Iredell Memorial, Barium Springs Get Duke Funds

Iredell Memorial Hospital at Statesville and Barium Springs Home For Children at Barium Springs are among the 177 hospitals and 46 children's homes in North and South Carolina receiving Duke Endowment grants totaling $3.6 million.

Iredell Memorial Hospital received $17,570 while Barium Springs Home For Children received $56,035.

Hospitals received more than $2.3 million of the total, while children's homes were awarded nearly $1.3 million. Hospital grants ranged from a high of $62,671 to Greenville, S.C., to a low of $118 to Mercy Hospital South in Charlotte.

Ashley H. Gale Jr., director of the Endowment's Hospital Division, said: "These grants are based on the amount of charity care each hospital provides. That figure continues-to-escalate, as our awards this year are up by 15 percent over last year."

Hospitals reporting to the Endowment provided more than 8.7 million days of care in 1990. This represents an increase of 2.2 percent over 1989. Uncompensated days of care increased from 23.5 percent to 26.5 percent of the total.

Funding for Carolinas' children's homes was awarded to 22 institutions in North Carolina and 24 in South Carolina.

Robert A. Mayer II, director of the Endowment's Child Care Division, said: We make these grants on an annual basis to all qualifying children's home in the two states. They are intended to provide general operating support, to help underwrite basic costs. Many of the homes are now part of multi-campus systems, offering specialized services to children and families.

Founded in 1924 by North Carolina industrialist James Buchanan Duke, the Endowment is one of the nation's largest private foundations. Its assets total nearly $1 billion.

Awards since 1924 total more than $939 million.

Cassettes Now Among Library's Offerings

Educational and entertaining video cassettes are now available at the Mooresville Public Library.

For the past year, the library has been building a video tape collection of information-filled presentations and classical dramas for use by library customers. Now, with more than 200 selections in stock, the library wants to make sure potential customers know about the service.

The collection includes a wide variety of tapes, with an emphasis on educational materials and a special concentration on science and space exploration. The tapes are ideal for young viewers as well as adults.

In addition, the collection includes classical dramas, including many of William Shakespeare's works, as well as short stories, historical documentaries and a few children's stories.

"Some of our most recent additions are the fine Smithsonian tapes, like the guide to resume writing and 'Where There's A Will, There's An A' for college, high school and grade school students," Karen Khan, local librarian, said.

The tapes can be checked out free of charge for a three-day period on a two tape per family limit. The library also has one video cassette recorder available for free overnight use.

While the materials are free, late fees will be applied if the items are not returned after three days. The tape late fee is $1 per day and the VCR late fee is $5 per day.

Khan explained that the library's video cassette program is designed to give library patrons access to special materials that might otherwise not be available locally.

"We didn't feel there was a need to acquire popular movies because of the availability in the area," Khan said. "Most of our materials are educational and we will be glad to see them used."

For additional information about the new service, telephone the library, 664-2927.
