

Knox

(Continued from Page 2)

complished, there's still plenty of obstacles for the town to tackle in the near future, Knox said.

"If I thought I wouldn't be an asset for the town, I wouldn't be interested in continuing as mayor," he said, "but I think I'll be valuable to the town for at least the next two years."

He mentioned that as a current vice president of the North Carolina League of Municipalities, he is able to meet and talk with high ups in state government, giving Mooresville an edge in getting its concerns and needs expressed to state officials.

Knox said the most important item on the town's agenda in the next two years will be working with the county to develop a different type of agreement for utility expansion.

Currently, when the county and town work together to finance utility expansion to a site, the county pays 70 percent and the town pays 30. If the town annexes the property within five years after the utility expansion, the town must reimburse the county for a portion of its initial investment.

"We need to continue cooperating with the county, but we must negotiate a different type of policy than the one we have now," Knox said. "We can't continue to furnish waste treatment services to new industries for just user fees. We need to expand the town's tax base."

Knox said he believes the county should finance the expansion of utility services because it benefits the most from development.

"The county gets tax money from day one when a new industry moves into this area," Knox said. "Under the present agreement, we have to pay them back if we annex and that ties up too much of our capital, which hinders our ability to deal with growth."

And Knox, who has seen Mooresville's population grow from 6,700 to 9,200 while the pattern to mayor, said he expects the pattern to continue.

"This is where the growth is, but we have to be ready to deal with it," Knox said. "We are in the process of some long-range planning to see how long our current waste treatment facilities can meet the need, but it is obvious that we can't continue doing forever what we're doing now."

"It's not fair to the town's 9,200 people for the town to continue to supply waste treatment services without increasing the tax base," Knox said. "And the current policy with the county is the culprit. That is where we must direct our attention."

Knox, 63 and co-owner of Knox Realty, doesn't know if his new term will be his last as mayor.

"I really don't know," he said. "Twenty years is a long time as mayor, but I'll have to wait and see how these next two years go."

Knox and his wife, Lib, live at 966 Hampton Place in Mooresville. The couple has three children and six grandchildren.

Vote

(Continued from Page 1)

from 6:30 a.m. until 7:30 p.m.

A total of 4,500 persons are eligible to vote in the election and 5,871 are eligible to participate in the school board election.

The town election will be held under the supervision of the Mooresville Elections Board, composed of Chairman Walter Jones, R.T. Brantley and Jim Mack Morrow.

The Iredell County Elections Board will supervise the school board election.

Members of this board are L. Hugh West Jr., chairman; E. Bedford Cannon, secretary; and James A. Dobson Jr.

Trouman Municipal Candidates

In Trouman, three seats on the board of aldermen are to be filled, and the candidates for these offices are unopposed. Jane Brewster and Leon Brown Jr. are first-time candidates for board seats, while Thelma Dulin is seeking re-election.

Loren Powell is unopposed in his bid for mayor, an office he held 16 years ago, after leaving it four years ago.

Trouman's present mayor, Ernest Sides, is not seeking re-election.

Randall

(Continued from Page 1)

force is in place for each of the four counties.

The commission's patrolman has jurisdiction in all four counties. Without reciprocal agreements, each county would have authority on its land and what is considered its share of the water.

Year-around activity on the 32,000 acres and along the 50 miles of the lake shoreline justify expanded law enforcement, and he sees the value of individual-county participation. He insists, however, that the commission's patrol should continue in a coordinating capacity.

According to Randall, the LNMC patrol program never was intended to be an independent agency. It exists to support and cooperate with sheriff's staffs, rural police and the wildlife commission.

Randall, 54, who also is a town commissioner, is a partner in the local law firm of Neal and Randall.

Motels

(Continued from Page 1)

planning to be very aggressive here in the near future, Knox said.

The Master Host Inn first phase will include an 80-unit hotel complex, with a hospitality room, meeting rooms and a swimming pool. Meletis said, depending on the weather, the hotel should be ready to open by May or early June of next year.

Future expansions make up a big part of the plans for the motel, Meletis said. Another 80 units, a restaurant and lounge, banquet facilities and other motel extras are included in the master plan for the development.

"This is a three to five-year undertaking," Meletis said. "The Master Host Inn is just the first stage."

The future stages involve the development of other parts of Norman Station. The plans for Norman Station include a shopping area, a medical center, restaurants and possibly even a theatre.

During the ceremonies at the site, McKnight spoke about the overall project.

"Three years ago, we started thinking about a commercial development on this site," McKnight said. "Our plans are to turn this 92 acres into a place where you can spend the night, go to a nice restaurant, do some shopping, go to movie or do just about anything you can do at a commercial center anywhere."

Meletis said the developers want Norman Station to be "more than just a business. We want it to be an asset for the entire Mooresville-South Iredell community."

"The county gets tax money from day one when a new industry moves into this area," Knox said. "Under the present agreement, we have to pay them back if we annex and that ties up too much of our capital, which hinders our ability to deal with growth."

And Knox, who has seen Mooresville's population grow from 6,700 to 9,200 while the pattern to mayor, said he expects the pattern to continue.

"This is where the growth is, but we have to be ready to deal with it," Knox said. "We are in the process of some long-range planning to see how long our current waste treatment facilities can meet the need, but it is obvious that we can't continue doing forever what we're doing now."

"It's not fair to the town's 9,200 people for the town to continue to supply waste treatment services without increasing the tax base," Knox said. "And the current policy with the county is the culprit. That is where we must direct our attention."

Knox, 63 and co-owner of Knox Realty, doesn't know if his new term will be his last as mayor.

"I really don't know," he said. "Twenty years is a long time as mayor, but I'll have to wait and see how these next two years go."

Knox and his wife, Lib, live at 966 Hampton Place in Mooresville. The couple has three children and six grandchildren.

Vote

(Continued from Page 1)

from 6:30 a.m. until 7:30 p.m.

A total of 4,500 persons are eligible to vote in the election and 5,871 are eligible to participate in the school board election.

The town election will be held under the supervision of the Mooresville Elections Board, composed of Chairman Walter Jones, R.T. Brantley and Jim Mack Morrow.

The Iredell County Elections Board will supervise the school board election.

Members of this board are L. Hugh West Jr., chairman; E. Bedford Cannon, secretary; and James A. Dobson Jr.

Trouman Municipal Candidates

In Trouman, three seats on the board of aldermen are to be filled, and the candidates for these offices are unopposed. Jane Brewster and Leon Brown Jr. are first-time candidates for board seats, while Thelma Dulin is seeking re-election.

Loren Powell is unopposed in his bid for mayor, an office he held 16 years ago, after leaving it four years ago.

Trouman's present mayor, Ernest Sides, is not seeking re-election.

Randall

(Continued from Page 1)

force is in place for each of the four counties.

The commission's patrolman has jurisdiction in all four counties. Without reciprocal agreements, each county would have authority on its land and what is considered its share of the water.

Year-around activity on the 32,000 acres and along the 50 miles of the lake shoreline justify expanded law enforcement, and he sees the value of individual-county participation. He insists, however, that the commission's patrol should continue in a coordinating capacity.

According to Randall, the LNMC patrol program never was intended to be an independent agency. It exists to support and cooperate with sheriff's staffs, rural police and the wildlife commission.

Randall, 54, who also is a town commissioner, is a partner in the local law firm of Neal and Randall.

Mooresville Residents' Father

Fatally Injured In Car Wreck

Michael Wayne Rallis, 55, of Fairfax, Va., father of four Mooresville residents, died at 12:25 a.m. Saturday in Culowhee as a result of injuries sustained in a one-car wreck that occurred after he suffered a heart attack while driving in Culowhee.

A native of Troy, N.Y., Mr. Rallis was born on April 23, 1932, a son of the late Peter and Mable Calla Rallis.

Surviving are the wife, Mrs. Helen A. Rallis; two sons, Michael W. Rallis Jr. and Bruce E. Rallis, both of Mooresville; four daughters, Mrs. Karen R. Humphrey of Locust Grove, Va., Mrs. Bonnie R. Soufrank of Harrisonburg, Va., and Mrs. Shelley R. Brown and Mrs. Kim R. Cline, both of Mooresville; and one stepson, Bob Stewart of Culowhee. Fourteen grandchildren also survive.

Mr. Rallis was preceded in death by one daughter, Mrs. Brenda R. Hurlocker.

A private funeral service was conducted in the chapel of the Moody Funeral Home in Culowhee Sunday. Memorials may be made to the American Heart Association or the General Scholarship Fund of Georgetown University in Washington, D.C.

$50,000 Bond Set For Suspect

In Murder Of Deborah Keever

In Catawba County Superior Court Monday, Judge Marvin Gray set a secured $50,000 bond for Bryan Maunula Adams, 18, a Lincoln County teenager who is charged with the June 14 murder of Mrs. Deborah Foster Keever, 33, of Denver, route 1.

Keeper was a daughter of Gary and Barbara Foster of Cornelius Road, Mooresville.

Another Lincoln County resident, Lamar Dean Hensley, 18, is also charged with the murder of Mrs. Keever. He remains in jail without privilege of bond.

In court Monday, Assistant District Attorney Gray Hayes argued that Adams should be held without privilege of bond.

"I'm not sure what bond would ensure a defendant's appearance when the state would be seeking the death penalty," Hayes told the court.

Catawba County District Attorney John S. Morrison, president emeritus of Lincolnton University's Wolfson College, will speak on "Constructing and Testing a Replica of an Ancient Greek Warship" at 4 p.m. in Perkins Auditorium, located in the Chambers Building. The lecture is free and open to the public. For more information, call 892-2000 ext. 10.

Morrison, along with retired British naval architect John F. Coates and writer Frank Welsh, led a five-year effort that climaxed in the launching early last August of the 123-foot wooden vessel, Athens' fleet of triremes enabled it to rule the Aegean in the fifth century B.C., but details of the ship's design have remained a mystery. In its launching near the Greek island of Poros, the ship required a crew of over 170, including 130 men and 40 women rowers on three tiers of 170 oars.

Since 1937, Morrison, 74, has taught classics and Greek at several British universities, including Manchester, Durham and Cambridge. He served as a trustee for England's National Maritime Museum 1975-82 and has written three books about ancient Greek ships: "The Athenian Trireme" with Coates in 1980, "Greek Oared Ships" with R.T. Williams in 1968, and "Long Ships and Round Ships" in 1980.

Funeral services for Mr. Holshouser will be conducted tomorrow (Thursday) at 10 a.m. at the Chapel of Lincolnton-Honeycutt Funeral Home in China Grove, with the Rev. Bill Miffland, pastor of Bethel Lutheran Church in Salisbury, officiating. Burial will be in Brookhill Gardens in Rockwell.

The family will receive friends at Lincolnton-Honeycutt Funeral Home in China Grove this (Wednesday) evening from 7 to 8:30 o'clock. At other times, the family will be at the home of a son, Bill Holshouser of Daniels Road, Salisbury, route 1.

A native of Rowan County, Mr. Holshouser was born on Oct. 27, 1906, a son of the late George Washington and Zebbie Weaver Holshouser.

Educated in the Rowan County Schools, Mr. Holshouser attended Bethel Lutheran Church.

Mr. Holshouser, prior to his retirement, was engaged in textile work, being employed at Draymore Manufacturing Corporation in Mooresville.

His wife, Mrs. Eloise Gibson Holshouser, preceded him in death in 1969.

Surviving are: two sons, Bill Holshouser and Floyd Holshouser, both of Salisbury; one daughter, Elma Lee Holshouser, of China Grove; and one sister, Mrs. Carrie Fleming of Odessa, Fla. Five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren also survive.

Blackburn

(Continued from Page 1)

Humana Hospital. Earlier, he was associated with hospitals in Greensboro, College Park, Ga., Rockcove, W.Va., Many, La., and Jackson, Miss.

He is a member of the American College of Hospital Administrators. Blackburn is in the Lake Norman Lions Club, and a director of the South Iredell Heart Association and the Cup Of Water.

He and his wife, Sara, have four children. The family lives on Brewley School Road.

TOODLES USED CARS

Hwy. 21 & 150—Mooresville

PHONE 363-7065

(Open Monday-Saturday)

PRICED TO SELL

Will Finance With Low Down Payment

$23 Per Week

TOODLES USED CARS

Mechanic On Duty Full Time

Tune-Ups—Brakes—Hoses—Etc. Etc.

IN CONCERT

RONNIE McDOWELL

Lincoln Center, Lincoln, NC

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1987

Two 45's—8:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.

ALL SEATS RESERVED

Tickets & Info Available At: Craig F. Galt, Inc.,

Lincolnton, NC (704) 732-4183. Tickets also available at: Music Eye—322-1250

Lordy, Lordy,

TOMMY

Is 40

October 24

We Love Ya

Linda, Jeff, Kevin

A Life-Saving Experiment For Eighth-Grade Scientists

Members of Mrs. Chambers' eighth-grade science class at Mooresville Junior High underwent a potential life-saving experiment during their recently completed study of the human body systems by way of learning in-class CPR techniques. A class member receives first-hand assistance during the final stages of the CPR course from RNs Brynne Beaver, right, an infectious control and inservice nurse, and Susie Delph, a member of the ICU and CCU unit, both at the Lake Norman Regional Medical Center. During the course, the students were taught the proper techniques and latest changes in the CPR method. Students were also cautioned about what to do during seizures. A CPR course will be offered at Junior High Nov. 16-19, from 7-10 p.m. The course will be instructed by James Deaton.

Lecture On

Replica Of Warship

An expert on ancient Greek warships who recently led a celebrated effort to reconstruct, launch and sail a full-scale replica of the Athenian trireme will discuss the project Nov. 2 at Davidson College.

John S. Morrison, president emeritus of Lincolnton University's Wolfson College, will speak on "Constructing and Testing a Replica of an Ancient Greek Warship" at 4 p.m. in Perkins Auditorium, located in the Chambers Building. The lecture is free and open to the public. For more information, call 892-2000 ext. 10.

Morrison, along with retired British naval architect John F. Coates and writer Frank Welsh, led a five-year effort that climaxed in the launching early last August of the 123-foot wooden vessel, Athens' fleet of triremes enabled it to rule the Aegean in the fifth century B.C., but details of the ship's design have remained a mystery. In its launching near the Greek island of Poros, the ship required a crew of over 170, including 130 men and 40 women rowers on three tiers of 170 oars.

Since 1937, Morrison, 74, has taught classics and Greek at several British universities, including Manchester, Durham and Cambridge. He served as a trustee for England's National Maritime Museum 1975-82 and has written three books about ancient Greek ships: "The Athenian Trireme" with Coates in 1980, "Greek Oared Ships" with R.T. Williams in 1968, and "Long Ships and Round Ships" in 1980.

Funeral services for Mr. Holshouser will be conducted tomorrow (Thursday) at 10 a.m. at the Chapel of Lincolnton-Honeycutt Funeral Home in China Grove, with the Rev. Bill Miffland, pastor of Bethel Lutheran Church in Salisbury, officiating. Burial will be in Brookhill Gardens in Rockwell.

The family will receive friends at Lincolnton-Honeycutt Funeral Home in China Grove this (Wednesday) evening from 7 to 8:30 o'clock. At other times, the family will be at the home of a son, Bill Holshouser of Daniels Road, Salisbury, route 1.

A native of Rowan County, Mr. Holshouser was born on Oct. 27, 1906, a son of the late George Washington and Zebbie Weaver Holshouser.

Educated in the Rowan County Schools, Mr. Holshouser attended Bethel Lutheran Church.

Mr. Holshouser, prior to his retirement, was engaged in textile work, being employed at Draymore Manufacturing Corporation in Mooresville.

His wife, Mrs. Eloise Gibson Holshouser, preceded him in death in 1969.

Surviving are: two sons, Bill Holshouser and Floyd Holshouser, both of Salisbury; one daughter, Elma Lee Holshouser, of China Grove; and one sister, Mrs. Carrie Fleming of Odessa, Fla. Five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren also survive.

Blackburn

(Continued from Page 1)

Humana Hospital. Earlier, he was associated with hospitals in Greensboro, College Park, Ga., Rockcove, W.Va., Many, La., and Jackson, Miss.

He is a member of the American College of Hospital Administrators. Blackburn is in the Lake Norman Lions Club, and a director of the South Iredell Heart Association and the Cup Of Water.

He and his wife, Sara, have four children. The family lives on Brewley School Road.

TOODLES USED CARS

Hwy. 21 & 150—Mooresville

PHONE 363-7065

(Open Monday-Saturday)

PRICED TO SELL

Will Finance With Low Down Payment

$23 Per Week

TOODLES USED CARS

Mechanic On Duty Full Time

Tune-Ups—Brakes—Hoses—Etc. Etc.

IN CONCERT

RONNIE McDOWELL

Lincoln Center, Lincoln, NC

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1987

Two 45's—8:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.

ALL SEATS RESERVED

Tickets & Info Available At: Craig F. Galt, Inc.,

Lincolnton, NC (704) 732-4183. Tickets also available at: Music Eye—322-1250

Lordy, Lordy,

TOMMY

Is 40

October 24

We Love Ya

Linda, Jeff, Kevin

Friday, Oct. 23—Saturday, Oct. 31

7:00 P.M.—10:00 P.M.

More Monsters Than You Can Shake A Stake At!

Vampires! • Mummies! • Ghosts!

Werewolves! • Zombies!

"Fun For Kids & All Ages"

Admission—$2.00

Pay For Beginning Drivers

$4.68 Per Hour

Drivers With Yr. Exper.

$4.91 Per Hour

NEXT TRAINING CLASS IS

NOVEMBER 16 & 17

from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at

NORTH IREDELL HIGH SCHOOL

If interested call:

Milton Morrison 528-4536

South Iredell High School

Needs Adult

Bus Drivers

(must be 18 years old)

Pay For Beginning Drivers

$4.68 Per Hour

Drivers With Yr. Exper.

$4.91 Per Hour

NEXT TRAINING CLASS IS

NOVEMBER 16 & 17

from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at

NORTH IREDELL HIGH SCHOOL

If interested call:

Milton Morrison 528-4536

South Iredell High School

Needs Adult

Bus Drivers

(must be 18 years old)

Pay For Beginning Drivers

$4.68 Per Hour

Drivers With Yr. Exper.

$4.91 Per Hour

NEXT TRAINING CLASS IS

NOVEMBER 16 & 17

from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at