Public relations is the art of not treating the public like they were relations.

Most jobs are carried out best by committees of one.

Talk about conditioned reflexes. Nowadays, we start worrying at 11 P. M., whether we're watching the news or not.

As the kids go off for the first day of school, mom feels a twinge of sadness, it being only a half-day session.

Every year it takes less time to fly around the world, and more time to get to work.

New Law Requires Periodic Examination Of Mental Patients In Home Counties

A new law passed by the North Carolina General Assembly and put into effect September 1 requires Iredell County to transport some 55 mental patients from different hospitals in the state back to Statesville every 120 days for a re-hearing before a district court judge.

Iredell County is going to be responsible for providing transportation and facilities for these mental patients when they are returned to their home county for a re-hearing.

Teacher Exams Set At Catawba

The National Teacher Examinations will be administered on November 10 at Catawba College in Salisbury, which has been designated as a test center.

According to David J. Sessions, director of Institutional Studies, many college seniors preparing to teach and teachers applying for certification, licensure, or those seeking positions in school systems which encourage or require the NTE will be taking the tests. In addition, the designation of Catawba College as a test center for these examinations will give prospective teachers in this area an opportunity to compare their performance on the examinations with candidates throughout the country who take the tests, Sessions said.

Last year approximately 110,000 candidates took the examinations which are designed to assess cognitive knowledge and understanding in professional education, general education and subject field specialization. The examinations, which are prepared and administered by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, New Jersey, are limited to assessment of these aspects of teacher education that are validly and reliably measured by well constructed paper-and-pencil tests.

Bulletins of information describing registration procedures and containing Registration Forms as well as sample test questions may be obtained from Sessions's Office, 111 Administration Building or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Box 91, Princeton, New Jersey 08540.

Iredell County Clerk of Court Carl Smith. "This new law is taking the commitment process from the doctors and putting it into the courts," said Smith. "No one now has the authority to order a doctor to examine a patient. Prior to September 1, I could order a mental examination."

Some 55 Iredell County citizens are in mental institutions in North Carolina. A re-hearing will consist of getting a statement from a doctor at the hospital outlining the condition of the patient. The law requires that an attorney be appointed for every patient, whether he wants one or not. If he cannot afford an attorney, the state will pay the bill.

The actual hearing will be held before a district court judge, and Chief District Court Judge Hubert E. Oliver Jr. has decided these hearings will be held on Thursday before a district judge in Statesville.

"The time element involved in the new mental law is vital," Smith said.

The old process of committing an alleged mental patient consisted of an individual coming into the Clerk of Court's office and signing a sworn statement that someone needed mental help. The clerk would then order an examination and

A native of the Coddle Creek community—Arthur B. Gilbert, 50, of Orange Park, Fla.—died on Wednesday of last week. Although he had been in declining health for more than a year, his death was unexpected, being attributed to a heart attack.

Mr. Gilbert was a son of the late Edward B. and Rosetta Washam Gilbert. He spent his boyhood days in the Coddle Creek community, and served in the U.S. Navy's years before retiring. At the time of his death, he was a civil service employee at the Jacksonville, Fla., Naval Air Station.

He was a veteran of World War II, and was one of the survivors of the USS Arizona when it went down at Pearl Harbor.

Survivors include: the widow, Mrs. Phyllis M. Gilbert; two sons, Ivan Gilbert of Orange Park and Dennis Gilbert, who is attending Florida State University at Tallahassee; two brothers, Clarence Gilbert of Mooresville and Ray Gilbert of Baltimore, Maryland; two sisters, Mrs. Mitchell Karriker and Miss Hazel Gilbert, both of Mooresville.

Funeral services for Mr. Gilbert were conducted at 5:30 p.m. Friday at the Presbyterian Church in Orange Park, with the Rev. Edwin F. Montgomery officiating. Burial was in Orange Park.

hold a hearing. At the end of 180 days the clerk of court in the county where the hospital is located would conduct a sanity hearing.

The new process will not necessarily involve local doctors' examination. When an alleged mental patient is taken into custody by a police officer he will be examined by a doctor if possible. However, the doctor is under no obligation to examine the patient and he can refuse.

The patient is then brought to a magistrate and sent to Broughton Hospital in Morganton, if mentally ill, or to the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center in Black Mountain.

Within 48 hours of the commitment, the hospital must notify the local magistrate of its findings about the patient. Five days after the commitment a hearing must be held.

before a judge to either release or commit the patient. If the magistrate is not notified within 48 hours of the commitment, he has to issue a release order under the revised law.

The law regarding voluntary commitment of mental patients has also been changed by the N. C. General Assembly. At one time a doctor's statement was necessary for a person to be committed. Now a person must be admitted at any mental health hospital for an examination. He is under no obligation to stay and can leave at any time.

The hospital can release the patient after a routine examination.

The new law is under study by the North Carolina legislature for possible changes in January, but in the meantime it is in effect.

WATERGATE, PLEASE

I stopped by the ice cream store today. For a moment of refreshment and ease; And when the clerk asked, "What flavor will it be?" I answered subconsciously, "Watergate, please."

I went to the Supermarket for a pound of coffee. And mentally cautioned, "Watch the date!" But forgetting for a moment the brand I use... I found myself searching for... Watergate!

And I mustn't forget a can o' dog food for Prince... And collar for his fleas; "What brand do you wish?" the store clerk asked... And I answered without thinking, "Watergate, please."
