 The 4-H Club

Several years ago, the generation gap was a household word. It was a term used to describe the differences between young people and adults. But today, the gap is closing. Young people and adults are working together to solve problems and make a better world. This is the spirit of the 4-H program. It is a program that brings young people and adults together to learn, grow, and improve. It is a program that is making a difference in the lives of young people and adults everywhere.

4-H Dress Revue Helps In Sewing Project
 BY MARY BETH SHIPS
 Mooresville Club
 I love to sew but I always get frustrated and wanted to drop it. On Thursday night, we had the opportunity to sew with Mrs. Miller for her sewing project. We learned how to sew darts and how to sew a skirt. We also learned how to sew a blouse. We were very happy to learn these things and we are now making a dress. We are very proud of our work and we are going to wear it to the 4-H Dress Revue.

Story-Telling Time In Child Care 4-H Project
 Glenda Sexton, whose 4-H project is child care, is pictured as she conducts a story-telling hour for a group of two to six year old youngsters. Glenda is a member of the Oakridge 4-H Club.

Glenda Sexton: Reading To Small Kids Gives Me A 'Real Thrill' Feeling
 BY GLENDA SEXTON
 Oakridge Club
 When the stories have a happy ending, the children are so happy. I have learned how to hold their hands and read to them. They get a real thrill out of it.

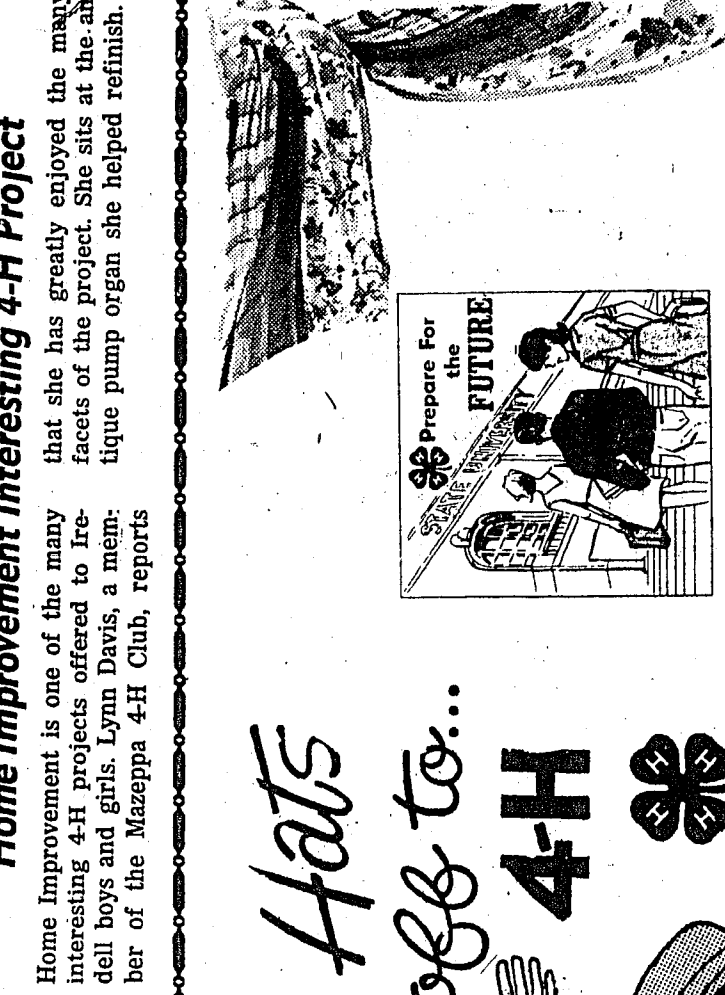

Tractor Know-How Saves Time And Money
 BY JOHN FLAKE BRANTLEY
 Brawley Helping Hands Club
 Since the invention of the tractor, farming has been a prosperous business. With the tractor, farmers can do more work in less time. This is why the tractor is so important to farming. It is a machine that has saved time and money for farmers everywhere.

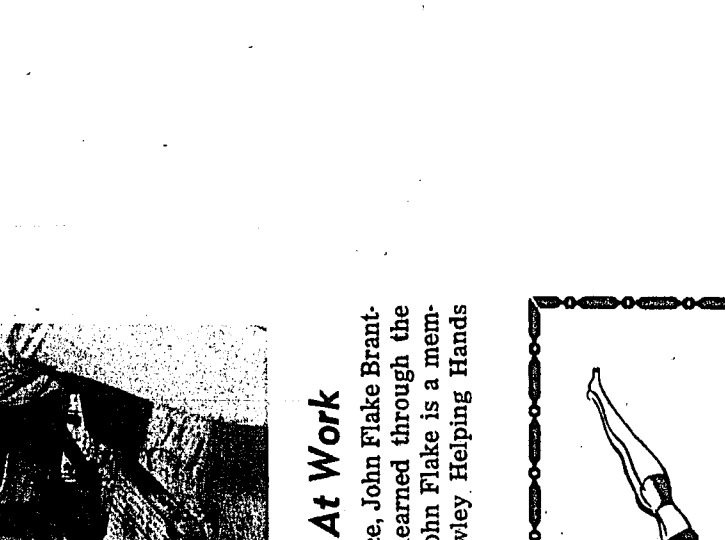

Charcoal Sketching
 Herman Sherrill, a member of the Oakridge 4-H Club, puts the finishing touches on a charcoal sketch of a tractor. He also works on his art and crafts 4-H project. He is a member of the Oakridge 4-H Club.

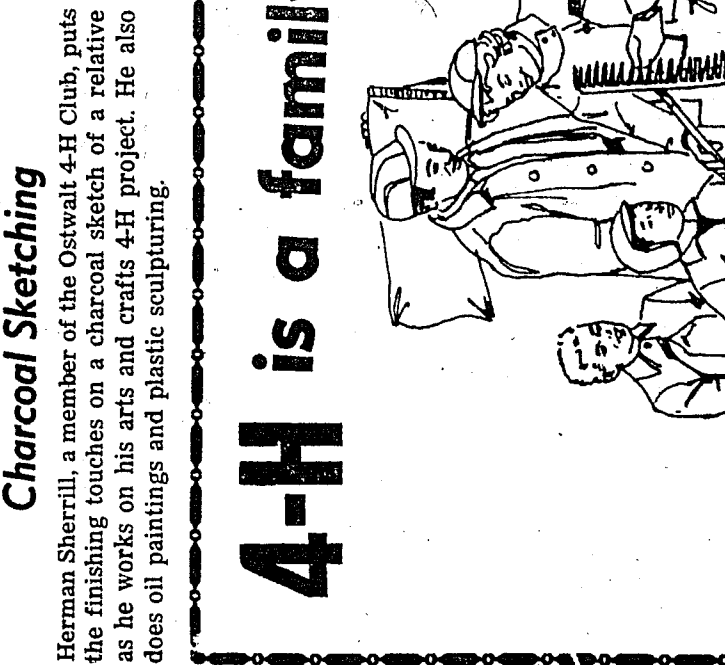

Home Improvement Interesting 4-H Project
 Home improvement is one of the many facets of the project. She sits at the antique pump organ she helped refinish.

Hats Off to 4-H
 Hats off to 4-H. Hats off to the many 4-H'ers who have made a difference in the lives of young people and adults everywhere. Hats off to the many 4-H'ers who have made a difference in the lives of young people and adults everywhere.

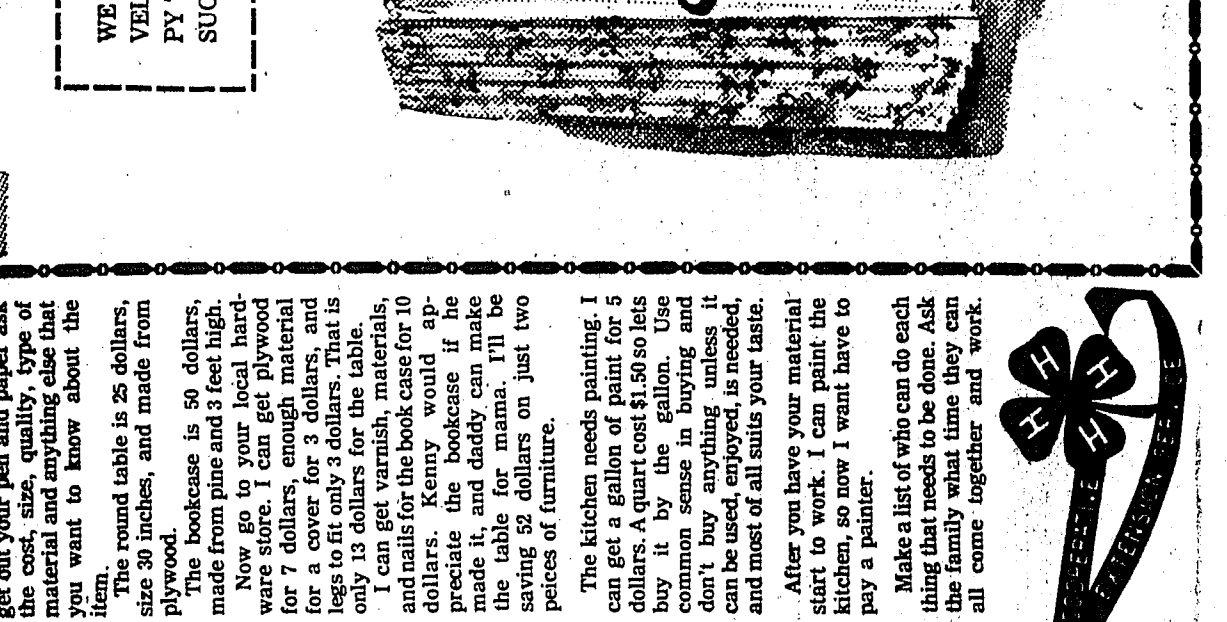

'Master Mechanic' At Work
 When it comes to tractor maintenance, John Flake Brantley knows quite a bit. Much of it he learned through the 4-H Tractor Maintenance Project. John Flake is a member and vice president of the Brawley Helping Hands 4-H Club.

4-H is a family affair
 Not enough families are getting the benefits possible through the 4-H Club Programs. We know that if every boy and girl and every parent really knew of the many opportunities 4-H Club work offers for individual improvement, better family life, new farm and home practices and a better community, more families would be in it. May we extend our congratulations to the boys and girls now members of Irredell County Clubs.
