Students Earn UNCC Recognition

Area students were among those recognized during the annual year-end Honors and Awards Program held at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

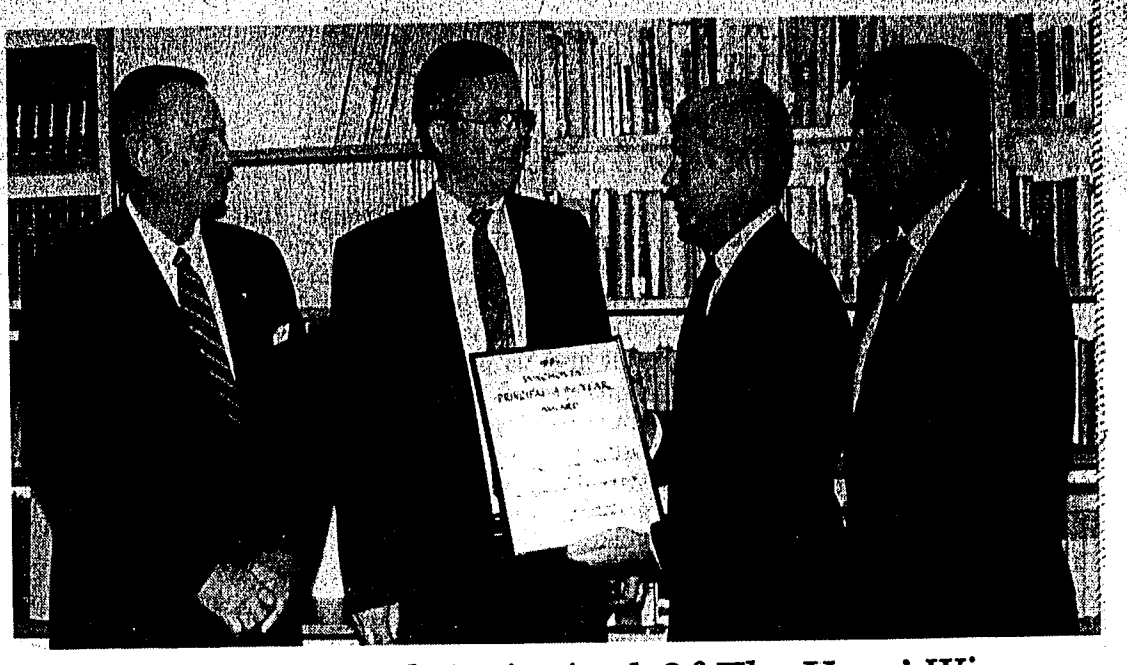
Students selected for the various honors were congratulated and presented with awards and scholarships by Jeanette M. Barker, assistant dean of students.

Winning students from this area included Shannon Hartline of Mooresville, Julia T. Peterson of Davidson and Steven L. Jolly of Troutman.

Peterson, a resident of Country Club Land in Davidson, was one of two undergraduates receiving "Woman of the Year" awards presented to students, faculty members, administration and staff.

Hartline was honored with selection for the Order of Omega, a national honorary that recognizes outstanding members of fraternities and sororities for service in the Greek system, the university and the local community.

Jolly was recognized as the winner of the Chick-Fil-A of Southpark Scholarship.



Park View's Hough 'Principal Of The Year' Winner

Dr. John Hough, principal of Park View Elementary School in Mooresville, is the regional winner of the "Principal of the Year" award presented annually by Wachovia Bank and Trust. Glenn Moore, from Wachovia Bank in Statesville, presented Hough with the winner's plaque during last week's meeting of the Mooresville Board of Education. As the regional winner, Hough will join winning principals from seven other North Carolina regions in statewide competition. The "Principal of the Year" program was started in 1984 to recognize the role of the principal in establishing the proper environment for academic excellence. Participating in the award ceremony are, from left, Frank Fields, chairman of the Mooresville Board of Education; Hough; Moore; and Dr. Sam Houston, Mooresville superintendent.

Local Firm's WalkAmerica Wonder

Linda Bowers, an insurance clerk at Mooresville Federal Savings — Loan's Main Street office, is building quite a reputation in March of Dimes WalkAmerica circles. Mt. Ulla resident Bowers, with backing from Mooresville Federal and area residents, walked in the Statesville WalkAmerica event held last month and personally raised $367.25 for the March of Dimes project that generated more than $135,000 for the fight against birth defects. George Brawley, chief executive officer of MFS&L, was among those saluting Bowers for her individual accomplishment.

Lake Norman Lions Flower Sale May 11

If you're looking for a fresh gift idea for Mother's Day, the Lake Norman Lions Club is coming to the rescue.

The club will sponsor its traditional Mother's Day Flower Sale May 11.

Saturday's event will be held at the First Union Bank building at the intersection of North Broad Street and Plaza Drive in Mooresville. The sale will last all day.

Among the featured items will be hanging baskets and potted plants, but there will also be plenty of other flowery selections to choose from.

The traditional event is a fundraising project for the Lake Norman club.

Revival Next Week At Liberty

Libery Baptist Church near Mooresville will hold revival services next week.

Special events will be held each day, May 13-16, at the church, which is located on Johnson Dairy Road.

Each day's activities will begin at 7 p.m. The Rev. Curtis Parker, an evangelist from Kannapolis, will direct the revival services.

The Rev. Ralph Robinette, pastor of Libery Baptist, and the members of the church congregation extend a warm welcome to the public to participate in the revival.
