been connected with operating the office of Federal Judge. He has proved himself in the day-to-day world of commerce—being a director of businesses in New York, Greensboro and Atlanta. His accomplishments and integrity as an outstanding North Carolina businessman and civic leader have earned him membership in the Newcomen Society, generally considered the "honor society of the business world."

INDUSTRY: When it was decided the 1963 N. C. Trade Fair should become international in scope, Judge Preyer was chosen as the most logical man in the state to lead 40 other business and professional men on an all-important trade mission throughout Europe (each man paying his own expenses). Several hundred overseas companies were contacted and given convincing reasons why they should show their wares and locate branches in North Carolina. Judge Preyer also was appointed by the late Spencer Love, president of Burlington Industries, to serve on a special committee for attracting out-of-state industries.

EDUCATION: Judge Preyer's consuming interest in educational opportunities is understandable. As father of five children, he naturally joins other parents in their concern for adequate schools and qualified teachers. Because of his deep and genuine interest, Judge Preyer holds one of the highest positions of any layman in the advancement of our schools—that of president of the N. C. Citizens Committee for Better Schools. He also is a trustee and member of the Curriculum Committee of Woodberry Forest School and is on the Board of Visitors for Davidson College.

COMMUNISM: Through the Richardson Foundation (a charitable organization) Judge Preyer has had the unique opportunity to effectively bring the evils of communism to the attention of the American people. As a result, "Cold War Seminars" have been held throughout the nation to expose the dangers of communism. He advocated—and is presently aiding in developing—a program designed to better teach the values of our American heritage to the youth of our state. His wife is a member of the statewide "Educational Council on National Purposes" which is concerned with promoting Americanism as opposed to communism.

HUMANITARIAN: Judge Preyer gives literally of his time, money and talents to hospitals and churches. He helped establish the Central Carolina Rehabilitation Hospital and for five years served as its chairman, and he is vice chairman of the Board of Trustees of the L. Richardson Memorial Hospital. To help support more effective treatment in the state's mental health hospitals, Judge Preyer is active on the North Carolina Foundation for Mental Health.

Since earliest childhood he has been closely associated with the First Presbyterian Church of Greensboro. He serves as an Elder of the church and is a teacher of the Men's Bible Class with over 200 members.

FARMER'S FRIEND: Judge Preyer has demonstrated an inspired interest in the growing economic problems connected with the nearly 200,000 farms in North Carolina—which he notes is the highest number of any state except Texas. Judge Preyer assisted in getting the Richardson Foundation to undertake an important study of "part-time farming in North Carolina." This was due to a realization that farmers can benefit much from earning industrial incomes, while remaining sturdy independent citizens on the family farm.

WAR VETERAN: While Japanese "suicide pilots" were making desperate last-ditch efforts at Okinawa during World War II, young Lieutenant L. Richardson Preyer was in the thick of action as gunnery officer and executive officer of a U. S. destroyer. His bravery and skillful direction of the ship's guns during this fierce action at Okinawa earned him the Bronze Star.

FAMILY: Judge and Mrs. Preyer have five children, ages four through 15. Judge Preyer himself comes from a distinguished North Carolina family. Born in Greensboro in 1919, he is the only lawyer in that family which has produced a long line of teachers, preachers, and outstanding businessmen. His great uncle was president of Washington & Lee University and president of Davidson College; his great-grandfather was an early pastor of Greensboro's First Presbyterian Church (remaining there for 38 years); his grandfather developed the formula for the first Vick's Vapor Rub while operating a small drug store in downtown Greensboro; and Judge Preyer's father was president of Vick Chemical Co. until retiring some 15 years ago.

SPORTS FAN: Being the father of five active youngsters, it isn't surprising that Judge Preyer is particularly involved in athletics. For the past three years he has been Commissioner of Little League and Pony League Baseball in Greensboro. . . and he is himself a strong devotee of physical fitness (he and his wife having won the 1962 Doubles Tennis Tournament in Greensboro).

MRS. PREYER: One of North Carolina's best known and most liked women is Judge Preyer's lovely and gracious wife, Emily Harris Preyer. Her interests closely parallel those of her husband.

Mrs. Preyer taught high school in Charlotte and Greensboro, served Red Cross hospitals in Australia and the Philippines during World War II, and was unanimously chosen Greensboro's "Woman of the Year" in 1958. She is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Consolidated University, member of the Governor's Commission on Education Beyond High School, member of the Executive Committee of the Democratic Party of North Carolina.

$200,000 Gift To Be Used In Modernization Program

A gift of $200,000 to modernize the heart of Davidson College's beloved Chambers Building was announced Saturday by College President D. Grier Martin. He made the announcement at a luncheon for the Davidson College Board of Visitors.

The gift from the Martha and Spencer Love Foundation will be used toward the cost of renovation and modernization of the 1200-seat Chambers Building auditorium.

The renovated facility will be named the J. Spencer Love Auditorium, President Martin said.

The modernization will amount to almost a complete rebuilding of the interior center of Davidson's landmark structure, enlarging the auditorium, increasing its seating capacity, improving the acoustical treatment, giving it new lighting, modern stage equipment, and an elevator to serve both the main floor and balcony of the auditorium.

"This modernization is one of the college's long-range plans for several years. It will add a great deal to the presentations of lectures and concerts to large groups on the Davidson campus. We are extremely grateful to the Martha and Spencer Love Foundation for its continuing concern for Davidson's needs," President Martin said.

Spencer Love, a textile genius who put together during his lifetime on a small one-mill operation the present gigantic Burlington Industries complex, was a long-time friend of Davidson College and a member of its Board of Visitors at the time of his death.

"His interest in Davidson and higher education generally made him one of the college's most valued friends," President Martin said. "Hardly a week would go by but that he was in touch with us on matters concerning the college."

A member of Mooreville's First Presbyterian Church, Brawley is active in the work of the Men of the Church. He recently was named as Iredell's representative on the council of the Men of the Church of Concord Presbytery.

He is married to the former Miss Eloise Jarrett of Shelby, and the couple has two daughters, Mary Ann and Lynda Leigh Brawley. The Brawleys reside at 522 Carpenter avenue, this city.

In a statement emphasizing the importance of the campaign, Raymer said: "During the coming year, more than ever in the past, our counter-attack against disease will focus not only on tuberculosis but on the entire spectrum of respiratory diseases, the disorders of breathing. When we realize that this group of ailments is the fourth largest killer in the United States, it's obvious that a tremendous job is waiting to be done in addition to our continuing campaign to wipe out tuberculosis."

"To help us meet the challenge, the importance of this year's Christmas Seal Campaign must be clearly emphasized to every member of the community. We feel that Presley Brawley, Jr., is well qualified to fulfill that task and have complete confidence in a record outcome of the drive under his direction."

The auditorium was built in 1929 as the central feature of Chambers Building. Around it are the college's class rooms and administrative offices on three floors. The auditorium, remembered sometimes fondly by Davidsonsians across the decades as the center for compulsory chapel programs, has in its time housed many notable occasions for Davidson College—graduations, convocations, inaugurations of college presidents among them.

College officials note that one of the major areas in college plant management is keeping buildings up to date and finding the funds with which to accomplish the task.

Dear Contestants: Take Note Of This

Often, the left hand is unaware of what the right hand is up to, as witness the Tribune's football contest page this week. As everyone knows, Mooreville's Blue Devils ended their season last Friday night, but on the contest page, plain as day, are provisions for guessing the total points of the Mooreville game this week.

This, we now realize, will be rather difficult, since there will be no such contest. So, in an effort to cut down on confusion and make amends for our boob, we ask contestants to ignore that portion of the contest dealing with total points scored in the Mooreville game. Time of entry will decide winners in the event of ties.

Sunday Afternoon Ceremony In Charlotte Unites Miss Diane Robinson And Thomas J. Byrum Jr.

In a lovely setting of numerous greenery with candelabra holding Cathedral spires, Miss Iris Diane Robinson became the bride of Thomas Joe Byrum, Jr. on Sunday, November 10, at four o'clock in the afternoon in the Wesley Heights Methodist Church in Charlotte. The Rev. Harold Simpson officiated at the impressive ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Ray Robinson of 1413 West 4th Street, Charlotte and former residents of Mooreville. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Byrum, Sr.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Robert Eubanks of Charlotte, organist, and W. R. Durham of Charlotte, soloist. Mr. Durham sang "O Promise Me" and "Whither Thou Goest."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor length gown of white silk tulle with imported lace applique and fashioned with a portrait neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the wrist. The skirt, with a sheath-effect in the front, had a bustle back. Her veil of illusion was attached to a circlet of matching lace and pearl de soie accented with a small bow in front. She carried a cascade bouquet centered with a white orchid.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Danny Ross, Miss Vivian Williams, and Miss Sylvia Miller all of Charlotte. Junior attendants were Miss Mary Jane Dry, of Mooreville, cousin of the bride and Miss Suzanne Byrum of Charlotte, sister of the bridegroom.

Little Miss Sherrie James, of Morganton, cousin of the bride was flower girl. All of the attendants wore floor length dresses of emerald green velvet with matching green velvet headpieces. A cascade of yellow mums accented their matching velvet muffs. Each of the attendants wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bride.

Ernest Ammons, of Charlotte, uncle of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Wilton Tiller, Richard King, and Eddie Ammons, cousin of the bridegroom, all of Charlotte.

Mrs. Robinson chose for her daughter's wedding, a dress of light green brocade with matching accessories and a corsage of green cymbidium orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church Fellowship Hall.

The bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth, featuring a lace edge and appointed with an all-white flower arrangement with lighted tapers.

After the bride and bridegroom cut the traditional first slice of the three-tiered wedding cake, Mrs. Paul Dry and Mrs. Marvin Simon, both of Mooreville and aunts of the bride, completed the serving of the cake. Miss Mary Lee Justice, of Charlotte, presided at the punch bowl.

After the reception, the bride and bridegroom left for a honeymoon trip to Florida and upon their return they will be at home at 708 Fugate avenue, Charlotte. For traveling, the bride wore a white mohair jacket and she added the orchid from her bridal bouquet as a corsage.

Mrs. Byrum is a graduate of Harding High School, Charlotte, and is employed at Young Motor Company, Charlotte. Her husband is also a graduate of Harding High School and at the present time, V. A. Johnston, Jr., Harlan Bowman, Don Gibson, Mrs. Robert Davidson, Mrs. Harlan Bowman, and Robert Davidson.

Attending the wedding from Mooreville were: Mrs. O. W. Harwell and Mrs. G. C. Robinson, grandmothers of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dry and children, David and Mary Jane, Mr. and Mrs. Little Miss Sherrie James, of Morganton, cousin of the bride was flower girl.
