Afternoon Tea Honors Miss Murdoch

Miss Ann Murdoch, whose wedding to John Daly, Jr., will be an event of September 29, at the First Presbyterian Church, was guest of honor at a lovely afternoon tea on Tuesday, September 18.

The bridal courtesy was given at the home of Mrs. W. W. Rader, 539 West Lowrance Avenue, and assisting Mrs. Rader were Mrs. Charles Bruce, Mrs. Allan Eakle and Mrs. C. L. Kelly.

Artistic floral arrangements were throughout the lovely home and the dining table was covered with an heirloom embroidered cloth and centered with a gorgeous centerpiece of yellow roses. Silver trays held refreshments of bell-shaped sandwiches, chicken salad in tart shells, decorated cake squares, mints and nuts. Fruit punch completed the refreshments.

As guests arrived they were greeted by the hostesses and presented to the honoree and her mother, Mrs. S. E. Murdoch.

Forty guests called during the hours of two until four o'clock.

For the courtesy, Miss Murdoch wore a navy and white dress to which her hostesses added a corsage of minature daisies.

The hostesses' gift to the honoree was a four-slice Sunbeam toaster.

Local Church Women Attend Fall Meeting

The fall enrichment meeting of Church Women of Western North Carolina Association met on September 15, at the Pleasant Ridge United Church of Christ at Ramsuer.

The theme of the meeting was "Choose Life" and the guest speakers were Mr. and Mrs. Henry McDowell, of Kings Mountain. They told of their experiences in teaching and doing missionary and ministry work in Angelo. They, also, told of the 10,000 women becoming christians and how the spirit of God took over the life of a man named Mack Ga Ga Na.

Dr. McDowell is a retired minister and at one time served as president of the Lincoln Academy at Kings Mountain.

The session was called to order and business was conducted with Dr. James Light presiding and welcoming the group.

Mrs. Emily Lester was in charge of the installation ceremony.

Program representatives from the Catawba District included: Mrs. Eulene Shepherd and Mrs. Winnie Hooper, and from the United Church of Christ, Shinnsville were Mrs. Lacy Rankin, Mrs. Guy Harris, Miss Loutell Winford.

Mrs. Rankin was accompanied to the meeting by her husband, Frank Rankin.

Rehearsal Party Fetes Bridal Couple

Immediately following the wedding rehearsal of Miss Cheryl Ann Brown and Donald Richard Beard on Friday evening, at the Central United Methodist Church, Mooresville, a party was held in the church fellowship hall.

The hall was arranged beautifully for the party and the refreshment table was covered in white and centered with an arrangement of pink snapdragons and pink carnations with white daisies and baby's breath. Candlesticks with lighted tapers were on either side of the arrangement.

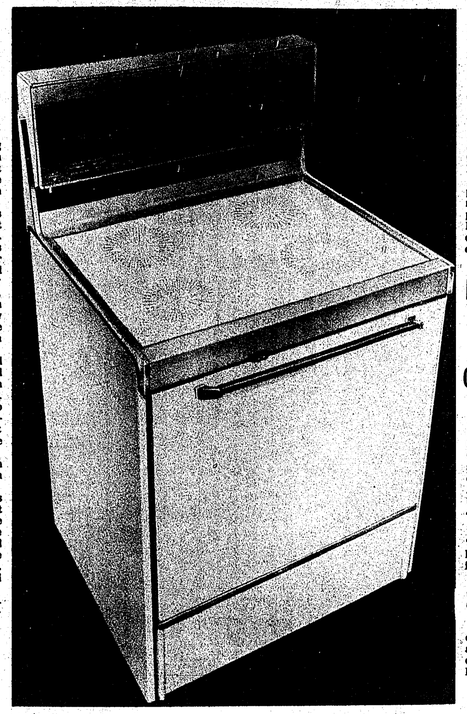
Refreshments of finger sandwiches, chicken salad puffs, nuts and cake squares, decorated with wedding bands, were served with green fruit punch.

Mrs. Joe Alexander and Miss Daisy Alexander assisted with the serving.

Guests were members of the wedding party.

During the evening, the bridal couple chose this time to present gifts to their attendants.

For the rehearsal party, Miss Brown wore a long sleeve dress fashioned with bodice of navy, orange and white with white skirt. She completed her attire with a matching white vest.



Computer technology is introduced into the kitchen for the first time on a practical basis with a revolutionary new range, with a Solid State control panel, that responds to the touch of a fingertip. Called the Touch-N-Cook, the new range was developed by Frigidaire Division of General Motors Corporation and is on display at Morrow Bros., South Main Street.

Frigidaire Has A Smooth Touch In Ranges

A revolutionary new electric range with unique "touch" controls, which has been developed by Frigidaire Division of General Motors, will bring computer technology into the kitchen for the first time on a practical basis for everyday use by the homemaker, simplifying home cooking operations as never before.

In announcing the new product innovation, Bill Earnhardt, of Morrow Brothers, said that a touch of the finger on the control panel will actually initiate cooking commands and a logic circuit similar to those used in a computer does the rest. The system also includes automatic oven cooking, he said.

The remarkable new product is being shown for the first time in this area in the Morrow Brothers showrooms at Corner of South Main and East Center Streets.

The new range employs an illuminated digital information display system more commonly known as a visual "readout" which has become so familiar in present-day electronic calculators, cash registers and other products using modern computer technology.

"Frigidaire designers make use of a total system approach in this range" Earnhardt explained, "eliminating some of the conventional electro-mechanical components with their many moving parts and replacing them with a glass touch panel, integrated circuits and solid state components."

The procedures for operating the new ranges are similar to the conventional type. There is an attractive control panel made of tempered glass that has neither knobs nor holes and permits easy cleaning. The lighted numerical display on the panel indicates the settings made for time and cooking functions and it can be easily read by the homemaker, even in a darkened room. Accuracy of timed functions is controlled within a few seconds.

Several new features and improvements are included in this new "Touch-N-Cook" range. The first solid state digital "Cookmaster," providing oven cooking, is featured. A pre-heat cycle is automatically programmed with use of the oven. Selected surface units can be turned off automatically after a pre-set time. A cook-and-hold feature keeps food warm for delayed meals. Range functions that have been selected can be recalled for display on the control panel by the touch of a finger.

The system is easy to use. For example if the homemaker wants to cook a roast that would be ready for the evening meal—first, she touches the control marked "start time," then the numerals "300." This indicates the oven will start at 3 o'clock. Next she touches the control reading "Bake" and the numerals "325". This is the baking temperature for the oven. Finally, she touches "stop time,, and "600". The oven will turn off at 6 o'clock. This can be done in any sequence the homemaker desires. Having programmed the oven for cooking the roast, she would probably touch "clock" and the Display Window would resume showing the correct time. From this point on, the operation is automatic, having been "Filled" in the memory bank.

The Electri-clean oven feature on this range has been simplified. The homemaker merely locks the oven door and touches the control marked "clean." The oven automatically programmed for the cleaning cycle. When the cleaning period ends, the "lock" signal light goes off and the oven can be unlocked and used.

Any errors in setting, which are beyond the designed limitation of the range, are immediately indicated by a flashing display. A double touch of the "off" pad turns off all cooking functions simultaneously for the homemaker's convenience.

The new range has an automatic broil cycle which controls broiling heat for varying degrees of doneness. The end of timed oven or surface unit cooking is indicated by a tone sound. An appliance outlet is also included in the delayed start circuit for convenience.

Mr. Earnhardt said that the innovative range opens a whole new vista for incorporating computer technology in appliances and could mark the beginning of an era of new electronic controls for greater flexibility, increased reliability, convenient operation, and ease of service.

"The latest scientific techniques have been used to give the homemaker a range that will bring a new feeling of excitement to cooking," he said. "She can use her favorite recipes and there are no new cooking techniques to learn. And with theCeramatop, the Electri-clean oven and smooth touch control panel, the range will offer improved cleanability."

Each evening, a 15-minute film of the latest touch control panel for the electric range with smooth surface and self-cleaning oven, is shown in the window of Morrow Bros., at the corner of South Main and East Center Streets. The film is also narrated.

Ostwalt Club Women Share Home Decorating Ideas

Mrs. Lex W. Cole and Mrs. R. T. Nesbit were hostesses to 20 members of the Ostwalt Homemaker's Club Friday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Cole in Troutman. Mrs. John Freeze was a guest.

Mrs. J. Brown Murdock presided, making several announcements of coming events pertaining to club interests. Mrs. Carlton Goodman gave the devotions, reading an article entitled "Laws of the Season".

Miss Ada Compton gave a report on the tour of Chinqua-Penn, others making the tour from the club were Mrs. Meade Compton and Mrs. C. B. Owens. Mrs. W. B. Cansler and Mrs. L. T. Queen gave the treasurer and secretarial reports.

The theme of the monthly demonstration was "New furnishings limited only by your imagination." The members of the club participated in this discussion. Mrs. Otis Lambert gave a detailed report on her plans of redecorating her den and she plans to splurge in color. Miss Ada Compton is refinishing a table, and making other changes in her home; others showed handmade articles with which they plan to use in making their homes more colorful and interesting. Mrs. Meade Compton showed lovely bright towels enhanced with embroidery and a pillow; Mrs. J. C. Murdock has made beautiful quilts; Mrs. Goodman embroidered plaques for the walls; Mrs. Harry K. Hethcox displayed lovely handwoven baskets, and an attractive handmade door stop, the others having been very busy this year in their gardens, freezing and canning.

It was decided by the club to send magazines to the Veterans Hospital in Salisbury.

During the social period the hostesses served ice cream sodas, nuts and cookies.

Burden Or . . . . INVESTMENT

Penny wise and pound foolish.

A warning as sound as it is old.

The "tax burden" that would result is the major objection of persons opposed to the merger of the Mooresville School attendance area with Mooresville's school system.

This "burden" is 26 cents per $100 of taxable—not market—property value.

$10,000 in taxable value—$26 annual Mooresville school supplementary tax.

$20,000 value means $52 a year; $30,000 requires $78 a year.

Iredell County school administrators are quick to recognize that these supplementary funds provide educational enrichment in Mooresville not available in rural Iredell schools. Rural Iredell parents whose children attend Mooresville schools are happy to pay $70 per year tuition.

Beyond that, however, is the dollars-and-cents side to travel involved between Mount Mourne and Troutman-South Iredell.

A young man who lives at Mount Mourne and takes part in sports at South, for example, may be required to make 50 or more trips per year between home and school—at his parents' expense. A 30-mile trip at a six-cents-per-mile cost: $1.80. 50 trips: $90. If parents attend nine PTA meetings each school year, add $16.20. Attendance at athletic events, play practice, Booster Club functions surely will double this expenditure for the average family.

Your personal expense in providing the same transportation for yourselves and your children between Mount Mourne and Mooresville would be no more than a third of your present costs. Think about it.
Would that 26 cents per $100 be a "burden" or an investment?

MRS. DWIGHT WAYNE JOHNSON

Lovely Afternoon Ceremony Unites Johnson-Wray Couple At St. Mark's Lutheran Church

Miss Wanda Sue Wray and Dwight Wayne Johnson were united in marriage on Sunday, September 23, at four o'clock in the afternoon, in a lovely ceremony at St. Mark's Lutheran Church. The Reverend Robert Edsell performed the impressive ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wray of Mooresville, Route 5, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Johnny Benfield of Davidson, Route 1, and the late George Johnson.

The sanctuary of the church was ornamented beautifully for the ceremony with altar vases holding arrangements of white gladioli, mums and pompoms with foliage. Two baskets of the same flowers in colors of white, green and yellow enhanced the setting. White satin bows marked the pews for the families and guests.

Prior to and during the ceremony, a program of organ wedding music was rendered by Steve Stutts, of Mooresville, and Miss Page Rasar of Mooresville, vocalist.

Organ selections included: He Shall Feed His Flock from "The Messiah", Handel; Prelude on Lasst uns erfreuen by Young; Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring, Bach; Pastorale, Richard Purvis; If With All Your Hearts and O Rest In The Lord from "Elijah", Mendelssohn; and If Thou Art Near, Bach.

Miss Rasar sang "The Greatest Of These Is Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

"Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin by Wagner was played for the processional and "Love Divine All Love's Excelling", based on the hymn tune Hyfrydol, was played for the recessional.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a formal gown of white silk organza over bridal satin with all lace edgings and appliques of re-embroidered antique lace. The sculptured neckline was edged in scalloped lace and the empire waistline featured lace appliques. The sheer bishop sleeves were accented with appliques on the sleeve and cuff and the a-line skirt was adorned with lace appliques of flowers and leaves with deep trim of scalloped lace on bottom of skirt. The detachable chapel length train of lace was caught to the back waistline.

Her chapel length mantilla of silk illusion, bordered with scalloped lace and lace appliques, was worn over a Juliet cap of lace and organza.

She carried a white Bible covered in the same lace as the gown and edged in scallops with white Georgianne orchid with yellow throat and lily of the valley with bridal streamers.

Her only ornament was a tiny silver cross necklace, identical to the ones given by her to her attendants.

The bride's gown and veil were made by her mother.

Mrs. David Miller, sister of the groom, was matron of honor and Miss Linda Wray, sister of the bride and both of Mooresville, was maid of honor.

The honor attendants wore dresses of green polyester print sheer over cotton dacron and styled with scoop neckline, empire waist forming a peak in front, long sheer sleeves and wide floor length gored skirts. The waistline of the dresses were accented with a sash which extended to the back. They wore green picture hats with band around the crown of same material as the dress. Each carried two long stemmed white carnations tipped in green with fern and green and white streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Rhonda Jones, Miss Cecilia Hedrick, Miss Elaine Westmoreland, Miss Cindy Jones and Miss Ann Austell, all of Mooresville and Mrs. Wayne Kinley of Conover, cousin of the bride.

The bridesmaids were dressed identical to the honor attendants with the exception of color which was yellow.

Little Misses Rhonda Overcash of Mooresville and Samantha Killian of Conover, cousin of the bride, were flower girls. They were dressed identical to the honor attendants and wore matching bows in their hair. They carried fancy baskets filled with flower petals.

Master E. D. (Red) Sides of Mt. Mourne, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer. He carried the rings on a fancy heart-shaped satin and lace pillow.

The groom chose Jerry Miller as his best man. Billy Ingle of Mooresville, cousin of the groom, ushered with Wilson Warlic, Richard Warlic, Preston Nantz, Bobby Sides of Mt.Mourne, brother-in-law of the groom, David Lail, cousin of the bride and Wayne Kinley both of Conover.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wray chose a street length princess style dress of mint green polyester lace with sheer sleeves. She wore matching accessories and completed her attire with a corsage of white cymbidium orchids with green throat. The groom's mother, Mrs. Benfield wore a street length dress of blue polyester with high curved waistline and a-line skirt. She complemented her ensemble with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage with yellow throat.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bridal couple, their parents and attendants paused in the vestibule of the church to greet their guests.

For a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride changed into a pantsuit of royal blue with print top.

A graduate of Mooresville Senior High School, the bride is employed at General Times in Davidson. The groom attended Northwest Cabarrus High School and is employed at Elox in Davidson.

The couple will make their home on Highway 21, Mooresville.
