reason many people do not take advantage of services available to them."

McKenize is chairman of the education committee of the South Iredell Chapter of the NAACP. He said the association has more racial balance "than the public schools or the Christian church."

These "don't knows" will be the subject for discussion during a meeting of the area NAACP chapter November 11, McKenize said. He said the general public is invited to attend the 4 p.m. program at Reid Memorial United Presbyterian Church at 334 North Broad Street.

Veterans do not know about opportunities open to them in the National Guard, for example, and they do not know about training and educational services offered them through the Veterans Administration. People do not know about Social Security supplements they are entitled to.

Poor, old and ailing citizens have no chance to learn about the many forms of assistance designed specifically for them, such as the new "meals on wheels" program in the county. Parents do not know about programs offered for retarded children and adults in the county.

"And there's no doubt," he said, "if you don't know, you are going to be overlooked. If you can become aware and express your interest and desires, people and agencies around you will all act differently toward you."

One of the most widespread "don't knows" in this area, McKenize said, is that the NAACP is "the most integrated organization in our society today." He said the association has more racial balance "than the public schools or the Christian church."

Construction on the building is expected to begin early in 1974. The Western North Carolina United Methodist Conference voted, during the annual meeting in June, 1973, to locate its headquarters in Charlotte on the property of the Methodist Home.

Presently the conference has offices in Charlotte and Statesville.

Life Exists In Over-40 World

You've heard them all: "After 40, life is just one big maintenance problem." "You're your physical best at 16 and your smartest at 21; after that you just get sicker and dumber."

You could go on—but don't. Forget that whole line of thought, says United Press International in a report that attempts to confirm that life does indeed exist after 39.

The capacity to think, to learn, and to innovate continues to grow well past middle age. Even learning rate does not begin to decline until well after middle age. By then, it shrinks about one-half of one per cent a year until it reaches the level it was at age 16.

Scope and range of life-exposure enables the older worker more readily to avoid traps and pitfalls that so often trap the young.

The mature person's richer background of experience is adv. geous in the special work of creative problem solving.

"Contrast all this," says Taylor, "with the all-too-observable tendency of 'youngsters' toward short attention span...preoccupation with status, personal advancement, a proclivity for reinventing the wheel, grasshopperish pursuits. The contrast becomes sharp indeed."

"In truth more than 64 per cent of the great achievements of the world have been made by people over 60," Taylor said. A few examples:

—Oswald Avery, at 63, was the first to make genes, the biologically active genes.

—Julius Verne was writing his most imaginative stories at 70.

—George Bernard Shaw won a Nobel Prize when nearing 70.

—Commodore Vanderbilt did most of his railroad building after 70.

—Bernard Baruch, at 76, became the United States representative on the Atomic Energy Commission of the United Nations and formulated the Baruch Proposals for international control of atomic energy.

—Voltaire did his best work between 60 and 84.

—Konrad Adenauer served as Chancellor of West Germany from 73 to 87.

—Julia Ward Howe, author of "Battle Hymn of the Republic," produced her best writing, "Sunset," at 91.

Taylor said only two things keep "old dogs" from performing new creative tricks. To wit: Negative attitudes; failure to try.

Today's Working Teens Really Are 'In The Money'

"Son, could you lend me a few bucks?" This may not be an unusual request these days. After all, most teen-agers are "in the money."

It is obvious from statistics compiled by the United States Census Bureau. They add up to this fact: Some 12,500,000 teenagers between 14 and 19 are earning money. Their average earnings are $12,700,000 in 1971. This figure represents the earnings of both boys and girls. Most of the collective wealth came from part-time work.

Boys who worked in that year had an average income of $1,631. Girls earned an average of $932.

It's comparatively new, this teen-age affluence. Their parents can remember the day when young people had little money of their own. But today it is not unusual for the high school contingent to have cars, buy their own clothes, and even travel to Europe with teen-age groups.

As to the effect of this comparative wealth on the "new generation," there seem to be mixed emotions.

"Some people feel teen-agers have too much money today, that they don't know how to handle it and are often wasteful," according to educational specialists.

What can be done about it? Should they be taught the value of money in the schools? Or is this the responsibility of parents?

Both schools and parents are having a word with the young people on the subject.

Schools are doing so with modernized consumer-education courses—specifically geared to the interests and needs of the

Programs On Kid's Clothes Are Scheduled

One of the most formative periods of a person's life transpires between the ages of two and six. During this short span of time the child takes a broad leap in his total development. Gardening is for everyone (Gife) is the slogan selected by a special committee at North Carolina State University to stimulate more interest in gardening throughout the state.

The increased cost of living makes it appropriate for us to place additional emphasis on food production in home gardens during the coming year.

They suggest a total effort will stress better and more economical foods by growing, preparing, preserving and consuming garden fruits and vegetables.

In an interview, he outlined his system and the handling of the money, and the handling of the money, and the handling of the money.

whom reportedly reside at the home rented by Miller and the Allen woman.

All were charged with the felonious possession of drugs. In addition, Hawkins was charged with attempting to distribute drugs.

All were placed in the Iredell County Jail, the bond of each, except Hawkins, being $5,000. Hawkins' bond was set at $5,000, according to a spokesman for the sheriff's department.

The raids, conducted around 10 p.m. Monday, were the results of several months of intensive investigation by the sheriff's department and the SBI.

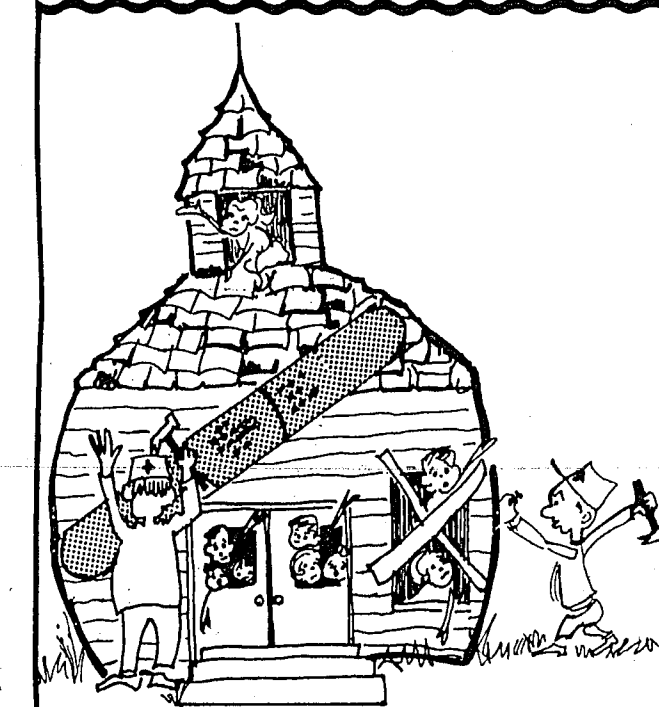

According to Detectives James Clements and Cecil Cook, "the raids came so fast the people involved didn't know what was taking place and didn't have time to dispose of any of the marijuana and the other drugs."

SBI Agents participating were Richard Lester and Barry Lee. Deputies Pete Barkley and Buddy Grose of the sheriff's department also took part in the raids.

It was one of the biggest—if not the biggest—haul of marijuana and other drugs ever made in Iredell county, a spokesman for the sheriff's department reported.

Presidents Organization, a national association of corporations.

He started his banking career in the management training program of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, where he served in branch management.

In 1958 he moved to the community of Belton, South Carolina, to organize and open the Belton Bank. Under Patton's leadership the bank, now known as Capital Bank and Trust Company, experienced outstanding growth. In 1966 he joined the People's National Bank in Greenville, South Carolina, becoming the president and chief executive officer. During the years Patton directed the Peoples National Bank, total assets more than doubled, from 50 million dollars to over 100 million dollars; the total number of banking offices from eight to eighteen.

"Piedmont Bank is indeed fortunate that Mitchell Patton has made the decision to join our senior management team," states Tate. "Patton has demonstrated his leadership in the Carolinas. His previous experience make him especially well qualified for his new position with Piedmont Bank."

and Catawba County Volunteer Fire Departments sent men and equipment to the scene.

William Lee Sigmon, Sr., of Sherrill's Ford, route 2, chairman of the campground's board of trustees, said the tents in the lower section or northeast portion of the campground were destroyed.

The other and the other portion of the 14-year-old gathering place for Methodists, escaped the fire, Sigmon reported.

In reporting that the arbor—the central feature of the campground—was not burned, Sigmon, said: "The Lord was with us."

Only eight or 10 tents were ablaze when firemen arrived, it was stated, but the fire spread quickly. Bulldozers were used to push down a number of the tents near the fire in order to keep the blaze from spreading throughout the campground. Had this not been done, observers believe, the entire 224-acre site as well as the arbor would have been destroyed.

As has already been stated, the campground has been operating 144 years, and there would be broken down each summer all these years, except for two years, once during the Civil War and then some 15 or 20 years ago during a polio epidemic. Now the grounds are held for a week in August.

Even before the ashes of the burned tents had cooled, a number of the owners of the destroyed tents were talking of rebuilding in order to be ready for next year's camping week.

Those expected to participate in the groundbreaking, in addition to the congressmen, include John Keever of Granite Falls, 31-B governor; Neil Summers of Hixsonville, chairman of the Carpenters Committee; and Herbert Hollowell of Edenton, president of the N. C. Association for the Blind.

Better Late Than Never

In the 1920's Olive Randall Foster, a farmer in Stearns, England, had the married Albert Tipter instead. "Bert was going steady with her," Foster said. "He was slow about proposing," she explained. When Tipter died last year, Foster promptly proposed, and the 70-year-old great-grandmother married him.

"I wasn't going to let her get away again," said Foster. "I still had the ring that I had bought in 1923."

OLIVE RANDALL FOSTER
70-Year-Old Great-Grandmother

Oliver Randall Foster, 70, of Troutman, route 1, died at 10:05 a. m. Saturday at the Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem. In declining health for three months, he had been critical all two weeks.

Born in Ellijay, Ga., on May 19, 1903, the Rev. Mr. Foster was a son of the late George and Emily Sanford Foster.

Prior to his retirement, Mr. Foster was employed by the Troutman Iron Works in Troutman.

The survivors include: the widow, Mrs. Lillie Banks Foster; two sons, John C. and John H. (Jimmy) Foster, both of Mooreville, route 4; and two daughters, Mrs. Alva Rogers and Mrs. Kitty Goble, both of Statesville, route 8. Three sisters also survive.

Funeral services for Mr. Foster were conducted at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the Shepherd Baptist Church, with the Rev. Tilman Norris, the Rev. J. W. Pyle and the Rev. J. B. Parker officiating. Burial was in the Perith Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church cemetery at Troutman.

Consistent Faith

What happened to the "authoritative source," the "high administration official," the "informed spokesman" and all the other ghostly characters who used to be credited with inside scoops out of Washington?

They were the way of all flesh. Nobody believes anybody any more, so why bother? We've been fed official lies from so many "reliable sources" we could care less these days who says what.

Which brings up an interesting point: Would we believe visits by creatures from other planets if they landed on the White House lawn, the palace guard was there to meet them, and Walter Cronkite read us the official news release?

Until recent months, we accepted the word of our various governments as "official" in the sense that, right or wrong, that's the way it is. We can't be sure of anything now.

Is this a loss of faith, or is it an indication of a maturing populace?

A smattering of both, perhaps. Faith is a positive action. We can believe anything we want to. We are perfectly willing, for example, to embrace a concept such as immortality of the human soul, the everlasting nature of our personalities, as it were. We find it a great comfort to believe in heaven, and heaven would be pointless without an alternative, hell. To further our "logical" eternal arrangements, we believe in a halfway house, purgatory. We find all this to our advantage; our beliefs enhance the value we place on ourselves.

We are consistent, therefore, in dismissing Dr. Allen Hynek as some kind of nut. An astronomer at Northwestern University, he said flat out that "a craft from another planet landed in Mississippi." He had reference to reports by two fishermen who said they were taken aboard a "fish-shaped vehicle," examined and released unharmed by creatures with wrinkled skin, crab-claw hands and pointed ears.

If we, in our egotism, are eager to accept "on faith" events past, present and future that were, are and will be utterly impossible in a world we know and experience, it is understandable that we will not accept evidence of other-world civilizations advanced far beyond our own.

The reason is simplicity itself: We don't want to.

Power To The People's Pen

In the final analysis, a groundswell of public indignation turned Nixon around. The almost-unanimous public resentment of the president's omnipotent attitude may have been reflected through the Congress, but, nevertheless, Nixon felt the heat more than saw the light.

The Great Capitulation by Nixon that followed his iron-fist handling of his man Cox and his Justice Department people was the first real indication that the president and the executive branch are receptive to public opinion. It was altogether a healthy sign.

But whatever else they may be, those in the legislative branch always are attuned to the folks back home. They depend on the citizens they represent for guidance. They take letters and telegrams seriously; they have people around them who pore over all the newspapers from back home. They want to do what pleases the greatest number of people, because that's the way they stay in office.

It is not idle conjecture to say, therefore, that what you, Mr. Mrs., Ms., Miss Individual American, say and do—and especially what you write—is the most direct source, if not the last vestige, of government-by-the-people at work.

So why not participate in this process? Why not give your voices in Washington a piece of your mind? Your senators are Sam Ervin Jr. and Jesse Helms. Ervin's address is 337 Old Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20510. Helms is in the Senate Office Building, same city, same ZIP.

Address mail to your North Carolina members of the U. S. House to House Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20515.

These are members of the state delegation, their district and their hometowns: 1, Walter Jones, Farmville; 2, L. H. Fountain, Tarboro; 3, David Henderson, Wallace; 4, Ike Andrews, Siler City; 5, Wilmer Mizell, Winston-Salem; 6, Richardson Reese, Greensboro; 7, Charles Prosser, Fayetteville; 8, Earl Ruth, Salisbury; 9, James Martin, Davidson; 10, James Broyhill, Lenoir; and 11, Roy Taylor, Black Mountain.

Parson Jones' Pulpit

DEAR MR. PUBLISHER:

They say there's nothing new under the sun. That may be true, but I think there's a few new wrinkles in some old things. You take, for example, an atheist. He's been around for a long time. And there's always been a few of these brave folks with "heart trouble" who are bold enough to share their faith. (I guess it would be their "unfaith.")

One of these critics in our little community now has started a "Dial-A-Theist" program. This is an honest-to-God fact, or as he would say, an honest-to-God fact. When you dial his number he tells you how there ain't no God, how church members are suckers, and how preachers are in the same category as buzzards.

Mr. Publisher, this man's program is so popular that he has to have two telephones to take care of the business. Fact is, it's getting to be a full-time job now.

I think the pore fella is either suffering from gastritis or ateleaks foot, cause anybody that would spend all his time talking about somebody who doesn't exist has gotta have something wrong. Only a nut goes around talking about nothing.

A good number of the local preachers are up in arms and declare he oughta be impeached or something. Some of the good citizens have come to God's defense and threaten to rip the man's car apart. It's the first time it's ever come to my attention that the Almighty needs a bodyguard.

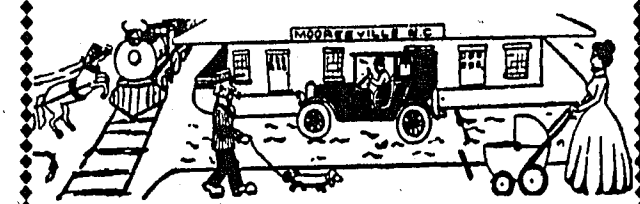

My reaction to the whole thing is a good belly-laugh. The Good Book, over in Psalm two, says that when people try to get rid of Him, He just rars back and laughs. If He think it's funny, I think I'm funny.

Listen, Mr. Publisher, the ole sun up in the sky shines away, not because somebody says it does, and it don't stop because somebody says it don't. The truth just hangs in there no matter what folks say.

Well, I've gotta be signing off for now. I'm gonna have Dr. Charginight go check this atheist. I've got a feeling he might have gallstones.

Yours Truly,
Parson Jones

OUR COMMUNITY

IN OTHER YEARS... 21 YEARS AGO

The only thing that saved the churches of our city being robbed of their usual Sunday congregations last Sabbath was the fact that it was not known that William Jennings Bryan was to lecture at Davidson that morning at 11:15. Mr. Bryan dropped off at Davidson Sunday morning, accompanied by a grandson whom he wished to place in Davidson College at the opening of the next term. He was induced to give a lecture and word reached Mooresville just in time for a few to make the trip down there in time to hear him. He spoke twenty minutes in the Presbyterian Church of that place, and his theme was "Ali." From this small word he preached one of his customary sermons. He paid a high tribute to Davidson College, having chosen that institution for his grandson for the reason of its religious environments and the excellence of that institution's record.

The Great Communion has lost none of his eloquence and during his brief stay and discourse he held his audience with the same vast attention so familiar on former occasions when in North Carolina.

Misses Rebecca and Mary Beth Davidson left Saturday night where they will very likely make their home. They were accompanied by Miss Minnie Williams, their aunt, who has been keeping house for them since the death of their parents, the late Rev. and Mrs. R. C. Davidson. Mr. Clayton Davidson, their brother, will continue his residence in this city until next fall, and probably longer.

Miss Nona Brawley left last Thursday for Lander, Wyo., where she has gone on a visit to her brother, Mr. Samuel J. Brawley. She was accompanied by her niece, Miss Ruth Brawley. They will remain in the west during the summer months.

All the concrete in that portion of the Mooresville-Charlotte highway between this city and the Mecklenburg line at Davidson College is down and within another ten days the asphalt will be laid and the road opened for traffic. This will complete the first link in the Statesville-Charlotte permanent hard-surfaced road, which is a thing of beauty and a joy forever. One can't imagine how smooth and splendid it is until they have glided over the surface in one of Henry's favorite fliers. The mixing machine has been sent to Mooresville and the concrete will be placed along Broad street on the Mooresville-Statesville link, beginning next Monday, the 19th. This contract will carry the hard-surface to Shepherd under the direction of the Thompson-Caldwell Construction Company, and at Shepherd the road work from there to Statesville is being put down by the R. M. Hudson Company. The concrete base is already down from Shepherd to Ostwald, a distance of about three miles, and the force is going right on toward Troutman, and will reach that point within the next four weeks.

The Chautauqua opens Monday. Mr. W. B. Evans, of Greensboro, spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Evans.

Misses Margaret White and Patsy Davidson have gone to Davidson, where they are attending the Young People's conference.

Mr. Eugene Hawthorne arrived Monday from Atlanta, and will spend a month here at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hawthorne.

Miss Alma Culp, who last week returned from Flora MacDonald College, has accepted a position in the office of the McKnight Auto Company.

Misses Mary Howard Turlington and Martha Culp left yesterday for Davidson, where they are attending the Young People's conference this week.

Mrs. A. L. Starr and little daughter, Sara, left Sunday night for Savannah, Ga., where they will visit among relatives for several weeks.

Mrs. H. C. Davidson has returned from a visit of several weeks with her brothers, C. W. Johnston at Charlotte and Ed Johnston at Rock Hill, S. C.

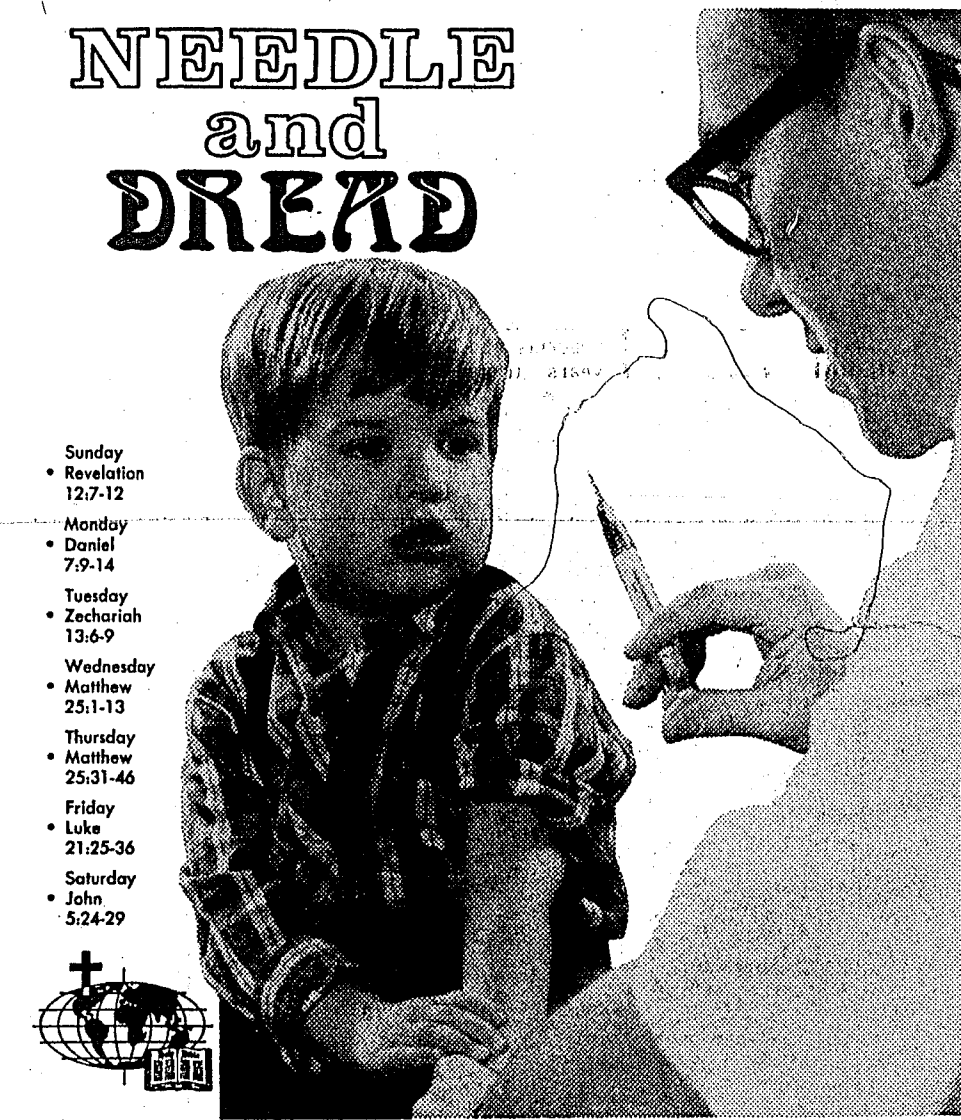

Misses Margaret Templeton, Lella Gouger and Plato Kelly and Mr. Eugene Houston, of Mount Mourne, will attend the meeting of the State Christian Endeavor Society at Charlotte, which begins tomorrow and closes Monday of next week. These young people are representatives of Centre Church.

Fink Gabriel, one of the bustling farmers of Davidson township, raises the ever-bearing strawberries, and during the past few weeks he has supplied the market with many kinds of the finest berries that have been brought to market this year. They are large and very sweet and elegantly flavored.

Be brave, Ronnie! It will hurt a little, but it's worth it. No matter how old we are, life requires courage. And we show our greatest courage when we are terribly afraid but fight on through the fear.

Moral courage is sometimes much harder than the physical kind, but whenever we stand up for what our God-given conscience tells us is right, regardless of sneering opposition, we win a shining victory... and we keep our self-respect.

It is never too late to start living courageously. If you are facing a life situation that is draining your courage, why not pray about it in church tomorrow? The Christian Gospels assure us, without a shadow of a doubt, that strength will be given us whenever we need it and as much as we need. Remember that life is not a lonely battle. God is always with you.

Doomed To Mud And Dirt Forever

(From The Pilot, Southern Pines)

We are not sure we understand the full implications of the Holschouser highway plan, but one of the announced policies disturbs us very much.

That policy is the one which says the state is going to stop paving rural dirt roads, and to our mind this is a policy which is not only unfair but cruel and unreasonable.

Consider, for example, the farmer who has had to contend with dust in summer and mud in winter while waiting on road paving promises for years. Is he to be denied all hope and doomed to a dirt road for the rest of his life? Is he to be denied equitable treatment with his urban neighbors? Do not his gasoline taxes entitle him the same consideration given other taxpayers in North Carolina?

We realize that all dirt roads cannot be paved now, but it is crucial to adopt as state policy a plan and philosophy that will deny any citizen of the state any hope for the future.

The best we can figure the new highway policy to be is that it frankly follows the cynical philosophy of "them that has gets." It rejects and downgrades the state's secondary road system—a system which has been a primary cause of the state's advancement—and concentrates the state's highway dollars and commitments to pouring even more concrete into the concrete jungles of our urban areas.

Some people may applaud this new policy, but we see it as a step backward—and unfair to thousands of mud-locked citizens of the state.

Calling A Spade A Shovel

One of the popular no-sweats (anti-perspirants) comes out in a TV commercial and flat challenges the others by name. Its competitors are lined up on a shelf behind the pitcher, who says his brand has been tested against all those, and it wins every time.

Not too long back, NBC was "another network" to CBS, and St. Joseph was the devil's disciple in the Bayer bible. Now Bayer puts out booklets giving brand-by-brand comparison of effectiveness, and one network has been known to credit another by name with news scoops.

But we come now with the ultimate in commercial truth.

An ad in a recent issue of a national magazine reads: "Honorary doctorates for sale. Absolutely phony. Nevertheless impressive. Large, ornate, baroque diploma...Only $10 postpaid."

Undoubtedly, such candor will not go unrewarded. That, in turn, may usher in a whole new concept in advertising and merchandising. Someone will surely dream up something like "500,000 one and only genuine, cut-glass Hope Diamonds for only $1.98 apiece." A New York-based novelty manufacturer is a natural to turn out a set of dentures and advertise them as the original Brooklyn Bridge. The possibilities are endless, which just may prove that in the U.S. competitive free marketplace the consumer gets what he wants. As long as there is a demand for literally anything—even foolishness and nonsense—someone will devise a means of supplying it.

Jaycees Hand Templon First Loss Of Season

The Mooreville Midget League teams finished their six-game season Saturday with Templon leading the pack. The Jaycees finished in second place, and Mooreville Federal finished third. The Burlington Bulls ended up in fourth place.

On Saturday's action, the Jaycees ended the winning streak of Templon by defeating them 6-0. The second game had Mooreville Federal slopping past the Bulls of Burlington 8-0.

The combination of Bruce Overcash, Willie Houston and Rich Peace set the pace for Saturday's first game. Templon went into the game undefeated while the Jaycees entered the game with a 2-2-1 mark.

Templon came out on top when the two teams squared off earlier this season, but Jaycees were not to be denied their revenge Saturday.

The defenses of both squads dominated action through the first half, and the only score of the contest came early in the third period. The score was set up by a bad snap from the Templon center, The ball squirted away from the Blue Comet backs and the Jaycees pounced on it at the Templon 30. The Jets drove to the one, and Jeff Rinehardt was called upon to apply the clincher. He did. The conversion attempt failed, but the six-pointer proved sufficient to end Templon's five-game win streak.

The Blue Comets did manage a threat. Billy West and Tony Witherspoon provided much excitement, but the threat was too little too late. After the defeat, Templon coach Gary Elkin said there will never be another team with as much determination and desire to go all the way. Elkin said even though the team had no great strength, he was very proud of the team.

In the second game as in the first, defenses ruled the first half. Turnovers were the main reason neither team scored.

Burlington lost the ball five times to Mooreville Federal's four.

The defense of Mooreville Federal was led by Billy Gibson. Gibson had two interceptions and quite a few good pass breakups. Tony Williams recovered two loose balls for Mooreville Federal and Kevin Mack picked off a Burlington pass.

Steve Cook led the Burlington defense with a fumble recovery and an interception. Linebacker Ralph Young picked off a Mooreville pass and Robert Reid recovered a loose ball for Burlington.

The only score of the game came on a flea-flicker pass play from Mooreville quarterback Ron Small to Mike Overcash to Chris Mack. Small threw to Overcash who in turn flicked back to Mack, who was trailing the play. Mack broke in the clear and scampered 47 yards to the goal. Chris was called on to get the extra point and did so by running the ball the two yards. The score came late in the fourth quarter.

The Imps finished the season with a .500 average in six contests. Their record on the road was 1-2 and their record at home was 2-1.

Devil-Viking Rivalry Resumes Here Friday

Throw out the record books, statistics, relative strengths and weaknesses when two old rivals meet on the gridiron, the saying goes.

The annual renewal of the hostilities between Mooresville and South Fredell for the football supremacy of south end of the county is no exception.

The game, also known as the "Caval War" of neighbor Blue Devils and Vikings, is set for 8 p.m. Friday at the Devils' Tramping Ground.

Mooresville comes into the game after an impressive 37-7 win at East Rowan. South defeated North Davidson on its home field by a 6-2 count.

The Blue Devils record stands at 5-1 in the conference, keeping coach Gary Karriker's charges in a first place tie with North Rowan in the Division One and over all NPC standings.

The Vikings pulled their conference mark to 3-3 with last week's victory, but stand 3-5 overall. The Blue Devils record is 6-2 in all games.

The Vikings-Devils clash will again match the irreconcilable force meeting the immovable object.

South, noted for its stingy defense, will be out to put a damper on Mooresville's powerful offensive machine that is averaging nearly 300 yards per game in total offense.

The Vikings will also be trying to keep its mathematical chances alive for gaining a playoff spot in Division Two.

Should Dave County lose its two remaining contests and South win theirs, the Vikings would be in.

Both coaches expect what the opposing teams are capable of doing going into the contest.

Coach Bill Mayhew of South says that Mooresville will present some problems for the Vikings, but he will be looking for his defense to stop the Mooresville offense.

Coach Mike Peeler's Dave County is 4-1 after a 28-20 tie with North Davidson on Friday. South Fredell is 3-3 and North Davidson stands 2-4-1.

If Dave wins either of its final two games against North Davidson and East Rowan, the War Eagles will be in the playoffs. If the War Eagles lose once, they will still get the berth.

However, Dave Devils coupled with two wins by either South Fredell or North Davidson will knock Dave out of it.

Neither South Fredell or North Davidson can afford a loss in the final two weeks.

A contest matching Rowan County rivals is set Friday. East Rowan's slumping Mustangs play at West Rowan. East will be trying to snap a four-game losing streak and end West's already slim playoff hopes. West will be trying to bounce back from the tie with North Stanley, which is winless in the conference.

Other SPC games set this week include Concord at Lexington, Albemarle at Statesville, and Trinity at Kannapolis. Asheboro goes outside the conference, playing host to Reidsville.

The final weekend on Nov. 9 includes the following games: Asheboro at Salisbury, Kannapolis at Concord, Lexington at Thomasville, and Statesville at Trinity.

In the North Piedmont, it appears that either North Rowan or Davidson will clinch the conference championship and a playoff berth.

In case of a three-way tie, the conference coaches vote to determine the playoff team.

In Division Two, Dave County has the advantage with a game and game-and-a-half lead, but both South Fredell and surprising North Davidson are still in the running.

Karriker notes that South has really improved in its last five games, losing only to Statesville and Davidson while winning three. The coach said that the Vikings also have some good personnel that could cause the Devils problems. The Blue Devil coach was highly pleased with the team's performance in the East Rowan contest. "I've got to credit our fellows with their finest overall team performance of the season,"

Karriker said. "We had some outstanding individual performances, but everyone really did a good job so let's give credit to everybody."

Fine First Year For Troutman Middle School Gridders

Troutman Middle School, which offers seventh and eighth grades, is fielding a football team this season for the first time. The new team, which is playing a six-game schedule, has its fans excited with its performance.

South Fredell's Vikings took over sole possession of second place in Division II of the North Piedmont Conference Friday night by downing North Davidson, 6-2, in a football clash at North Davidson.

The Vikings, who have a chance at winning the division's post-season playoff berth, are 3-3 in the NPC, trailing first-place Dave County by one-and-a-half games.

Each team has two games to play. South Fredell won the game on a 10-yard touchdown pass, Kim Newton to Danny Ervin, with less than five minutes showing on the clock.

North Davidson moved the ball to the Viking one-yard line, but South Fredell recovered a fumble by North Davidson's Gary Boyd with 50 seconds left in the game.

After being halted in three plays, the Vikings didn't punt but fell on the ball in their own end zone for a North Davidson safety.

The outstanding individual performance of the game was turned in by North Davidson's Bill Jones, who carried the ball 19 times for 104 yards.

Ivan Cowan of South Fredell gained 73 yards in 12 carries. Both teams had a potent of fensive night, but neither was able to put points on the board until the final period of the hard-fought tilt. Turnovers also played a big part in the lack of markers on the scoreboard.

Davidson Trustees Okay 'Positive' Athletic Plan

The trustees of Davidson College Friday approved a plan for a "positive and realistic" athletic program for the college, including changes in the scheduling and funding of football, strong support for basketball, and a general upgrading of other elements of the athletic program.

"This is a positive move forward for Davidson athletics," said Dr. Hugh Verner, chairman of the trustees, who said the plan would be a "positive move forward for Davidson athletics."

In addition to plans for football and basketball, the trustees voted "that other intercollegiate athletic teams, including women's teams, be supported financially at a level which would enable them to make a positive contribution to the over-all athletic program."

Verner emphasized that "this plan results from the shared ideas of Davidson's students, faculty, staff, trustees, and directors of the Wildcat Athletic Club. We believe that by giving all our teams a better chance at a winning season, we will increase everyone's support and enthusiasm for Davidson athletics."

Other elements of the trustees' approved plan call for: —A well-planned and developed physical education program which demands not only a basic proficiency in selected sports, but also a reasonable knowledge of such health-related subjects as human sexuality, alcohol and drugs, and mental and physical hygiene."

—Further development of Davidson's program of intramural and club sports; "affording the opportunity for maximum participation."

—Greater attention to "lifetime or carry-over sports," such as golf and tennis.

—And "sound financial management and reasonable cost."

Trustees requested that the Wildcat Club, which has raised more than $100,000 a year recently mainly for football scholarships, "broaden the scope of its fund-raising effort to supplement the funding of the entire intercollegiate athletic program."

General improvements in athletic facilities were also recommended.

The board directed that Davidson's national basketball program be maintained "at full strength; that the goal of this program be to maintain a level of quality comparable to the highest level so far achieved;

Devil Defense, Offense Buck East Rowan, 37-7

Mooresville's Blue Devils lassoed East Rowan's Mustangs 37-7 at Salisbury Friday night, capping the conference win with a 22-point outburst in the second half.

Although Mooresville's passing game again was non-existent, Johnny Walker, David Mullis and company provided more than enough power on the ground to halt-break the Mustangs.

Senior halfback Walker galloped over, around and through the Mustangs for 218 yards and three touchdowns. Fullback Mullis, also a senior, accounted for 124 yards, a touchdown and a field goal.

Walker gave his most spectacular performance of the year. In addition to his work in the offensive backfield, he intercepted a pass that led to a TD, and he sacked the quarterback, scooped up the ball and came within a hairbreadth of scoring on the singlehanded defensive play.

The Mustang offense was hobbled effectively by a Devil defense that drew lavish praise from coach Gary Karriker and his staff. East's only score came after a pass-interference penalty and a 15-yard personal foul against Mooresville inside the 20 yard line during the offensive display. His 124 yards Friday night gave the 5-10, 205-pound piler 1,041 yards in eight games.

Walker came into the Friday contest with 596 for the campaign, and he came home with an 894 total.

Mooresville's first score of the second half came on a 21-yard Mullis field goal.

Walker got the call on the next touchdown to add a drive that began after the Devil defenders forced East to punt. Walker dashed in from 15 yards out to move the score to 24-7 with eight seconds left in the third quarter.

The winners raised their victory insurance policy in the final period. Walker got his third TD on a one-yard burst with 6:47 remaining. The speedy Walker set up this score with a 60-yard scamper to the goal line. Walker's 14th career TD was his 10th in the last two years. He has now scored 14 touchdowns in his career.

Interesting Bits Of Information About NPC, SPC Football Races

The South Piedmont Conference high school football playoffs will have a familiar look on Nov. 14. Either Thomasville or Salisbury will again be in the playoffs.

The past five years, either Thomasville or Salisbury has won one of the playoff berths. Thomasville made the post-season contest in both 1968 and 1972. Salisbury was a playoff team in 1970 and 1971.

The two SPC powers are setting the pace in the conference standings with two weeks to play. They tangle on Friday night in the top game in either of the SPC or North Piedmont Conference at Salisbury's Ludwig Stadium.

Thomasville goes into the game with a 7-1 overall record and a 6-0 conference mark. The Bulldogs won their sixth straight game on Friday by a score of 34-0 over preseason favorite Kannapolis.

Coach Allen Brown's Tommies weren't overly impressive in the first two games against 4-A foes, leading Greensboro Smith by 7-0 and losing to High Point Central by 18-7. But the Bulldogs haven't been stopped since the loss to High Point.

Salisbury enters this week's big battle with a 7-1 conference mark and a 5-1 overall record. The Hornets of coach Pete Stout lost to Lexington, 14-13.

Neither team has clinched a playoff berth. If Thomasville loses its final two games, Lexington could tie the Bulldogs in the standings. Salisbury could clinch a playoff spot by winning its final two games, but the Hornets could also be tied by Lexington if Salisbury loses once.

Lexington (4-2) could win its final two games and finish in a two-way or three-way tie for the conference crown.

Kannapolis (3-4) has been knocked out of the title race, but the Little Wonders could still gain the second spot in the standings and a playoff berth by winning both their remaining contests.

Other SPC games set this week include Concord at Lexington, Albemarle at Statesville, and Trinity at Kannapolis. Asheboro goes outside the conference, playing host to Reidsville.

The final weekend on Nov. 9 includes the following games: Asheboro at Salisbury, Kannapolis at Concord, Lexington at Thomasville, and Statesville at Trinity.

In the North Piedmont, it appears that either North Rowan or Davidson will clinch the conference championship and a playoff berth.

In case of a three-way tie, the conference coaches vote to determine the playoff team.

In Division Two, Dave County has the advantage with a game and game-and-a-half lead, but both South Fredell and surprising North Davidson are still in the running.

Coach Bill Peeler's Dave County is 4-1 after a 28-20 tie with North Davidson on Friday. South Fredell is 3-3 and North Davidson stands 2-4-1.

If Dave wins either of its final two games against North Davidson and East Rowan, the War Eagles will be in the playoffs. If the War Eagles lose once, they will still get the berth.

However, Dave Devils coupled with two wins by either South Fredell or North Davidson will knock Dave out of it.

Neither South Fredell or North Davidson can afford a loss in the final two weeks.

A contest matching Rowan County rivals is set Friday. East Rowan's slumping Mustangs play at West Rowan. East will be trying to snap a four-game losing streak and end West's already slim playoff hopes. West will be trying to bounce back from the tie with North Stanley, which is winless in the conference.

Other SPC games set this week include Concord at Lexington, Albemarle at Statesville, and Trinity at Kannapolis. Asheboro goes outside the conference, playing host to Reidsville.

SI Jayvees Defeated By Bunker Hill

South Iredell's junior varsity football team was downed, 18-14, by the Bunker Hill Jayvees last Thursday afternoon. South Iredell scored early in the game on a short run by Mike Mullally. Mel Arey caught a pass from Tim Mills for the points-after-touchdown. Bunker Hill scored a pair of touchdowns in the first half to lead, 12-8, at halftime. After a South Iredell fumble in the third period, Bunker Hill improved its margin, 18-8, with another touchdown. South Iredell's second touchdown of the game came on another run by Mullally. The Baby Vikings now are 4-4 and will end their season today (Thursday) afternoon in a game with Bands at Bandys. Baby Viking Coach Dean Saffos praised the efforts of Mullally and the defensive work of Miller Garner and Tim Menster.

Winders Top Winner In Contest

Walter Winders of Mooresville, route 2, with 10 correct guesses out of a possible 12 took the first-place award of $7 in the weekly football contest being sponsored locally by Mooresville merchants and the Mooresville Tribune.

The second-place award of $4 was won by W. W. Turman of Mooresville, route 5, while Red Wilson of 313 East Lowrance Avenue captured the third-place prize of $3.

Both Turman and Wilson had nine correct guesses out of a possible 12, therefore, the total score of the tie-breaking game—Mooresville versus East Rowan—was used in selecting the second and third-place winners. Total points scored in the tie-breaking game were 44. Turman guessed 46 while Wilson guessed 41.

Twelve other contestants also had nine correct guesses out of a possible 12, but were off more than three points in their guesses of the total score of the tie-breaking contest.

How Many Cans Can Seven Kids Collect?

The number is limited only by their time and energy. Certainly an inexhaustible supply of cans clutters the streets and roadsides of South Iredell. Saturday afternoon, these youngsters collected two pickup truckloads in four hours along six miles of road in the Shinnville community.

At work during the cleanup campaign led by Ed Fleagle and Stanley Tolbert are, from left, Mike Tolbert, twins Rodney and Ronnie Duke, Scott Hardwick, Bobby Sipes and Wendell Holt. Dale Tolbert also took part in the project. All live in the Shinnville section.

Iredell County Families Move Into Higher Income Brackets

How well are Iredell County families making out financially? What proportion of them are now to be found in the upper income brackets?

The latest figures show that rising wages and salaries in the area have benefited most families, moving them up to higher positions on the income ladder. Conversely, the proportion at the lower level has become smaller. Locally, some 70.8 percent of the households had net cash incomes of $5,000 or more in the past year after payment of their personal taxes. The proportion was greater than was reported for the South Atlantic States as a whole, 69.4 percent. In the State of North Carolina it was 67.1 percent.

The breakdown was made for the purpose of obtaining a better understanding of a community's purchasing power than was possible through its "average income" figure alone. It shows that average, representative earnings that are well-distributed among the bulk of the population, or whether it is unbalanced, with a few families with very large incomes compensating for a larger number with small incomes.

In Iredell County, it appears, both the general level of earnings and the distribution are relatively good. Locally, some 70.8 percent of the households had net cash incomes of $5,000 or more in the past year after payment of their personal taxes.

The proportion was greater than was reported for the South Atlantic States as a whole, 69.4 percent. In the State of North Carolina it was 67.1 percent.

The Iredell County breakdown gives the position on the income ladder of each group of local families. It lists 24.4 percent of them on the $5,000 to $9,999 rung, 14.5 percent at the $10,000 to $14,999 level and 31.9 percent with earnings of $15,000 or over. The remainder have a net of less than $5,000 after taxes.

Although incomes have been going up, so has the cost of living. Families need the additional money and more to keep abreast of their zooming expenses.

Police Rescue Woman Chased By Alligator

Police in Orange, Tex., reported that a woman was rescued after being chased up a tree by a 10-foot alligator. She called for help, and a neighbor summoned the police.

The police roped the reptile and helped the woman down. Rangers from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Service arrived later and took the alligator to a marshy area. The rangers said the reptile must have been forced by high waters to leave its own habitat.

Parents Visit Shepherd School First Graders

The teachers and 44 first graders in the team-teaching classroom at Shepherd School used American Education Week last week as an opportunity to invite parents of the children to visit and learn what public education is about these days at the beginners' level. Mrs. W. E. Miller is served punch by Mrs. Maria Moore during the open house, while other parents move through the serving line. Between Mrs. Moore and Mrs. Miller is William Ramsay, Shepherd's principal. Mrs. Moore is one of the teaching team's members, and Mrs. Frances Moore, at right, is the other. The parents were treated to a skit illustrating some of the work in progress by the class, and they were given a demonstration of the "teaching stations" and training aides used in the class.

They examined the dent closely but were unable to venture a guess as to what had struck the helicopter.

No one was injured in the incident, so the policemen let the youth go with just a warning.

Eric's Exasperating Exercise In Logistics: How To Get Coco Into Car

THE FIRST STEP IS A NECK LOCK
To Keep Her Still While I Open The Door

THEN USE THE TAIL AS A RUDDER
Oops, The Front End Has Other Ideas

HOW CAN ONE OLD DOG BE SO STUBBORN?
Got The Front Going, But The Tail Got Away

A PUSH MAY BE BETTER THAN A PULL
I Think I'd Better Go Over My Plan Again

Eric Brawley is seven. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brawley of Shepherd. The Brawleys live near and attend Vanderburg United Methodist Church, and they were there Sunday for an outdoor service marking the beginning of an addition to the church educational building. Coco is the Brawley family dog, and she figures she's part of the family she goes where the family goes. So she attended Sunday's groundbreaking. During the service, Eric took it upon himself to get Coco from under foot and into the car. Tribune photographer David Chamberlain also attended the groundbreaking, and his attention was drawn to Eric as the youngster struggled valiantly, but in vain, to maneuver the dog into the car. Finally, Eric's older brother, Mark, came over and gave a hand. David surmised that Mark saved a good deal of trouble for Eric. Coco? She accepted the entire ordeal as just part of the responsibilities of being a family dog.

Dedication, Open House At Mental Health Clinic

The Tri-County Mental Health Center in Salisbury was dedicated November 11, and open house will be held at the facility as part of the afternoon program.

David Flaherty, secretary of the North Carolina Department of Human Resources, will be guest speaker at the dedication service that begins at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Open house will be held from 3 p.m. until 5 p.m.

Jim Cress of the Rowan Cooperative Christian Ministry. Master of ceremonies will be Charlie R. Walters, Rowan County commissioner and member of the board of directors.

The new Tri-County complex offers residents of the three counties alcoholism, medical, psychiatric, psychological, and vocational rehabilitation services.

The complex began its services in September 1969 as a result of the merging of the Iredell and Rowan Mental Health Clinics and the formation of the Davie County Mental Health Clinic. It is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The complex, with services, policies, procedures, regulations, and budget covered by the North Carolina Department of Mental Health and the Tri-County Mental Health Authority, receives financial support from county general funds, state-federal matching and non-matching funds and through patient fees.

Kiddieland Nursery Opens In Lodge

Mooreville's newest childcare facility is Kiddieland Nursery, which opens November 12. Beatrice Lytle is operator and teacher at the nursery located on the first floor of Masonic Lodge 369 at 142 South Maple Street. She is conducting registration this week.

Miss Lytle said the nursery can accommodate 25 pre-school children. She said Kiddieland is licensed by the state for child care.

The Masonic Lodge is providing its building for the nursery, Miss Lytle said, and "liberal financial contributions" have come from other organizations and individuals.

Registration is being held this week from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. The operator said nursery hours will be from 6:30 a.m. until 4:40 p.m.

Miss Lytle is a qualified teacher. Other members of her staff include Mrs. Guy Griffin and Mrs. Clyde Young, and a cook, all with child-care experience.

"Kiddieland is not a baby-sitting service," Miss Lytle said, "it is designed for and it will operate as an educational institution. Our first responsibility, beyond assuring the child's safety and well-being, is the training of his mind."

She said the school is designed for all children of the community not of school age.

Members of the Brawley Homemakers Club will meet on Tuesday, November 13, at 7:30 p.m. at the fellowship hall of Rocky Mount United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Cheryl Isley, Duke Power Home Economist at Salisbury, will present a program on Christmas decorations.

All members are requested to be present.

86 Donors At Monday's Bloodmobile

The Piedmont Carolinas Regional Blood Center bloodmobile collected 86 pints of blood during its 11:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. visit to Mooresville Mills November 5.

T. C. Homesley, chairman of blood services for the South Iredell Red Cross Chapter, termed the blood production disappointing.

"We can't match our blood usage with so few donors," he said, "we've got to get into the 125-pints-per-visit range to maintain our reputation for giving more blood than we use."

Homesley pointed out that 107 persons came to the bloodmobile, but 21 were rejected for one minor medical reason or another.

Among the active donors were Jack Jefford, who received his three-gallon pint; Harry Mayhew, who gave his 16th pint; and David Honeycutt and Van Knox, each of whom qualified for a one-gallon pin.

Park View PTA Plans Meeting

The November meeting of the Park View School Parent-Teacher Association will be held on Tuesday, November 13, in the school's cafeteria at 7:30 p.m.

The program for the month will be the first of its kind to be held at Park View. After a short but important business session, the meeting will discuss into grade-level sessions.

At each grade-level meeting, the teachers for that grade level will present a short panel presentation, to be followed by a question and answer session.

This will provide an opportunity for parents to learn and understand what is being taught in their child's grade level. "The object of the grade-level meetings is to bring into closer relations the home and the school so that parents and teachers may better understand and cooperate in the education of our children," a PTA official stated.

All Park View parents are encouraged to be at the important and informative PTA meeting.

Tips On Conserving Use Of Energy At Home
We hear a lot these days about the energy crises. Here are some energy saving suggestions from heating and lighting experts:

HEATING
1. Insulation can save enough fuel to pay for itself in a short time. Not only that; it can make heating more even, and help keep the house more comfortable.

2. Storm windows, storm doors, weatherstripping can cut heating costs, too—by as much as 20-25%, some homeowners find.

3. Pulling down window blinds and drawing drapes can also help.

4. Attic doors can be responsible for much heat loss. Weatherstripping and insulating them can reduce or eliminate it.

5. Check your heating system at the beginning of each season. Be sure to include chimney in checkup.

6. Close off all unused rooms and shut off their heat source.

ELECTRICITY
1. Get everyone in the habit of turning off lights when not needed.

2. Check to see if light bulbs of lower wattage will provide sufficient light in halls, closets, other rarely used areas.

3. Use fluorescent lights wherever possible. They take much less current than the incandescent type.

4. Check electrical appliances carefully. If they're not working efficiently, they may be consuming extra current — and be a hazard as well.

Miss Howard Lowrance Therapist

Lowrance Hospital has its first full-time staff physical therapist. She is Neil Howard, a 1972 graduate of the Division of Physical Therapy at the University of North Carolina School of Medicine in Chapel Hill.

Miss Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henry Howard of River Road, is in the physical therapy department at Lowrance that offers an array of equipment designed to treat specific problems.

Equipment used by Miss Howard includes a whirlpool, facilities to provide moist heat therapy, ultra-sound therapy, deep-heat microwave therapy, and muscle stimulation through electric therapy. The treatment room also has tables for pelvic and cervical traction, parallel bars, canes and walkers.

The hospital's therapist explained that her work enables patients to establish a regimen of exercises that speeds return of normal body use. She emphasized that the therapy is available to out-patients as well as to hospitalized persons.

Equipment in the physical therapy department was purchased through the Side Mack Memorial Fund established several years ago. The equipment represents an investment in the $5,000 range.

Handle with care!

Your thermostat regulates the temperature level desired when you multiply that by every home. But it doesn't regulate the rate at which your home is heated. Heating systems are designed to maintain a comfort level, so set your thermostat to a desired setting and leave it there. Turning the setting up and down places an extra strain on your system and wastes electric power.

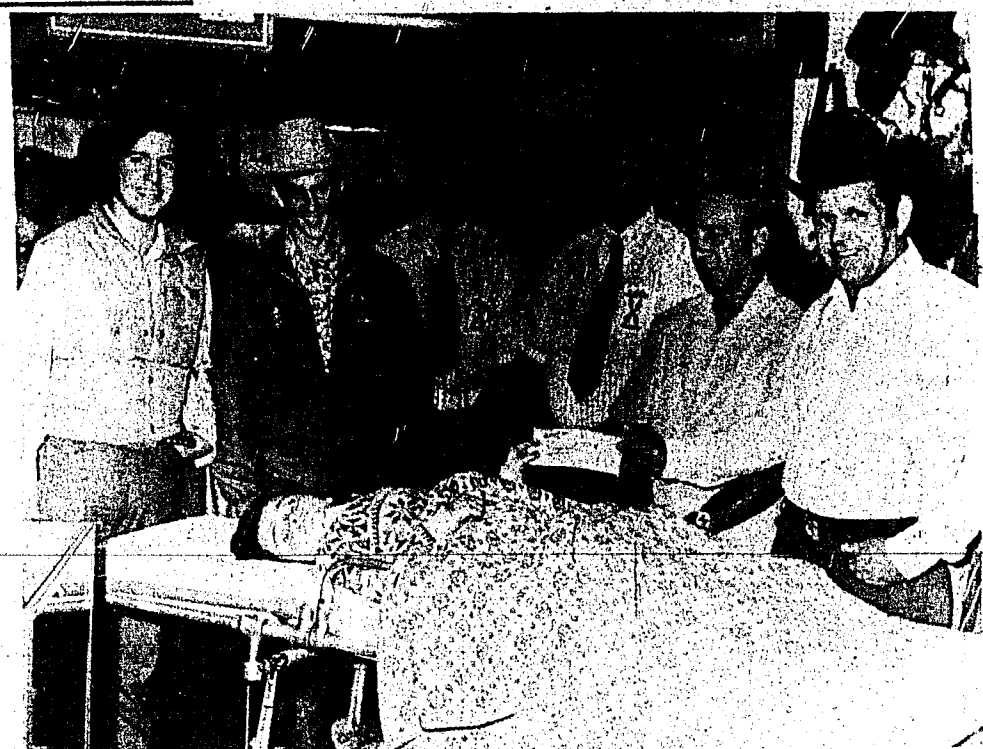

As a general rule, every degree over 70 that you heat your home increases power consumption by about 5%. If you're just as comfortable at 72 instead of 75, the lower temperature will require as little as 15% less power. And more than that, it adds up to a substantial power savings.

Of course there are many more things you can do to make the most efficient use of electric heating. Just ask your heating contractor. Or ask us. We want you to get the most from the product we sell. But we don't want you to waste electricity. Because every day you help us conserve electric power today helps insure an adequate power supply when we really need it.

Popp Class Officer At Catawba

A 1973 graduate of Mooreville Senior High School, Joey Popp, has been named vice president of the freshman class at Catawba College in Salisbury.

Other freshman class officers include: Ed Patino of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., president; Lynn McAlister of New Jersey, secretary; and Carol Bailey of South Carolina, treasurer.

Eighteen-year-old Popp is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Popp of 633 East Center Avenue in Mooreville. Before enrolling as a student at Mooreville Senior High School, he attended Lakeside High School in Atlanta, Ga.

He was a member of Mooreville Senior High's football team during the 1972 season, filling a guard spot. Joe Popp, father of Joey, coached football at the local high school for four years, 1968-71.

The family returned to Mooreville to reside last year after living in Atlanta, Ga., for several years.

The course will be taught by Mrs. Betty Doherty, a certified Red Cross instructor.

The President Is Missing

It's probably lining the bottom of some soundhole's canary cage. That's one possibility.

It could be part of a national grassroots Kremlin-type purge to make the man invisible like they do guys over there who fall into disfavor. That's another theory. This much is for sure: The Mooreville Post Office has lost a lot of things, but this is the first time those guys ever lost a president. It's also the first time Mooreville policeman Frank Owens ever got to investigate a presidential kidnapping. Picturing it as it were.

Monday morning when the P. O. folks came to work, they didn't see the president in the lobby. His portrait was gone.

"Sometime during the night the president's 12 by 15 picture was removed. It was hanging too high for a normal-sized person to reach, so it had to be a conspiracy.

Any leads, Frank? "I don't know whether to look for a Democrat or a Republican," Frank said. "I figure we must have 20,000 or so suspects around South Iredell."

Mazeppa 4-H Club Elects New Officers

The November meeting of the Mazeppa 4-H Club was held last Thursday, convening at 7:30 p.m. in the educational building of the Triplet United Methodist Church.

The 4-H pledge was led by Scott Pence, while the pledge of allegiance to the American flag was led by LaMonte Pierce. The devotionals were presented by Mary Sipes.

Carol Edmiston, club president, distributed certificates of completion of the multi-media Red Cross course, to the members who successfully completed the course.

Mrs. Flora Sipes, adult leader, reminded the boys and girls of the club's annual fund raiser, a turkey supper to be held on November 10 at Triplet Fellowship Hall from 5 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Mrs. Sipes also announced that all boys and girls, ages 9 to 19, were invited to participate in a poster contest being held in conjunction with National Farm City week.

The message the poster must carry is how people on farms and people living in cities can work together to make our environment safe for all to enjoy.

At the conclusion of the business portion of the meeting, a demonstration was given by Mary Sipes entitled "Light Up Your Springtime with Bulbs". She told the boys and girls how they can successfully plant bulbs now as an investment in beautiful flowers next spring.

At this time, a beautiful installation ceremony was held conducted by James Weaver, county extension agent. The lights were extinguished and the only light was the light from one candle which Weaver held in his hand. As each new officer for the coming year was called, he held a lighted candle as Weaver read the responsibilities of each office.

The new officers for the coming year are as follows: Senior Club chairman, Sipes, president; Stephanie Brawley, vice-president; Lynn Davis, secretary; Robert Sipes, treasurer; Carol Edmiston, for to me Salvation He gives. For I was lost and could not see, but He forgave me and set me free.

I know my Redeemer lives, for to me great love He gives. For I was lonely and in despair, but His outstretched hands gave hope and care.

I know my Redeemer lives, for to me His peace He gives. For I once had great fear, but He calmed the storm and gave joy and care.

I know my Redeemer lives, for to me power He gives. For I once was afraid and ran, but Thank God with Him I can stand.

I know my Redeemer lives, for a place in Heaven He will give. For He said in His holy word, Mansions for His children He had prepared.

My friend, He lives forever more. Praise His wonderful name.

Delicious refreshments were served by Lynn Davis after adjournment.

"I am He that liveth, and was dead; and am alive forevermore." Rev. 1:18

Many people are asking is there really life in knowing Jesus, and is there a true reality? As I was praying this past Saturday, the Lord spoke to me so wonderfully and inspired me to write this poem entitled, "My Redeemer Lives." I pray as you read it you can feel the great love of this blessed Redeemer.

I know my Redeemer lives, for to me Salvation He gives. For I was lost and could not see, but He forgave me and set me free.

Parents Form Choral-aiders

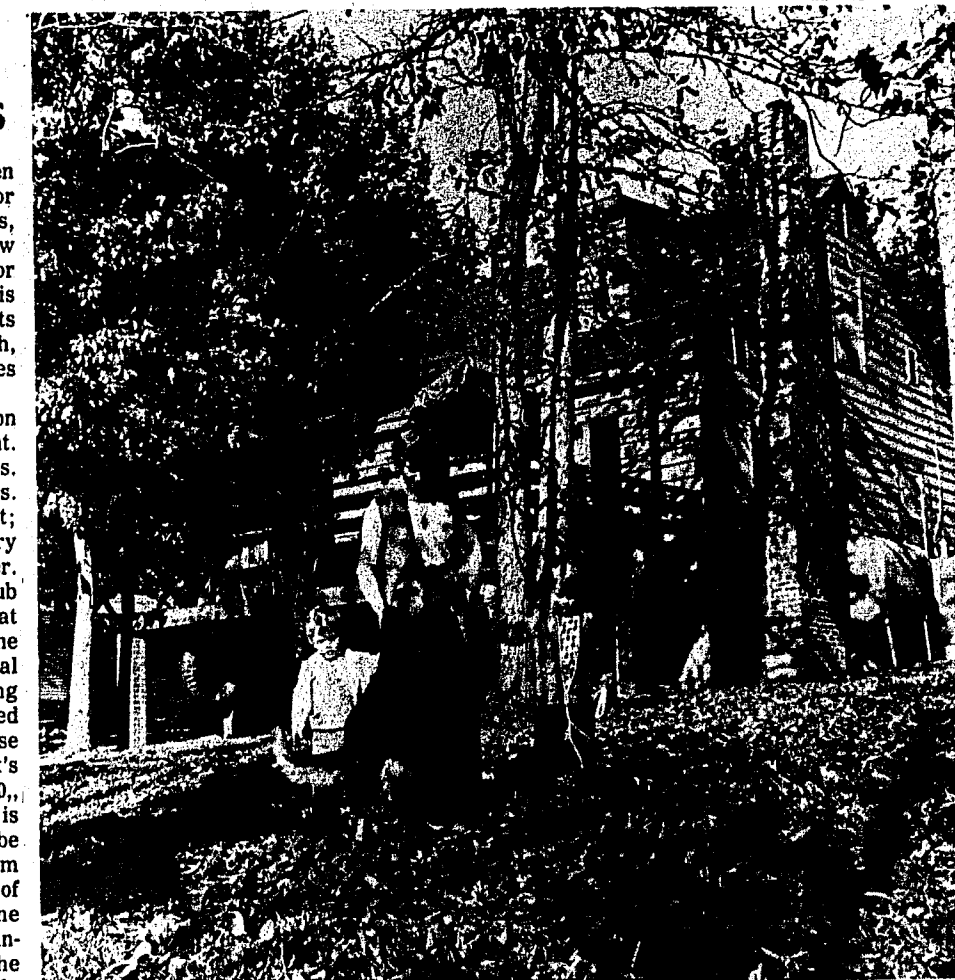

A new organization has been formed at Mooresville Junior High School. It is for adults, rather than students. This new club is the Mooresville Junior High School Choral-Aiders. It is open to all parents of students who are involved in the seventh, eighth, or ninth grade choruses at the Junior High.

The first meeting was held on October 18 with 23 present. Newly elected officers are Mrs. Mildred Dunn, president; Mrs. Reba Parker, vice-president; Mrs. Carol Brown, secretary and Mrs. Sue Hayes, treasurer. The main purpose of this club is to help the choral program at the Junior High through the support of the parents. Several short-termed money-making projects are being considered by the group. The first of these is a bake sale in front of Belk's on Saturday, November 10, from 10-12. Any money that is earned by the members will be used to help the choral program in such things as the purchase of music, activities for the students, and the cost of printing programs.

The organization has already agreed to help in selling tickets to the Junior High School Christmas Concert, December 6, at 8:00 p.m. in the Roland H. Morgan Auditorium.

It is hoped that this organization of parents will be able to help the program by their support. They will be called upon to help in such activities as providing transportation to the "Singing Christmas Tree" in Charlotte. Although any money they can earn for the group will be helpful, the main purpose is to let the students know that their parents are interested in the choral program.

Any parents of choral students at Junior High are welcome to join this organization. The next meeting will be Thursday, 7:30 p.m. at the Junior High Music Room.

Mrs. Query, Paul, Emily And Duke Enjoy Front Yard

Parents Of Juvenile Diabetics Live With Panic A Second Away

Paul Query is four, and his sister Emily is two and a half. Both are beautiful, active children around whom their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Query, are building their lives.

The Query family lives on Lake Norman in the Brawley School community. The children, their mother and the family dog, Duke, take walks and enjoy the changing of the season. They thrill to the crisp fall air and the dazzling leaf colors.

Their parents must do constantly for them what their young bodies cannot do. Their mother tests their urine several times daily to determine blood-sugar levels. Hers is a vigil that never stops. She and her husband have seen their children in diabetic comas and in insulin shock, and the two deadly extremes of the disease they share.

"It's always terrifying," Mrs. Query says, "no matter how much you learn of diabetes, no matter how carefully you follow doctor's instructions, you're never prepared fully for a situation in which your quick action literally is a matter of life and death."

Paul and Emily will go through life dependent on medication. Diabetes can be controlled, but there is no cure. And their parents must face some harsh statistics: Diabetes is the leading cause of blindness, and most patients under 20 at the time their disease is found have an average of 17.4 years before the onset of blindness.

The Query couple knows, too, that life expectancy of their children is curtailed sharply. There is an average of 5.8 years between total blindness and death. This means Paul and Emily may face blindness and death before they're 20.

Paul and Emily Query are two of an estimated 700 juvenile diabetics in the 12-county section of the Carolinas known as the Triangle. They are what the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation is about.

The Metrolina unit of Juvenile Diabetes Foundation is planning a week of educational and fund-raising emphasis November 12-18. Activities planned by the month-old area organization include a "bakeathon" and an attic sale, both in Charlotte. The bake race is planned November 18, and the sale the 17th and 18th.

Mrs. Query welcomes contributions of any and all salable items for the sale that will be conducted in the building formerly occupied by Big M Mart at the corner of Eastway Drive and the Plaza Saturday from 9:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., and Sunday from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m.

The Querys are leaders in the Metrolina JDF, and one of their goals is to solicit support of the public in general, and other parents of juvenile diabetics in particular.

"We are working to find other parents to get them involved in this cause," Mrs. Query said, "and we must get diabetes recognized for the killer it is. We must have more money for research."

Only $8 million, less than one per cent of the federal government's health research budget, is devoted to diabetes research. Diabetes is the fifth leading cause of death, and it is a major contributing factor in deaths and disabilities brought on by circulatory ailments. Six per cent of the population is diabetic and the percentage is increasing because the disease is hereditary.

Mr. and Mrs. Query will serve as South Fredrick's liaison team for the Metrolina JDF. They consider this only part of their duties in the war against diabetes, the cripple and killer of young and old alike.

Paul and Emily Query are two of an estimated 700 juvenile diabetics in the 12-county section of the Carolinas known as the Triangle. They are what the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation is about.

Originally, the town planned to tunnel under the railroad and exit on Broad Street. The state objected, pointing out that the Broad Street exit would be a dangerous "blind intersection."

The state urged the town to extend the tunnel under Broad Street and exit and extend the underpass corridor to Academy.

The board has enlarged the project to include this safety feature.

In return, the town will permit Marine World to collect future fees from a specified number of additional sewer taps along the line. In this way, the park will recover at least some of its expenditure over the years.

The county government will be asked to provide the remainder of project costs, with the idea of recovering its investment in taxes over the next decade. The park is planned as a $6 million enterprise.

A Good Offense

Never is the value of an ounce of prevention more apparent than when applied to fire prevention. Fire, one of man's oldest servants, also is one of our most insidious and most devastating enemies. We are able to harness and use fire; we can never tame it.

The importance of fire-safety education, therefore, cannot be overemphasized. The Mooresville Fire Department always has conducted an aggressive, well-planned program of fire prevention. Now we see Smokey has joined the local department, and the nation's most famous bear is taking his case to Mooresville school children.

The feature on our own Smokey in last week's Tribune caused us to think about all the services of our public servants, and about how much of what they do is above and beyond the call of regular duty.

Doug Nantz is a Mooresville fireman. He has plenty to do, but he does more. Because of his energy and his interest in his work and the community, boys and girls in our elementary schools are learning about fire safety—and they're enjoying it. Nantz made his own Smokey Bear outfit, and a quality job it is. He and other firemen wear it to schools, they visit classrooms and remind the children of the need to be ever on the alert for fire hazards at school and at home.

That Nantz and other members of our fire department are going this extra mile to keep our community safe is just another reminder of their concern for, and value to our community as a whole.

Smokey is in the finest tradition of firemen. He tells us our firemen aren't sitting around the station playing checkers, waiting for fire to strike. They're on the offensive; they're seeking out the enemy. They know a good offense is the best defense.

The Law Of Supply And Demand

It is sobering indeed to remind ourselves that people in a democracy get the kind of government they deserve. We wonder what we've done to deserve what we've got.

Even more alarming is realization, that in a capitalistic economy, the people get the goods and services they demand. We shudder to think that some of what we're getting is what we really want.

Consider television fare, if you have the stomach for it. Look at our most-seen movies and convince yourself their themes reflect America's tastes. Think about the extremes we go to in order to assure ourselves we are dressing like everyone else, eating the same stuff, talking about the same subjects. Ask yourself why reasonable men will wear pants this season they gagged at last season.

You may as well face it: What you see is what we are.

We are being conformed. The way we live our lives is dictated by gigantic fraud perpetrated in the name of blind conformity. We all must have the same sweet breath, the same regularity and wholesome armpits, the same lifestyle. This is sadly true because of the credo of our free enterprise system: First create the desire for a product or service; the business will take care of itself.

The Polaroid people are proving this once again. They spent $80 millions plugging their new XL-whatever camera before the thing was built. They are selling them faster than they can make them. They have caused people to want the product.

In this issue is a letter from Joe and Cathy Alexander, who are lamenting content of a movie they walked out of here recently. They make their case for censorship in the name of morality and Christian witness.

We were happy to hear from Joe and Cathy, and we are pleased they would turn to their community newspaper to voice their objections. We're sure their concern for others is genuine.

However, in addition to opposing Folks sure like to pick on the post office. I admit that after all is said and done about improving mail service, a heap more is said than done. And I grant you that charging 40 cents to fill a mail order for stamps hardly is the "service of great benefit" the post office says it is. But I still think a postage stamp is one of the few bargains left in this country. Just think of all you can do with one.

Parson Jones' Pulpit

DEAR MR. PUBLISHER:

When I was a kid I used to make believe I was a cowboy, a preacher, a movie star, a King, and sometimes I even thought I was a horse. But, time done a dirty trick on me, and I grew up.

Now the terrible truth has bopped me on the head: I never was a King, I ain't a King now, and I won't ever be a King. It hurts me to say it, but I'm just a plain, common ordinary, every day preacher that won't ever amount to a whole lot. Growing up is a awful painful, but necessary. A fella can't live in a sandbox all his life.

In a way, the United States is still a little fella dragging his blanket around, sucking his thumb, with visions of sugar plums in his head. Watergate came along and jerked our blanket away; the dirty tricks in politics slapped our thumb out of our mouth; and the resignation of the Vice President shot a hole in our dream bubble. We've found out the White House is not a sub-station of heaven; the department of justice is not headed up by the Almighty; and the constitution was not given to Moses on Mt. Sinai.

In short, we have found out that our leaders and institutions have feet of clay. The dream is gone and now we're crying our heart out. We want to be a kid again but then days are gone forever.

Fact is, Mr. Publisher, we've put more weight on our leaders and institutions than they could stand. Like the straw that broke the camel's back, it had to happen sooner or later. According to the Good Book everybody is half angel, half devil, and that includes Presidents, Judges, and the voters. It's a humbling thought, but what's more painful is a fact.

Now, I ain't talking all the bad things going on. By the same token, I ain't forgetting all the good things either. What we need now ain't more judges and fault-finders, we can find enough faults by looking in the mirror. We need a lota love and compassion toward one another. With all of problems in the U. S. A., I still ain't got a hankering to move anyplace else. I kinda like the ole republic! I'll still be around next week.

Yours Truly,
Parson Jones

OUR COMMUNITY

IN OTHER YEARS... 41 YEARS AGO

Mrs. John W. Lamb was found in an unconscious condition in the kitchen of her apartment on Monday, January 11, in New York City, where she was keeping house for her sons, Robert and Jack Lamb. The young men had been to dinner, and Mrs. Lamb was engaged in washing up the dishes. The hot weather and heat from the gas range caused her to open a window. It is presumed the wind blew out the gas, and, working with her back to the range, the fumes from same soon rendered her unconscious. She was found in a precarious condition by other occupants of the apartment, and died a few hours later.

For several years Mrs. Lamb lived in Newark, N. J., and more recently moved to New York City where her sons are employed, to keep house for them. Mrs. Lamb was a native of Mooresville, being a daughter of the late Robert McNeely and Mrs. Lou Culp McNeely, and was 43 years of age. Besides her mother Mrs. Lamb is survived by her husband, John W. Lamb, of Newark, N. J., and two sons, Robert and Jack Lamb, of New York City; two brothers, Maurice McNeely, of Greensboro, and David McNeely, of Newark, N. J.

The remains were brought here for burial, the funeral taking place Saturday afternoon at the home of her cousin, Banks Culp, on North Main Street, conducted by Dr. R. A. White, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. Interment was made in Willow Valley cemetery.

Mr. Sam D. Corriher, of Mill Bridge, Rowan county, was in the Enterprise office with a number of good-looking apples plucked from a tree in the yard of Mr. Chal Carrigan, a neighbor. Mr. Corriher was visiting at the Carrigan home and the men were looking over a field in which the apple tree stands and found several cold and frost. Mr. Corriher went with her back to the range, the fumes from same soon rendered her unconscious. She was found in a precarious condition by other occupants of the apartment, and died a few hours later.

The pretty new home of Mrs. D. W. Sherrell on West Center Avenue was beautifully arranged with groupings of spring flowers last Thursday, when she was hostess to the Kill Kare Club. Auction bridge was played at four tables. The Easter idea was carried out in lilies and refreshments.

Mr. Wharey M. Freeze Tuesday moved his family to Gastonia, where they will make their home. Mr. Freeze has been there for a year or more, connected with the Southern Railway Company as telegraph operator. Wharey and Wilburn Freeze will continue their residence at Mooresville temporarily, as they are making their home with their grandmother, Mrs. R. W. Freeze.

The newest acquisition to the business interests of the city is the establishment of a floral parlor by the Mooresville Floral Co., which has opened a place of business in the Troutman building on Main Street. The business will have the personal attention of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Griffin, experienced designers who come to us from Nashville, N. C. The formal opening of the parlor will be held Friday, the 28th, to which the public is cordially invited.

Mr. James and Miss Mary McKnight returned to their work at Newark, N. J., last Saturday after a visit with their mother, Mrs. G. L. McKnight, who was seriously ill for several weeks. They were accompanied by Misses Nancy Howard and Mary Mills and Mr. Harry Lee Brawley, having made the trip by automobile.

Mr. P. J. Jones, proprietor of the Carolina Petroleum Marketing Co., and whose gas tanks are located at the home, reported Tuesday night of last week some one or more persons visited his place and kicked over many of the gas and oil tanks in the yard, presumably looking for tanks that were filled with oil, etc. None was missed from his place, however.

At the Shepherd school building, the gas tank had been filled with 500 gallons of gas sometime the first of the week. Mrs. Jones stated that probably as much as 500 gallons had been stolen from the school tank, with no trace of who secured it.

This is perhaps the first wholesale theft of gas reported in Iredell county, although many locks have been broken and small quantities of gas taken from the tanks by the "birds that pass in the night."

The marriage of Miss Sarah McLean and J. Charles Rumble took place in Mooresville Tuesday, April 19, at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. R. C. Goforth. The bride is the oldest daughter of Mrs. Elma McLean of this city. Mr. Rumble is the son of Mr. and the late Mrs. W. N. Rumble of Statesville. The young couple will make their home in Statesville, where Mr. Rumble is a member of the police department.

Lewis Perry, who sued the Carolina Bottling Company, of Concord, for damages, the case coming up in Iredell Superior Court last week, was awarded the sum of $500. It all came about by Lewis finding a big, green fly in a bottle of Coca Cola when he was drinking same. The jury in trying the case awarded the amount asked for. The defendant company gave notice of appeal.

Many Iredell Residents Miss Tax Deductions For Elderly

Several persons 65 years of age, or who will become 65 this year, and own and occupy their homes in Iredell County have missed a $3,750 reduction in the valuation of their real estate property.

Chandler Bryan, chairman of the county board of commissioners, said, "It is real unfortunate these elderly persons, especially those who financially could have used the deduction, missed by failing to list by the April 15 deadline."

John Barber, county manager, said, "This deduction began in 1972 and some of those filing for the tax break thought it was a one-time shot—that it would be automatic in 1973 because they filed in 1972; however it doesn't work that way. It must be filed each year."

The deduction is available for those 65 or over if their income is less than $3,500 yearly. Social Security payments are not considered income for these eligible for the deduction.

Barber and Mrs. Mary Lee Cowles, tax supervisor, along with county commissioners, received numerous requests for the deduction to be allowed on 1973 taxes regardless of the April 15 filing deadline.

The commissioners reviewed the requests during their October session and instructed County Attorney Bill Pope to ascertain the legal status of any action possible.

Pope said, "The personnel in the attorney general's office didn't even look at the statutes. They didn't have to check it because of past dealings with the same problem from other counties. Their answer was a very emphatic 'no way'."

Barber talked with the State Board of Assessments, and Pope checked with the Institute of Government and a determination was made: there is no legal avenue for granting the tax deduction if application wasn't made by the deadline.

Bryan stated, "We have done all we can do. We have checked every possible avenue and our hands are tied. I know this is important to those citizens involved and it is important to us but our hands are tied. All we can do now is make sure it doesn't happen again in 1974."

To assure it will not happen again the citizens will have a reminder on their tax listing form in bold type reminding them of their eligibility if they are 65 or older.

The bold type will read: "Tax relief for the property of elderly persons with limited incomes."

Beneath will be this explanation: "If you are over 65 years of age, or if you will become 65 during the year for which you are listing property for taxation, and your disposable income did not exceed $3,500 for the preceding calendar year, you are eligible for a tax deduction of up to $3,750 for property you hold and use for personal purposes. Disposable income is defined in the general statutes."

A legislative change has included all personal property for 1974. The figures have gone upward as Iredell will be using the 100 per cent valuation for the first year in 1974. The $3,750 tax exclusion used in 1972-73 is tabulated on a 75 per cent valuation for real property.

Blue Devils, Cavaliers Collide In Winner-Take-All Championship

The conference championship game for the second season in a row, it will be decided in one game. For the second season in a row it will be either Mooresville or North Rowan.

The Blue Devils travel to North Friday at 8 p.m. for the decisive game.

At stake will be the overall North Piedmont Conference championship. At stake will be the Division One playoff spot that will give the winner a chance to advance in post-season play toward the national championship.

Can Mooresville deny North the championship for the third time in three years? Two years ago Mooresville upset the Cavaliers, knocking them out of first place in the last game of the season. Last year the Devils won the championship over North in the next-to-last game of the year.

Mooresville and North Rowan enter the game with identical 6-1 conference records. The Blue Devils fell to Davie County. The Cavaliers lost to West Rowan.

Mooresville and North Rowan enter the game with identical 6-1 overall records. The Blue Devils lost to non-conference for Statesville. The Cavaliers fell to Salisbury in a non-conference game.

Mooresville won the decisive game last year on its home field 40-33. Mooresville intercepted a pass on its own four yard line and marched 86 yards from there in the last four minutes to score and win the game, championship and playoff spot. North Rowan will this year have the home field advantage.

Like the Blue Devils, North has two all-state caliber backs and a strong interior offensive line to provide running room.

The Cavaliers are led by quarterback Randy Hutchins and running back Jimmy Higgins, the NPC's leading scorer. The strong interior line is anchored by center Steve Huffman and guard Eric Foe and co-captain Bobby Stevenson.

The Blue Devils will counter with its dynamic duo of Johnny Walker and David Mullis, both over the 1,000 yard rushing mark for the season.

Tackles Frank Craven, Len Mackey and guards Dale Brawley, Bobby Beale and Ronald Armstrong and center Rick Mack will lay the ground work for the Blue Devil offense.

The Blue Devil Vee will be under the reliable direction of Bobby Craig and Terrell Rhye. Since Mooresville and North Rowan are both noted for their offensive prowess, either team's defense could easily be the determining factor in the game.

The Blue Devils' hopes will lie on the shoulders of a defensive unit that has improved throughout the season. Led by defensive ends Tony Hager and Walker, Mooresville will rely heavily on the linebacking of Brian Duckworth and Cress Alexander and the line play of Jimmy McIntosh, Aldrick Byers and Daniel Manriquez.

Dependable performances will be looked for in the defensive secondary by Jeff Wade, Charles Turner, Keye Everhardt, Leroy Chambers and Donald Duff.

In last week's action Mooresville downed South Iredell 21-0 and North Rowan stopped North Stanly.

Let The Buyer Beware

Manhattan Island is a case in point. Bought from the Indians for beads, the problem is now ours.

Its poverty and wealth, its shame and glory, its tragedy and gaiety—all are the buyer's responsibility. So we possess this great city—with no one to take its problems off our hands.

If we had it to do over, wouldn't we build our cities with more respect for spiritual values... more concern for each other... more attention to the blueprints of the Architect of life?

That's what usually happens to man. He tries his own way first.

On Manhattan Island, as in every village and city, churches have their doors open to searching souls. Now that we've tried our own way and lived with the results... isn't it time to try His?

'New Enthusiasm', New Coaches Give Blue Devil Basketball Bright Outlook

A "new enthusiasm" is the most noticeable aspect among folks around the gymnasium at Mooresville Senior High School. And the folks are some 32 remaining aspirants who have been working hard since the opening of basketball practice on October 15 for area high school boys and girls teams.

The Blue Devil basketball program at Senior High will have a new look this season. The boys will be under the direction of Ernie Pope, first-year coach with varsity experience at East Carolina University.

Pope succeeds Gary Karraker, who assumed the athletic directorship and football head coach post at the beginning of this school year.

The girls' team will also have a new coach, though not a newcomer on the local coaching scene. Roy Thompson will direct the Devilettes this season, after coaching the boys' high school junior varsity basketball team for the past two seasons. Thompson has also served as assistant football coach and has had baseball coaching experience at Senior High.

Coach Pope says that he is not yet able to make an assessment of the relative strength of his program. He expects a large number of players to emerge from the football tryout after football season, including five or six lettermen from last year's squad.

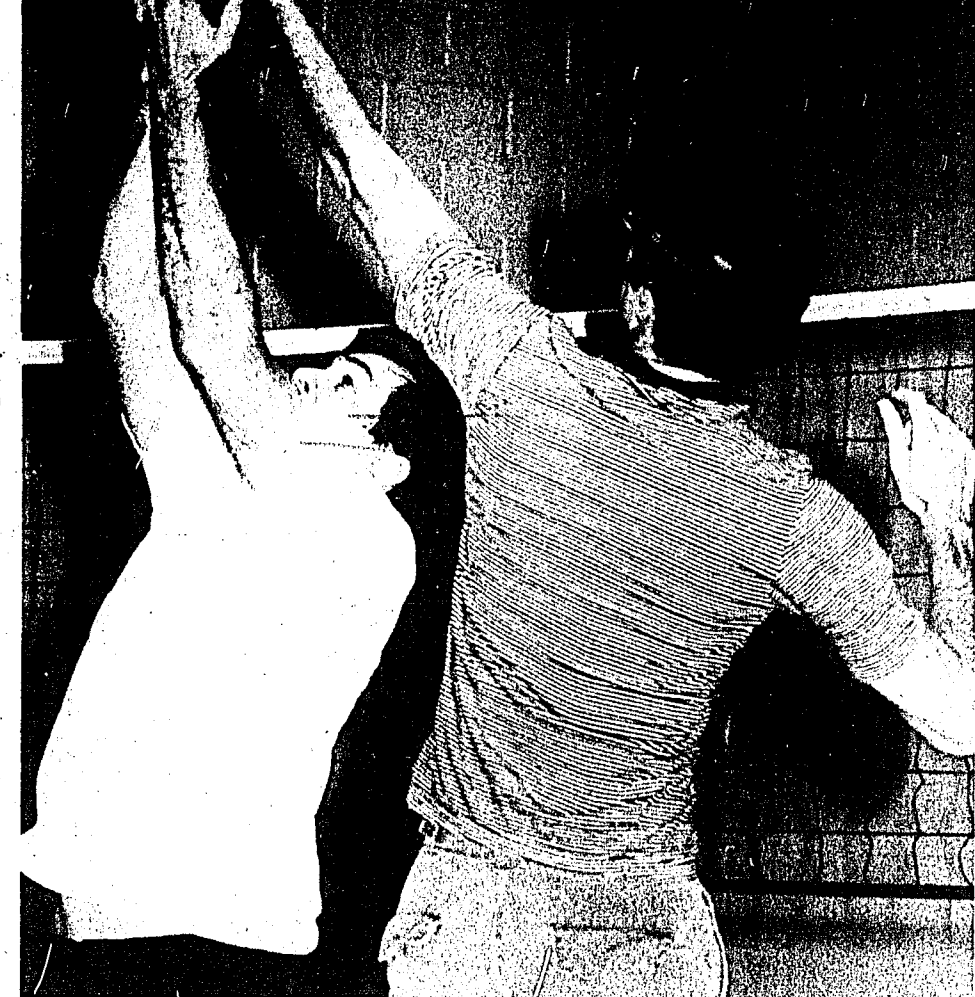

"But if numbers plus hustle and enthusiasm in practice is any indication," Pope said, "I'd say we'll do all right."

Over 40 boys came out for the team and one cut has lowered the number to 20 that are now in their fourth week of practice. After the boys from the football team tryout, Pope will make a final cut and also pick a junior varsity squad.

The girls' team had 20 tryouts for the 12 spots on the squad. Those picked for the team are senior Clara Pinkston, juniors Cheryl Coggins, Kim Crouch and Marsha Rodgers and sophomores Pat Johnston, Barbara Wilson, Becky Morrow, Karen Thompson, Karen Popp, Patti Tyner, Tammy Williams and Cindy Wilson. Managers selected for the 1973-74 squad are Sharon Gregory, Blaine Bowles and Deborah Sloan.

Coach Thompson reports that his girls have put in a lot of hard work and we're confident that it's going to pay off," Thompson said. "Even though we don't have a large number of juniors and seniors of the squad, the ones we have all have a lot of varsity experience. And the players from junior high have

Senior High's Cage Schedule Released

Mooresville Senior High School's cage schedule will play 20 twin-bills during the upcoming basketball season, according to a schedule released today by school officials.

This year, the local girls' team will be coached by Roy Thompson, Jr., while the boys' team will be directed by Coach Ernie Pope.

In addition to the regular season twin-bills, the boys' team likely will participate in a county-wide Christmas tournament in Statesville, when the boys' teams from the four high schools in the county—Mooresville, Statesville, South Iredell and North Iredell—complete for the county cage championship.

Mooresville High School's schedule as released by school officials is as follows:

Nov. 3—Statesville at Statesville.
Dec. 4—Statesville at Mooresville.
Dec. 7—Davie County at Mooresville.
Dec. 11—North Davidson at North Davidson.
Dec. 14—West Rowan at West Rowan.
Dec. 18—South Iredell at Mooresville.
Jan. 4—South Rowan at Mooresville.
Jan. 8—North Iredell at North Iredell.
Jan. 11—North Rowan at North Rowan.
Jan. 15—East Rowan at Mooresville.
Jan. 19—North Stanly at Mooresville.
Jan. 22—Davie County at Davie County.
Jan. 25—North Davidson at Mooresville.
Jan. 29—West Rowan at Mooresville.
Feb. 1—South Iredell at South Iredell.
Feb. 5—South Rowan at South Rowan.
Feb. 8—North Iredell at Mooresville.
Feb. 12—North Rowan at Mooresville.
Feb. 15—East Rowan at East Rowan.

Mark Steven Lackey of Mooresville, route 1, captured the first-place award of $7 in last week's football contest that is being sponsored weekly during the grid season by Mooresville merchants and the Mooresville Tribune.

Lackey had 11 correct guesses out of a possible 12. With 10 correct guesses out of a possible 12, A. W. Mathey of 347 Patterson Avenue in Mooresville won the second-place prize of $4.

Three contestants had nine correct guesses out of a possible 12. Therefore, the third-place prize was decided by the total points scored in the tie-breaking game at 40, was closest to the correct total score and took the third-place prize of $3. Miss Donaldson is a resident of 121 Manor Circle in Mooresville.

Tara J. Winders of Mooresville, route 2, guessed the exact score of the Mooresville-South Iredell game, 21-0 in favor of Mooresville. She won a can of STP from Wilson Auto Parts, a free pass to the State Theatre, four tires balanced and rotated at Brothers Tire Sales, and a $5 gift certificate from Macks Variety Store.

Major Barker Completes Staff Officer Course

Army Reserve Chaplain Major Dwight L. Barker, who resides with his wife, Mary, at Mount Mourne, has completed the final phase of the Command and General Staff Officer course at the U. S. Army Command and General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

The course is organized into nine phases and given over a five-year period either by correspondence or through the U. S. Army Reserve School System. The final two-week phase is conducted at Fort Leavenworth.

The training is designed to prepare selected officers for responsible positions at Division and Support Command levels. It also provides them with an understanding of the duties of corps and field Army general staff officers, and of Army participating in joint and combined operations.

"He's just a kid too," said Loren's wife, Pat, "he won't admit both boys are better riders than he is."

Ouch. Reading is a docile pursuit. See where the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports says that 55 per cent of adults over 22 years of age exercise regularly. Of 60 million exercisers, 44 million are walkers. Big deal. Players of two-hands-below-the-waist tag and no-holds-barred half-court are not listed. Neither are their survivors.

It's an occupational hazard, I suppose. Reading proof all these years causes me to look for typos everywhere. This sign at Mooresville's Hardie's is a copy editor's nightmare and a typo-hunter's delight. We wouldn't say the sign painter was under the influence of "alcoholic" beverages when he was on the "premices," but the "expence" of his work perhaps should have been reduced in accordance with his violations of Noah's (Webster) law.

YOU'RE AS YOUNG AS YOUR MIND

Sullivan's go down, or up, or over or whatever to Murfreesboro during the weekend to visit No. 1 son Lynn and to take part in parents day activities at Chowan College. Good time. Boys tossing footballs all over the campus. Naturally the Sullivan boys quickly get into pickup games. The oldest included. Mistake. Rare back to throw the bomb, feel searing flash across the middle, like unto a white-hot poker poked into the belly. Make my way to the sidelines. Hang it up for the day. Get no respect.

"When are you going to realize," Lou chides, "that you are not an 18-year-old kid. You are, Lord help me, a 40-year-old kid. Even if your mind won't accept this, your body does."

Ouch. It only hurts when I laugh. I walk around doubled over for a spell. Then the amazing healing processes of my magnificent 40-year-old body take over and work a full recovery—I think.

Just the other day, I saw where some guy said that life after 40 is just one big maintenance problem. Who wants that? Not me. Not Loren Edwards.

Loren and his boys are into motorbikes. Mark is 11 and Scott is eight, and Loren is older than most kids. The younger boys are winning heats or rallies or whatever you call bike races. Like, Saturday, Mark took first place in the 100 cc class in Columbia, and another first Sunday in Atlanta in the 80 cc class, and Scott finished in the top five in the 80 both days.

Loren? His doctor let him go back to work Wednesday after something like six weeks. The old man was showing the kids the basics of motorbike riding. Broken arm, mild concussion.

"He's just a kid too," said Loren's wife, Pat, "he won't admit both boys are better riders than he is."

Ouch.

"Nope. Lot of traffic, but no accidents."

U.S. MAIL

To the editor,

Recently, my husband and I, after working all week and needing some recreation, went to the local theater. Of course, we were aware of what was playing. It started out smooth and then a guy tries to prove cheating in a dice game and five guys jumped on him and beat him black and blue. As if this wasn't enough, they took out a knife and cut him all over his chest and back. ("200 stitches")...

He takes the law into his own hands and makes a sick. Then he went looking for one of the guys responsible for this and beats his head in. If you think these few sentences are sickening, this is exactly what happened in the first fifteen minutes of this movie. The reason I say this is because we became so provoked and got up and left. To me it is very disgusting to pay for a movie when it turns out as such. For one thing, there isn't much advertising on T V or in newspapers about what's in a movie. So you ask a friend what it is like and they say, "It's the best movie I have ever seen."

Believe me, if this is what a good movie is we have a sick society and I feel sorry for the young adults that were permitted to see this movie or any movie of such nature.

Maybe the people of Mooreville who are reading this letter think my husband and I are ridiculous. Definitely we are not, we have recently become more aware of life and trying to lead a normal Christian life. That's the way we want to raise our family, not in a society where there is liquor by the drink, and legalized prostitution and violence.

I would think a theater has the privilege to screen a film and decide what to present to its viewers. It's no wonder we have so much crime going on because T V and theaters have a lot of influence on people's lives.

I just believe this type of violence is not what we are here on earth for but to do God's work. I leave this to the individual and ask if something isn't done in days to come, just how is our young going to turn out? I am not sure what is wrong unless by the Grace of God their Parents have raised them to go to Church?

AMEN

72-Year-Old Hitchhikes To College

Elaine S. Camfield, a 72-year-old Orlando, Fla., grandmother hitchhiked eight miles to class every day.

She's convinced she can earn a college degree while thumbing rides with her best "old lady's smile."

"I've got it down to a science," says the communications major at Florida Technological University. The technique has worked for two years already. Mrs. Camfield, who figures she has "30 years of living yet," each day rides a bus to a busy intersection. "Then I walk up to a car and request a ride to the remaining eight miles," she said.

Last week, while standing at her favorite intersection, she saw a car with a sign that read "Orange County sheriff's deputy told her she's have to find a new spot where she wouldn't disrupt traffic."

A former nurse and part-time tutor, she says she took to hitchhiking when bus transportation proved inadequate but has learned a lot about people in her two years.

"It gives you a terrific perspective about people," she said. She said she was once refused a ride by a man holding a gun on her while she inquired.

"I had a minister change his mind about picking up hitchhikers," she said of one ride. "He even did a sermon about me."

Mrs. Camfield left college to get married years ago and doesn't know when she will complete her degree requirements. "I always get off on special projects which aren't for course credit," she said.

For young people, Mrs. Camfield says: "College is like hors d'oeuvres...for me it's like a lot of sipping to do."

Airlift Saving Animals From Urban Jungle

At 3 a. m. Laura Bowkett heard a prowler rummaging around in her yard. And just as she was about to call the police, she was startled by a loud splash from the family pool.

The nocturnal swimmer, Mrs. Bowkett found, was masked—but not really a dangerous felon. He was a raccoon.

So instead of calling the police, this Los Angeles city resident called the Department of Animal Regulation, whose workers set a trap, caught the intruder and took him to the shelter.

Then they booked him on the next "flight" to Angeles National Forest.

The bewildered raccoon became part of "Animal Airlift"—a unique program to return wildlife trapped in urban areas of Los Angeles to their natural habitats.

According to wildlife control officer Dennis Kroepin, over 1,800 wild animals—mainly raccoons, opossums, squirrels, rabbits hawks, and snakes—have been rescued from the concrete jungle and helicopter to the wooded jungle since this project began in 1970. To his knowledge, no other city does this.

Answering calls of local residents, wildlife officers round up lost creatures, place them in cargo cages, and fly them to designated areas of the forest where there is an ample supply of food, ground cover, and water sustain them.

Mr. Kroepin explains that an increasing number of wild animals are each year being driven from their natural habitats by flood, fire, and developers' bulldozers.

"They're homeless and scared. But usually, they'll do no damage looking for food or a place to nest," he says.

Although "Animal Airlift" has saved the lives of thousands of small animals, shelter officials say they are now getting an increasing number of calls about larger jungle inhabitants who visit the city.

The "airlift" can't accommodate these species. Some are sent to zoos and animal compounds. Others—like "Tabby," a 90-pound mountain lion who took to sunbathing in backyard flower beds in the heavily populated San Fernando Valley—were trucked to the wilds of northern California's Mono County.

But whether the "lost wildlife" is big or small," Officer Kroepin advises city residents to refrain from feeding wild animals, petting them, or otherwise trying to domesticate them.

"We want to preserve these animals and get them to places where the surroundings are familiar and there's sufficient food and water," Mr. Kroepin adds. "We need the cooperation of the people."

Statesville City Hall Nominated For Inclusion In Historic Register

The Statesville City Hall has been nominated for inclusion in the National Register of Historic Places by Dr. H. G. Jones, state historic preservation officer. The register is described as a national list of distinctive properties worthy of preservation because of their historical or other cultural value.

The Statesville City Hall was designed to serve as the United States post office and court house. Construction was done under the auspices of Willoughby J. Edbrooke, supervising architect of the United States Treasury Department, and the building was completed in 1892.

It was sold to the city of Statesville in 1941. The impressive brick building is probably North Carolina's best example of the Richardsonian Romanesque style of architecture; its monumentality is enhanced by the rich and varied ornament, including the carved stone hands, large entrance arch, and complex roof treatment. The interior, which retains almost all its original material including woodwork and heat and lighting fixtures, is equally impressive. The sympathetic fashion in which it was converted to city use, preserving most elements, is especially remarkable.

The nomination was submitted in connection with the Division of Archives and History's long-range program to identify and document the authenticity of historic properties in North Carolina. Approval of the nomination by the Department of the Interior usually requires about six months and will be announced through the state's congressional delegation.

Dr. Herrscher, president of Mitchell College in Statesville, has tendered his resignation to the school's board of trustees.

Dr. Herrscher had asked the board of trustees earlier to interim when Mitchell was admitted to the system last July. Dr. Herrscher explained that, due to his commitment to Mitchell, he had not been able to carry his share of the school's financial system.

To date, no action has been taken on securing a successor to Dr. Herrscher.

Patti Henson, president of the Troutman Duck Creek 4-H Club for the up coming club year during a meeting held at the Holy Trinity Lutheran Church in Troutman.

Other officers elected to serve during the coming year include: Dennis Hoover, vice president; Cindy Rimmer, secretary; Alice Rimmer, reporter; and Edwin Rimmer, treasurer. Robin Blackwelder and Steven Beaver were named recreation leaders.

Patti Henson presided over the meeting.

Kay Horn gave the 4-H pledge and the pledge of allegiance to the American flag led by Carolyn Hagler.

Cindy Rimmer presented the devotional program, using as her theme: "Tight-Rope Faith."

One new member, Eric Harrington, was added to the club's roll.

Following the meeting and a recreational period, refreshments were served by Robin Blackwelder and Carolyn Hagler.

Post Office Announces Deadlines For Sending Yule Mail, Packages

As sure as Santa comes every year to bring millions and millions of gifts to all the good people, the post office will be deluged with billions of cards and packages at Christmas time. And, just as Santa has to meet his deadline, the employees of the post office must meet theirs.

December 15—Last day for sending surface mail for all United States delivery including Alaska and Hawaii.

December 14—Last day for sending international greeting cards and air parcels to Africa, the Near East and the Far East.

December 13—Last day for sending Airmail parcels and cards to South America, Central America, the Near East and the Far East.

December 12—Last day for sending Airmail parcels and cards to Alaska and Hawaii.

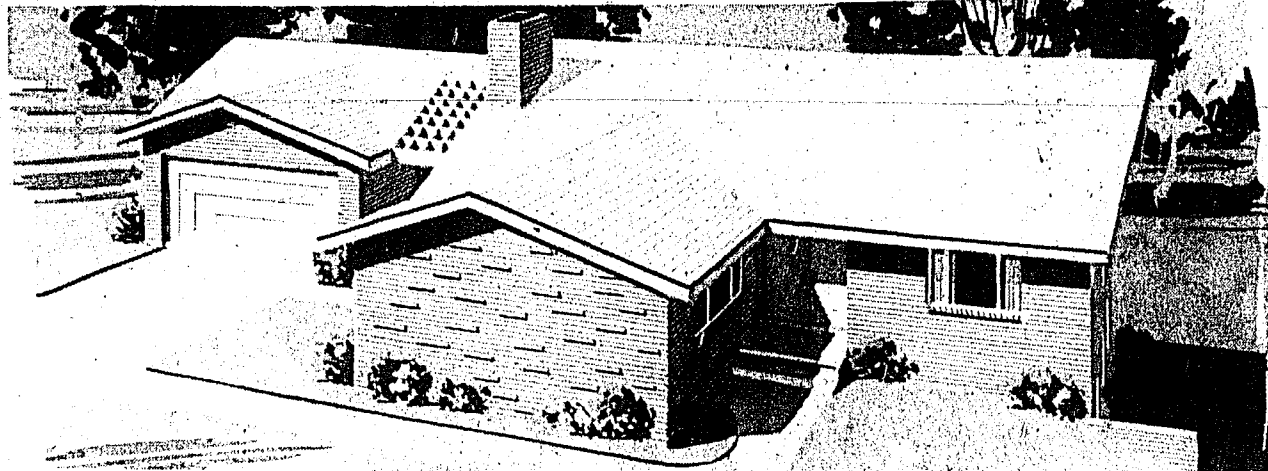

December 11—Deadline for sending Airmail parcels and cards to Canada and Mexico.

December 10—Last day for sending Airmail parcels and cards to Europe, South America and Central America.

Of course, these are the very last days on which packages and cards should be sent to guarantee on-time delivery.

The post office encourages early mailing for early delivery.

RUSTIC DESIGN STRESSES OPEN FEELING OPEN COURT A FEATURE

The court contains 160 square feet and is screened by a brick wall. There is also an entrance from the courtyard into the living room. The exterior of the rustic design features an attractive combination of brick veneer and siding. The front walk curves around the master bedroom and leads to the one-step front stoop of 30 square feet.

A convenient laundry with washer and dryer connections is just off the breakfast room and has a private entrance on the back of the house. The two-car garage and its connecting storage room contain 569 square feet and there is a convenient inside entrance to the house from the garage.

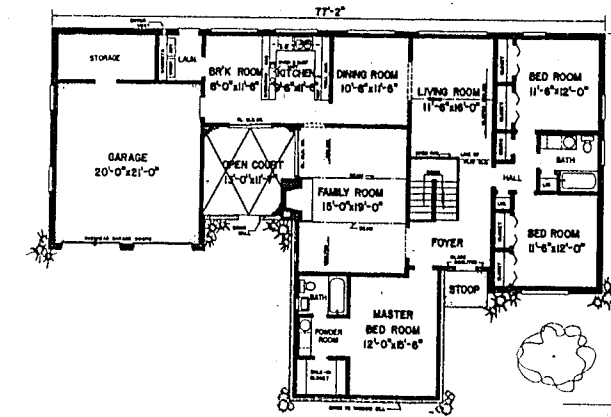

An open U-shape stairway in the foyer, descends into a 905 square foot basement which is about half as large as the house. The exterior of the rustic design features an attractive combination of brick veneer and siding. The front walk curves around the master bedroom and leads to the one-step front stoop of 30 square feet.

If the builder desires, he may choose a contemporary design (B front not pictured), utilizing brick construction and a different placement of windows.

For information on Plan 944 write to W. D. Farmer, P.O. Box 49463, Atlanta, Ga. 30329.

A particularly enticing feature of this rustic dwelling is the manner in which the foyer separates the comfortable master bedroom from the rest of the sleeping quarters and living areas and creates a very spacious effect.

Duke Power Hikes Rates

Duke Power Company, which serves Piedmont areas of North and South Carolina—including the Mooreville area—has put into effect an interim eight percent rate increase.

The Charlotte-based firm's rate application is pending before governing agencies in both states.

Duke Power said the across-the-board interim increase will be reflected in bills rendered on and after November 5.

In both states, the utility will be required to refund, with interest, any revenues collected as a result of the interim increases that may not be allowed in final rate determinations.

In announcing the interim increase, the utility said it needs the additional revenues to help offset spiraling operating and capital costs.

It added that these costs have eroded its rate of return and it fears they may jeopardize the utility's ability to attract new investments needed to finance a current $1.5 billion expansion program.

A company spokesman said curtailment of the building program would have serious effects on the "future reliability of electric service in the Piedmont Carolinas."

Duke Power said the interim rate increases will produce approximately $28 million additional annual revenues in North Carolina and $12 million annually in South Carolina, based on year-end operating results as of July 31, 1973.

Full implementation of its requested new rates would produce $60 million annually in North Carolina and $26 million annually in South Carolina, the company said.

Joey Will Be In Parade

Certain to be a favorite of all children watching Mooreville's November 20 Christmas parade is Joey the Clown. Under the familiar crushed stovepipe, the patched coat and striped pants is 47-year-old Brooks Lindsay.

Both Joey and his creator love kids, and the children naturally respond to his antics. Mooreville Jaycees who are sponsoring the annual parade say this will be the biggest ever, and it will feature a greater variety of entries and special entertainment than ever before.

Could you afford a new washer if prices jumped?

That's why railroads are essential.

We can't promise a price freeze on washing machines. But we can say that shipping by rail remains one of the best bargains you'll find. That's one of the reasons Southern and other railroads are so popular with appliance makers. In fact, 71% of all household appliances are shipped by rail.

And shipping by rail is as dependable as it is economical. Maybe that's why railroads handle twice as much intercity freight as trucks. Two hundred times as much as airlines.

Which is why you need railroads. And why you need Southern.

Tryouts Planned For Theatre's Forthcoming One-Act Plays

"The Creative Arts Center of Woods School is the place to be tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. for the tryouts of the Mooreville Community Theatre."

At this time, along with a general meeting for all people interested in the theatre, tryouts and readings will be held for the theatre's next production—two one-act plays: "Overtones" and "Sorry, Wrong Number."

"With these two plays, plus intermission entertainment, the Mooreville Community Theatre feels it has a genuinely entertaining production to offer Mooreville in January," Shipman continued.

Gil Nelson is ready to marshal his forces as director of "Overtones," a fascinating play in which the egos and alter-egos of two women find themselves entangled in a delicate confrontation involving the possibility of having a portrait painted by the not-so-famous artist husband of one of the women. Gil feels that the four female roles offered in "Overtones" are all equally rewarding, and are roles any girl would be delighted to get her teeth into.

"Sorry, Wrong Number" was first conceived for the radio program "Suspense" in 1948 with Agnes Moorhead portraying the bedridden Mrs. Stevenson. After its initial radio success, the suspense-thriller was then adapted for the stage, television, and finally, as a movie starring Barbara Stanwyck and Burt Lancaster.

Director Clayton Miller sees "Sorry, Wrong Number" as a mood-atmospheric play in which even the most minor characters are as important as the major characters. Five female roles and three male roles complete the cast.

Donning their Community Theatre directors' hats for the first time, Gil Nelson and Clayton Miller are ready to get started.

"If we can give it a try, so can others. Therefore, we certainly hope we will be joined at the readings and tryouts by a large number of people interested in having an enjoyable time and helping with these two plays."

All members of the Mooreville Community Theatre stress that "behind-the-scenes" people are as essential to a production as actors. Volunteers are needed to make posters, help construct the sets, obtain props, sell tickets, help with costumes and make-up, etc. These people contribute to the success of all shows.

"Community Theatre and its bringing together a finished production can be a most rewarding experience," stated Shipman, "so everyone of all ages interested in helping in any capacity should attend Thursday's meeting and become a part of the Mooreville Community Theatre."

Kaiser Aluminum un-rustables: for men who have better things to do than paint farm buildings.

It could take all day to paint a building. Or two or three. Why bother? Farm buildings of natural Kaiser Aluminum look fine without paint. And they never rust. Nail holes or scratches can't cause rust because solid aluminum is un-rustable clear through. Maintenance takes time; paint costs money. Save both for more important things. Ervin-Holthouser Couple Pledge Vows On Saturday

In a beautiful candlelight setting on Saturday, November 10, at the Rockwell Baptist Church, Miss Kathy Lynn Holthouser became the bride of Robert Danny Ervin. The Reverend J. W. Morris performed the ceremony at six o'clock in the evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Holthouser of Mooresville, route 1 and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cliff Ervin of Mooresville, route 3.

The sanctuary of the church was decorated with a background of palms and greenery and numerous seven branched candelabra with lighted tapers. Two floor baskets of white gladioli, white daisies, and yellow mums and yellow daisies enhanced the setting. The kneeling bench was used for the benediction and pews for the families and guests were marked with foliage and satin bows. Each window in the sanctuary was marked with candles and greenery.

Michael Slattery, of Lanham, Maryland, nephew of the bride served as acolyte. A program of traditional organ wedding music was rendered by Mike Mahla, of Davidson College. He also accompanied the vocalist, Miss Margaret Bradburn, of Troutman. She sang "Song of Ruth," "The Greatest of These Is Love" and for the benediction "The Lord's Prayer."

The traditional wedding march was used for the processional and recessional. The lovely bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor length gown of embroidered tulle and lace and a chignon designed with a fitted lace bodice, high neckline and bishop sleeves. The skirt was fashioned of chiffon.

Her chapel length mantilla with lace trim was attached to a headpiece accented with beaded trim. The bride carried a white Bible with a spray of yellow roses and snowdrift pompoms. Miss Linda Holthouser, of Mooresville, sister of the bride, was maid of honor.

Miss Shirley Ervin, of Mooresville, sister of the groom, was a bridesmaid.

The attendants were dressed in floor length gowns designed with floral chiffon skirt, featuring fall colors, and avocado green crepe bodice. The bodice was styled with empire waist, high neckline and full sleeves ending in cuffs at the wrist. The maid of honor completed her dress with a cummerbund of gold velvet while the bridesmaid's was accented with a green velvet cummerbund. Their headpieces were gathered bows in velvet matching their cummerbunds. Each carried a nosegay of bronze pompoms and wood roses with matching ribbons.

Honorary bridesmaids were Mrs. Junior Ward of Harrisburg; Mrs. Bill Howard of Mooresville; Mrs. Ken Cloaninger of Greensboro; Mrs. E. H. Cook, Jr. of Huntersville and Mrs. Larry Hopkins of Wake Forest. Each carried a single long stemmed yellow rose with foliage and ribbons. Little Miss Christy Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cook, Jr. of Huntersville, was a flower girl. She was dressed identical to the bride and carried a fancy lace basket filled with flower petals.

Master David Holthouser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Holthouser of Sanford and Chad Kepley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kepley of Kannapolis, were ring bearers. They carried the rings on white satin pillows.

The groom chose his father as best man. Mike Holthouser of Sanford, brother of the bride, was the officiant and brother-in-law, Jerry Kepley of Kannapolis.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Holthouser chose an aqua knit dress styled with bodice which was semi-full at the waistline, round neckline, long sleeves and a-line skirt. She chose matching accessories and a corsage of white cymbidium orchids. The groom's mother, Mrs. Ervin, chose a pink coat and dress ensemble of worsted silk. She chose matching accessories and a white cymbidium orchid corsage.

Mrs. Jerry Kepley, of Kannapolis, presided at the guest register.

Members Display

Ancestral Items

The Mary Slocumb Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution met on Saturday afternoon, at the home of Miss Lynda Templeton with eight members and two guests present.

The afternoon's program was very interesting and all members participated since the program dealt with prized possessions which had been handed down through the members' families. Some of the items being displayed were old jewelry; a shawl which was worn by one of the members' grandmothers; a rifle which had been used in the Mexican War; pin cushion, books, clocks, lamps, and beautiful linens from a hope chest.

The meeting adjourned with the President General's message.

A Woman's Prayer . . .

By Louise Westmoreland

Dear God,

Teach me the meaning of loyalty. Remind me of my commitments to my fellow Christians.

Make me appreciate all who have gone down the road before me; not only the great saints of early Biblical days, but the quiet, selfless saints of every day.

Help me to remember to pray for those in the family of God, even as they pray for me. May we bear each other's burdens, even as Christ has borne ours.

In his name we pray.

Amen

Wyatt Earp Gun Sold For $20,000

That well-known figure of the Wild West, Wyatt Earp, is still a pretty big name around Los Angeles. That was demonstrated at an Old West event when one of Earp's six-shooters was sold for $20,000.

The 45 caliber Colt was the one Earp carried while tracking the outlaw, Curly Bill Brocius. A double-barreled shotgun that brought the demise of Curly Bill went for $10,000.

"They went crazy. It was unbelievable," said Peter McCoy, president of Sotheby Parke Bernet galleries, after bidders paid out more than $500,000 for Wild West memorabilia in the three-day auction.

Happy Wheelers Dinner Guests Of Statesville Moose Lodge

A very special group rolled into the main dining room of the Statesville Moose Lodge at Barium Springs one evening last week. The guests came to dinner, and they literally rolled in. They are members of Happy Wheelers, a countywide organization made up of handicapped persons confined to wheel chairs. The lodge treated the Happy Wheelers to a full-course dinner, giving each guest a choice of chicken or steak for the main course. Everyone had such a good time the fraternal order plans to make the get-together an annual affair. The lodge's entertainment committee was in charge of arrangements, and Women of the Moose were waitresses during serving of food prepared in the lodge kitchen. Happy Wheelers, organized in 1961, has some 40 members. Some 50 Happy Wheelers and members of their families attended the Moose dinner. The club meets every other month, and it welcomes new members.

Davidson's Trustees Act On Union Location, Deferred Gifts

Davidson College's trustees have approved a new location for the College Union and authorized a new pooled life income fund as part of the college's deferred giving program.

College Union headquarters will be moved from their present location in the Carnegie Building to the present Grey Memorial Library building in late 1974.

Library holdings and offices are scheduled to be moved from the Grey Library to the new E. H. Little Library, now under construction, in the summer of 1974. The Grey building will then be renovated to provide college union facilities.

The pooled life income fund allows the college to serve as trustee for individuals who wish to make gifts to the college of $5,000 or more while retaining income from their gifts during their lifetimes. Additional gifts may be made to the fund in increments of $1,000.

Gifts will be pooled in a trust and used to purchase stocks and bonds, from which donors or persons they designate will derive income for life. The portfolio will be managed by Scudder, Stevens and Clark of New York, investment counselors who also manage the

Letters to the Editor..

To the Editor,

Recently, my husband and I went to see the same movie that others went to see at a local theatre. This was not a disgusting movie of a sick society. This was a revealing and open movie of our now trying times. It tells it "as it is" and not how we would "like it to be."

The movie was, indeed, one of the best I had ever seen as it clearly shows how one man alone shows an entire country that prostitution, illegal gambling, and incredible violence are not accepted by all. This man did not take the law into his own hands but he proved to people that he wanted to destroy the crime ring in that country so he ran for sheriff and was elected.

He deplored violence so much that, even as sheriff, he would not wear a gun. He was brutally beaten and his family was treated cruelly. There were sickening scenes in the movie, but no more sickening than the true-life scenes that happen to innocent people every day.

Even in those horrible times he never gave up his cause; he never lost faith in his fellowman. He knew he was on the right side of the law and that God would find the way to show all men the way. But he had a high price to pay before this could happen.

At last, after the death of his beloved wife and inhuman suffering of himself, by the Grace of God, the people did see the light. The townspeople together burned the gambling tables and bars and saw that justice was found for the crime syndicate and this would prove to any law breaker who would want to move into the county and spread his wave of sin and crime that justice would always be found.

"I am the good Shepherd: the good Shepherd giveth His life for the sheep." St. John 10:11

Many people today are like lost sheep, running here and there searching for a good Shepherd who will watch over them and care for them and walk with them every day.

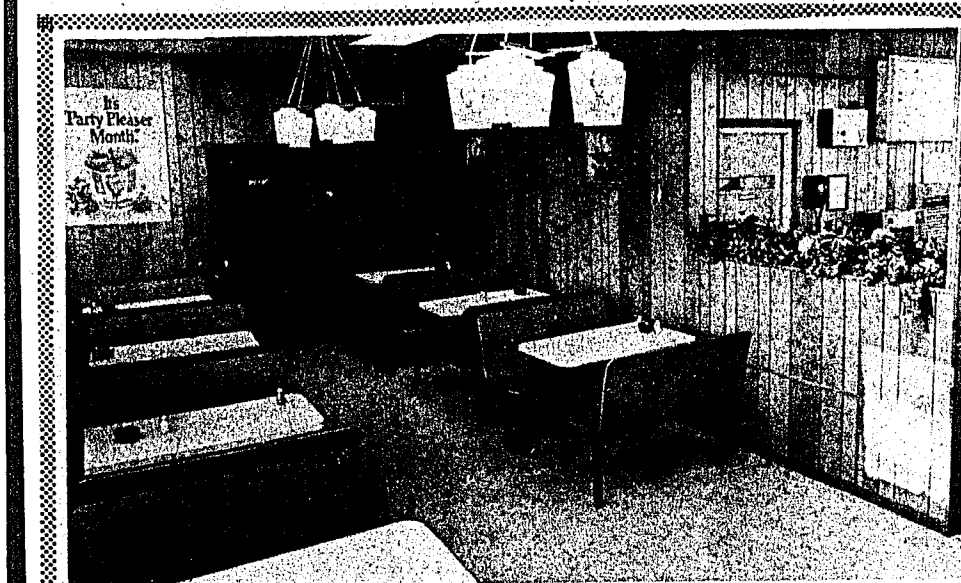

My friend, I want to point you to the greatest Shepherd this world has ever known, who declared Himself that He was the good Shepherd, and that being the Lord Jesus Christ Himself.

A Shepherd who would watch over you and provide your needs. A Shepherd who would comfort your loneliness. A Shepherd who would fill your life with love, joy, peace and hope. A Shepherd who would fight your battles. A Shepherd who would be your guide. A Shepherd who would walk with you through the valleys. A Shepherd who would lead you to greener pastures. A Shepherd who never sleeps, but is always by your side watching over you.

Do you want this great Shepherd? If so, just open the door of your heart and ask this great Shepherd to forgive you of your sins and to be your Shepherd from this moment on.—Amen.

Pre-teen health winners were: Lisa Rogers, Brawley Helping Hands; and Alex McAuley, Ebenezer Club.

Results Of First-Year Showing For Plaudit's Buckshot

FROM PLOWS TO TROPHIES

Cinderella Of The Horsy Set

Plaudit's Buckshot is the Horatio Alger of the horsy set. The eight-year-old roan appaloosa gelding lived the first seven years of his life as a beast of burden—a puller of plows, a snaker of logs.

Today, Buckshot is a prize-winning show horse, winner of no less than 39 ribbons—including nine first places—in one season of competition.

Understandably, the horse is the pride of his owner, Linda Brown of Brawley School Road. And Linda never was more proud than during the recent Norwood Horse Show, in which Buckshot earned 35 points competing in the western three-gaited and pleasure horse categories. He was awarded five first places, two seconds and a fourth to emerge as the prize-winning horse in the show.

Linda says her horse had one great advantage: breeding. He is a full-blooded animal, and she plans to enter him in registered Rural and urban Iredell will join November 16-22 in the observance of Farm-City Week.

In Mooresville, the week has been proclaimed by Mayor Joe Knox.

Knox said the well-being of the community was dependent upon cooperation of the two great elements of our society: farmers and urban people.

'This Is Your Life, Mrs. Annie Baxter'

Sunday was "Annie Baxter Day" at Fieldstone Presbyterian Church. The congregation honored Mrs. Baxter during the morning worship service. Mrs. Baxter, the church's only surviving charter member, was surprised by a "This Is Your Life" skit narrated by Bob Amon, right. Amon read a summary of Mrs. Baxter's service to the church since its founding in 1908, and Glenn Beaver presented her a "This Is Your Life" scrap book, a lapel pin and a corsage. The former Annie Proctor, Mrs. Baxter, who lives at 214 East Center Avenue, is the widow of C. B. Baxter. What now is Fieldstone Presbyterian Church began as Second Presbyterian Church at the corner of South Church Street and East Wilson Avenue. The church moved to Fieldstone Road in 1970 and changed its name.

As co-authors of the book, they receive no pay. The Extension Homemaker Organization is financing the printing and will be able to sell the work book at $1 each after December 1, 1973.

Mrs. Elmer Lagd of Salisbury was elected president of the organization. Iredell reports of projects were turned in to the state committee chairman.

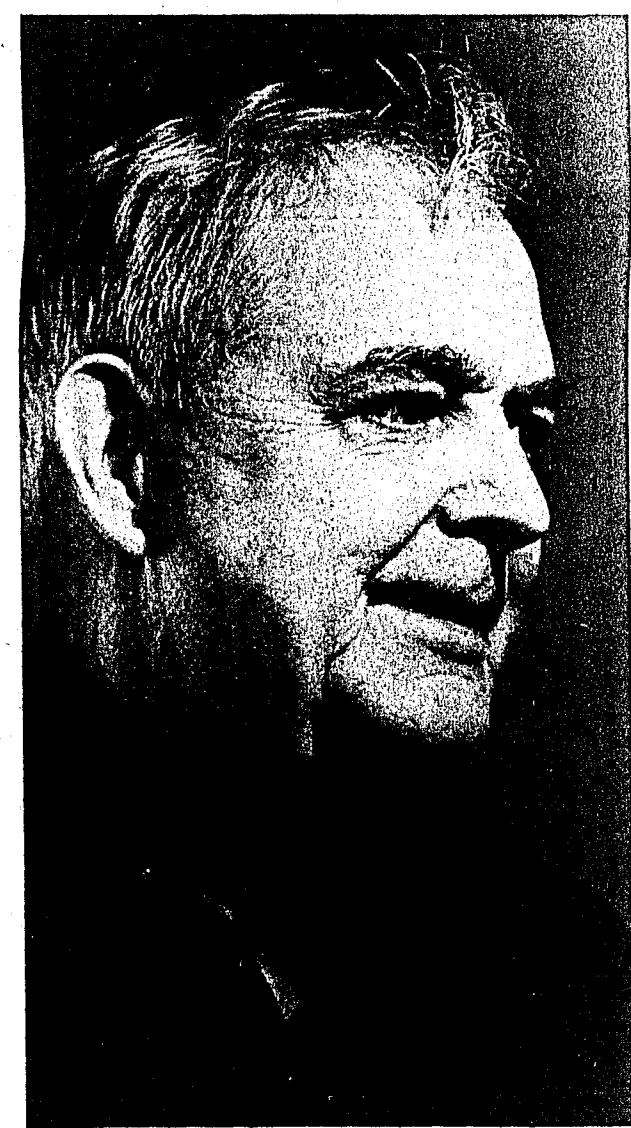

Speaker for the day was Mrs. H. K. (Espey) Johnson. Her topic was "Is It Art Or...?"

Stateville, chairman of the Tri-County board, who welcomed the guests.

The invocation was given by the Rev. James Cross, of the Rowan Cooperative Christian Ministry.

Local industries are having to base their planning on fuel supply. Mooreville Mills, the area's largest user of energy, has been informed by Public Service to expect a cutback in natural gas. A spokesman for the giant textile plant said no curtailment in its six-day operation is anticipated at this time. He explained that the plant is flexible in its use of gas, coal and oil.

"Of course, we can be hurt by conditions that are only indirectly related to the supply of fuels we need," he explained, "this month, for example, our coal allocation is down 35 percent because coal cars are not available, not because the coal isn't. And if truck fuel runs short, our supply line will be broken."

There is an "energy stabilization center" in Raleigh. No one is sure what it does. Several Lincoln County families were told by the Raleigh office to contact someone in Atlanta. The energy crisis, then, is becoming an exercise in buck-passing. In this area, bucks passed to the Chamber office will stop there, because no one there knows any more about what to do than "experts" in Raleigh and Atlanta.

In the Statesville No. 4 precinct, votes for the statewide school bond issue totaled 299, not 294 as first reported. This brought the total in favor of the school bond issue to 7,933 countywide.

The Iredell County Board of Elections listed the total number voting in the election as 13,184.

The council will establish headquarters in Statesville, from which it will coordinate a county-wide transportation service for elderly persons. The council also will provide other vital services for old people, particularly those who are ill, invalid and poor.

The council's county-seat center, to be known as an information and referral office, will have a full-time secretary. The council also will employ two part-time drivers.

Stewart emphasized that the council will operate in full cooperation with other service agencies in the county, notably the Department of Social Services. Existing agencies, he said, will "oversee the council work and the whole project in order to avoid duplication of services."

It didn't take authorities long to find two juveniles accused of breaking into a golf course clubhouse in Spokane, Wash. Sheriff's officers followed a trail of candy bar wrappers from the scene of the break-in and apprehended the two youths asleep at the end of the line.

Charlie R. Walters, Rowan County commissioner and a member of the board of directors, was the master of ceremonies.

Flaherty spoke briefly to the group assembled on the patio outside the building and during the rest of the afternoon the guests toured the complex, which opened officially on Tuesday.

The lower level consists of a pre-school for retarded children where they can be evaluated and treated in the areas of mental retardation, behavior problems, emotional disorders, academic underachievements and learning abilities.

Also located on the lower level of the complex are rooms for group therapy, vocational rehabilitation, occupational therapy, several classrooms and a kitchen.

Housed on the upper level of the complex is its own pharmacy, along with alcoholism counselors, social workers, psychologists, medical director and administrative offices. There will be a medical records office. Also provided on the upper level is ample waiting or reception room for patients.

The new complex promises progressive steps in services to the people of Iredell, Rowan, and Davie Counties in areas of alcoholism, outpatient and limited inpatient services, psychiatric social services, psychological services and vocational rehabilitation services.

Appointments for treatment and counseling at the new complex, which will be open Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., can be made through the already existing local mental health centers in each county.

project, expected to cost about $160,000, will be financed by the town from federal revenue-sharing funds.

The town will ask the railroad to permit a three-day interruption in rail traffic on the line proposed for the underpass to permit an "open cut" for the tunnel, rather than having to burrow under the railroad. Engineers say cutting the track and digging an open trench for the underpass will mean a saving of between $80,000 and $90,000.

The tunnel will be some 60 feet long, and it will connect the railroad and Academy Street to connect to Academy.

And, Statesville High's Miss Merry Christmas, and three beauty queens from Mooreville — Carrousel Princess, Senior High's Homecoming Queen and Mooreville's Centennial Queen.

Ty Boyd, well-known WBTV personality, will serve as the parade's grand marshal, riding in the lead car, directly behind the color guard from the Mooreville unit of the North Carolina National Guard.

In addition to Mooreville Mayor Joe V. Knox and Mrs. Knox, City Manager Tate Mills and Mrs. Mills and members of the Town Board, quite a few dignitaries have been invited and are expected to attend.

These include: North Carolina Attorney General Robert Morgan, North Carolina Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham, U.S. Congressman Jim Martin, North Carolina Commissioner of Insurance John Ingram, State Senators J. Reid Poovey and Kennedy Sharpe, and State Representative J. P. Huskins.

Joey the Clown will be here, along with Frank Caine of Burlington, Iowa, a former circus clown. He will bring some 50 costumes with him and these will be worn by local boys and girls.

No individual horses will be permitted in the parade.

"We welcome horse-drawn vehicles," explained Causby, "but we aren't allowing single horses and riders as in the past."

Santa Claus, as in years past, will be an honor guest. He notified parade officials that he will leave his toy workshop at the North Pole just long enough to take part in the parade.

"We (the Jaycees) have been working night and day, so to speak, for weeks, in order to make sure the parade will be outstanding—and as of now it looks as if success might be in sight," stated Parade Co-Chairman Causby.

To all children—Santa Claus wants you to know he loves you, and he hopes you will come out to the parade so he can see you. He would hate to have you miss this opportunity to see him.

Social Security

Questions and Answers

Q: I'm close to retiring and I'd like to know where I should apply for my social security benefits. My next door neighbor told me to go to the employment office. Is that right?

A: No. The place to apply is your nearest social security office.

Q: My 70-year-old mother gets monthly social security payments of about $100. This is her only income and it is barely enough for her to live on. She has been unable to get help from the County Department of Social Services. Will the new Federal Supplemental Security Income program be able to help her?

A: When the new Federal program starts in January 1974, your mother may be eligible for some Supplemental Security Income payments even though she is getting social security benefits. The new Federal program is intended to insure a monthly income of at least $350 for a single person over 65 in financial need. Your mother should telephone or visit the social security office nearest her now.

Q: Can a woman get both her own social security retirement benefit and also the full wife's benefit based on her husband's work?

A: No. She gets her own retirement benefit. But if the amount of the wife's benefit based upon her husband's social security record is high, the difference is added to her retirement benefit—in effect, she gets the higher of the two benefits.

Q: My neighbor is 67 and is in dire need. He owns a small home and gets a small social security payment. He is not eligible for state welfare payments. Is there anyway he can receive help?

A: Probably. A new Federal program, Supplemental Security Income, will begin in January 1974. This program is intended to assure those who are 65 or over, or disabled, or blind, a basic monthly income.

The Social Security Administration is now accepting applications for payments under the program. You should have your neighbor call the Social Security office nearest his home.

Q: What survivors benefits are payable if my husband dies?

A: If your husband has worked long enough under social security, survivors benefits may be payable to: A. all children under 18; B. any children, regardless of the age, who have been severely disabled since before they reached their 22nd birthday.

Kind Words For The PO Boys

There are some serious discrepancies in the testimony. Somebody's statement is inoperative at this point in time.

Mooreville postal clerk Melvin Danyels insists Philip Parker unjustly charged the United States Postal Service with mishandling a batch of his color photographs. Phil says he merely said the pictures did not arrive by mail.

The background: Two Saturdays back, Phil was to distribute pictures of midget football players during the midget game here. The photos had not arrived the day before the game, so Phil called the color-processing outfit in Winston-Salem. He was assured that his order had been filled and prepared for shipment by United Parcel Service. Hold it, said Phil, UPS doesn't deliver here Saturdays. Put the pictures in the mail. The man said this would be done. Saturday morning, Phil called the local post office. No pictures. Phil asked Don Owens, superintendent of mail, to determine if his package had reached Charlotte. After an exhaustive search in Charlotte, nothing.

So Phil went to the game emptyhanded to face the wrath of the midgets' parents. To ease his pain, he announced over the stadium public-address system that he did not have the pictures.

This is where the testimony differs. Melvin was attending the game. He said Phil excused himself by laying blame for the missing pictures on the mails. Melvin said he thought he heard something like "because of an error in handling." Phil insists that he said only that "the pictures didn't get here in the mail."

Early the next week, Melvin mentioned his interpretation of Phil's remarks to Don, who allowed he was aghast on two counts: Postal people in Mooreville and Charlotte had spent considerable time and effort searching for the missing pictures and, worse, the photos were delivered to Phil's house early Monday morning—by UPS, which is something of a thorn in the PO's side anyway.

That's the case, except for these points: It must be understood that the charges and countercharges are for laughs. Nobody really is serious about the incident. It should be obvious, also, that this is not intended to be an objective report. Phil and I agreed it should be slanted in favor of the post office. He feels badly about the imposition he apparently gave on the PA system. "I didn't mean to bad-mouth the boys at the post office," he said, "they went out of their way to try and find the pictures, and I really appreciate it." And I feel I owe the PO guys a kind word because of an offhand comment I made last week in reference to President Nixon's portrait being "borrowed" from the Mooreville Post Office lobby by person or persons unknown. I said "the PO boys have lost a lot of things, but this is the first time they've ever lost a president." Coming on top of the business with Phil, said Don, that smarted.

"What have we ever lost?" Don asked. Before I could get out my list, somebody in the working section of the mailroom (sorry about that, Don) called out: "Where is the Virginia mail?" I didn't say anything, and Don seemed to understand.

Dick Has Locks On This Vote

Dr. Richard Martin not only makes house calls, he picks up and delivers. And for that, Mrs. Bertha Cline thanks her lucky stars.

She was seeing stars when she saw Dr. Martin on voting day last week. She fell down a flight of steps at Park View School when she went to vote. Dick was among those who rushed up to help. He examined her wrist and said it needed x-ray. He put Mrs. Cline in his car, drove her to the hospital, saw to the x-rays, confirmed that her wrist was broken, put the arm in a cast and delivered her to her home on McNeely Avenue near the school.

Mrs. Cline was grateful. And Dick's interest were bound to have been humanitarian, not political. He's on the Town Board, true, but this wasn't his year to run.

A Free Tip For Politicians

There is the point made recently by the Greensboro Daily News: The price of food being what it is and going to be, Tar Heel legislators who must face voters next year would do well to give some thought to coming out foursquare for exempting food from state sales tax. It might not amount to that much reduction in the family food bill, but the emotional impact would be pure political gold.

The Color Of South Iredell

Local chap, can't recall who, stopped by the office middle of last week to buy a paper and pass the time. Said he had spent the previous weekend touring the Tar Heel mountains. "Most glorious color we saw on the whole trip was between Mooreville and Statesville on the interstate." So who wants to endure the bumper-bumper tree-watching caravan through the high country?

Doing It Right

We still can't get excited about a street under the railroad that slices through the middle of town. We still aren't convinced the ends justify the means. The means being something in the $160,000 range.

But we are prepared to recognize that the town is going about the underpass with all due care and caution. If we're going to build an underpass, the Town Board has decided, let's do it right.

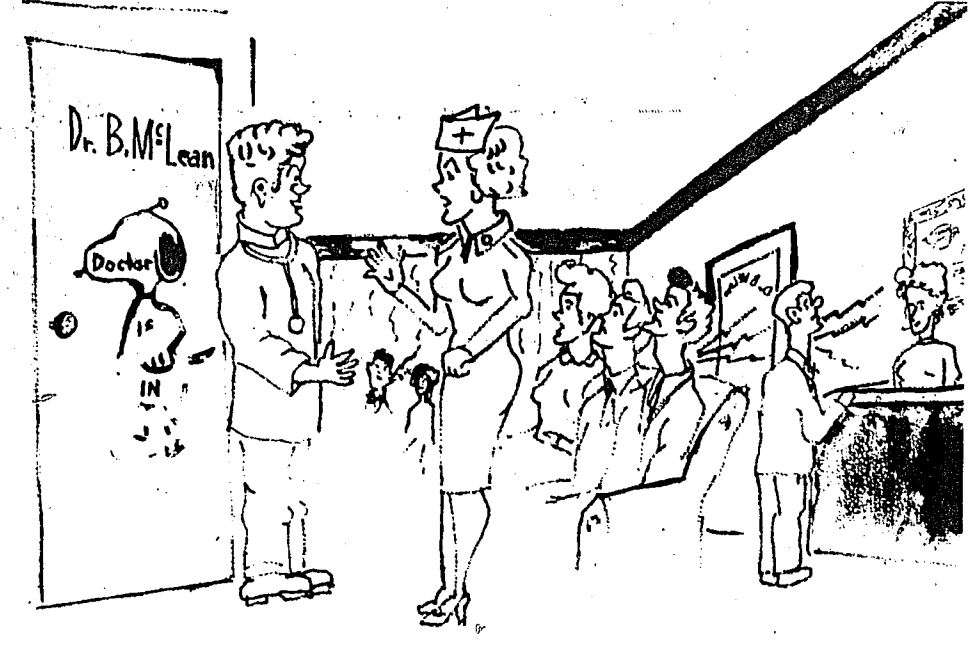

First mention of the underpass hit some members of the board sideways. Apparently, the commissioners have come to believe unanimously in the value of providing a way to get from one side of the tracks to the other regardless of rail traffic. Town Manager Tate Mills said last week the board now regards the underpass as the town's most pressing need. Mills said the tunnel heads the board's list of priority projects to be financed with the town's federal revenue-sharing funds.

So the underpass appears headed for reality. It probably will be a boon to cross-town traffic, although, as we said, we aren't convinced of this. In any event, when it is built it will be built right. With 16 feet overhead clearance, with lanes for two-way traffic. And, most dramatic of all, the underpass will pass under not only the railroad, but Broad Street as well. This will eliminate what was seen as a dangerous intersection had the underpass exited at Broad.

Under present plans, the underpass and its approaches will begin at Mackey Street and end at Academy Street. The tunnel will be some 60 feet long. And busy North Road, our major north-south thoroughfare, will be spared the additional load of underpass traffic.

Night Flight From Zeta Q

'Doctor, We've An Epidemic Of UFO-Watching Neck Cricks'

Fletcher Davis must have been in a hurry to get outside and stand UFO watch. He spelled Bill McLean's name wrong, and he insisted the art work generally is not up to his usual standard. But, then, Fletcher is his most demanding critic. His point is, South Iredell folks lately are spending a great deal of time with heads thrown back, peering into the night. And they're seeing all sorts of things—or they think they are.

Uncle Dan had his say on flying objects—unidentified and otherwise—the other week. His point was that he is more alarmed about flying frying pans and rolling pins from the direction of his old lady than saucers from another world. But, then, Dan is a confirmed pragmatist; he is a strong believer in what is here and now and real beyond a reasonable doubt. He does not have the 'soul' of a poet. He cannot read into car headlights on a fog bank all the perils of inter-stellar conquest.

It's all probably just as well. People who get cricks in their necks keeping watch by night for heavenly invaders may even be in the majority these days. And, heaven knows, we need a searching, silent, believing majority to see things as we would like them to be. Things as they appear to the pragmatist are not calculated to encourage optimism these days, particularly in Washington, where much is going unidentified that holds far more serious consequences than a mere reconnaissance flight from Zeta Q or some such.

The Idea vs. The Deed

The jury in New Jersey said the man was insane when he sneaked a saved-off shotgun into the hospital and blew off the head of his brother, who was paralyzed from the neck down.

The jury turned the man loose. They said he was crazy then, but not now. The thought of his brother lying there helpless and begging for death drove him insane, but only temporarily, only

Coffin Nail

You nicotine addicts may get away with it for a while, but, like the White Owl people say, "we're gonna getcha." We may getcha with our aromatic tobacco, or we may getcha with our flavorful pine shavings, but, sooner or later, we're gonna getcha.

So, probably, goes the thinking of the surgeon general. Doubtless he is watching Planet with interest. Planet, you know, is the new half-tobacco cigarette now being test-marketed in England. It is 50 per cent tobacco and the rest is a cellulose made from wood pulp.

So who wants to inhale wood pulp? We'll soon learn. In the event smokers take to the concoction, the British surely will look to the always-lucrative American market. And surely there will be something hazardous to our health in the new smokes.

But there is this: We can recycle the butts into, perhaps, a reasonable facsimile of the pine burial box. Then coffin nails will have a literal as well as figurative meaning.

Parson Jones' Pulpit

DEAR MR. PUBLISHER:

Once upon a time a river was born. It was in a beautiful place, twisting in and out among the overhanging trees, running over rocks, sand and clay. It was a good place. The river chose a drop of water to be its leader, and things went well. The river was clear and clean. Fish and frogs lived there because it was a good place to raise a family.

Then something happened. The water became contaminated and the little fish began to die. All the drops of water in the river started to ponder their predicament.

What happened? They argued. They complained. They accused. It's our leadership, they decided. And so, they kicked the leading water-drop out of office and elected a new one.

The river rolled on. The contamination continued and fish continued to die. "We've got another bad leader," cried the river. "Yes, get rid of the bad water drop," they shouted. Once again they changed leadership, and chose another water-drop from their midst.

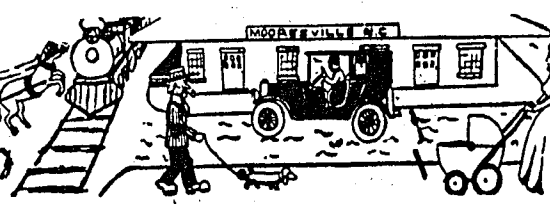

The condition grew worse. A special convention was called to deal with the crisis, and a clamor went up for a change in leadership.

From the river a wise old water drop spoke: "Brother and sister water-drops, we're all wet. We have always assumed that the problem was in the leadership, and so we have always picked a new leader from our midst. The truth is, my friends, that we are all contaminated, and any leader we choose from our midst will be contaminated. We need a leader outside this river."

The story ends. The truth remains: no leadership will be any stronger than the place from which it comes. So as I close, Mr. Publisher, I'd like to say a prayer: "Dear God, we need some uncontaminated leadership, and you're the only uncontaminated one we know. And hurry, we need you now."

Yours Truly,
Parson Jones

YEARS... 24 YEARS AGO

Iredell county will get 45.9 miles of paved roads as the first phase of its share of the $200,000,000 road issue recently passed by North Carolina voters. Mr. Joseph Graham of Iron Station, Ninth Highway Division Commissioner, said today in listing projects for his division. This exceeds by more than three miles the amount of paved construction allotted to any other county in the Ninth Division. Cleveland county is second to Iredell with 41.6.

Of the total mileage allotted at present to this country, 39.6 miles will come from the bond money for rural roads, and 6.3 miles will come from federal aid secondary road money, commissioner Graham disclosed.

Rev. William M. Blakely, pastor of the Mooreville Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church for the past three and a half years, tendered his resignation to the congregation last Sunday morning. The resignation, which becomes effective January 2, was accepted by the local church, and will now be acted upon by the First ARP Presbytery.

Mr. Blakely is leaving the local pastorate in order to accept a call as pastor of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church at Greenville, S. C.

Social Security Administers Supplemental Security Income

In January, 1974, a new Federal program called "Supplemental Security Income" (SSI) will begin to pay cash benefits to improve the financial well being of needy Americans aged 65 or older, or blind, or disabled. This program will be administered by Social Security Offices and applications are now being accepted in the Statesville Social Security office, according to Lewis K. Brewer, manager.

Brewer stated that starting with January, 1974, the "Supplemental Security Income" program will replace Department of Social Services, payments to persons receiving Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Blind, or Aid to the Totally and Permanently Disabled. He stated that the Department of Social Services will continue to administer these programs through December 1973. Persons receiving assistance payments automatically will become enrolled under the new SSI Program beginning in January 1974.

A large number of Iredell County residents, in financial need, aged 65, blind, or disabled, and not now receiving SSI payments are expected to benefit under this new program. The SSI program is designed to assure at least $130 a month for one person and $195 a month for a couple. Starting in July 1974 these amounts will be increased to $140 and $210. A person who is single can have assets worth up to $1,500 and still get the Federal Payments. The amount for a couple living together is $2,250. A home generally does not count as an asset. Assets such as resources that can be converted to cash, earned income and unearned income must be considered in meeting eligibility requirements. Brewer recommended that anyone who thinks they may be eligible for the new Supplemental Security Income Payments or would like additional information to contact Social Security Offices. The SSI cash payments will be made from Court Street in Statesville, or "Tax Revenues", not out of Social Security Trust Funds.

Gotta look that up

Man has a hunger for knowledge. It first shows itself in childhood and prompts incessant questions and exasperating experiments. But it continues all through life. Recently, on discovering something you didn't know, you murmured to yourself, "Gotta look that up."

Upon this basic hunger for knowledge, the Church's program of religious education is planned. That's why we urge parents to foster a Christian atmosphere in the home. It is also why the Church provides religious instruction long before secular education begins. And it accounts for continuing emphasis on youth and young adult activities in many congregations.

We adults haven't outgrown the hunger for knowledge. Most of us recognize that our scientific and material progress points the crucial need for spiritual standards to believe in. God has vital truth to impart to men. The place to look it up is your church.

OFTEN DISCUSSED QUESTION

Is This Time To Plant Roses?

Raise the question of whether to plant roses in the fall or spring at any garden club meeting and you can be sure of introducing an interesting argument. Most authorities agree that spring is the wise planting time in very cold states where a hard winter comes conditions in your yard or garden are probably healthy at the end of a growing season.

And you probably have more time to devote to planting your roses now than at other times of the year when other gardening responsibilities demand your attention. The roots of your rose bushes are never completely dormant, so the ones you plant now will be somewhat established and in place when the next growing season begins.

Roses planted in the fall in any but the mildest winter climates should be covered with a mound of soil until growth begins in the spring. Further specific advice is easily obtained from the great volume of information available from the county agricultural agent or your nursery garden center operator.

Comments from the nursery growers and garden center operators may set your mind at ease. At this time of the year, rose plants are freshly dug at the nursery when they are just going into their rest period—an ideal time for "planting." Soil conditions in your yard or garden are probably healthy at the end of a growing season.

Women Worry About Hips; Bellies Bother Men Most

The size of their hips rather than their breasts worried more women participating in a recent study while men who answered the study found 30 per cent of the men were unhappy about the size of their bellies rather than other parts of their bodies.

The study was conducted by three social psychologists, Elaine Waster of the University of Wisconsin and Ellen Berscheid and George Bohndorf of the University of Minnesota.

Paid on sampling of responses from 62,000 readers of Psychology Today magazine, the study found 30 per cent of the men were unhappy about the size of their bellies while only 15 per cent were concerned about the size of their sexual organs.

Magistrate's Booklets Available In Iredell

The Consumer Protection Division has delivered an estimated 90,000 booklets to Clerks of Superior Court throughout the state explaining how magistrate's courts may be used to settle small claims.

And R. Douglas Kerans, special agent of the Consumer Protection Division, was in Statesville on Thursday to deliver 500 copies of the booklet to Clerk of Court Carl G. Smith.

"This type of distribution should call attention to the fact that the booklets are available—and that they are in the clerks' offices. We hope every North Carolina consumer and business operator will know about the booklet," he said.

Attorney General Robert Morgan, who created the Division in 1969, said: "The Magistrate's Court is the people's court. It is provided as a service of state government, for the use of citizens who wish to have small claims and disputes resolved in court."

Morgan said: "Many North Carolinians occasionally find themselves involved in a disagreement with another citizen. Often, the matter cannot be resolved easily. Each has a point of view, possibly regarding money owed by one to the other, and the positions are clearly in conflict. There may be a matter of principle involved, as well as something of value."

Christmas Trees To Be Displayed

Thirty-two Iredell County Extension Homemakers Clubs are sponsoring a project "Christmas Trees Around the World" at the fellowship hall of the Race Street United Methodist Church in Statesville.

man of the project in the Mooreville area and she said there will be seven trees on display. The trees will be decorated in traditions of other lands.

Dates for the public to attend the display are as follows:

Wednesday, November 28, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.
Thursday, November 29, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.
Friday, November 30, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.
Saturday, December 1, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.
On Thursday evening there will be special Christmas music at 7:30 p.m. There is no charge.

Promotion, Addition At Cist

The Lincoln-ton-headquartered Carolina First National Bank, which has three banking offices in Mooreville, this week announced a promotion within its management, and an addition to the staff.

A. C. Thompson, president of the bank, said James R. Beam has been promoted to marketing officer, and Paul E. Spivey has joined the bank as vice president and operations officer. Both changes were effective November 1.

Beam, who joined Carolina First in 1965, will continue serving as manager of the East Office in Lincoln-ton, Thompson said. His new duties include responsibility for overall marketing functions of the bank, in both advertising and public relations.

Spivey came to Carolina First from First Union National Bank, where he served most recently as operations officer in Lumberton.

Colvard Will Address Farm-City Week Banquet

This announcement was made earlier this week by W. R. Dellinger of Statesville, chairman of the Iredell County Farm-City Week committee.

CHARLES COLVARD
Banquet Speaker

Winners of the Farm-City Week poster contest will be announced at the meeting and outstanding farmers will be recognized, according to Dellinger.

The Farmers Cooperative Council of North Carolina, of which Colvard is secretary is made up of almost 100 farmer and rural cooperatives in the state.

Colvard has been active in many youth programs and heads up the council's public relations activities.

In addition to serving as secretary of the Farmers Cooperative Council of North Carolina, Colvard is manager of the North Carolina Milk Producers Federation.

Local Golfers Winners In Statesville Tourney

Statesville's Lakewood Golf Club has staged its first annual Fall Classic and the best-ball event was won by the team of Gary McNeely and Mike McCrory, both of Statesville.

Basketball Registration Underway

Registration for minor, midlevel and junior league basketball will begin today (Thursday) at the War Memorial.

Any boy between 8 and 15, who is interested in playing, is urged to come by the War Memorial and register. Each boy must present his birth certificate and $3 for insurance, carried over from the previous season's basketball or football season.

This basketball activity is being sponsored by the Mooreville Recreation Department.

Other winners included Chuck Byrd and Mike Ray, both of Mooreville, in the first flight; Joe Cresimore and Rick Lowman, both of Statesville, in the second flight; and Kim Freeman and Erskine Smith, both of Mooreville, in the third flight.

Runnersup were Clarence Woodward and John McNeely, Jr., both of Statesville, in the first flight; Frank White and Alan Ketchie, both of Mooreville, in the second flight; and Allen Payne and Ernie Lambert, both of Statesville, in the third flight.

Alex Bell of Statesville was the closest-to-the-pin award winner.

Turman Top Winner In Grid Contest

W. W. Turman of Mooreville, route 5, and Fay Cook of 362 Wedgewood Drive, Mooreville, had nine correct guesses out of a possible 12 in the football contest being sponsored during the season by Mooreville merchants and the Mooreville Tribune.

Therefore, the total score of the tie-breaking game, Mooreville versus North Rowan, was used in determining the first and second place winners. Total points scored in this game were 35. Therefore, Turman, who guessed the total score at 34 points, was the first-place winner of the $7 prize, while Mrs. Cook captured the second-place award of $4. She said 40 points would be scored in the Mooreville-North Rowan tilt.

Milton McAlister of Troutman, route 1, with eight correct guesses out of a possible 12, took the third-place award of $3. Fourteen other contestants also had eight correct guesses out of a possible 12 but they were off more than McAlister on their guesses of the total score of the tie-breaking contest. He guessed 34 points.

A. W. Matheny of Patterson Avenue guessed the exact score of the Mooreville-North Rowan game—21-14, in favor of Mooreville.

Matheny will receive a can of STP from Wilson Auto Parts, a free pass to the State Theatre, four tires balanced and rotated at Brothers Tire Sales, and a $5 gift certificate from Macks Variety Store.

Mooreville-Davie County Battle For Right To Advance In Playoffs

The Mooreville Blue Devils head into post-season playoff activity for the second year in a row Friday as they travel to Mocksville for a rematch with the Davie County War Eagles.

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. when the Devils will try to avenge their only conference loss of the season administered by Davie County on Oct. 12. The War Eagles finished second to the Blue Devils in the overall North Piedmont Conference standings but won the Division Two race with a 6-1 record. Mooreville defeated North Rowan 21-14 last week to win Division One and the conference championship with a 7-1 league mark.

Davie's loss came at the hands of North Rowan while the tie with North Iredell knocked the War Eagles out of the conference championship picture. Mooreville has won four in a row on its way to the playoffs since the loss to Davie County. A key factor in the recent success is the Devil defense.

After yielding 124 points in the first seven games, coach Gary Karriker's defensive unit coached by assistant Roy Thompson has given up only 21 points in the last three contests. The defensive unit will be put to the test again against the War Eagles after successfully halting the North Rowan offensive machine that featured the conference's leading rusher and scorer, Jimmy Hoggins.

The challenge that the War Eagles present is a good running game complimented by a strong passing attack. Davie amassed 341 yards total offense against Mooreville in their first meeting. Quarterback Tom Eanes completed 12 of 16 passes for 191 of the total yards.

Aiding the Blue Devils' improved defensive unit will be an offensive unit that features two 1,000-yard-plus ground gainers and an improving passing attack.

David Mullis has 1,244 yards for the season and Johnny Walker has 1,160 yards. Interior linemen paving the way are Rick Mack at center, Ronald Armstrong and Dale Brawley at guards, and Len Mackey and Frank Craven at tackles.

The appearance of the Blue

Devils in post season play this year will be the seventh trip for Mooreville in 13 years. The Devils won the WNCCHSAA crown in 1961 and was runnerup to Shelby last year in the finals. This will be Davie County's first playoff bid since 1965 when the War Eagles lost to Asheboro of the South Piedmont Conference.

A calendar of activities at the War Memorial and the West End Center has been released by a spokesman for the Mooreville Recreation Department.

Vikings Top North Iredell, 20-0, In NPC Grid Battle

Leading by a mere seven points going into the fourth quarter, South Iredell's Vikings scored two touchdowns in the last seven minutes of the game to down North Iredell, 20-0, in a North Piedmont Conference football game at South Iredell Friday night.

The victory gave South Iredell second place in the Division II standings of the North Piedmont Conference, just behind Davie County. The Vikings finished 4-4 in the conference and 4-6 overall, while North Iredell finished 2-5-1 in the conference and 2-7-1 overall. It was the last game of the 1973 season for both teams.

Fullbacks Curtis Sloan and Paul Haughton paced the winners, combining for 211 yards rushing. Sloan had 110 yards in eight carries, while Haughton had 101 yards in eight carries.

Sloan scored two of South Iredell's three touchdowns on a 56-yard jaunt, while Haughton scored on a 45-yard romp.

During the game South Iredell placed the advantage of every mistake and there were quite a few—made by the visiting North Iredell Raiders.

The Vikings recovered four of North Iredell's fumbles and intercepted two Raider passes. The biggest key in the win, perhaps, was the punting of South Iredell's Billy Benfield. He booted the ball nine times, averaging 35.4 yards per kick.

The Vikings stopped North Iredell's Robert Patterson in his tracks. Patterson, who already had passed the 1,000-yard mark for the season, was held to a net of 14 yards on 12 carries Friday night.

North Iredell launched its best drive of the entire game late in the first period, moving the ball from its own 44 to the Viking 11 before losing a fumble to South Iredell.

Early in the second quarter, North Iredell again lost the ball on a fumble at South Iredell's 31-yard line. Larry Nichols recovered for South Iredell. Six plays later Curtis Sloan scored the Vikings' first touchdown of the game on a five-yard run.

Bob Harris booted the extra point to put the Vikings ahead, 7-0.

Blue Devils Win 2nd Straight NPC Crown With 21-14 Victory

The Mooresville Blue Devils battle Davie County this Friday night in the first round of the WNCSSAA playoffs. The Devils won the privilege of a berth in the playoffs by handing the North Rowan Cavaliers their second loss of the season Friday night at the Cavalier homeground by the score of 21-14.

For the past three years, these two teams have faced each other for the conference title. Mooresville has ousted the Cavaliers three years in succession.

Mooresville, whose record is seven wins and one loss, is the North Piedmont champion. In the battle with North Rowan to determine the conference champion, senior bullback David Mullis led the Devil attack in rushing and scoring. Mullis rushed for 163 total yards, and tallied 15 of the team's 21 points. Mullis' running partner, senior flashback Johnny Walker, accounted for 110 rushing yards and added six points.

On the defensive side for Mooresville, Brian Duckworth led the way. Duckworth recovered two miscues and, alone, tackled the opposing runners six times. Cress Alexander had five tackles during the course of the night. Jimmy McIntosh and Charles Turner tackled the opposition three times apiece.

In action against North, the cold weather was an important factor. The game was full of turnovers attributed to numb fingers. The first quarter was the most of the turnovers appeared. Brian Duckworth recovered the first miscue of the night for Mooresville. With just 36 seconds gone, the Devil attack in rushing and scoring. Mullis rushed for 163 total yards, and tallied 15 of the team's 21 points. Mullis' running partner, senior flashback Johnny Walker, accounted for 110 rushing yards and added six points.

On the fifth play for the Cavaliers, North quarterback Randy Hutchins threw behind the line to Jeremiah Jones. The ball was considered a fumble when the ball hit the ground before it could reach Jones. Heads up play by Duckworth recovered the ball for the Devils and returned it to the Cavalier 38.

On the fifth play for Mooresville, Walker was unable to find the handle and Cavalier Bob Stevenson recovered the loose ball. North was unable to get an opening in the Devil defense and was forced to punt.

Mooresville took the ball after the punt and preceded the first score of the night. The six-play drive was highlighted by a 15-yard pass from Bob Craig to recovery of a Walker fumble by Butch Graham, Randy Hutchins plowed over from the one to get the score. Geter's kick was good to tie the score with 3:31 remaining in the first half.

The Cavaliers' loss was the third at home in four years, two of the defeats were to Mooresville.

The third period was scoreless. The defense of Mooresville had the power to stop North the rest of the night. During the third and fourth periods, standouts in defense were, Brian Duckworth, Tony Hager, Johnny Walker and Cress Alexander. The backfield of Mooresville, defense-wise, was also an important factor. Key Everhardt and Charles Turner were the main ones to keep the North ends from the ball.

The final score of the night came after Mooresville received a Cavalier punt. In the drive, which originated at the 20, Mullis was the head knocker. Mullis carried on eight of 12 plays in the drive. With 2:23 remaining, Mullis put the locals ahead for good. Mullis bucked for the four yards and the TD, and his kick was good.

Interesting Bits Of Information About NPC, SPC Grid Playoffs

The South Piedmont Conference playoffs are slated Friday night with Salisbury Hornets meeting Thomasville Bulldogs at Thomasville, and it marks the fourth time in five years that one of the two schools has been in the playoffs. The Coach Pete Stout's Hornets are making their third playoff appearance in four years. Salisbury was the western North Carolina High School Activities Association co-champion in 1971 and runnerup in 1970.

Thomasville appeared in the playoffs in 1966 and 1972. The Bulldogs were runnerup in 1968, but fell to Statesville last year in the SPC playoff battle. Thomasville won the WNCSSAA crown with its powerful 1964 team.

Thomasville, coached by Allen Brown, won the SPC championship this season with a 7-0-1 mark. Salisbury finished second at 6-1-1. Both teams were 9-1-1. They finished in a 14-14 deadlock in their regular season meeting at Salisbury. Thomasville is the home team for the playoff game because Salisbury was at home for the regular-season clash.

Thomasville won the conference championship by topping Lexington, 28-19, on Friday. Salisbury finished its slate with a 13-6 victory over lowly Asheboro.

The Thomasville-Salisbury winner will advance to the Piedmont bi-conference finals against the North Piedmont Conference playoff winner, either Mooresville or Davie County, who play at Mocksville.

Coach Bill Peeler's Davie County War Eagles qualified for the playoffs by winning the Division Two race in the NPC. Davie was 8-1 overall and 6-1-1 in the conference.

in the conference, finishing second in the overall standings behind Mooresville. Mooresville, coached by Gary Karriker, won the conference championship by defeating North Rowan, 21-14, on Friday. Mooresville and North entered that game in a tie for the conference lead and the Division One lead. Mooresville was 8-2 in the regular season and 7-1 in the conference.

In the regular season meeting, Davie defeated Mooresville by 27-14. Mooresville bounced back with four straight victories to win the conference crown.

Mooresville has been a frequent visitor to the playoffs. The Blue Devils won the Western North Carolina High School Activities Association crown in 1961, and advanced to the finals last year before being downed by Shelby in the associationals finals.

Mooresville also was in the playoffs in 1960, 1964, 1966 and 1968, so this is the seventh playoff trip for the Blue Devils in 13 years.

Davie County's last time in the playoffs was 1963, when the War Eagles were 10-0 in the regular season. Asheboro topped Davie in the Piedmont bi-conference finals.

The winners of Friday night's games will advance to the bi-conference finals on November 16. The Piedmont champion will advance to the WNCSSAA finals on November 23, meeting a team from either the Northwestern or Southwestern Conference.

Lenoir will play Watauga at Appalachian State University in Boone tomorrow (Friday) night for the playoff championship of the Northwestern Conference, while South Point and Crest will

At Noon Tuesday, Town's Yule Parade Was Ready To Roll

At noon Tuesday, when this issue of the Mooreville Tribune went to press, 24 hours earlier than usual due to the approaching Thanksgiving holiday, everything was in readiness for Mooreville's annual Christmas parade. The Mooreville Jaycee-sponsored parade was set to start moving at 4 p.m. At noon, Santa Claus, according to parade chairman Jim Causby, was enroute to Mooreville from his home at the North Pole to participate in the parade.

The floats—22 of them professionally built—were assembling on North Main Street and McNelly, Stewart and Culp Avenues, and the pretty girls—princesses and queens and others who are to ride on the floats—were at home getting dressed for the seasonal pageant. And, with the weatherman predicting partly cloudy skies, no rain, and temperatures in the mid-60's, thousands of spectators were expected to line the mile and half parade route along Main Street, from the Port City Shopping Center, southward to the parking lot of Southside Baptist Church.

The 125-unit seasonal pageant marks the official opening of the town's Yule shopping season. It is made possible annually by the wholehearted cooperation of local business houses, industrial plants and individuals. Eighteen bands will be in the parade, including local and out-of-town units.

Bands scheduled to participate in the festival are: Mooreville Senior High, Mooreville Junior High, Bands High, Maiden High, Saint Stephens High, Crest High, West Wilkes High, and North Gaston High.

And, Southern Guilford High, Ledford High, Independence High, Ragdale High, South Iredell High, Bunker Hill High, North Carolina A & T University, Salisbury Senior Citizens, West Mecklenburg High, and West Rowan High.

Among beauty queens and princesses in attendance will be Miss North Carolina, Heather Lee Walker of Hendersonville and the 1973 Carolina Dogwood Queen, Terri Nicks of Statesville. Other queens and princesses expected are: Davie County High's Homecoming Queen, Miss Statesville, Saint Stephens High's Queen, North Iredell High's Queen, Olympic High's Queen, North Mecklenburg High's Queen, Bunker Hill High's Homecoming Queen and Miss Bunker Hill High.

And, Statesville High's Miss Merry Christmas, and three beauty queens from Mooreville — Carrousel Princess, Senior High's Homecoming Queen and Mooreville's Centennial Queen.

Ty Boyd, well-known WBTV personality, will serve as the parade's grand marshal, riding in the lead car, directly behind the color guard from the Mooreville unit of the North Carolina National Guard. In addition to Mooreville

Use Of Lights Curtailed

Mooreville's downtown won't be as bright for as long as night during this Christmas holiday season.

The Merchants Association directors have decided to curtail the Christmas lighting schedule in the interest of conserving electricity.

In years past, the decorative lighting downtown glowed nightly from 5:30 until 2 a.m. from the day of the Christmas parade until January 1. Here is the schedule for this season:

The lights were turned on for the parade Tuesday, and they remained on until 9 p.m. This Friday and Saturday, the lights will be on from 6 p.m. until 9 p.m. On the following weekend, November 30-December 1, the lights will glow from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m.

Beginning December 12, the lights will be turned on daily from 6 p.m. until 9 p.m. through Christmas Day.

Iredell School Board Studies Problems

The Iredell County Board of Education in session last week attempted to solve the comparability problems of the schools of the county system and the resulting loss of $140,000 in federal funds.

This problem of unequal distribution of county funds among elementary schools would result in the closing of the special reading program and three kindergartens with the loss of the federal money.

The board voted to close the reading program and retain the three kindergarten programs, which has 75 children enrolled and involves three teachers and three aides.

To maintain the kindergarten program, the board will spend "around $25,000," according to Supt. W. T. Poston. The county hopes to receive $7,000 in state school funds to supplement the

Community Chorus Schedules Concert

The Mooreville Area Community Chorus, under the direction of Robert O. Klepper and accompanied by Mrs. John Blackwell, will present a concert on Friday, November 30, at 8 p.m. in the Roland R. Morgan auditorium at Mooreville Senior High School.

The Mooreville Area Community Chorus has grown out of a small group of persons, interested in singing, who for many years got together every other year to present portions of the great oratorio by George F. Handel, "Messiah."

The desire to sing together more often and to sing different types of music brought about the development of the group into a Community Chorus.

First, plans were to practice once or twice a month, but this still did not answer the need and so last year a permanent organization was formed with the express desire to practice one night per week and to present more than one program during the year.

Many persons attending the organization's annual fall concert last year were disappointed not to hear more Christmas music and so the concert this year will be largely made up of Christmas music, including sacred selections, secular carols, popular songs and the always delightful arrangement of "Twelve Days Before Christmas" that has been featured by Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians.

Dorothy Bultman will sing "Gesu Bambino" by Pietro Yon and Ron Mercer will be the soloist for "Sheep May Safely Graze." Delores Mack will be featured as soloist in one of the choral selections based on a traditional French carol titled: "Hail, Mid The Ass And Oxen, Mid," and Roy Watkins will be tenor soloist in the final number: "Twelve Days Before Christmas."

An ambulance was called and Walls was taken to Lowrance Hospital, but almost immediately he died.

10-Year-Old Youth Critically Injured In Freak Bike Mishap

A 10-year-old fourth grade student at South Elementary School, remaining in critical condition in Charlotte Memorial Hospital Tuesday, suffering from head injuries sustained in a freak bicycle accident in Willow Valley Cemetery on Wednesday afternoon of last week.

Robert Dean Walls, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell G. Myers of 465 South Alexander Street, Mooreville, sustained the injuries as he and a classmate, Charles Hinson, were riding Walls' bike in the cemetery after having left the nearby school for their homes.

As the bike moved downhill, it struck a foot marker to a grave and this sent the bike airborne and pitched Walls into the air. The left side of his face struck the edge of a large granite tombstone and, knocked unconscious, he fell to the ground.

The impact was enough to topple the tombstone and it fell on Walls' head.

Hinson, son of Grover Hinson of the Oaks Trailer Park on the corner of East Wilson Avenue and South Church Street, was thrown clear of the tombstone and escaped injury, except for minor abrasions and bruises.

At the time of the tragedy, according to Mooreville Police Lt. Frank Upright, the investigating officer, Hinson was sitting on the bike's saddle, while Walls was in front of Hinson, "walking the bike's pedals," and the two were riding toward a passing car. Two men in the car rushed into the cemetery and lifted the stone from the youth's face.

An ambulance was called and Walls was taken to Lowrance Hospital, but almost immediately he died.

Mute Evidence Of Mid-Afternoon Tragedy

LINDA SUE BRIGGS
Succeeds Mrs. Nancy Murray

Linda Sue Briggs Joins Area Extension Service

Linda Sue Briggs will assume her work as a home economics extension agent in Iredell County, with 4-H as her field of work, effective December 17, it was announced today by Alvin Stanford, county extension chairman.

Miss Briggs will come to Iredell as a successor to Mrs. Nancy Murray, who resigned her work in Iredell in order to accept home economics extension work in Catawba County.

A native of Madison County, Miss Briggs was born on the farm and graduated from Marshall Hill School and Mars Hill College in the summer of 1970, with a bachelor of science degree in home economics education.

Since her graduation, she has been employed by the North Carolina Extension Service in Jackson County, with headquarters in Sylva, as agent in charge of 4-H Club work and clothing.

Miss Briggs was a 4-H Club member and, during the past years, she was employed by the ASCA office and in various youth programs in camp and craft work. Since she has been in 4-H Club work, she has mobilized adult leaders for the 4-H program and summer activities. Miss Briggs is single and a Baptist.

Per once, Mister Editor, the fellers didn't get no static from their old ladies about spending Saturday night at the country store. Zeke Grubb said his old lady actual suggested they have supper the first Monday he wouldn't miss what she called the opening ceremony of the session. That's how Zeke knew it was close to Thanksgiving.

It never fails to amaze him, Zeke told the fellers, that his old lady got it started on the Thanksgiving cooking a full week ahead, and still be late getting dinner on the table Thanksgiving day. If they was to move Thanksgiving up to Monday, like some of the other holidays, Zeke figured he wouldn't get nothing left to eat the first Monday Thanksgiving cause it would take his old lady a year to work out a new schedule.

And Zeke was able to report on why the other wives was so eager for the fellers to get from under foot. He said his preacher was pushing for a community Thanksgiving service and supper at the church, and all the women around the neighborhood was to fix the food. What was happening, Zeke allowed, is that all the women is getting together to plan what they're going to fix, and Saturday night was their first planning session.

Glen Webster said he was in favor of the eating for whatever reason. He was of the mind that some of the best eating a man can get in this world is good,

Uncle Dan From Doolie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

He said his old lady even makes a special biscuit for church suppers, and she calls em angel biscuits. When all the women work on different dishes and breads and goodies to bring, Clem said if they was any better feed to be had the Good Lord is keeping it for Himself.

General speaking, Mister Editor, the fellers was in a meller mood Saturday night, and it was more than looking to the Thanksgiving supper at the church. It was to be Thanksgiving. They complain about anything and everything, but they are quick to admit they got a heap to be thankful for.

This issue will offer to the buying public of Mooreville and its trading area a complete guide to holiday buying.

Mooreville merchants have shopped far and wide, and early, too, for the Christmas trade. Their stores are filled with a wide variety of Yule merchandise that has the best prices available anywhere, and at the very best quality, too.

Watch for this special edition of the Mooreville Tribune. Examine it carefully, and patronize the hometown folks first.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

Mooresville Garden Club Has Fascinating Program On Art Of Japanese Flower Arranging

Mrs. Roger Little, of Mat, a teacher and lecturer of the Ikenobo School of Ikebana, presented one of the most fascinating programs on Ikebana, the art of Japanese flower arranging, at the monthly meeting of the Mooresville Garden Club on Thursday morning.

The Japanese rules for Ikebana are to be learned by guidelines and after learning these rules, you do not have to adhere strictly to them.

The art of Ikebana is moving with the times and Mrs. Little stressed this point. If you study Japanese flower arranging, learn the Japanese words shin, soe and tai. The American words usually used for these are sun, earth and man.

In making an arrangement, the Japanese use an uneven number of kinds of plant material, because to them, odd numbers mean good luck and even numbers mean bad luck.

Perry Couple To Celebrate Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Everett C. Perry, of Statesville, route 7, will be honored at a golden anniversary reception on November 25, from 2 until 5 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the Church of God in Troutman.

The reception will be hosted by the couple's children: Mrs. Norman Grankham of Bennett, Colo.; Rev. Albert C. Perry of Greensboro; Rev. Ernest Perry of Pineola; Mrs. Dwight P. McDaniels, Ralph B. Perry and Kenneth Perry, all of Statesville.

No formal invitations are being issued but all relatives and friends are invited to attend.

Harold Cashon is spending the Thanksgiving holidays in Fort Worth, Texas, visiting his son and daughter-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. James Harold Cashon, Jr., and his grandson, James Harold Cashon, III.

The Japanese have the same type of plants as we do and appearing in many of their arrangements is the chrysanthemum, which is the national flower of Japan.

"The purpose of arranging flowers is to make the flowers come alive," Mrs. Little said. "The Japanese try to improve on nature and their culture is much more attuned to nature than is ours."

Ikebana dates back to the sixth century when Buddhists monks arranged flowers to be placed before Buddha. In her arrangements, Mrs. Little traced the history of Ikebana, beginning with the earliest arrangement, Rikka, which is more than a style of Ikebana, it is a teacher of patience, a way to commune with nature and a method of becoming familiar with its history and language of Japan. It has very strict rules and regulations. The mechanics, knowing where to place each piece of material and how each piece should be shaped are the secret to the arranging.

Mrs. Little made arrangements representing several different styles which included the Rikka, the Nagare and the Shoka.

One Rikka arrangement depicted a mountain scene with mountains near and far, a waterfall, the town where people live and a river flowing to the sea. "In Japan, you can see that many kinds of landscape at one time," she said.

A Rikka arrangement is generally created to fit in the Tokonoma, an alcove in the living room of a Japanese home.

The arrangement was in a heavy bronze container 250 years old that she had gotten in Kyoto. Mrs. Little displayed many containers, emphasizing that containers are important and a different type is used for different kinds of arrangements.

Along with her explanations of each arrangement were bits of information about the Japanese way of life.

Mrs. Little was introduced to the club members and the local and out of town guests by Mrs. W. L. Pressly. Mrs. Little lived in Japan for one and one half years and has made two return trips to Japan. On one of the return trips in 1968, she concentrated on Ikebana study for three weeks. During that time she had private lessons at the Rokkakudo Temple in Kyoto where only Ikenobo teachers are allowed to study. The Japanese were amazed at the interest Mrs. Little showed in wanting to learn their art of flower arranging.

In addition to being a teacher and lecturer, Mrs. Little is a past president of the Charlotte Chapter No. 48, Ikenobo International and she is an exhibitor at the Mint Museum of Art in Charlotte. She is also a practicing landscape designer and contractor in North and South Carolina and a housewife and mother of three children.

Mrs. Allan Eakle, president of the Mooresville Garden Club, conducted a short business session at which time reports from the various committees were heard. Mrs. Richard Doughton reported plans were underway for a court at the Lowrance Hospital to be planted in the spring and the club also voted to suspend the annual Christmas lighting contest due to the energy crisis.

The club also has straw flower pictures for sale and these can be obtained from any member of the club. Again this year the members will make wreaths for the VA Hospital in Salisbury and favors to be placed on the trays at the local hospital.

A luncheon followed the meeting with Mrs. Evelyn McCully as hostess at her Lake Norman home.

Attending the luncheon were Mrs. Roger Little, Mrs. W. L. Pressly, Mrs. H. W. Rogers, Jr., Mrs. A. Rikka, Mrs. J. E. Smith, Mrs. Jason Westmoreland, Mrs. John Shinn and Mrs. Gene Deaton.

Mrs. Roger Little, of Matthews, a teacher and lecturer of the Ikenobo School of Ikebana, presented the monthly program of the Mooresville Garden Club on Thursday morning at the War Memorial. Mrs. Little demonstrated the art of Ikebana by making a number of Japanese flower arrangements. She is pictured above as she makes a Nagare arrangement of branches and chrysanthemums, which is the national flower of Japan.

Among these were the McDowell, the Post, the Perkins and Bellevue homes of the James and Margaret Locke Phipps Erwin.

Mrs. Lambert was in charge of the program Home Beautification and she introduced the speaker Mr. Alvin M. Stanford the county extension chairman. He gave a most interesting talk on landscaping. He showed color slides to illustrate focal points for certain types of shrubbery. He brought out that it would be well to plan your lawns making suitable selection of the location for certain trees and shrubs before building the home. He also pointed out that in some areas it was well to plant in groups the taller shrubs in the rear using lower types for the front. He also gave instructions as to the care of various shrubs mentioning azaleas could be planted in partial shade, and during dry seasons should be kept watered. Mrs. Bert Cornelius had the devotional using the 103rd Psalm concluding with prayer. The group joined in singing "America the Beautiful." The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and the roll was called with 18 members present and one visitor, Miss Sylvia White. Mrs. Walter Goodman, conducted a short business meeting, reading an announcement, urging all members to attend Achievement Day to be held at the Race Street Methodist Church in Statesville, November 27. She also told of a program that is in the planning stage. It is a series of studies that the clubs of Iredell County can select to be conducted in their clubs by competent leaders of Iredell County. Among those that will be given is "The Meaning of America" and another is of the history of Iredell County Schools, and many other interesting subjects are listed, also.

Mrs. Faw asked for project leaders to report Mrs. Lester Boyd, on Family Life. She said that co-operation with each other in a family would strengthen a family union. Mrs. Robert Day reported on citizenship, urging everyone to comply with our presidents wishes in conserving the various energies. Mrs. George Brown reported on food. She passed out literature on the proper way to preserve cooked food.

Mrs. M. F. Crouch, beautification leader, gave the program "Make Yours a Blue Ribbon Home." The home is where the heart is and it should reflect love to all members of the family. The home is a sanctuary and though it be a very humble home it should be a place where every family member is comfortable and compatible. She told us that we should feel and show our thankfulness for the beauty around us, not only in our home but for nature's beauty which abounds us. Being homemakers is a high calling and we should all strive to do our best to improve at the same time be grateful for all our blessings. It was a well given program and was enjoyed by everyone.

The meeting was adjourned by repeating the club collect as the benediction.

The hostess served a delicious frozen fruit salad course during the social hour.

The December meeting will be a luncheon at the Elks Club on December 12, at 12:30 p.m.

Shepherd Community News Briefs

By MRS. H. A. POSTON

The lovely flowers on the altar at Vanderburg United Methodist Church Sunday were furnished by the daughters of Mrs. W. E. Alexander in her honor.

Some 15 young people of the MTF went to Salisbury Sunday to see the Billy Graham movie, "Time To Run."

Mrs. Philip Coleman of this community and Mrs. Frank Moore of Mooresville spent Saturday in Charlotte.

Mrs. Paul Poston of Mooresville visited Mrs. H. A. Poston Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira K. Day were in Statesville Thursday and visited Mrs. Sam Gaither.

Mass Written By Shafer Premieres

A solemn high requiem mass written by Robert Shafer, grandson of Mrs. R. A. Sloop of Mooresville, was celebrated early this month in a Washington, D.C. cathedral. Shafer lives in Vienna, Va. near Washington.

The service was the world premiere of the work that was acclaimed by Washington area critics. The mass was introduced at the Church of the Ascension and Saint Agnes.

Shafer, who is director of choral music at Madison High School in Vienna, used members of his nationally-known Madison chorus in performing his composition. Shafer composed the mass last summer under the guidance of Nadia Boulanger at Fontainebleau, France.

Wendell Margrave, a Washington Star-News critic, had this to say about the first performance of Shafer's work: "The music was contemporary, not excessively dissonant, and employed few of the choral tricks we have come to expect in much current writing for choir. The counterpoint was fluent and completely written, and the whole work seemed to me to be devout, but surcharged with emotion. The performance was immaculate in intonation, in diction and in choral discipline."

"It strikes me as a useful work, not only in its setting as a part of the grandeur and solemn pageantry of the Roman mass, but also as a separate choral work, in the way that masses of Palestrina and others are often presented. It would be equally suitable for a choir of men and boys."

Mrs. Creswell was the widow of W. T. Creswell, who died March 11, 1963.

A native of Greenville, S. C., Mrs. Creswell was born on June 6, 1907, a daughter of the late Lane and Susan Painter Bradley. She had lived in the Mooresville area for many years.

Mrs. Creswell was a member of Mooresville's Fieldstone Presbyterian Church.

Survivors include: one son, M. (Jack) Wooten of Mooresville, route 1; and one brother, Mack Bradley of Charlotte.

Funeral services for Mrs. Creswell will be conducted at 3 p.m. Wednesday (November 21) at the Fieldstone Presbyterian Church, with the pastor, the Rev. Richard Newkirk, officiating. Burial will be in Willow Valley cemetery.

In lieu of flowers, memorial may be sent to the building fund of the Fieldstone Presbyterian Church.

local money. C. H. Lindler, assistant superintendent, said it was "expanding the possibilities" of the five teachers in the special reading program will be given other assignments within the system.

"I think this board would be reluctant to go into any more federal programs unless we can be sure it would be properly funded," said Board Chairman Kenneth Wooten.

Iredell County was one of the last county school systems in North Carolina to join the Federal Title I program and the first county to be removed from the program.

The board approved a resolution calling for the immediate annexation of land, scheduled to be annexed by Statesville in the next five years. The rapid annexation was urged so the city and county school systems "could effect a smooth transfer" of students and make long-range plans.

The board of Governors last Friday approved the AHEC program, which would cost about $50 million to implement, but rejected a bid by ECU supporters to fund a four-year medical school at Greensville.

Homemakers

will be on display. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Cregg Bess, president of the Southwestern District of Extension Homemakers Clubs.

The Extension Homemakers Clubs' Christmas music with narration to give its origins. Outstanding Homemakers Clubs of the county as well as outstanding individual club members will be recognized at the meeting.

Funeral services for Dr. Trivette were conducted at 3 p.m. Tuesday at the First Presbyterian Church, with the pastor, the Rev. S. Edwin Lewis, officiating. Burial was in Glenwood Memorial Park cemetery.

mediately he was transferred to the Charlotte hospital. There, surgery was performed by Dr. Bob W. Bravley, a Charlotte surgeon, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Pressley Bravley, Sr., of the Mooreville area.

A hospital spokesman said the youth suffered a skull fracture and a rather severe brain injury. The bone just under his left eye was fractured, the hospital spokesman continued, causing an injury to that eye.

Although the youth's condition was still listed as critical Tuesday morning, he is reported to be showing signs of improvement, it was reported.

Courses

evenings, beginning December 3. Registration is possible by attending the first class as scheduled. Registration fee is $3.00 per course and social security numbers are needed for enrollment purposes.

ECU

January. Huskins said he believed the report would "recommend expanding the East Carolina medical school to the two-year level, and enlarging the entering class from 20 to 30 to 40 as rapidly as it could be implemented."

"It would also recommend adequate funding, including construction of a basic science building and an increased operating budget," Huskins said.

Huskins said the expanded ECU program and the proposed development of a comparability education center in Greenville "would give us in Greenville the equivalent of a full-fledged medical school."

The area education centers (AHECs) will provide clinical training for medical students in their third and fourth years of study, on a rotating basis, and residence training positions for the advanced students.

The state Board of Governors last Friday approved the AHEC program, which would cost about $50 million to implement, but rejected a bid by ECU supporters to fund a four-year medical school at Greensville.

A THANKSGIVING OFFERING

Up With America

Thanksgiving. For what? For life, certainly. For liberty, although its definition is becoming more relative, and, if not for happiness, at least for the liberty to pursue happiness, however elusive.

This wonderful, wacky country of ours—these disjointed United States—is not shooting or being shot at this Thanksgiving. That's something.

Depending on our mood, we can go down the list of positive points, or we can use this uniquely American holiday as occasion to lament the loss of all the values and virtues that we associate with the first Thanksgiving.

If the 200 million-plus polyglot of people that is America agree on anything these days, it is that we're in some kind of a fix. We're running out of everything, including trustworthy public servants at the highest level. Our place in world affairs apparently has passed its zenith. A strong case can be made for the claim that we, as the world's oldest and most dramatic experiment in government by the governed, are collapsing of our own weight.

There are those, however, who insist reports of America's imminent demise are greatly exaggerated. One of these is Canadian radio and television commentator Gordon Sinclair. Some weeks ago, he broadcast in Toronto what is a rarity in the world today—a pro-America editorial. It has been reprinted in dozens of newspapers and in the Congressional Record. We are lifting it from U. S. News & World Report, and we would like you to read it as part of your Thanksgiving observance.

This Canadian thinks it is time to speak up for the Americans as the most generous and possibly the least appreciated people on all the earth.

Germany, Japan and, to a lesser extent, Britain and Italy were lifted out of the debris of war by the Americans who poured in billions of dollars and forgave other billions in debts. None of these countries is today paying even the interest on its remaining debts to the United States.

When the franc was in danger of collapsing in 1956, it was the Americans who propped it up, and their reward was to be insulted and swindled on the streets of Paris.

Security For The Over-Colleged

Losing confidence in your federal government, you say?

Well, yes, as a government, but not as an employer.

The Civil Service Commission says that for every vacancy it has, there are a dozen qualified college-trained applicants.

We're sure any work can be challenging and rewarding, but it does make us uneasy that so many of our capable young people opt for the security of the federal payroll. We do not call this a cop-out, on their capabilities, but we wonder why they elect not to take the risks inherent in the private sector of our economy.

We can take temporary comfort in the knowledge that the dozen young people asking for each berth on the federal roster still constitutes a minority. Although the Civil Service says its 12-to-1 ratio of applicants to jobs is a near record, there still are more of us out here than in their living off what is extracted from us.

I was there. I saw it.

When distant cities are hit by earthquakes, it is the United States that hurries in to help. This spring, 59 American communities were flattened by tornadoes. Nobody helped.

The Marshall Plan and the Truman Policy pumped billions upon billions of dollars into discouraged countries. Now newspapers in those countries are writing about the decadent, war-mongering Americans.

I'd like to see just one of those countries that is gloating over the erosion of the United States dollar build its own airplanes.

Come on, let's hear it! Does any other country in the world have a plane to equal the Boeing Jumbo Jet, the Lockheed Tristar or the Douglas 10?

You talk about American technocracy, and you find men on the moon—not once but several times—and safely home again.

You talk about scandals, and the Americans put theirs right in the store window for everybody to look at.

Even their draft-dodgers are not pursued and hounded. They are here on our streets, and most of them—unless they are breaking Canadian laws—are getting American dollars from Ma and Pa at home to spend here.

When the railways of France, Germany and India were breaking down through age, it was the Americans who rebuilt them. When the Pennsylvania Railroad and the New York Central went broke, nobody loaned them an old caboose. Both are still broke.

I can name you 5,000 times when the Americans raced to the help of other people in trouble. Can you name me even one time when someone else raced to the Americans in trouble?

I don't think there was outside help even during the San Francisco earthquake.

Our neighbors have faced it alone, and I'm one Canadian who is damned tired of hearing them kicked around. They will come out of this thing with their flag high. And when they do, they are entitled to thumb their nose at the lands that are gloating over their present troubles.

I hope Canada is not one of these.

DEAR MR. PUBLISHER:

Another Thanksgiving has come around and for that I'm thankful. I hear some folks grumble about the problems in the world you would think there's nothing left to be thankful for. But these people are suffering from caters of greed that have formed over their eyeballs from having too much. When they'll only be able to get five gallons of gas a week, they'll be thankful for that.

This Thanksgiving season I want to pause to give thanks. I thank God that, even with sin trouble, I can still smell the turkey baking in the oven when I walk in the house. I'm thankful that even with my trifles I can look around the table and see the faces of those I love and behold something what's priceless—my family.

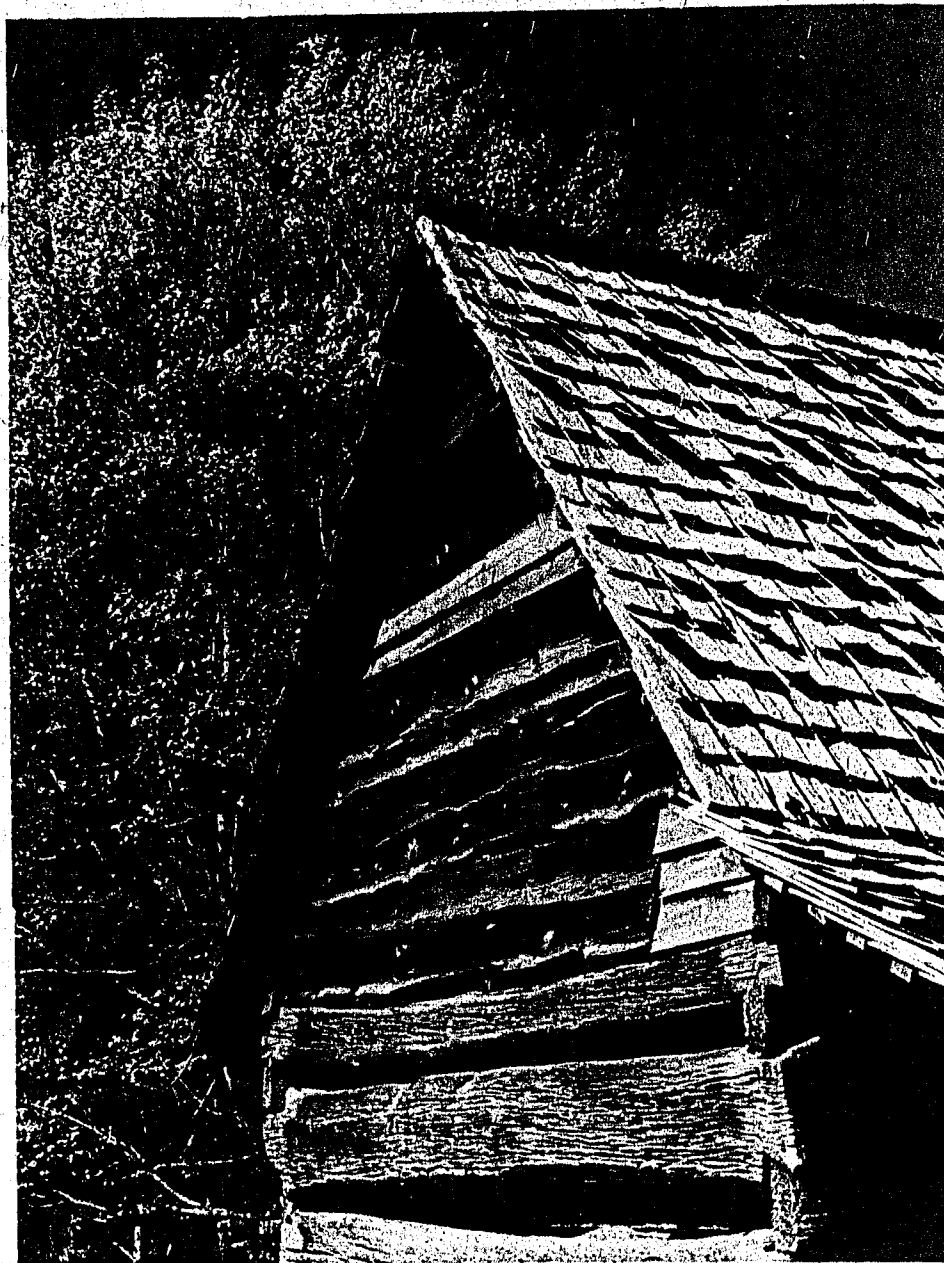

I thank the Lord that, even though I can only hear half of what the children are saying, it beats hearing a hole lot of nothing. I'm thankful that in this country, we don't send used-up politicians to Siberia and that lying still ain't accepted as a way of life in government. I thank God I can work and I thank God I can loaf. I thank Him I can still laugh and I'm grateful I can still cry. I thank the Lord for the Bible and the church, and for the newspaper and a cup of hot coffee. I thank Him for a fishing pole, a stream, and a can of pork and beans.

I'm thankful I can write and that I can read what I wrote. I thank the Lord for a coat on a cold day and ice tea on a hot day. God knows I'm thankful my mouth ain't stapled shut and that I have no cavities in my fillings. I thank God a cut will heal and a hole can be patched. I'm especially thankful for the force of gravity so I don't get slung off the earth.

Above all I'm thankful I've got mind enough to be thankful, Mr. Publisher. If that won't do as a starter for this Thanksgiving season, then we'll talk about heaven. Unfortunately, space won't allow it, so I'll just say "The best is yet to come."

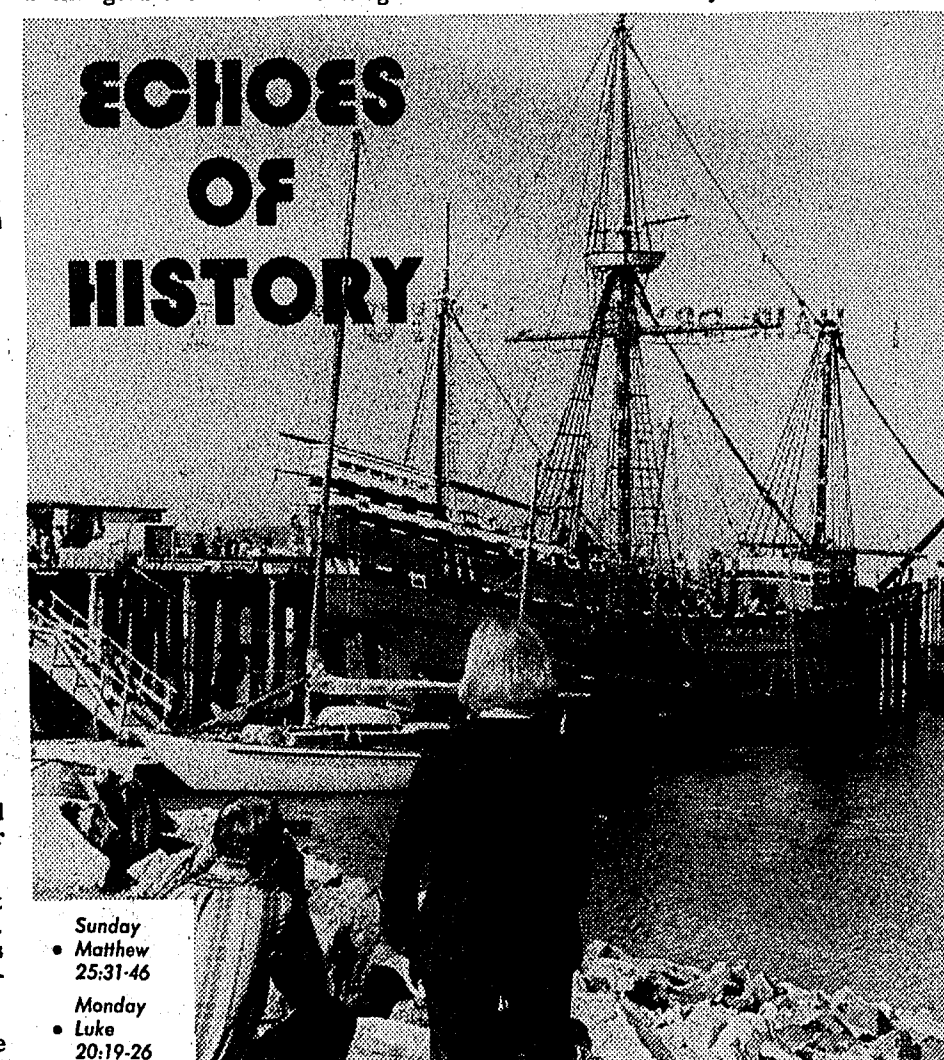

I wish you a blessed Thanksgiving.

Yours Truly,
Parson Jones

Challenging The Certainties Of Time

Novelist James Farrell, writing in the evening of his years, said that as he grew older he learned to cope with certainties of life and to "spit into the face of time." This proud cabin does not spit, it challenges time. It stands seemingly unchangeable off the Blue Ridge Park way near Boone. Richard Lowder of Mooresville was enthralled by its weathered and honest face, not unlike that of an aging seaman. He stopped, visited the ageless, majestic but abandoned mountaineer and came away with this picture to remember it by.

The bill introduced in the State Senate by Senator Person, of Franklin, has created no little stir among the good people of the State of North Carolina and in Mooresville in particular, where strict prohibition has reigned all these years. Physicians and druggists of this city have always frowned upon the idea of issuing prescriptions for liquor. Dr. A. E. Bell, the oldest physician in Mooresville in line of service, is very emphatic in his denunciation of the bill. He says that reputable doctors do not want any such privileges extended to them. He cites the fact that narcotic victims are a great nuisance, and to add to that the issuance of prescriptions for whiskey means that people would abuse the law and that there are a few men in the medical profession who may be induced to take advantage of their license and write prescriptions for the profit there may be in it for them.

In years gone by druggists of Mooresville would not keep liquor for prescriptions and practically the same condition exists today. Dr. Bell tells the Enterprise to say for the physicians of Mooresville that they are unanimously against any such law being enacted by the legislature.

Approval of bills and other routine business was the principal business of the board of Town commissioners at their regular monthly meeting Monday night.

James L. Miller appeared before the board and requested that light be reconnected in the building formerly occupied by O. C. Stonestreet, having been cut off when Mr. Stonestreet quit business last month. The matter was referred to the water and light committee.

The Stewart Park corporation requested the board to accept the street extending from Main to Oak street, known as Stewart avenue. The avenue extends just one block. The street was taken over.

The mayor and clerk were authorized to renew a note in the sum of $10,000 for 90 days with the American Trust Company.

A well-planned scheme of entrance into the store of E. J. Poston, corner of Moore avenue and Church street, was carried out last Friday night when a hole large enough for the admittance of a hand and arm was cut through a panel in the front door and the lock turned from the inside. The entrance was affected by some one familiar with the surroundings. It is thought, and about 225 in pennies. Policemen have been unable to locate the thieves so far.

Sometime after midnight Saturday night some one stole the sedan of Mr. J. H. McCalland from in front of his home on East Center avenue. He did not miss the machine until late in the morning and after an inquiry at Kannapolis he was informed by the officers there that the car had been abandoned and was found on Pine street. The car was brought back to Mooresville and turned over to the owner during Sunday afternoon.

Mr. R. C. Knox, for many years a member of the firm of Knox & Brown, of Davidson, died at his home there Saturday morning. He had been in poor health for several years and developed a serious ailment last December. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Bethel Presbyterian Church near Cornelius. Surviving is his widow, who before marriage was Miss Delia Wilson, of Mecklenburg county, and a sister of the late Dr. W. E. Wilson, of this city.

One of the largest delegations ever appearing before the county commissioners visited Statesville last Monday when the verbal petitions were presented urging the commissioners to provide for a county health department. This movement has the backing of practically every physician in the county, the mayors of Mooresville and Statesville, the various organizations such as the Red Cross, Welfare department, many civic clubs and individuals who are not identified with organizations. The proposition will embrace the employment of a full-time physician, three nurses, a sanitary officer at a minimum expense of $12,000 per year. The physician's salary would be placed at $3,000 and the nurses at $1,500 each, and allowance of $600 each for traveling expenses. The commissioners indicated great interest in the establishment of the county health department and gave assurance that if possible, arrangements will be made for the establishment of such service when the budget of the next fiscal year is made out. Dr. C. N. Sisk, director of county health work of the State, was the principal speaker before the commissioners, who outlined in detail the work to be done and the minimum of expense attached.

Colonel Moor's Musings

That was a right interesting piece in the paper about James Troutman and his wood energy. I expect that brought back a heap of memories for us older folks. And he is right about us living like "cows on a cement pasture." A house built nowadays might as well be under the ocean, the way it's connected to lifelines of pipes and wires. We don't realize how quick we're hurting it, one of them is cut.

Reported Missing Man Found To Be 'Safe And Sound'

A missing person alert Thursday night in the Mooreville area of Lake Norman brought out a large number of searchers, including Charlotte's police helicopter "Snoopy."

A spokesman for the Iredell County Sheriff's Department said the searching party was formed after Allen Martin of Mooreville, route 6, was reported lost on Lake Norman. Martin, however, was later found to be "safe and sound."

Martin was reported missing at 9:30 p.m. by Linda Brown, also a resident of Mooreville, route 6. She was quoted by officers as saying Martin left her home for his home, some three miles away, in a boat that had an erratically-running motor and was taking on water.

The alarm, it was stated, was sounded when it took Martin longer to get home than anticipated. The Charlotte police helicopter was summoned since the craft is equipped with high-intensity searchlights.

Band-Aiders, Thank You!

To stir a little interest in the band this year, the Band-Aiders decided to start a program of give and take.

The social committee, headed by Mrs. Lewis Brinton, planned a snack and drink after each Tuesday and Thursday night practice. The same was also furnished after the away games for the Senior High Band. And to the Junior High Band after each game that they participated in. The snack, consisting of coke and candy bar or potato chips, was always welcome by the students who had just finished two hours of in-depth practice. On Tuesday, October 30, a non-school night, hot fudge sundaes with homemade ice cream, was served by the Band-Aiders to show appreciation for those who came that night.

To cap the marching season, the social committee consisting of Mrs. Lewis Brinton, Mrs. Jane Mills, Mrs. Ruth Wayner, Mrs. Nilda Bost, Mrs. Don Parker, Mrs. Dessie Sillier, Mrs. Bailey James and Peggy Pope, along with the help of Mrs. Annalee Freese and the school cafeteria served hot dogs with all the trimmings to the band after the North Rowan game. The football team was invited as guests of the band and together they celebrated the victory over North Rowan. Something is also in the planning book for the band after the Charlotte parade, Mooreville parade, the Salisbury parade and the Shrine Bowl football game.

Each member of both the Mooreville Senior High Band and the Junior High Band extends a big loud thank-you to their special friends—the Band-Aiders.

State To Change 5,300 Speed Signs By Dec. 1

North Carolina highway officials say they hope to change 5,300 signs to read "speed limit 55" by December 1.

That's the date Gov. Jim Holshouser has set for lowering the legal speed on all state highways from the current levels of 60, 65, and 70 miles per hour. Deputy Transportation Secretary Jack Hawke said Wednesday that crews would effect the change by pasting overlays of the numerical five on existing signs. He said the process would begin this week. Signs will be covered with burlap until the changeover date. The new speed limits cannot be enforced until the signs are changed.

Book Week At Park View

Last week was Book Week. The observance didn't exactly disrupt the national routine, but it was very big at Park View School. Each class in the school called attention to the week by decorating the room door in keeping with a theme from a particular book. This door leads to Miss Enola Lynch's room, and her class did "Miss Osborne, the Mop" as its book. Another outstanding job of decorating was done by Mrs. Betty Tucker's students, who used beans and cotton balls to create a wintry scene.

Introducing The Economical '74 Nixonwagon

Here it is, folks, brought to you by the same wonderful people who gave you the Hoovercar—and just in time for gasoline rationing expected next spring. With a Nixonwagon you get zero gas consumption and zero air pollution, and you are offered the bonus of cleaner highways. This nifty, thrifty model actually helps rid our streets and roads of unsightly paper and cans. With littering what it is, you have a power source available everywhere. Nobody on the road makes a goat of a Nixonwagon owner, and you'll never be the butt of jokes about all that money and nothing to buy. This is dependable, economical transportation, as rugged as its builder's motto: "When the going gets tough, the tough get going." (The driver of this particular model is today a middle-aged Mooreville businessman. His name will not be used to protect his wife, who loaned the picture.)

Iredell Girl Selected CVTI Student Of Month

Barbara C. Travis of Statesville, a second-year architectural drafting student, has been selected by the student government of Catawba Valley Technical Institute as the institute's student of the month for November.

A 1971 graduate of Statesville Senior High School, Miss Travis was recognized Thursday at the regular luncheon meeting of the Hickory Rotary Club, which sponsors the honor. She was presented to the group by CVTI President Robert E. Papp. The daughter of Mrs. Carolina M. Travis and Robert Travis, both of Statesville, she attended Brevar College in Brevar as an art major for one year before enrolling in the architectural drafting and design curriculum at CVTI in Hickory.

Miss Travis has been employed part-time since last summer as a draftsman with the engineering department of the City of Statesville. Prior to that, she operated computer typesetting equipment for one year at the Statesville Record and Landmark.

The November student of the month has compiled an outstanding academic record in one of CVTI's more difficult career programs, posting a cumulative grade-point average of 3.59 out of a possible 4.00. She eventually hopes to enter the field of architectural rendering.

Miss Travis' high school activities included membership in the F.Y., a girls' religious organization, two years on the varsity girls basketball team and service on the staff of her high school annual. At CVTI last year, she was a photographer for the student newspaper.

A member of the First Presbyterian Church of Statesville, Miss Travis is engaged to be married next February to Tim Shoemaker of Statesville.

Bailey Heads State Baptist Convention

Charlotte attorney Allen Bailey says he isn't a "one issue" man and he doesn't expect the North Carolina Baptist Convention to be a one issue denomination.

Bailey was elected president of the state convention by acclamation Tuesday. He was a leader in the recent successful fight against liquor by the drink in the state.

Two other anti-liquor crusaders, the Rev. Coy Privette and State Sen. Charles B. Deane, Jr., were elected first and second vice presidents, respectively.

Bailey said he hoped Baptists, the largest denomination in the state, would work as hard for positive causes like prison reform, tax reform, and aid to the handicapped and the mentally retarded as they did against liquor by the drink.

Privette said he would probably step down from his position as president of the state Christian Action League next April to devote more time to his pastorate in Kannapolis.

Senior High School's Majorettes

Performing at Mooreville Senior High School football games, as a part of the halftime activities, are these four young beauties — majorettes, they're called.

Dyson Opens Stony Point King Sirloin

Robert Dyson of Mooreville, owner of King Sirloin, has opened his second steakhouse. It is King Sirloin of Stony Point.

The new restaurant, Dyson said, offers the same serving arrangement and service of his year-old King Sirloin on U.S. 21 at Shepherd. King Sirloin of Stony Point is housed in a new leased building on N.C. 90 just east of the town.

Dyson said the new steak-specialty restaurant has a seating capacity of 200 persons. It is being managed by Charles Sneed, who served for several months as chef at King Sirloin of Mooreville.

Like the Mooreville operation, the new King Sirloin features buffet service and an assortment of foods at lunch, and it offers only steaks in the evening.

Arthurs Family Has 40 Acres Of Energy

Marvin Arthurs, a farmer who has "dabbled in wood" for several years, says he hasn't had to advertise this fall to sell all the firewood he and his sons find time to cut off the 40 forested acres they share in the Ostwald community.

The Arthurs family is among area landowners who are recognizing the financial potential of their woodland in the face of a severe shortage of heating oil this winter. The price of a cord (a stack four feet by eight feet by four feet) has jumped almost overnight from $25 to $80 in some sections of the state.

This year, he sold firewood "mostly to town folks who just want to have a fire to look at." This season, he is running behind on filling orders for customers who want wood to keep warm by the Arthurs family.

State Senator Eddie Knox Interested In Governorship

The horses are out of the gate and running for governor of North Carolina, but at least one man, who wants the office is staying "totally" in the background, hoping the others start their push too early.

That man is 36-year-old H. Edward (Eddie) Knox, a tobacco-chewing lawyer in his second term in the State Senate and a brother of Joe Knox, Mooreville's mayor.

"All I can say about any of this," Knox, a Charlotte lawyer, said in an interview, "is that I've talked with some people about it."

There isn't a shortage of possible Democratic candidates for governor at this time. House Speaker Jim Ramsey and Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt are serious contenders for the office. Skipper Bowles is hoping to run again, and some folks say East Carolina Chancellor Leo Jenkins will make the race next time.

One of the newer faces now in the picture is Luther Hodges, Jr., whose father served in the Governor's Mansion.

Some politicians around the state feel Knox could do what Dan K. Moore did in 1964—stay in the background until the proper time and then step forward and claim the prize.

A supporter of former Gov. Bob Scott said: "Knox is the kind of man who could take this state with the right kind of backing. He's smart, a good politician, and he has farming and big-city lawyer in his background."

Knox does have a varied background. He grew up on a farm in Davidson in Mecklenburg County and got a degree in agriculture from N.C. State. He then got his law degree from Wake Forest.

The young attorney was interested in politics before he ran for the State Senate from Mecklenburg County. He worked in several gubernatorial campaigns, supporting Dan Moore in 1964, Mel Broughton in 1968, and Pat Taylor in 1972.

Knox and some of the people behind his candidacy, believe the man who will be the next Governor of North Carolina is someone who isn't out there openly running at this moment.

This line of reasoning goes that Hunt and Ramsey could kill each other off with legislative squabbling; that that Bowles had his chance and missed; that Jenkins would be a sectional candidate; and that Hodges has not sought public office before.

Knox is a highly-respected member of the State Senate—probably the most influential Mecklenburger to serve in that body in recent history.

It is feared that the liquor-by-the-drink vote might harm Knox's chances for higher political office, because he has solidly staked himself out as a vet.

Said one Eastern Senator who likes Knox's chances of running in '76: "We need a bright, new face. Lindsey Warren would have been the man, but he hurt his chances by leading the Taylor campaign last time. Knox appeals to all segments."

Says Knox, with a laugh: "If and when I decide to run for Governor, I'll let you know."

Iredell County Shows Signs Of Better Living

Judging from the number of major household appliances and other equipment that Iredell County families have been buying in the last few years, living standards are on the rise locally.

Their purchases of air conditioners, dishwashers, TV and stereo sets, cars, food freezers and other high-priced equipment have been climbing steadily since 1960, despite inflation.

What made these expenditures possible was the income gains that have been chalked up, year after year, by most families in the area.

The rate at which they have been adding to their ownership of household appliances and automobiles is revealed in the Census Bureau's County and City Data Book, just released.

The figures show that there is a close relationship between a family's earning capacity and the amount of expensive durables that it acquires over the years.

With regard to air conditioners, one such kind of equipment, the figures show that, in Iredell County, they are now to be found in 20 per cent of all households. In 1960 they were in four per cent of the homes.

By the same token, food freezers are more common in the area than ever before. The proportion of local families that have them is placed at 53 per cent, which is more than in 1960, when it was 27 per cent.

The ambulance answered the call, and oxygen was administered to the eight-year-old pet, which had a breathing obstruction.

Annual Farm-City Week Banquet Held In Iredell

The annual Farm-City Week banquet, sponsored by the Statesville Kiwanis Club, was held last Friday night in the banquet hall of the Masonic Temple in Statesville.

Some 125 farmers and businessmen were guests of the Kiwanis Club, according to W. R. Dellinger, chairman of the Farm-City Week committee.

Featured speaker for the event was Charles D. Colvard, manager of the North Carolina Milk Producers Federation and secretary of the Farmers Cooperative Council of North Carolina.

Colvard grew up on a small general-purpose farm in Ashe County. He graduated from Hanes College with a bachelor of science degree in agriculture and he received his masters degree in dairy manufacturing from North Carolina State University in Raleigh.

Colvard commended the Statesville Kiwanis Club for sponsoring and coordinating the Farm-City Week program for the past 17 years. He praised Iredell County for being one of the leading agricultural counties in western North Carolina. His remarks centered on the theme: "Partners For Progress—Working For A Better Environment."

"Never have so many depended on so few for so much," Colvard stated, as he indicated that only four percent of the people in the United States are actually engaged in farming. He stated that food prices had risen only 20 per cent in the past 10 years while wages have risen 124 per cent.

Colvard, in conclusion, pointed out that "all must work together in bettering the environment" and that "by being partners in progress we can have a better place in which to live."

During the meeting, Dellinger recognized winners in the poster contest: Winners included: Division I—Jill Cranford, Mooresville, first place; Thomas Ray Compton, Statesville, second place; and Salina Moose, Statesville, third place.

Division II—Darrell King, Mooresville, first place; James Sharpe, Troutman, second place; and Stanley Ramsey, Troutman, third place.

School planners have begun developing policies and regulations to govern distribution of the money which will be divided among the 152 local school units of the state, a spokesman for the state Department of Public Instruction said Friday.

Although the amount of each school unit's allocation has already been determined, school units will be required to submit formal applications for the money.

The allocations, which are based on enrollment, ranged from a low of $182,000 for the Tryon city system to $20.5 million for the Charlotte-Mecklenburg system.

State officials say at least part of the money should be available within a few months.

The Board of Education must approve procedures that will govern the distribution before applications can be considered. In cases where school units

Mullis, Walker And Co. Pluck Eagles

The Blue Devils of Mooreville face Salisbury Friday night for the bi-conference tie. The Devils advanced to this game by clipping the Davis County War Eagles' wings 48-19 at Mocksville last Friday.

The Mooreville offense was led by the rushing of senior fullback Johnny Walker. Walker tallied 189 yards on the ground, while his running mate, fullback David Mullis, accumulated 132 total yards on the ground. The passing game of Mooreville, usually nil, was above average as the Devils completed three of seven attempts for 44 yards.

Mullis, Walker and flanker Jeff Wade each grabbed an aerial to contribute to the passing game.

Mooreville rolled to 310 yards in total offense, 266 by land and 44 by air.

The two teams used the first period to get used to the weather and figure out the other's weakness. One score was produced in the first period by Davis County. The scoring drive began at their 45. The big plays in the drive were passes from Davis quarterback Tom Eanes to end Billy Clark and Tom Anderson. Jeff Ward got the score for the Eagles with 1:17 left in the period. David Dwigins kicked the extra point.

DAVID MULLIS BOOMS OPPONENT FOR JOHNNY WALKER SCORE
Walker Has 1,348 Yards For The Season, Mullis Has 1,356 Yards

The Devils exploded in the second quarter with 27 points, allowing their opponents only six.

Mooreville's first score came on the same play that appeared in the North Rowan game. Quarterback Bob Craig faked to the inside, kept the ball and scampered 48 yards to the goal, untouched. Mullis was unable to kick the ball through the uprights as the score stood, Devils 6, Davis 7.

The Mooreville "defense" stopped the Eagle drive and forced a punt. On this drive, the Devil offense again produced a score. In the drive, which covered 46 yards, Walker punted out 49 while Mullis gained the other six. Walker got the score from nine yards out to put the locals ahead for good. The extra point pass from Craig to Charles Turner produced two extra points to give the Devils a 14-7 lead.

The defense of Mooreville set up the next local score. Defensive halfback Key Everhardt spotted a loose ball and pounced upon it to give the Devils the ball on the Eagle 25. In three plays, Mullis hit paydirt, and his kick was good to give Mooreville a 21-7 lead.

Mooreville's final score came after the defense again forced the Eagles to punt. The teams entered the dressing rooms with Mooreville holding the 27-13 advantage.

The Devil defense was more than equal to Davis' second-half determination, allowing but one TD after the victory was assured. Mooreville struck once in the third period, and twice in the fourth to put the game on ice.

Davis' first play from scrimmage in the second half, 25, threw back Craig Michaels three into the hands of end Walker, who played a bang-up game on defense as well as giving his usual stellar ball-carrying performance. Brian the goal for the six points. Walker also took care of the conversion by running the ball over for two points.

The Devil defense again rose to the occasion to force the Eagles to punt the ball away. While Mooreville had possession, time ran out in the third period. The Devils got the ball on the Eagle 21. Five plays later, Mooreville scored again. Mullis carried the ball over, but his foot was off target as he missed the extra point.

Davis managed to score again before the horn ended the first half. Marcus Wilson took the kickoff, and raced 91 yards to the goal, outracing everyone on the field. Dwigins' extra point attempt failed.

The final regular-season standings of the teams in the four conferences that make up the Western North Carolina High School Activities Association have been released by W.C. Clary of Winston-Salem, the association's executive secretary.

Blue Devil Gridders Named To All-Iredell County Squad

Johnny Walker of Mooreville High and Dennis Kilby and Rat Stan Lippard of Statesville led the balling for the all-county football team for 1973.

This trio of gridders were named to both the offensive and defensive all-county units. Mooreville's David Mullis was chosen player-of-the-year by a one-point (18-17) margin over Walker.

The all-star teams (offensive and defensive) were selected by vote of the four head coaches at the four senior high schools in the county—Mooreville, South Iredell, Statesville, and North Iredell—and Mike Owens, sports editor of the Statesville Record & Landmark.

Each of the five men voted for three offensive ends, three offensive tackles, three offensive guards, two centers, two quarterbacks and seven runningbacks. Points were awarded on a 3-2-1 basis or 7-6-5 basis, according to eligible contestants for each position. Votes were also given to three defensive ends, three defensive tackles, two nose-guards, five linebackers and five defensive backs.

Kilby and Tony Hager of Mooreville were selected as the offensive ends. Kilby won by 12-9 with John Summers of North and Jimmy Dagenhart of South having five points each.

Lennie Mackey of Mooreville led the offensive tackle balling with 12 points with Randy Reid of Statesville edging Roger Harris of South Iredell by 8-7 for the other slot.

Stan Lippard of Statesville led the balling at offensive guard with 10 points, compared to nine by North's Kent Blackwelder. Mark Brawley of Mooreville earned honorable mention.

The closest battle was for the offensive center position. Greg Mills of Statesville had 13 points while Rick Mack of Mooreville had 12.

Statesville's Kent Galtier came away with quarterbacking laurels with Terrell Rhye and Bobby Craig of Mooreville and Kim Newton of South tied for a very distant second. Galtier won his slot by the widest margin, eight points.

The running back positions were the second closest. Mullis led the way with 31 points and Walker had 29. Jones finished third with 26 with North Iredell's Robert Patterson next with 19. Curtis Sloan rounded out the top five with 15 points.

Defensively, Kilby was the top vote-getter at end with Walker edging teammate Hager for second place. Buddy Tucker of North also had support. Roger Harris of South was selected as a member of the Tau Pi Upsilon Chapter of Sigma Theta Tau, a national honor society in nursing.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henry Howard of Mooreville, route 4, Miss Howard is a junior at the ECU School of Nursing. She is a graduate of South Iredell High School, near Barium Springs. Only baccalaureate students are eligible for membership in the society and they must have at least a "B" average. Students are selected for membership in the society on the basis of scholarship, leadership and citizenship.

Last year, Miss Howard served as president of the ECU Student Nurses Association. In addition to ECU, only two other North Carolina schools—Duke and the University of North Carolina—have chapters of the national honor society.

Alvin Stanford, Iredell County Schools guest speaker, Stanford commended the club for its interest in agriculture, and he reminded the Kiwanians of the essential role farming plays in the national economy.

Miss Jane Bostian, daughter of Mrs. Jack McDaniel and Mr. McDaniel, received first place in her age group in the state woolen garment contest of the 4-H Club in Raleigh last week.

Ral McConnell of Hickory visited his aunt, Mrs. Jay Lewis and Mr. Lewis last Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Clarrand, Mr. and Mrs. John Clineard, Mrs. Horace Clineard and Walter Weddington attended the funeral of Mrs. E. Parker Buck last Sunday afternoon in High Point. Mrs. Buck, a former resident of the community, passed away at the Wesleyan Arms in High Point last Saturday.

—Miss Mary Bostian, a student at Appalachian State University, Boone, was the weekend guest of her mother, Mrs. Jack McDaniel and Mr. McDaniel.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wright of Chesapeake, Va., were weekend guests of Mrs. Louise Lantz.

Planned Better Than They Knew

This eight-sided marker is in the center of the Crawford Johnston family plot in Willow Valley Cemetery. The octagon contains names of the parents and six children who lived on a farm that now is the East Iredell Avenue-East Center Avenue section of Mooreville. Names apparently were etched at random on the stone, but, beginning with the death of Eugene at age seven in 1895, they have died in the order they are listed. Annie, who now lives in Winnsboro, S. C., is the only survivor. Following Eugene in death were Gwynn, who was 27 when he died in 1918; the mother, the former Carrie Harris, 1931; the father, 1938; Stanhope, 1943; Howard, who died in 1961 and was buried in Durham; and Morrison, who died in September of this year.

CVTI Brochure

On Evening Classes Available

Catawba Valley Technical Institute in Hickory now has available for public distribution its brochure of evening credit courses, adult education and extension programs scheduled for the winter quarter on the CVTI campus and at several other Catawba Valley locations.

Jack L. Davis, director of the CVTI continuing education, said persons wishing to receive the quarterly brochure of schedules should request that their names be placed on the mailing list by sending a postcard or telephoning CVTI at 327-9124 or 464-1068.

Because of the tremendous amount of space and time it would require, it is virtually impossible for CVTI to get adequate publicity through the news media for the hundreds of credit and non-credit courses we offer each quarter," Davis explained.

"Through this brochure, we are able to provide important information to persons who are interested in upgrading their job skills, continuing their general education or developing new knowledge for personal enrichment. It's free to anyone for the asking."

The CVTI official said requests to be placed on the mailing list for the quarterly schedule brochure will be accepted anytime between 8 a.m. Thursdays and during daytime hours on Fridays.

Smith lost 105 pounds during that time after his doctor rigged a dental splint, which enabled Smith to open his mouth just wide enough to take in a liquid diet of vitamins and milk.

The victim of a chronic weight problem, Smith had previously made 12 unsuccessful attempts at dieting. The 32-year-old bachelor's weight fell from 313 pounds to 208 pounds.

Kiwanians Salute Farmers

Mooreville Kiwanians Monday night paid tribute to area agriculture and to the men who have invested themselves in it.

It was annual farmers' night during the club's supper meeting at Town and Country Restaurant. Area farmers were honor guests during the program arranged by the club's agriculture and ecology committee.

Submarine-Type Still Captured In Iredell

A compact, submarine-type still, located in the New Hope Township area of Statesville, was captured in Iredell County Thursday afternoon.

The still was located in an outbuilding at the home of Douglas Lee Stanley.

Participating in the raid were members of the Iredell Sheriff's Department, the Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms Division of the U.S. Treasury Department, and Rowan County and Lexington ABC officers.

Bruce Bassett, ATF agent, said the still was run from butane tanks to submarine-type boilers which worked off wood in a 700-gallon metal and wash tank. There were 40 gallons of white whiskey in the shed, and Bassett estimated the still had the capacity of producing 90 gallons of liquor every four days.

From the mash box, the liquor was fed through a wooden barrel condenser and then to a cooler which consisted of a wooden box with an automobile radiator used for the final cooling.

Mash lines ran from the building through an open field several hundred feet from the building.

The officer said the tax loss to the federal government was estimated at $945 per run.

Participating in the raid were Sheriff LeRoy Reavis, Chief Deputy R.L. Warren, Detective Sgs. James Clements and Cecil Cook and ATF Agents Bassett and Bob Martin, along with the ABC officers.

No one was at the residence at the time of the raid.

Stanley was served warrants at the sheriff's office, charging him with possession of untaxed liquor and operation of an illegal distillery.

He was served with federal warrants on both charges and was released on his own recognizance today after an

Blackleg Disease In Iredell

Blackleg, one of the most infectious cattle diseases, was reported in Rowan County earlier in the year and recently local veterinarians have diagnosed the cause of cattle deaths as blackleg in Iredell County, according to H. M. Stamey, agricultural extension agent.

Blackleg is one of the deadliest cattle diseases. It usually strikes young animals between six and 18 months of age. Blackleg usually causes death of infected animals within 12 to 36 hours, but can be prevented by vaccination.

Proper disposal of animals that have died of the disease is very important—they should be buried at least six feet underground on the spot where they die.

This disease is caused by a germ in the soil, Clostridium Chauvoei, which is an anaerobic micro-organism, one that develops rapidly in the absence of oxygen. These organisms are in the form of short rods and produce spores that are very resistant to destruction by heat, cold, moisture, drying, or chemical disinfectants. Usually the organism gains entrance into animals through small cuts or punctures in the skin; large cuts or open wounds are not favorable to the growth of the organism. In some cases the organism may enter the body through abrasions in the mucous membranes of the tongue, mouth cavity or throat.

Very young animals evidently have an inherited or natural immunity which gradually wears off as they approach six months of age. The disease is seldom contracted by cattle over two years old and almost absolute immunity is noted after three years.

The first symptoms to be noted of the disease are loss of appetite, high fever, lameness, rapid breathing, convulsions, and rapid swelling of the tissues that appears on the neck and shoulders and on the flanks and thighs of the affected animals.

Medical treatment of animals with blackleg, thus far, has proved unavailing. The only reliable, effective method known of protecting animals against blackleg is vaccination, which has been thoroughly tried and proven reliable. All young calves, including both beef and dairy cattle kept on farms, should be vaccinated against blackleg before they are four months of age. It is not necessary to vaccinate adult cattle.

Bank Robber In Real Jam

An armed bank robber in New York City got himself into a real jam—traffic jam, that is—when he heisted two bags of money from a bank and tried to make a getaway in his double-parked car.

George Penn, 24, surrendered peacefully to police when his getaway car was hemmed in by bumper-to-bumper traffic.

Speed Limit Of 55 MPH Begins Dec. 1

Gov. Jim Holshouser has cut the speed limit on North Carolina highways to 55 miles per hour, effective December 1, as one of a series of fuel-saving orders.

Temperatures in state-owned office buildings will be reduced to an average of 68 degrees, he directed in another executive order announced at a news conference Tuesday.

The lowered heat and other orders take effect immediately.

The state motor pool will make greater use of compact cars, which guzzle less gasoline.

Drivers of state vehicles will not be more than 50 m.p.h.

Government workers were urged to form car pools to and from work.

Holshouser pledged that No. 1, his official Cadillac, will be used only for "official state functions."

The directives are similar to proposals President Nixon made earlier this month.

Holshouser said he would ask the legislature to reduce the speed limit further when it returns in January. Under state law, only the legislature can get speeds to below 55 m.p.h.

Present speed limits are up to 60 m.p.h. on state highways and 65 to 70 on interstates.

The Tri-County Mental Health Center is housed in a spacious, beautiful new $400,000 building in Salisbury, but its services are as local as the county offices at 115 Institute Street.

The center, which serves Iredell, Rowan and Davie counties, maintains offices in the county service center here, and members of its staff are here two days each week to counsel, treat or refer patients in this area.

The newest member of the center's professional staff, psychologist Katherine Harlan, maintains hours in the county center each Tuesday. Bob Fetsch, an alcoholism and drug counselor, is here each Thursday. Both are available from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

Dr. Harlan joined the staff in October after completing an internship at the Georgia Mental Health Institute in Atlanta. She is a graduate of Georgia State University.

Fetsch has been a member of the clinic staff since July 1972, and he has been devoting a day each week to Mooreville for about a year.

The three-county mental health service has a 30-member staff headed by Administrator Larry Parrish. Among staff leaders are Dr. Robert Spicer, chief psychiatrist; Dr. Warren Young, chief psychologist; John Whitfield, who heads social work; and Loy Devine, coordinator of alcoholism services.

Fetsch and Dr. Harlan emphasize their services are available to the general public, and they welcome referrals by physicians, schools and family members.

"We can't stress the importance of family interaction enough," Dr. Harlan said, "practically all of our work involves more than the individual patient. Emotional and social problems nearly always are rooted in the family, and patients always respond better when they have the advantage of an understanding family atmosphere."

Both staff members encourage appointments. Persons who want help, or who wish to suggest another person for treatment should telephone the county office here, or contact the center in Salisbury.

Dr. Harlan says about 75 per cent of her work here involves working with school children. She offers evaluation and treatment. Like Fetsch, she maintains contact with local school officials, as well as agencies such as Social Services and Health. Much of the alcoholism counselor's work involves Broughton Hospital and the Western Carolina Alcohol Rehabilitation Center.

"We approach excessive use of alcohol as a learned habit, not a disease," Fetsch said, "and it is essential that we get the family involved. It is a myth that you can't help an alcoholic until he wants help. If his family is concerned enough, he can be helped."

Fetsch said his group and individual counseling involves area people junior high age and older. A large segment of his work, he said, is with men and women between 20 and 40.

Miss Rebecca Teeter, soloist, sang "One Hand, One Heart" and the congregation sang "We Gather Together." For the benediction, Miss Teeter rendered "The Lord's Prayer."

"Trumpet Voluntary" by Purcell was played for the processional and "Toccata" by Widor was rendered for the recessional.

The couple exchanged their wedding vows in a lovely setting of candelabra with lighted yellow tapers and altar arrangements in brass urns of light bronze, bright yellow orange mums with miniature cattails. Pews for the families and guests were marked with yellow bridal bows.

polyester dress with black accessories. She completed her attire with a corsage of white carnations.

Miss Lynne Stuts presided at the guest register and she was remembered with a corsage of white carnations, as well as, the director, Mrs. Larry Mayhew.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for the families of the bridal couple.

MRS. TERRELL WILLIAMS COLLIER

Miss Cruise Becomes Bride Of Mr. Collier At ARP Church

In a ceremony of beauty at the Mooreville Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church on November 24, Miss Rebecca Anne Cruise became the bride of Terrell Williams Collier. The 5 p.m. ceremony was performed by the Reverend W. P. Grier, pastor of the ARP Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Eugene Cruise, Jr., of 724 East Center Avenue, Mooreville. The groom is the son of Mrs. Freddie Williams Collier of Holly Hill, S.C., and the late Mr. Collier.

A prelude of traditional organ wedding music was rendered by Miller of Mooreville. She also played the traditional wedding marches for the processional and the recessional.

The sanctuary of the church was beautifully ornamented with a brass arch of candles, rose candelabra and seven-branched candelabra with lighted Cathedral tapers. A superb arrangement of white gladioli, pink snapdragons and white chrysanthemums centered the setting. The couple knelt on a brass kneeling bench for the benediction and pews for the families and guests were marked with hurricane lamps with foliage and ribbons.

The lovely bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore her mother's wedding dress which was fashioned of candlelight brocade taffeta, enhanced with lace. The bride's veil and mantilla, also, was fashioned of candlelight illusion and lace.

The bride carried a white Bible with a cascade of Stephanotis, and pink roses, centered with a white cymbidium orchid. The Bible was a gift to the bride on her first birthday from her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Samuel Victor Brown, of Mooreville.

The bride also carried a handkerchief which belonged to her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Emmett Eugene Cruise of Salisbury. Mrs. Norman Sholar, Jr., of Mooreville, was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Miss Mary King of Chapel Hill, Miss Debbie Collier of Holly Hill, S.C., sister of the groom; Mrs. J. Keith Stewart of Charlotte and Miss Patricia Cruise of Philadelphia, Pa., cousin of the bride.

Junior bridesmaids were Miss Kittie Lynn Collier of Holly Hill, S.C., sister of the groom and Miss Kim Rallis of Mooreville.

All of the attendants were dressed in gowns of burgundy velvet designed with empire waists and puff sleeves. The matron of honor carried three long stemmed red roses with blue and white foliage while the other attendants carried a single long stemmed rose with bow and foliage.

Master Mark Petersen, of Mooreville, was ring bearer. He was dressed like the adult male attendants and carried the rings on a white satin pillow. The groom chose his brother, Rusty Collier of Holly Hill, S.C., as his best man. Groomsmen were: Samuel Gilbert of Charlotte; Donald Parker of Charlotte; Emmette Eugene Cruise, III, of Mooreville and William Brown Cruise of Carboro, both brothers of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Cruise chose a long dress, pink polyester crepe fashioned with a modified empire waist and long sleeves. Seed pearls and braid enhanced the dress and she wore matching accessories. Mrs. Collier, mother of the groom, wore a long dress of aqua blue with matching accessories. Both of the mothers complemented the attire with corsages of red roses.

Grandmothers, Mrs. Samuel Victor Brown of Mooreville, Mrs. Emmett Eugene Cruise of Salisbury and Mrs. E. W. Wiles of Holly Hill, S.C., were remembered with corsages of white carnations. An aunt of the groom, Miss Bessie Cling of Holly Hill, S.C., was an honor guest and she was remembered with a corsage of white carnations.

For an unannounced wedding trip, the bride changed into a blue pantsuit with a burgundy velvet blazer. She lifted the orchid from her wedding bouquet for a corsage.

The couple will make their home in Charlotte. A graduate of Mooreville Senior High School, the bride attended Erskine College at Due West, S.C., and graduated from Kings College in Charlotte. Miss Cruise majored in fashion merchandising and is now employed at Belk of Charlotte.

The groom, a graduate of East Mecklenburg High School, attended Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte. The groom, also, is on the staff at Belk of Charlotte.

Luncheon Fetes
Miss Cruise and Attendants

Miss Anne Cruise and her wedding attendants and the guests entertained at a bridesmaids' luncheon on Friday, at 1 p.m., at the home of her aunt, Mrs. J. Thomas Cashion, 1102 Lee Avenue, Kannapolis, Miss Sue Cashion, of Cranston, R.I., assisted her mother with the luncheon.

Fall flowers were used in appointments and the guests found their places at the table marked with bridal placecards. The luncheon consisted of chicken salad, cheese pudding, congealed salad, relish tray, coffee and iced tea. Fruit cake was served for dessert.

For the courtesy, Miss Cruise wore a black dress accented at the waistline with bands of various colors. Her hostesses complemented her outfit with a corsage of daisies. They also presented her a gift of china in her chosen pattern and a recipe file made by Miss Cashion.

The bride-elect chose this time to present gifts of silver bowls, engraved with their initials and her wedding date, to her attendants.

Guests, other than the bride-elect and her attendants and the hostesses were Mrs. E. E. Cruise, Jr., mother of the honoree and Mrs. Freddie Collier, of Holly Hill, S.C., mother of the prospective groom and grandmothers.

Following the wedding rehearsal of Miss Anne Cruse and Terrell Collier on Friday evening at the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church, the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. F. William Collier of Holly Hill, S. C., entertained the wedding party and guests in the Della Shed Sunday School classroom of the church.

The table was covered with a yellow linen cloth and arranged with a beautiful wooden wheelbarrow filled with fall flowers in colors of bronze, yellow and gold, flanked by lighted avocado green candles in tall matching candlesticks. Matching fall arrangements and candles were used at focal points and completed the decor of the room.

Freeze-Furr Vows Pledged

At St. Enoch Lutheran Church

St. Enoch Lutheran Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Margie Louise Furr and Terry Robert Freeze on Thanksgiving Day, November 22, at four o'clock in the afternoon. The Reverend Richard Dorton performed the impressive ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Wensil of 193 Deal Road, Concord and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Freeze of Mooresville, Route 2.

The sanctuary of the church was decorated with arrangements of mixed fall flowers in altar vases. A program of traditional wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Grady Beaver, Jr., organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her step-father. She wore a full length gown of taupe de soie fashioned with a fitted bodice and a-line skirt.

The bodice featured a high neckline and bishop sleeves ending in wide cuffs. Venetian lace enhanced the bodice, neckline, cuffs and the skirt.

Her veil of bridal illusion was attached to a headpiece of venetian lace, accented with beaded trim.

The bride carried a nosegay of white and yellow pompons with Sweetheart roses.

Miss Winnie Karriker was maid of honor and Miss Marsha Benfield was a bridesmaid.

Both of the attendants are cousins of the bride.

The maid of honor was dressed in a lavender gown while the bridesmaid wore a gown of deep purple. Each carried a long stemmed lavender mum with foliage and ribbons.

The groom chose his father as best man. Ushers were Tony Freeze, brother of the groom and Daryl Christy, cousin of the groom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wensil chose a full length blue gown with matching accessories and the groom's mother, Mrs. Freeze wore a gown of deep pink with black and white accessories. Both of the mothers complemented their attire with corsages of blue carnations.

Grandmothers of the couple completed their ensembles with corsages of carnations.

Miss Katrina Karriker presided at the guest register and Mrs. Wayne Wilson directed the wedding. Miss Karriker and Mrs. Wilson are cousins of the groom.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bridal couple, their parents and wedding attendants paused in the vestibule of the church to greet their guests.

After an unannounced wedding trip, the couple will make their home at Fort Mill, S. C.

The bride attended Concord City Schools and will continue her education in South Carolina. The groom is a graduate of West Rowan High School and attended Rowan Tech, Salisbury and the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, where he received a Bachelor's degree in Engineering Technology. He is employed in the Data Processing Center at Win-Dixie Food Stores in Charlotte.

Chrismon Tree At Prospect Church To Be Dedicated Dec. 2

Prospect Presbyterian Church will have its first Chrismon tree this year. The dedication service will be during the 11 a.m. worship service on December 2, with the pastor, Rev. Kenneth I. Newman officiating and special music will be rendered by the church choir.

Much interest has been shown in the new tradition, not only at Prospect Presbyterian, but many other churches. Many hours have been spent making the lovely Chrismons with the Women of the Church being in charge of the project. Mrs. Roy Watkins served as chairman.

The idea of using Chrismons as decoration for Christmas trees was originated in 1957 by Frances K. Spencer in Danville, Virginia. In the preface of the instruction book on the construction of Chrismons entitled "Chrismons: Basic Series," Mrs. Spencer explains the origin of her idea.

"While searching for a way to honor the Christ, I came across some drawings of designs called Chrismons. The sketches I found were copies of Chrismons designed and carved or drawn by some of the earliest Christians.

"From a merely artistic viewpoint, the designs were quite beautiful. I saw that they would make lovely Christmas tree decorations. More than that, though, it occurred to me that, by using these early symbols of our faith to decorate the tree, we would bring out distinctly the real reason we celebrate this day of the year. Further, I hoped such a Christmas tree would not only be worthy of being placed in the Lord's house but would also contribute to the spirit of worship in this holy season."

The project began with the youth organization at the church and later the Women of the Church joined in the making of the symbols. Adult advisors of the youth organization are Mr. and Mrs. Eric Teeter and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Messimer.

The Chrismon tree is an excellent way for the church to express its faith and worship through one of the most traditional activities of the Christmas season—decorating the tree.

Many churches use the decoration of the Chrismon tree as one of the central activities of the congregation as it prepares for Christmas.

The word "Chrismon" is a combination of the parts of two words: CHRIST MONogram. Chrismons, as the name implies, are monograms of Christ. They have been drawn and carved since the days of the earliest Christian community. Many of them are familiar to us and we use them as symbols of our faith in a variety of ways.

Many of these "Christian symbols" can be found in the sanctuaries of most churches, in stained glass windows and in religious literature.

Army Sergeant Danny R. Moses, son of Mrs. Vivian M. Moses of 57 Cascade Street, Mooresville, participated with other American and allied troops in Exercise Reforger V in Germany.

Pitted against the airfield forces were European-based elements of NATO forces of the United States, Germany and Canada.

The exercise, conducted by the Joint Chief of Staff and NATO, focused on the procedures and techniques for receiving, equipping, assembling and employing units after they arrive, rather than on rapid deployment of troops from the United States.

Mooreville Senior High's Procrastinators Class Of '65

Mooreville Senior High School's class of 1965 planned to get together five years after graduation. Everybody kept putting things off. The class finally held its first reunion Saturday night only three years behind schedule. The group gathered at Town and Country Restaurant for a buffet dinner and the usual endless round of greetings and rehashings of good times gone but not forgotten. Of 165 members of the class, 63 were able to attend. Counting wives, husbands and dates, the party drew double that number. A good time was had by all. formation means there are 205,513,943 people in the U.S., rather than 203,210,158. The Census Bureau estimated in the bulletin that there were "5.8 million persons not counted in the 1970 census."

Reasons given for the undercount included: —increased resistance on the part of the population to being interviewed or surveyed; —more alienation and distrust of government; —more organized attempts to protest the census; —increased difficulties for census takers working in cities, particularly inner cities.

The article also estimated the 1960 census count was an estimated 2.7 per cent under, or 5.1 million people nationally, and the 1950 count, 3.3 per cent under, also 5.1 million people nationally. The information was released "as a result of an intensive evaluation," according to the article. The article also stated: "The census count has improved over the past decades partially because new and better coverage techniques were introduced. These techniques produced improvements despite changing social conditions that made census taking more difficult in 1970."

Mefer, Sheep May Safely Graze by S. Bach, the chorus will continue with a group of Christmas carols. Two traditional French carols as arranged by Alice Parker and Robert Shaw, Angels We Have Heard On High and Here We Come By The Ass And Oxen Mild in which Dolores Mack will be the soloist.

Next will come Two Kings and a medley called Christmas Day in which several well-known carols will be heard. Dorothy Bultman will sing that lovely Christmas song, "The Christmas Carol," which she performed at the Carol of The Holy Child in which a quartet will feature Alice Query, Dorothy Bultman, Sandra Sprouse, Betty Jo Newton and Betty Brawley.

The popular Christmas Song by Mel Torme will wish you a "Merry Christmas" with another small group doing the solo part, Dolores Mack, Mary McLain, Fay Barker, Mary McConnell and Sandy Mercer. Bill Holcombe has arranged Let It Snow, I'll Be Home For Christmas and Home For The Holidays in a medley which he calls Home For Christmas and the home is pleased to have it on this program. Another Gloria In Excelsis will now appear on the program but this is one written by Florence Jolley using words by Martin Luther and arranged by Lara Haggard.

Then, to close out the concert, the chorus will sing a number made popular by the Fred Waring Pennsylvanians and sung by choruses wherever there are people who believe in Santa Claus. This is the musical setting by Ken Darby of the famous Clement Clark Moore poem arranged by Fred Simeone and transcribed by Tom Scott, "Twas The Night Before Christmas."

"The board has directed that a public letter be prepared that will spell out other energy-saving steps we all can take," Mills said, "and these will include car pools, walking to school whenever practical, reduction in use of indoor as well as outdoor Christmas lighting in the home, and limited travel."

CARE Program

Presented At

The Service-Social Club met on Tuesday evening, at the home of Mrs. Dave Cook on East McNeely Avenue. Mrs. Len Sullivan, president, called the meeting to order and a business session followed with many items being discussed. Mrs. Sullivan displayed the gavel which the Junior Civic League presented to the club at their annual banquet. Plans were made for the Fine Arts Festival luncheon to be held here in February and the Service-Social Club will be in charge. Meeting dates of the State Festival and the NCWC convention were announced and members were urged to attend both meetings, if possible.

A very interesting program on "CARE," Coordinated American Relief Everywhere, was presented by Mrs. Charles Brawley and Mrs. Ralph Heslop. At the close of the program, the members were presented sheets of paper which were entitled "Count Your Blessings." Mrs. Heslop and Mrs. Brawley had prepared the blessings and placed a tax on each one and the members checked their particular blessings and paid the designated tax. All the contributions were given to CARE. Mrs. Heslop closed with passages from the book "Who Am I God?"

The membership voted to discontinue with December meeting and the next meeting will take place on January 22, at the home of Mrs. Len Sullivan. After adjournment, the hostess served coffee with cup cakes, candies and coffee.

Barn Houses

Opera Hopes

There is a 104-year-old barn at Greenfield, Ill., that has something in it besides cattle. It has opera singers. Kaye Shanahan, 66, and her husband, George, own the ancient structure, where operas have been performed four years. Mrs. Shanahan is a voice teacher.

"One night after an unsuccessful trip into St. Louis, Mo., to see about the chances of a large foundation funding the opera, I was saying, 'You know we may just have to use my old barn.' And someone said, 'Well, why not?'" Mrs. Shanahan said.

As the firemen arrived, Mr. Garmon, who incidentally was chaplain of the local fire department, ran out of the building. He was directing the firemen to the scene of the fire and helping them get their equipment in use when he fell to the ground in an unconscious condition.

Bob Setzer, president of the Mooresville Lions Club, observes as Mrs. Jack Sherrill, school nurse, uses the new Titmus Vision Tester to examine Jimmy Miller, a Park View School first grader. The local Lions club donated the $459 instrument to Mooresville schools. It also offers the Michigan pre-school eye test especially designed for kindergarten and first grade children. LOOK MA, HERE COMES THE PARADE
All Eagerly Awaited Its Beginning

Bob Setzer, president of the Mooresville Lions Club, observes as Mrs. Jack Sherrill, school nurse, uses the new Titmus Vision Tester to examine Jimmy Miller, a Park View School first grader. The local Lions club donated the $459 instrument to Mooresville schools. Mrs. Sherrill said the device, which is available for use in all local schools, enables testing for such vision problems as nearsightedness, farsightedness, color perception and muscle balance. It also offers the Michigan pre-school eye test especially designed for kindergarten and first grade children. Local Lions gave a similar machine to the Iredell County Health Department several years ago, and it still is being used in local as well as county schools by public health nurses.

Maine Children Spent Day In Little Red Schoolhouse

Children in the western Maine town of West Farmington are getting a taste of 19th Century education in a little red schoolhouse where generations of their forebears learned the three R's.

In an experiment timed to coincide with National Education Week, 18 children are taken each day from their modern classrooms to spend one day in the 120-year-old, single-classroom building.

The pupils, from grades one through six, traded their chrome and plastic desks for hard wooden benches, and their film training aids for an old slate and a chunk of white chalk.

And the step back into history extends even to lunches. The daily fare is a homemade bread cheese sandwich, slices of raw carrots, fresh milk, a gingerbread man and raisins.

"Education hasn't really changed that much basically," said Freda Kelley of nearby Vienna, who taught in similar one-room schools in Farmington for 16 years.

Mrs. Kelley retired from teaching three years ago but returned to the classroom to serve as school mistress during the week-long experiment. She is being aided by student teachers from the University of Maine.

"I was showing the children some factoring from an 1883 arithmetic book, and they told me that was the way they were learning it in school," she said. "In almost a hundred years, a lot of things have not changed."

She said that included the children, who are "just as interesting today as they always were."

Mrs. Kelley began her teaching career in 1934 as a 10-a-week instructor. "We had to mix our own ink from powder then," she recalled. "And the school was heated by a wood stove. A janitor came in early and started the fire, but it was up to the teacher to keep it going through the day.

Darren Joudrey, 12, a sixth grader from Wilton, said the only thing he didn't like was that the one room contained three students from each of the first six grades.

"This one-room class is pretty good, I like it better than our school, but I think it would be cold here in winter and I wouldn't want to have to chop the wood for the stove," he said.

"What I really don't like is being in with these little guys because you really can't play with them."

David Baker, 12, also of Wilton, said, "I like the slates and the desks. I'd go here all the time if I had more kids from my grade here."

two closets, one of them a walk-in, and a bath with a shower. A sliding glass door permits entrance onto a rear terrace from the master bedroom.

The remaining two bedrooms also have ample closet space and a bath off the hall serves both bedrooms. A set of stairs adjacent to one bedroom leads to the basement which is designed to contain a future playroom, bar, bath and storage room.

There is more than ample privacy afforded those in the sleeping quarters while entertaining is in progress elsewhere in this attractive contemporary house.

The master bedroom at one end of the rectangle and on the back of the house features

two closets, one of them a walk-in, and a bath with a shower. A sliding glass door permits entrance onto a rear terrace from the master bedroom.

The remaining two bedrooms also have ample closet space and a bath off the hall serves both bedrooms. A set of stairs adjacent to one bedroom leads to the basement which is designed to contain a future playroom, bar, bath and storage room.

The central portion of the dwelling features a huge activity room and the design which includes a kitchen and dining room in addition to the activity room creates an open effect. The kitchen is equipped with ample wall cabinets and all the latest appliances and is separated from the activity room by an eight foot high wall. There is a vaulted ceiling in this part of the house to enhance the open feeling and three separate exits lead to the rear terrace. There is also a cozy fireplace in the activity room.

An entry from the dining room contains a pantry and adjacent laundry with washer and dryer connections. It leads to the spacious garage with its separate storage room. The attractive use of stone and wood siding on the exterior of the house is a real eye catcher and there is an attractive built in planter beside the front stoop.

The house contains 1,925 square feet of space and the stone veneer adds another 15 square feet. There are 532 square feet in the garage and storage room and 340 square feet in the basement.

Enforcement Of State Guidelines For Mobile Homes Brings Complaints

The enforcement in Iredell County of state guidelines for mobile home safety standards are bringing complaints to the county manager and county commissioners, according to information given the commissioners at a meeting in Statesville last week.

At the meeting, Fred Beaver of Beaver's Mobile Home Service of Troutman, aggressively pointed out problems arising from the recent county decision to enforce the existing state building codes.

The problem arises, according to Beaver, when a mobile home is moved and must pass the county inspections prior to any electrical hook-up. The mobile homes may not be moved on a state highway on Saturday or Sunday or on holidays and, according to Beaver, those moved on Friday afternoon usually sit until Monday without power.

Old mobile homes are not expected to come up to standards of the new, but they must, according to Chandler Bryan, chairman of the county commissioners, pass inspection concerning blocking, anchoring

Certain personal items were designated for Clara Duckworth, Ida B. Pope and Ruth B. Pope. Are We Governable?

Each day the total cost of government increases, and it takes another bite out of the take-home pay and the personal independence of the American people. When the actions and growth of government no longer benefit the people and instead begin to disrupt and dislocate the affairs of the nation and the lives of the people, it is time to change directions.

There is little question that we have come to a turning point in history. Up to now, we have been a nation of surplus. We have had the most productive, vital economy in the history of nations. Our strength was so great that we could afford waste and errors and inconsistencies in government's administration of its own affairs and in its management of matters affecting the basic economic conduct of the production of such essential things as food and energy supplies. We could almost afford excessive expansion in public welfare programs in an effort to deliver, at taxpayer expense, the good life to all our people. We could tolerate massive federal deficits that would have sunk most countries and have brought a gradually accelerating rate of inflation to our own. But now people of many nations have become more affluent and are competing for the good life. In a shrinking world, there is international competition for natural resources. The U.S. must bid for these. Suddenly, we are no longer self-sufficient in the vital matter of supplying ourselves with essential petroleum products. We must import massive and increasing quantities. We can no longer control the cost of our energy supply and hold that cost at a low level. Other nations are willing to pay more, and we must bid against them. We must export goods to pay for the oil we buy abroad. Among our most important exports are agricultural commodities, for which there is a growing world demand. We must reverse a 40-year policy of limiting our farm production to hold up prices. We must encourage the planting of new acres and the production of farm commodities for sale in the international markets. Higher demands for food supplies will mean higher prices for groceries at the local supermarket. Like our energy supply, our food supply is going to cost more. Regardless of political pressures, there is nothing government can do to maintain the tradition of cheap energy and cheap food. Record-high world demand for grain and rising grain prices inevitably mean higher prices for bread. Overall, it is expected that the end of 1973 will see food cost rising from 18 to 22 percent over a year ago, and food prices cannot be frozen or set too low by price controls without drying up supply. We have seen this happen in the case of meat.

Government policies must change to encourage American business, industry and agriculture to produce more, not less, and those policies must change quickly. There are many examples. It makes little sense to maintain stiff price controls on gasoline, heating oil and other petroleum products at a time when there is a severe shortage of these essential fuels. This is certainly not the way to encourage crude oil production in the U.S. or the construction of new refineries which are critically needed in this country. At a time when there is worldwide competition for all natural resources and for markets in which to sell products, it makes little sense to propose federal legislation which would cripple U.S. companies operating in manufacturing and marketing facilities overseas. These companies strengthen markets for American goods and bolster our sinking balance of payments. Yet such legislation is proposed. It makes little sense to cripple with regulations the innovative capacity of U.S. pharmaceutical companies which once led the world in research, development and introduction of new drug products and which now are falling behind pharmaceutical companies of other nations. It makes little sense to regulate the competitive free market out of existence—the free market that always has been the consumer's finest guarantee of the greatest volume and highest quality goods and services at the lowest possible prices.

Perhaps it would be too much in this day and age to suggest that the best government is still the one which governs least. But, in light of all that is happening, it seems eminently reasonable to state that for the U.S. a better government would be one which governed at less cost and with more regard for the realities of the world today and for the conditions necessary to the successful functioning of the economic system upon which every person in the United States depends for his livelihood and his future.

Where Is The Monster Going?

Is inflation an insatiable monster loose in our land?

It is. Next question: Where will it all lead? Let us hope we do not wind up in the Germany found by herself after World War I. In a recent Wall Street Journal feature, Alfred Malabar Jr. reminds us how it was over there during that bleak period:

"Even in today's economic environment, the raw statistics of Germany's inflation make a awesome reading. In August 1922, the country's money supply totaled 252 billion marks. In January 1923, it was 2 trillion. In September 1923, it stood at 28 quadrillion. And in November 1923, it reached 497 quintillion—that's 497 followed by 18 zeroes. This runaway inflation of the money supply stopped, finally, when the currency became virtually worthless. The old mark was replaced in 1924 by a new Reichsmark whose value was set at 1 billion old marks. The old marks were withdrawn from circulation and ceased to be legal tender. In 1933, some 19 billion marks were on deposit in savings banks. In November 1924, that sum had the purchasing power of one quarter of an American penny. The story was much the same in the insurance business. The postage stamp on an envelope containing an insurance payment to a beneficiary often cost more than the sum written on the enclosed check.

Colonel Moor's Musings

That was one fine parade Mooreville Jaycees put on downtown last week. Policemen said it drew the biggest crowd they remember, and it was the first time in recent years a blizzard didn't blow through on parade day. I was thinking as I watched that Mooreville is a town with real civic spirit. Our merchants want and deserve our Christmas business, and with gasoline being short, we've got even more reason to shop first at home.

Parson Jones' Pulpit

DEAR MR. PUBLISHER:

I always heard that a camel was a horse put together by a committee. A country preacher is reminded of some of the first work of committees when he goes to the church convention. I just got back from our convention, and I am more convinced than ever that the Lord moves in wonderful ways his members to perform. A church convention, you know, is where folks go to approve what they've already done back home. This year we voted to spend $75,000 on a study of business morals. They got the money up last summer, and they already have hired a half dozen people to do the work. But nothing is official until it is put to a vote at convention.

The only thing for sure at convention is that every delegate is unhappy about something. The complaints of delegates this year ranged, for example, from the seats being too hard to the manner in which one had to address the chair.

Minister Publisher, you've heard about meetings being cut and dried. Well, this one was dry as a bone, but it wasn't cut a bit. The program said the convention was to run three days and two nights, and, by the grace of God, it did. I figure by careful planning we were able to cram a full day's work into three days. As for the nights, they were spent in the motel rooms poliocting for pet causes while invited speakers were talking to four walls in the convention hall. Those astronauts that have to sit for half the day on the launch pad don't know how good they got it—at least they final got off the ground.

Just to live things up, I addressed the chair proper, and made a motion that we nominate a committee to find out what denomination God is. Nobody took me serious at first, because I remembered as the delegate who reported five years ago that God wasn't dead. I said Israeli secret police had found him alive and well and hiding in Argentina.

But this year it turned out several delegates were pointing buses they had been named to committee that could go home and report on, so my motion got a second, and the investigate God committee was made up of them left-out delegates.

But there was an amendment. The committee is not to start work until after the stewardship campaign next fall. In case the committee finds God's denomination is different from ours, we will at least be that much ahead of the game.

Yours Truly,
Parson Jones

IN OTHER YEARS... 51 YEARS AGO

At a meeting of the Mooreville Fire Department last Thursday night officers were elected as follows: J. H. McLeeland, chief; J. T. Brantley, assistant chief; F. B. Freeze, captain; C. A. Troutman, first lieutenant; Harry P. Deaton, secretary and treasurer. The firemen have under consideration the matter of establishing a club room for the members. The proposition has been submitted to the Town Board Commission, which will be passed upon at a subsequent meeting of the board. This room is asked to be provided for in order that the firemen will have an assembling place. C. A. Troutman, of the Mooreville Furniture Company, very generously offered to equip the room, if established, with tables and chairs.

Arrangements are being made to take a team to the State Firemen's convention to be held at Morehead City, July 24-27. Delegates elected to represent the firemen were chosen as follows: C. A. Troutman and F. B. Freeze; alternates, C. E. Mills and G. G. McKnight.

Five young men were admitted to membership by a unanimous vote: Fred Turner, Everett Brantley, Fred Erwin, Henry Mills and Edwin McPherson. Captain Freeze announced the following team: Everett Brantley, Fred Turner, C. A. Troutman, G. G. McKnight, C. E. Mills, J. T. Brantley, Sam Nesbit, Edwin McPherson. Substitutes: C. E. Mills, Henry Mills, D. B. Benson, Fred Erwin, J. P. Honeycutt. This team is doing practice work every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings, 7 to 9 o'clock on South Academy street. The public is invited out to witness these practice drills.

After the meeting Thursday night the entire membership was treated to watermelon and lemonade.

Dr. C. U. Voils, of this city, holds the world's record in pulling a tooth. The Enterprise admits that the assertion is based on a great deal of territory, but the fact remains just the same. He was with Attorney George A. Morrow when the peculiar incident occurred. The two men were fishing on Fourth Creek one day last week. Dr. Voils noticed that his hook was nibbling at great speed and he finally hauled in his line and landed a small fish or twenty feet. When he attempted to land the nibbling fish, he was shocked when he pulled out of the water a large carp, weighing not less than eight pounds. He got the fish within reaching distance and touched it with his hand, but the human tooth was more than the fish could stand, and it gave a flit, returning to the water. Dr. Voils noticed something dangling on the end of his little hook. It was a carp tooth, with a wee bit of flesh around its root. He has the tooth on exhibition in his office over the M. & F. Bank.

Postmaster W. D. Templeton's administration of the postoffice affairs in this city will cease on September 5. It is natural to suppose that the Republicans will be awarded the office, and it is said there are several candidates out for the job, among them being S. M. Goodman, Jay Shoat and Earl Atwell. There may be others but it could not be ascertained before going to press today.

Mack Cathey, who is in the navy, spent a week here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Cathey. He was accompanied by his friend, Sailor Benson. They left yesterday and will join their crew on the United States ship Langley, which is leaving in a few days for a cruise around the world. Mrs. Charles Kendrick, a sister of young Cathey, came down from Asheville to spend a few days with her brother before leaving. She will be working in the city several days before returning to her home in Asheville.

Eugene Fink will move into his new home on Academy street next week.

Mrs. P. G. Reynolds has returned from Baden, where she spent ten days visiting her daughter.

Mr. Eugene Hawthorne left Monday for Norfolk, Va., where he will spend several weeks. It is quite probable that he will engage for an European trip on one of the large sailing vessels. This trip is yet uncertain.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Colson reported new roasting ears from her garden on Tuesday June 23.

There's Been Clashes Between U. S.-Russia For Two Centuries

The recent U. S.-Soviet confrontation in the Mid-East follows a history of clashes between the two super powers that began almost two centuries ago off the Alaska coast. But marking these periods of conflict has been a spirit of cooperation between the two. One of the first conflicts between the United States and Russia flared over the fur trade in the North Pacific, according to Dr. Mary E. Wheeler, associate professor of history at North Carolina State University and a specialist in 19th century Russian business.

Enterprising New England merchants, seeking a commodity they could trade for China's tea and silk, ventured into the Russian-dominated waters off Alaska in the 1780's, said Dr. Wheeler. Because they had no fur hunting facilities, the "Bostonians" traded guns and woolen cloth to the Alaskan Indians for furs of the sea otter and other skins that brought handsome prices in China, she said.

The "Bostonians" were competition to the Russian fur traders, adventuresome men who had been named to a committee that could go home and report on, so my motion got a second, and the investigate God committee was made up of them left-out delegates.

But there was an amendment. The committee is not to start work until after the stewardship campaign next fall. In case the committee finds God's denomination is different from ours, we will at least be that much ahead of the game.

A thermometer is indispensable in the home... even though it can't cure a thing, its first function is to prove that someone is sick so that diagnosis and therapy can begin. Then it keeps tabs on the patient's progress. Ultimately it can suggest, though not absolutely, that the crucial stages of illness or infection are over.

You hear people call ours a "sick" society. Is anyone taking its temperature? Yes, the answer is doing a thorough job reporting the fever of the times.

A more crucial question: Is anyone striving to heal society? The Church has it has always been quick to diagnose men's spiritual ills and ready to make available the remedies God has prescribed.

Obviously, however, society isn't one person but many. Its cure will progress as we get the patients and the doctor together.

Mooreville's Mac Atwell Enjoys Parade

Malinda Blalock N. C.'s Only Female Civil War Soldier

During the Civil War, North Carolina provided approximately 140,000 soldiers for Confederate service. Of that number, 139,999 were in many ways unremarkable, at least in comparison with one, whose name was Malinda.

Malinda Blalock, nee Pritchard, alias Sam, North Carolina's only known female Civil War soldier, was the wife of W. M. (Keith) Blalock and was living "under the Grandfather" in Watauga or Caldwell counties at the outbreak of the war.

Keith, although a Union sympathizer, enlisted in Co. F, 26th Regiment North Carolina Troops, March 20, 1862, in order to avoid conscription and in hopes of escaping to the Union lines. Sam Blalock, unperceptively described as "a good looking boy, aged 16," enlisted on the same date.

For the next two weeks Pvt. Sam Blalock "did all the duties of a soldier" and was, as he is told, "very adept at learning the manual and drill." The new private tented and messed with Keith, who was presumed to be his brother, and watched the other men when they went swimming near Kingston. It is observed, however, that Sam never went in himself.

Keith, meanwhile, speedily grew tired of soldiering and, having endured military life for two weeks, "went into the bushes and covered himself with poison oak," or, according to another account, poison sumac. The army surgeon, although puzzled as to the nature of his disease, agreed that he was unfit for service, and he was granted a discharge.

Ingram In World Series Of Rodeoing

A Mooresville man, Harland Ingram, is in Albuquerque, New Mexico this week competing in the International Final Rodeo.

The fixed camera and recording unit are used to record trials, and the mobile unit is used to tape the testimony of witnesses who are unable to appear in court, such as doctors.

The camera is fixed on the witness stand while a person testifies, and the image of the witness appears on a television monitor to the right of the jury box.

Judge Collier said the method has been used to cut three-day

WF Coach Feathers To Speak At Boosters' Grid Banquet

The Mooresville Boosters Club will hold its annual recognition banquet at the Statesville Senior High School on Wednesday night, December 5. According to Dick Ford, president of the Boosters, the banquet will be held in the high school's cafeteria, getting underway at 7 p.m.

All members of the school's 1973 football team, along with the team's coaches and managers, plus the cheerleaders and lettergirls will be special guests.

The featured speaker will be Beattie Feathers, who has been a member of the football coaching staff at Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem for the past 13 years.

In addition to the meal and the talk by Coach Feathers, another feature of the banquet meeting will be the awarding of a number of trophies, won by the 1973 team and individual members of the squad.

The 1973 Blue Devils team captured the regional and playoff championships of the North Piedmont Conference before bowing to Salisbury of the South Piedmont Conference in the semi-final of the Western North Carolina High School Activities Association's playoffs.

The Blue Devils, with Coach

Feathers, a member of the Football Hall of Fame, is in his 13th year on the Deacon coaching staff. He served three years as freshman coach before moving to the varsity staff in 1964. He now heads the university's scout team and serves as an assistant coach.

An All-American halfback at Tennessee in 1933, Feathers also earned All-Pro honors with the Chicago Bears in 1934. He later played with Brooklyn and the Green Bay Packers before taking over as head coach at Appalachian State University at Boone in 1942.

Later, he served eight years (1945-51) as head coach at North Carolina State University at Raleigh, where his teams won 35, lost 38 and tied three.

After leaving North Carolina State following the 1951 season, he coached two years at Fort Jackson, S.C. He joined the Texas Tech coaching staff in 1954, remaining there until he joined the coaching staff at Wake Forest in 1961.

Residents of 2719 Reynolds Road in Winston-Salem, Coach and Mrs. Feathers have three daughters and six grand-children.

Devaluation Of The Dollar Forces GI Wives To Work

Pinched by the devaluation of the dollar, wives of many GI's in West Germany are working in factories to give the family a second paycheck.

"It was a question of me going to work or going back to the States," said one wife. "We just couldn't make it any more on GI pay."

The dollar's purchasing power has dropped 25 per cent this year. It was worth 3.22 marks in January; now it is worth 2.41. Hardest hit are the low-ranking soldiers, who aren't eligible for army housing for their families and often have over half their pay to German landlords.

"When my husband was assigned to Germany, I never thought I would end up working in a German factory," said Diane Earwood of New Lexington, Ohio, the wife of a helicopter crew chief. "The work is repetitious, but people are friendly and the pay is good."

The brown-haired 21-year-old is one of 100 American wives who make a minimum of about $3 a day, after deductions, on the assembly line at the Bosch automobile components factory in a north Bavarian town.

Partly other GI wives work in an Ansbach sausage plant. Scores more have found work in offices and factories in Schwinfurt, Wuerzburg and Nuernberg. The American women have joined 2.5 million South European migrants who are keeping factories operating in labor-short Germany.

"For us, the dollar devaluation came at a favorable time," said Johannes Geibel, who manages the Bosch factory. "We were expanding the work force to build yeloy switches for seat belts on export-model Volkswagens and Fords."

"The Americans were hired and trained for the new assembly line. We are very satisfied. The Americans work as well as our other employees." The American women work an eight-hour day—from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. to 11—paid only $2.50 an hour plus incentive bonuses. About 20 per cent is withheld for German income taxes and another 13 per cent for health unemployment insurance and pension.

"I started three months ago. I'm working to help my husband," said Evelyn Jackson, 29, Chicago. "We have government housing because my husband is a career soldier. But we need marks because we buy food and clothing in German stores."

Peggy Clark of Birmingham, Ala., a trained telephone operator, is assembling Mercedes-Benz blinker-light components for $55 a week because her application for an Army phone job was turned down.

"The Army doesn't have enough jobs for dependent wives," said Karen Jackson, 21, the wife of a private first class from Moore, Okla. "I heard about a bookstore job paying $150 a month, but you have to keep inventory and put up with a lot of smart-talking soldiers."

Once-Famous Bank Robber Looks Back On 'Career'

Harvey Bailey of Joplin, Mo., does not look 86 years old. His physique is that of a man perhaps 20 years younger. And with his white hair, sparkling black eyes and square jaw, he looks more like a retired successful farmer than a retired bank robber.

But between 1920 and 1932, John Harvey Bailey was America's most successful bank robber. Today, after spending nearly 40 years in prison, including 12 years in Alcatraz, he lives a quiet life here with his wife of eight years.

Bailey recently retired as a cabinet maker, a trade he learned as a boy and resumed while in prison. In 1964, he was paroled from prison and moved to this southwestern Missouri city.

Not long after, Bailey met J. Evetts Haley, a Texas writer and historian. Now Haley, fascinated by Bailey's life, has written a book about it, "Robbing Banks Was My Business."

Bailey says he decided to tell his life story to Haley because he "wanted to say that crime doesn't pay. I hope my story may be a warning to young Americans who may be tempted."

Bailey admits that he was tempted as a young man, "I began as a bootlegger," he says. "It was easy money. But then I graduated to banks. There was more money in robbing banks. I robbed about two banks a year during the 12 years I was in that business."

Bailey talks freely of those days when he worked with such desperadoes as Machine Gun Kelly, Alvin Karpis, Frank Nash, Fred Burke, Pretty Boy Floyd and others.

"I knew them all, and I worked with them," he said, adding, "Al Capone was one of the best boys you ever met. I knew him at Alcatraz. He worked with me for three years. I watched over him because some of the punks wanted to stick a knife in him."

Of Pretty Boy Floyd, Bailey recalled, "He was a thief, but there was honor among thieves then."

Bailey said that in 1924, when a serious drought hit the Cookson Hills in Oklahoma, he and Floyd broke into a grocery store at Salisaw, Okla., loaded a pickup truck with groceries and distributed them to the "poor" Cherokee and other folks in the hills.

"They were starvin' to death until we helped them," said Bailey, who is not apologetic about his past. "Although Bailey robbed banks from Texas northward through Kansas to Wisconsin, and from Ohio westward into the Dakotas, he eluded the law. When he was finally sent to prison in the early 1930's, it was, he says, "on a bum beef."

He was sentenced to life in prison for conspiracy and kidnapping in the famous case of Charles F. Urschel, wealthy Oklahoma oilman.

"I never was involved in that," Bailey asserts. Bailey explains that he was captured with $50 of the ransom money. Machine Gun Kelly, who had directed the kidnapping, had repaid a loan, he said, and Bailey was unaware that the money was part of the Urschel ransom.

Comparing robbing banks in the '20s and '30s to such crimes today, he said, "It can't be done today in the towns of 65 or 75 thousand people like when we robbed them. Today there's helicopters, airplanes and two-way radios. You just can't do it without gettin' caught."

77 Bulls Participating In Performance Program

The first series of 77 bulls is now participating in the performance testing program set up by the 1973 General Assembly at the Piedmont Research Station near Salisbury.

The animals will be performance tested for growth rate and feed conversion under uniform feeding and handling conditions for 140 days. Most of them will be graded and sold on February 28 to be used to upgrade beef herds of the state.

Consignors to the first test included bulls from the herds of Preston Cornelius and W. L. Teeter of Moore'sville.

North Carolina Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham praised North Carolina State University extension animal husbandry specialists, the North Carolina Department of

from the testing station in Rocky Mount and this facility will make this service more available to the beef industry. Graham said, "This should be an asset when we approach them next year for funds to upgrade dairy and poultry research facilities and other needs on our research stations."

North Carolina Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham, left, observes the first bulls on test at the Piedmont Bull Test Station near Salisbury. With Graham is Clyde McSwain, superintendent of the station.
