Duffy Resurrected Yet Again

by Sell Groves

When Patrick Duffy decided to return to "Dallas" last year, the producers turned his character's (Bobby Ewing) death into his wife's bad dream 'Come November 1, Duffy does the return from the beyond bit again — this time on NBC's "Our House." Duffy plays the late John Witherspoon who reaches out to help his son, David, find the will to live after undergoing brain surgery.

For love and money: A call for extras to appear on a "Magnum P.I." episode being filmed in Honolulu resulted in nearly 1000 people applying. The men said they were there to earn extra money; the women said the money was nice, but the attraction was very definitely the star, Tom Selleck.

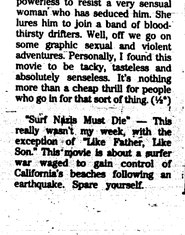
Miss Marple and Jessica Fletcher (Angela Lansbury) are adept at solving mysteries, but both characters are amateur detectives. Margaret Colin's character on CBS' "Leg Work" on the other hand, is a private detective who detects for a living. "What I like about her," Margaret said, "is that she's independent, knows what she wants, but is also a romantic at heart." Like Margaret? "In some ways," she says. "Actually, I have to be careful about what I tell the writers about myself; some of my experiences have already turned up in our scripts." Her dad's a New York policeman. Before her private eye role in "Leg Work," she played a cop, Margo Hughes in "As the World Turns", and a district attorney in "Foley Square." However, she says she never thought of going into police work herself. "For as long as I can remember, acting is what I wanted to do."



Allan Young is the voice of Scrooge McDuck on the syndicated "Ducktales" series. "I suppose they chose me because although I was raised in Canada I was born in Scotland and I could do a proper McDuck brrrrrrrr." He's not surprised to find that "Ducktales" has a large adult audience. "These are remarkable characters; they appeal to every generation." Speaking of generation, isn't it time Donald and Daisy settled down (no pun intended on that last word!!) and raised some ducklings? "I think so," Young said. But would McDuck give them a generous wedding gift? "Ummmm," Young mused, "come to think of it, maybe Donald and Daisy shouldn't rush things after all."

SOAP SCRAPS: "Another World's" Richard Burgi (Chad) and Robert Kelkor Kelly (Sam) are in Sam Shephard's "True West" at the Arden Theater, Montclair, N.J. (1-201-744-8651) Oct. 30, 31 and Nov. 1 ... Beth Ehlers is Harley Cooper and Michelle Forbes is Sonni Lewis on "Guiding Light."

"Like Father, Like Son" — What a stroke of genius in casting — Dudley Moore and Kirk Cameron! Both are extremely talented and delightful in their own right. Pairing them doubles the pleasure. As the title explains, they portray a father and son. The father's a doctor who comes across a magic serum. When they both partake of this concoction, they exchange minds. You can well imagine the hysteria which follows. Don't miss this movie. It'll leave a smile on your lips for some time to come. ()

"Near Dark" — First, I'll give you the plot. A young man finds himself powerless to resist a very sensual woman who has seduced him. She lures him to join a band of blood-thirsty drifters. Well, off we go on some graphic sexual and violent adventures. Personally, I found this movie to be tacky, tasteless and absolutely senseless. It's nothing more than a cheap thrill for people who go in for that sort of thing. (½*)

"Surf Nazis Must Die" — This really wasn't my week, with the exception of "Like Father, Like Son." This movie is about a surfer war waged to gain control of California's beaches following an earthquake. Spare yourself.

New School Service Organization At Shepherd

These Shepherd Elementary School students are the first members of the "Serve Our School" program, a service venture designed to benefit students, teachers and everyone associated with the school. The purpose of the SOS Club, which includes fifth and sixth graders, is to teach students leadership qualities and behavior while giving them leadership experiences. The students serve in squads of 12 for a period of one month. They meet once a week with a school counselor for group learning and activities. The SOS members serve the school by tutoring other students, assisting in the office, helping teachers in the classrooms and giving special attention to the neatness of the building and grounds. Guidance counselor Adelaide Ashe, director of the SOS Club, and other school officials believe having the students involved in the club will increase school pride and give the students a feeling of accomplishment. Students on the current squad are, front row from left; Oscar Miller, Larry Smith, Gretchen Dietz, James Cox, Richie Deal and Megan McNicholas. Back row, from left, Bonnie Collins, Andy Neill, Nathan Coleman, Shelletha Mills and Jamie Barnhardt.
