Victim Died When Thrown From This Crumpled Compact

Chris Howard Fatally Injured In Car Crash Thursday Evening

A top-caliber student at Mooresville Senior High School was fatally injured early last Thursday night in a one-car wreck just west of Mooresville.

Chris Watson Howard, 16-year-old resident of Mooresville, route 4, was pronounced dead on arrival at the Lawrence Hospital, where he was brought by ambulance immediately following the 8:20 p.m. crash.

The fatal accident occurred on the Brawley School Road, two-tenths of a mile west of U. S. Highway 21, according to the investigating officer, State Trooper J. M. Burns.

The officer's investigation revealed the teen-ager was driving east on the Brawley School Road in a 1973

Volkswagen, apparently at a high rate of speed, when the car ran off the right shoulder of the road and turned over several times.

Howard was thrown from the car, the officer reported.

Ronald Evans Armstrong, 16, of Mooresville route 6, was a passenger in the Howard vehicle. He also was brought to the local hospital by ambulance, but, suffering only from minor injuries, he was treated and released.

"Chris was a top-caliber high school student, outstanding scholastically, athletically and socially," stated Mrs. Felton Burris, guidance director at Mooresville Senior High School, where the fatally injured youth was a member of the junior class.

"He was a very personable young man and his tragic death sent shockwaves of grief through the entire student body and faculty," Mrs. Burris added.

He had been active in sports for several years.

During his last year at Junior High, he played football and was a member of the school's wrestling team.

He also was a member of the Junior Beta Club and the Monogram Club while in the ninth grade at Junior High, as well as a member of the Student Relations Committee.

Last year, while a sophomore at Senior High, Howard played baseball for the same team.

The jury further ruled that Wayne Brannon, Sr., owner of the cabin cruiser struck by the boat, was liable with Harris for the injuries suffered by the plaintiffs and should contribute to the amount of damages.

The jury found that Harris operated his boat in a negligent manner and that Brannon, whose boat was operated by his son, Wayne Brannon, Jr., was liable for damages since the boat had been anchored in such a way as to create a hazard.

Harris had contended that the Brannon cruiser was anchored without lights in or near the channel of the lake north of the NC 150 bridge and that, as he proceeded in that direction, his boat struck the cruiser.

The jury ruled that Brannon was not entitled to recover property damages for the boat, as he had contended that the boat was a total loss and was seeking $6,500 in damages.

Harris had, in his answer, asked that if the jury found that Brannon, by virtue of the fact his son was operator of his boat, had contributed to his own damages and the injury of the two other plaintiffs by his negligence, he should share the liability.

Prior to the charge the defense attorney, Douglas Eisele, asked the court to submit the issue to whether Shoe and Swezey contributed to their own injuries by their negligence.

Seventy-five Iredell County residents have been selected for jury service as a special venire for Rowan County, according to an announcement made today by L. L. Nesbit, register of deeds for Iredell County.

Several of the 75 are from the Mooresville area, being as follows:

Box 121, Troutman; David W. Honbarger, Jr., 426 North Academy Street, Mooresville; Mrs. Will H. Johnson of Mooresville, route 5; And, B. D. Lineberger of Mooresville, route 4; Edgar L. Little, 208 Wilson Avenue, Mooresville; Mrs. W. H. Mann of Mooresville, route 1; Boyd McCaskill, 18 Cascade, Mooresville; Dorothy L. Thompson of Mooresville, route 2; and W. D. Troutman, Jr., of Troutman.

The prospective jurors will report at the Rowan County courthouse in Salisbury at 10 a. m. on Monday, September 24.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

CHRIS WATSON HOWARD
Funeral Sunday Afternoon

Uncle Dan From Doolie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

We had a right good session at the country store Saturday night, Mister Editor, and the fellers covered the situation world-wide as usual. Clem Webster put the stopper in the national affairs jug when he called for the Nixon Administration to go into exile.

Clem said he had thought the situation up one side and down the other, and he was of a mind that since President Nixon ain't never in Washington anyhow, special when someone, underdressed is going on, he might as well move permanent to his place in California or Florida. That way, allowed Clem, he could declare his estate a foreign country, and running the United States then would be foreign policy. Nixon's track record is a heap better in foreign affairs than in domestic matters, was Clem's words.

Furthermore, went on Clem, we could call them millions we spent on Nixon's houses and grounds foreign aid, and, fer shore, we have one country in the world where the dollar would be welcome. Clem said with all them airplanes and soldiers it takes time to move Nixon from one place to another, we'd come out ahead giving em to him and making him a military power that could swing the world balance back in our favor.

Actual, Mister Editor, the fellers didn't take Clem serious, but Zeke Grubb was agreed that it's costing the taxpayers a heap more to keep up Nixon than we spend of some fair-size countries. And not the least expense, said Zeke, is them 25 or so $200-a-day lawyers he's got figgering how he can hold a 30-minute news conference and not say one thing new.

Ed Doolie broke in to say the way the mood in this country is going he won't be surprised to hear the Nixon Administration blamed for the weather and the troubles of the Pittsburgh Pirates. After all, allowed Ed, the U. S. Weather Bureau is a federal service, and Nixon's son-in-law writes up baseball games. Ed said he had saw they is 1,400 advisory members in the federal government, and you would get the idea from the papers that the President had got a spy sitting on ever one of em.

The truth is, declared Ed, that folks in this country give to reading a certain kind of news every day, and they natural looking for the same kind. The papers keep digging to find some new for the news, and this causes the littlest news to get the biggest attention, Ed said.

Bug Hookum was agreed with Ed that some news don't get play it should cause the papers keep digging the same hole. For instance, Bug had saw where you can't trust the Boy Scouts these days. The Scout leaders flat lied to the boys at that Eastern Juniors last month when they said a hot air balloon had come all the way from the Western Jamboree in Idaho. It had, but inside a airplane from a few miles outside of one to a few miles from the other.

A 14-year-old boy caught his chosen leaders in that one. Mister Editor. A little child shall lead us.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

Building Volume Continues

Eight building permits, calling for a money volume of $146,700, were issued in Mooresville during July.

This boosted the total for the first eight months of the year to 100 permits, calling for an outlay of $1,544,839, according to J. L. (Jude) Alexander, Mooresville's building inspector.

In money value, the largest single permit issued during the month just ended, was a $60,000 permit granted Piedmont Bank and Trust Company for an office on N. C. By-Pass 150, which is to be a part of the now-under-construction Mooresville Plaza.

Port City Fish Market was authorized to erect an $8,000 structure on North Broad Street, the new edifice to replace one destroyed by fire earlier this summer.

Permits for the erection of three one-family dwellings were granted. One permit was issued authorizing the demolition of an existing building, while another permit was issued for the erection of an addition to a present structure. A permit also was granted for the building of a carport.

Six permits, with a money value of $71,100, were granted in January, while eight permits calling for an outlay of $41,525, were granted in February, and, during March, 11 permits, calling for an outlay of $171,800, were issued.

During April, 22 permits, with a money value of $192,350, were issued, while 21 permits, with a money value of $73,354, were granted in May. During June, eight permits, with a money value of $95,500, were granted, and, during July, 18 permits, calling for an expenditure of $752,500, were authorized.

Local Youths Awarded Boat Mishap Damages

An Iredell County Superior Court jury Friday awarded two Mooresville youths damages for injuries they suffered in a boating accident on Lake Norman in August 1971.

In a lawsuit completed after a full week of trial before Judge George M. Fountain of Tarboro, the jury decided Grady Shoe was entitled to recover $10,000 for his injuries, some of which may be permanent.

The jury further ruled that Wayne Brannon, Sr., owner of the cabin cruiser struck by the boat, was liable with Harris for the injuries suffered by the plaintiffs and should contribute to the amount of damages.

The jury found that Harris operated his boat in a negligent manner and that Brannon, whose boat was operated by his son, Wayne Brannon, Jr., was liable for damages since the boat had been anchored in such a way as to create a hazard.

Harris had contended that the Brannon cruiser was anchored without lights in or near the channel of the lake north of the NC 150 bridge and that, as he proceeded in that direction, his boat struck the cruiser.

More ABC $ Stays In County

The Mooresville ABC store has been contributing about $18,000 a year to the state's alcoholic rehabilitation efforts. Now this money will stay in Iredell County.

Funds to finance education, treatment and rehabilitation programs for alcoholics are realized from a special nickel-per-bottle tax on liquor. This tax has been going into the state general fund, and officials of the state ABC system have expressed concern that no direct accounting is made of how this money has been used.

The 1973 General Assembly decreed that, effective July 1, the nickel-per-bottle money should be spent in the county in which it is collected. Lewis Mack, chairman of the local ABC board, applauded the change. He said the local store, the only legal liquor outlet in the county, would benefit.

School Vote Must Be Run By County

The November 6 vote that will fill two seats on the five-member Mooresville Board of Education is an election-within-an-election. The school selection is an operation independent of the Mooreville municipal election and the vote on state issues.

In the past, the town government has conducted the school board election with its own annual voting. No more. The state's uniform elections law now in effect says the county must conduct the school election.

This means a different set of rules for the school vote. This also presents the possibility of a misunderstanding among residents of the Mooreville school district. They could have been eligible to vote in previous school elections, but not qualified to vote in this one.

In order to vote, a person must be registered on the county books. Some people may be registered on town and school books, but not on the county books. These will not be able to vote unless they register by October 8.

The town, school and county are building a uniform registration system, but not all names on municipal-school lists have been cross-referenced to assure they are on what now is the all-inclusive county books.

To register or check their registration, South Iredell residents may contact Mrs. Joe Crooks at the Mooresville
