Mother's Day

ROBERT CASHION

"Oh! You shouldn't have." This will most likely be your mother's response to her Mother's Day gift this Sunday. Not just from millions of Americans, but from literally billions of grateful daughters and sons, husbands and fathers, all around the world.

You know ... we really don't need a holiday to remind us of what it means to have a mother, but on the other hand, it doesn't hurt.

Many prominent persons have attributed their success in life to their mother. To name a few: Thomas Edison, William Cullen Bryant, John Wesley, Oliver Cromwell and Harriet Beecher Stowe, who thought of her mother as a "restful person." She could always be sought out for comfort and peace of mind. That says a lot.

Over 150 million Mother's Day cards will be given this year. This places it fourth on the card industry's best-seller list, behind Christmas, Valentine's Day and Easter. This humorous verse is a favorite...

"Want a great Mother's Day? Pile all the kids, the dog and the picnic supplies into the station wagon ... and then go back to bed."

We are all better people because of Mother's Day. It gives us time to recognize not only our mothers, but also all the "mother-like" friends and relatives that have influenced our lives. From all of us here at Cashion's, have a happy Mother's Day!
