Hoop Day Cage Camp Cancelled

The first annual Mooresville Ford-Davidson College Hoop Day, scheduled for this past Monday, fired up an air ball. The event co-sponsored by Mooresville Ford and Davidson College was cancelled due to lack of participants. It is possible, according to Wanda McKenzie, athletic director for the Mooresville Recreation Department, that a similar attraction may be scheduled at a later date. McKenzie indicated that the area's high concentration in baseball at the time contributed to the lack of interest in the one-day basketball attraction.

Weightlifters Double Pleasure With State Benchpress Crowns

Mooresville lost one state weight class champion but gained two more during this month's North Carolina Championship powerlifting competition. Doubling its pleasure, Mooresville exited this year's Drug Free North Carolina State Benchpress Championship competition with two first-place class champions after posting one gold-medal champion a year ago.

As state weight class champions, both Harris and Ballard, who are among the local health center's most successful lifters in local and regional competitions, were awarded with large trophies acknowledging the beginning of their respective reigns. Both now plan to continue training but take a few weeks from competition before making their respective debuts as recently-crowned state weight class champs.

At worst, the Cubs will finish as one of the best within the boys' North Carolina League. The Cubs assured themselves of at least a tie for the regular-season championship, and moved to within a single game of winning the title outright, with a pair of victories last week.

Those wins hiked the team's record to the 10-2 mark, best in the league, with a pair of games remaining. That put the Cubs two games up in both the win and loss columns over the league's nearest challenger and one of only two other teams with at best an outside shot at earning a share of the league crown.

The Cubs became the league's first team to reach double digits in the win column as they continued their wire-to-wire mastery of league opposition. The Yankees had their slim hopes dashed farther last week by splitting decisions and heading into this week's action with an 8-4 overall mark to rank second.

The Yankees need to win their remaining games, and hope for losses on the part of the Cubs, in order to gain a share of the title. That's the same fate that stares at the Phillies, who suffered a loss in their only appearance last week to dip to 7-4. One more Cubs win will eliminate the Phils from the title chase.

The Astros continued to make progress, as they shared the league lead for most wins last week — with two — and padded their record to the 7-5 level while rounding out the list of teams playing at or above the .500 level. Heading the circuit's second-division of teams out of the championship run are the Braves, who fell in defeat last week to fall to 5-6 overall.

The Mets captured a win in their only outing to move to 4-7, followed by the Dodgers, who were beaten twice to slip to 4-8. The Brewers were knocked down again to take a 1-10 mark into this week's play.

While the Cubs were busy stealing the team highlights, the individual accomplishments were spread throughout the ranks. Among the top producers were Alan Nichols of the Yankees and Astro teammates Josh Smith and Joey Church, who all peaked out as many as three hits in a single game.

Smith was also among a list of players who smacked home runs, joining teammate David Neill, the Cubs' Bobby Cummings, Andy Minton of the Braves and Ray Winford of the Mets in that regard.

Of the home-run hitters, Neill paced the pack by smacking a single four-base shot each in a pair of games. Play in the Bronco League, conducted through the recreation department, takes place on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights, and Saturdays, with all the games being played at Magia Park.

Both state champions attend regular workout sessions at Adams Health and Fitness Center, which they each represented at the state meet. The N.C.-wide attraction was held in New Bern the first weekend of the month.

Pee-Wees Draw Line For Battle

Battle lines have now been drawn within the boys and girls Pee-Wee Baseball League. With regular-season play near a close, Pee-Wee teams spent last week jousting for position among the circuit's two divisions in preparation for postseason tournament play.

The Pirates used a win in their only scheduled contest to maintain their top position within the circuit's upper division, doing so by improving their record to a league-best, 8-1 overall.

The Cardinals slipped a bit in their quest for top division status, as they split decisions to fall from a first-place tie and into second place all alone at 8-2 overall.

The Yankees and Athletics used completely different paths to reach the same spot, each at 7-4, to share third in the upper division.

The A's picked up a pair of wins to emerge as the week's winged squad, while the Yankees went in the other direction — by losing twice — to fall into the tie.

As for the Phillies, they were dealt a defeat in their only appearance to wrap up upper division members with a 4-6 record.

In the lower division, the Bandits and Cubs each gloved a victory in a try apiece to stay tied at the same, 5-5 mark and share lower division honors.

The Mets fell in defeat in their only game to drop to 3-7, while the Mets did the same to slip to 2-8. The Astros were idle to remain at 0-9.

Once divisions were established, teams began playing squads within their ranks in order to determined league tournament champions.

In helping reach the peak portion of the season, the players responded in style with batting feasts last week.

Topping the outputs were the three home runs apiece blasted by both Chad Byers of the Bandits and Justin Horton of the Cardinals, who each unloaded their shots in single games.

Walt Hitchcock of the Cubs smashed a pair of homers in a single game to gain honorable mention honors.

Single four baggers were also banged by Brandon Winford, Josh Donaldson, Zack Kutschenko and Brandon Christy of the Cards, Kelly Allison and Rashon Leazer of the Yankees, Ronald Brown of the Mets, Chris Jackson of the Upper Division

Pirates	8-1
Cardinals	8-2
Yankees	7-4
Athletics	7-4
Phillies	4-6
Lower Division
Bandits	5-5
Cubs	5-5
Mets	3-7
Braves	2-7
Astros	0-9

Brewers Still Set Pony Pace

There's just no keeping up with the Brewers. Just ask the rest of the members of the Pony Baseball League.

Gloving two more wins last week over local foes, the Brewers continued to set the fastest pace in the league, improving their record to the 8-1 level.

That keeps the Brewers as frontrunners among the five Mooresville area teams competing along with other teams from the North Mecklenburg area that comprise the entire Pony package.

The Brewers notched wins over the second-place Cardinals and last-place Yankees to keep their hold of first-place intact.

That was so as the Cardinals' loss dropped them to 7-2 and a game behind the leaders as current runners-up.

That also made the Brewers and Cardinals as the only local teams sporting winning records. The remaining three teams are all well below the break-even barrier.

That includes both the Phillies and Pirates, who entered this week's play at the same, 3-6 marks.

And that leaves the Yankees,
