Future Goals For Mooreville Discussed By Town Manager McLean

The Public Affairs committee of the Mooreville Woman's Club, chaired by Hazel Dishman, was in charge of the program for the organization's Thursday luncheon at the War Memorial Building. Mrs. Dishman introduced Rick McLean, Mooreville's City Manager.

A native of Mooreville, Mr. McLean returned to Mooreville from Carolina Beach in April of this year to accept the position of town manager.

McLean elaborated on the growth of Mooreville and expressed his dreams for Mooreville and its people. His concern for the citizens of Mooreville is that everyone have a good quality of life, decent jobs, nice homes, and that the school system continue to provide the very best in education. He also hopes Mooreville will remain optimistic in size so as to keep its community atmosphere.

The program was well-received and a question and answer session followed.

Other guests at the meeting were Mrs. Rick McLean, Chad Phillips and Mrs. Annette Johnston.

Chad represented the Mooreville Woman's Club at the Hugh O'Brian Youth Seminar in Charlotte and he gave a brief report on the weekend event whose motto is "Motivating Tomorrow's Leaders Today."

Chad stressed the interaction of the students from across North Carolina with each other and with the business men of Charlotte was outstanding.

President Doris Thompson presided over the meeting and thanked the hostesses, Lynette Cooper, Ruby Morrow, Florence Brawley and Joan Creamer for the delicious luncheon and beautifully appointed tables. Baskets of apples centered each table and each place was marked with a wooden apple key chain.

Reports were heard from the various department committee chairmen. Mrs. Florence Brawley showed several crocheted collars she has made for the forthcoming Arts Festival and encouraged other members to be busy making items to enter into the annual event.

Lynette Cooper reported on the Baby Brigade and Pandora's Box at Western Carolina Center. Announcement was also made of the organization providing cookies for the Bloodmobile visit.

Plans are being completed by the Woman's Club and the Service-Social Club to host the Fall District GFWC meeting at Centre Presbyterian Church on Oct. 16. The club will also have a covered dish supper on the evening, prior to the Friday meeting, at the home of Mrs. Emogene Hensley. Special guests will be State GFWC President Gladys Burroughs and Junior Director Sophie Smith.
