LABOR: Unemployment in Iredell county at mid-September was 2.3 per cent of the area's labor force, according to a statement by Wade Wilson, head of the Employment Security Commission in Statesville.

Less than one-third of this unemployed force were claiming unemployment insurance benefits, Wilson stated. Most of them were youths in the labor market and older persons seeking to enter or reenter the ranks of the employed.

A continued increase in employment, Wilson said, was expected. By mid-November 435 are expected to be needed, 310 in manufacturing and 125 in non-manufacturing. By mid-January, seasonal curtailment is expected to cut employment to 15 above the September level. Counter balancing trends are anticipated with 170 more needed in manufacturing, but 155 fewer needed in non-manufacturing. Textiles, apparel and metals indicate the greatest hiring needs in manufacturing.

At the end of September there were approximately 1,000 applications for employment on file. Many of the applicants, stated Wilson, live in adjoining counties. In most instances, it was pointed out, the labor supply in Iredell is proving adequate, except for skilled workers of all types who remain in short supply. More companies, stated Wilson, are now hiring Negroes to meet their needs for workers.

POLITICS: Within the past 10 days there has been an avalanche of opinion from so-called inside sources to the effect that Barry Goldwater will never get the Republican nomination for President. Most of these sources are leaning toward Richard Nixon, none toward Nelson Rockefeller.

Leonard Hall, one of the ablest and most experienced of the Republican pros, for instance, has turned Rockefeller down cold, dodged Goldwater, and is conferring with Nixon. Insider's Newsletter attaches much significance to this move.

Emmet John Hughes of Newsweek says the odds against Goldwater are overwhelming. He points out in quotation marks a long list of stupid statements the Arizona Senator has made that must come back to haunt him with the American public.

He is on record as calling the United Nations "nothing but a gigantic Communist front." He must face Southern voters in the showdown with the statement that Federal troops are justified to sustain national law.

In the Midwest he must face farmers with his long-standing demand for "prompt and final termination of the farm subsidy program."

Goldwater's record in foreign affairs sounds, according to the political pundits in some quarters, like the "rantings of a high school junior." It seethes, according to Hughes, "with scorn or distrust for the Western Alliance, the World Bank, disarmament plans—and even diplomatic relations with Russia."

It was Goldwater who recently demanded to link both the nuclear test ban and wheat shipments with demands that Russia tear down the Berlin Wall and move out of Cuba. And what would Goldwater do if Russia refused? As one Republican member of Congress put it, "He couldn't do a damned thing."

And it was Goldwater who paid tribute to the late Senator Joe McCarthy for making the United States "a safer, freer, more vigilant nation."

And it was Goldwater who said: "Fear the civilians—they're taking over."

And it was Goldwater who said, "One Eisenhower in a decade is enough." This will endeavor him to like at the Republican National Convention.

Goldwater's public utterances in recent months have been loaded with the type nonsense hard to sell to the American people. As a result, say the experts, the odds are narrowing on Nixon. Most Republican pros have marked Rockefeller off the list.

CORNPONE STRATEGY: Southern Senators and Congressmen, angry over the Kennedy civil rights moves, are using parliamentary tactics to slow the whole Kennedy program down to a snail's crawl. At the present rate of progress, it has been estimated it will be next July before much of this year's business gets off the agenda list.

As an example of these Southern tactics, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield made a routine request for "unanimous consent" to dispense with the reading of the journal or minutes of the preceding day's activities. Traditionally, no Senator wants to hear a six-hour reading of speeches made by other Senators the day before. But Georgia's Senator Talmadge demanded a reading in full. It took up an entire day of the Senate's business.

The long-dormant cotton bill will get a place on the House docket next week.

This is the bill Southern textile manufacturers have been fighting to get into legislation for years. Chairman Harold Cooley of the House Agriculture Committee, after a day of meetings last week, won the agreement from party leaders to bring the bill to the House floor for action next week.

It will go to the floor with the powerful blessings of Speaker John McCormack, who has declared, "I'm enthusiastically for the bill and will do everything I can to get it passed." Cooley said he, too, be-

Board Orders Remedy For Smog Along Shearer's Chapel Road

Mooreville has a smog problem, or, more accurately, Mooreville has the smog and Shearer's Chapel Road residents have the problem.

During the regular monthly meeting of the Town Board Monday night, a delegation of citizens who live along Shearer's Chapel Road appeared to lodge a complaint.

Newcombe acted as spokesman for the group. He explained the town is creating a problem throughout its community by burning garbage at the domestic waste treatment plant south of town. Prevailing winds carry soot and pungent odors from the burning pit southeast along Shearer's Chapel Road.

Newcombe said the smog clogs nostrils, stings lungs, coats windows and, in short, plays havoc generally, all the way to Shearer's Presbyterian Church, six miles from Mooreville.

"There's no point in us closing our windows," he said, "that stuff gets on everything, dishes, silverware. We're eating it, and we think it's unhealthy."

The town knew of the problem, and had called in county health department officials to study it. Both county and state health men said the situation did not constitute a health hazard, although the inconvenience and cleanliness problems were real indeed.

What has happened is this: Before the new treatment plant was built, the town burned refuse in Newcombe.

Growing Financial Woes Outlined To Town Board

Money is one of the more brutal facts of life. We are as helpless without it as we are frustrated with it. The Town Board learned this week that the Mooreville Recreation Commission definitely is without it—helplessly and frustratingly without it.

Kiwanis Club Selects New Officer Slate

Albert H. Copelan, superintendent of the finishing department at Mooreville Mills, has been selected to serve as president of the Mooreville Kiwanis Club during 1964.

As president, he will succeed Homer A. Hampe.

Other officers, who have been selected to serve with Copelan, are Willis L. Teeter, vice president and R. T. Brantley, treasurer. Two new directors also were selected, as follows: Grady Shoe and Dr. Norman Sholar.

Other directors of the civic organization are: Jack Sherrill, Dr. L. P. Trivette, Pete Coleman, George Hutto, and Max Nanney.

Town Plans To Do Own Zoning In Perimeter

Mooreville's "no-man's land" perimeter still is just that.

A month ago, the Town Board asked the Iredell County Planning Board to extend its zoning authority to the town limits. By state statute, a multi-wide perimeter of the town is left to the zoning pleasure of the municipality.

Mooreville felt its local planning board would not be representative of interests in this area because none of its members lived in it. For this reason, and because the town felt some zoning authority in this fast-developing perimeter was essential, the town asked the county to include the area under its new zoning regulations.

The county was receptive to the idea, but there was a big hitch. The county planning board is limited in its power to a strip within three miles of Lake Norman. The county agreed, therefore, to zone for the town only that portion of the perimeter that lies within its zoning area. This would mean the county would only zone west of N. C. 115.

The town decided this week that

Miss N. C. Will Participate In Mooreville's Yule Parade

Miss North Carolina—Jeanne Flinn Swanner of Graham—has accepted an invitation to participate in Mooreville's annual Christmas parade on December 8.

The event, which will officially mark the opening of the town's Yule shopping season, is sponsored by the Mooreville Junior Chamber of Commerce.

According to present plans, 20-year-old Miss Swanner will arrive in Mooreville at 2 p. m. on the day of the parade, which will get underway at 4 p. m. She will ride in one of the parade's lead cars.

A native of Chelsea, Mass., Miss North Carolina is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Swanner, Jr., of Graham. She is a 1961 graduate of Graham High School and is a junior at Auburn University, where she is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta.

She is six feet, two inches tall, weighs 160 pounds, and has light brown hair and blue-green eyes.

She likes music and all sports, especially basketball.

Miss Swanner was voted Miss Congeniality in the Miss America pageant at Atlantic City, New Jersey, during the past summer.

leaves the bill will pass.

The legislation would provide a government subsidy so that domestic textile mills could buy American cotton at a price competitive with foreign mills.

The industry wants a direct subsidy of 8½ cents a pound—the difference between the high support price it must pay for cotton and the lower, world cotton market price, paid by foreign mills.

For years the government has been paying exporters an 8½ cent subsidy so they can move American cotton into the world market.

Domestic mills have turned in recent years to synthetic fabrics.

Said McCormack: "Certainly, if any industry is deserving of legislation it is the textile industry. It employs hundreds of thousands of Americans. The two-price system . . . has placed it in a disadvantageous position to foreign competition."

McCormack said the administration supports the bill and "I hope the equity of the case will appeal to Republican members as well as Democrats."

The Agriculture Department has estimated the new subsidy would cost the taxpayers $250 million a year.

Discussing the topic, "Development of The Presbyterian Church in The Carolinas," Dr. Hollis traced the history of the denomination from its early days, as it moved southward into the Carolinas.

According to Mr. Hollis, the early-day Presbyterian in North Carolina and South Carolina was a more violent and pleasure-seeking character than his conservative descendants like to admit.

Many of the early Presbyterians were Scotch-Irish pioneers whose descendants "have, been perhaps inclined to over-praise their virtues," he continued.

"More discerning observers have commented upon their propensity for violence and bedonistic (pleasure-seeking) tendencies," Dr. Hollis said. One historian, he remarked, said the Scotch-Irish arrived in North Carolina "determined to keep God's commandments and everything else he could get his hands on."

Dr. Hollis described how Presbyterianism grew despite the fact the British burned their churches, the congregations split over such things as hymn-singing, and the "Age of Reason" hurt all churches.

"During the Revolutionary War, Presbyterians were usually ardent partisans of the Patriot cause," Dr. Hollis recalled. He said one British army brandied all Presbyterian churches "redition shops" and ordered some churches burned.

But the worst effect of the war, the historian said, was its "profoundly anti-religious impact." "Wars usually disrupt religious activity. Further, the Revolutionary generation coincided with the Age of Reason, which brought only two students at Princeton, which had been established in 1774, by the Presbyterians, provided Christianity."

Dr. Hollis said that in 1800 "Presbyterian congregations in the Carolinas were holly divided by the spirit of private support could double its flow.

Zoning

such an arrangement would not be equitable. The commissioners felt the entire perimeter area should get the same control. The board withdrew its request that the county zone the perimeter.

City Manager Cy Brooks was directed to determine what must be done for the town to extend its zoning authority to cover the perimeter. The first step is to double the size of the town's five-member planning board by appointing to it five representatives of the area to be zoned.

Meanwhile, this perimeter is back the way it was—without any zoning restrictions.

"More discerning observers have commented upon their propensity for violence and bedonistic (pleasure-seeking) tendencies," Dr. Hollis said. One historian, he remarked, said the Scotch-Irish arrived in North Carolina "determined to keep God's commandments and everything else he could get his hands on."

READY FOR ANYTHING—Members of Scout Troop 164 at First Presbyterian Church were loaded for bear and anything else that might happen Saturday morning as they prepared to begin a march from the church for an overnight camping trip at the scout campsite at Shepherd. Scoutmaster Tom Pilgreen, at the head of the rather irregular column, is set to give the "move 'em out" order. Boys who took part in the weekend excursion (and who enjoyed perfect camping weather for a change) were Asa McNeely Jr., John Gravelly Jr., Billy Gravelly, Reid Stutts, Scott Stutts, Mitchell Mack Jr., Charles Rader, Franklin Rader, Ronald Gragg, Richard Gragg, Tony Watkins, Craig Watkins, David Baker, Rodney Proctor and Dave McCraw.

The benediction of the morning was given by the Rev. I. M. Ellis of Statesville, Tennessee, moderator of the Synod of Appalachia.

Presiding at the afternoon service was Dr. Marshall W. Brown of Clinton, South Carolina, moderator of the Synod of South Carolina. The invocation was given by the Rev. Robert Bankhead of Laurens, South Carolina, moderator of the Presbytery of South Carolina, and the scripture was read by the Rev. James Somerville of Wise, Virginia, moderator of Abington Presbytery.

The afternoon speaker, the Rev. Mr. McCormick, was presented by Dr. Harold J. Dudley, of Raleigh, general secretary and stated clerk of the Synod of North Carolina. The afternoon benediction was given by the host, church's pastor, the Rev. Marcus B. Prince, III.

Special music for the occasion was presented by the Queens College Chorus of Charlotte and the Davidson College Male Chorus. When the Synod of the Carolinas was organized, there were but three Presbyteries embracing most all of the territory south of Virginia and westward without limit. At that time Presbyterian churches were found in what are now the Synods of North Carolina, South Carolina, and Appalachia, the latter a territory composed of the western portions of Virginia and North Carolina and the eastern portions of Kentucky and Tennessee.

Jones Circle Has Session Mon. Evening

Mrs. Harvey Raser was hostess to the members of the Dr. Kathleen Jones Circle of the First Baptist Church on Monday evening at her home on East Center avenue.

Prior to the meeting, Mrs. Helen Burr, WNU chairman, spoke briefly to the group and Mrs. Nesbitt, acting chairman, presided.

Reports were heard from the various committees and the community mission project for the month is to act as the emergency circle.

Mrs. Ray Nesbitt reviewed the book, "Bill Wallace of China", which was most interesting.

The hostess served delicious cherry rum punch, dairy crackers, and coffee to the following: Mesdames Dan Johnson, Lewis Davis, Ray Nesbitt, Carl Basinger, Royce Hagaman, Floyd Meadows, and Raleigh Hale.

Mrs. McGraw Hostess To Circle No. 5

Circle No. 5 of the Broad Street Methodist Church met Tuesday morning with Mrs. W. H. McGraw.

The business period, was conducted by Mrs. Lex Saffitt and she was also in charge of the program, at which time she emphasized the Week of Prayer and its importance in our lives. The morning meditation was on Prayer.

The group sang Thanksgiving hymns and after the benediction, a discussion was held on how to help the needy.

Those present were: Mesdames Clyde Sherrill, Grover Ballard, Hattie Brackett, W. H. Howell, J. O. Bonfield, Lex Saffitt, Ben Adams, T. B. Mayhew, and W. H. McGraw.

Sisters Entertain At Halloween Party Wednesday Night

Elizabeth and Susan Anderson entertained twenty-six of their friends and classmates at a Halloween party at their home, 305 South Magnolia street, on Wednesday evening.

The recreation room was decorated with Halloween witches, skeletons, pumpkins, and corn stalks. Games, dancing, and bobbing for apples, and prizes for the most original costumes were enjoyed during the evening.

Hot dogs and hamburgers were prepared on the outdoor grill. Serviced with hot cider and celery and carrot sticks.

All had a most enjoyable time. The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. Allie Williams, Mrs. Pete Sherrill, and Mrs. E. L. Anderson, all of Mooresville, and Mrs. John Morrow of Troutman.

Exchange Student Discussed At Civic League Meet

The Junior Civic League met on Monday night at the War Memorial with Mrs. Jack Overcash, Mrs. Charles Morris, Mrs. Martin Johnson and Mrs. Julie Burton as hostesses.

A very interesting program for the evening was a panel discussion on "How To Have An Exchange Student" with Mesdames Charles Morris, Harlan Bowman, Bob Paines, Julie Burton, Martin Johnson and Bodo Culberson participating on the panel.

Guests from other local clubs were invited, especially for the program, and they were: Mrs. R. C. Klopfer, Women's Club; Mrs. Nannay, Mooresville Senior High School; Joe Troutman, Jaycees; J. D. Chamberlain, Optimist Club; Charles Gates, Rotary; and Jim Linker, Kiwanis.

The evening's door prize was won by Mrs. Ernest Whitmore. Refreshments consisted of cheese rings, pecan pie, and coffee.

Clothes Closet Plans Made By Rogers Circle

Mrs. J. R. Cagle, Jr., chairman of the John Rogers Circle of the First Baptist Church, was hostess to its members on Monday evening at her home on Fieldstone Road.

During the business session, plans were made to make favors for the new mothers at the Lowrance Hospital and also to furnish clothing items for a clothes closet at the church to be used in case of emergencies. The various committees gave reports of activities during the month.

"Bill Wallace of China" was the prayer topic which was presented most effectively by Mrs. Marvin Ballard and Mrs. Ray Von Lyles.

Members present, and not mentioned above, were: Mesdames John Gabriel, Roy Creamer, Laura Sherrill, J. D. Lowe, Gene Lawson, Bill Trivette, Charles Smith, Clayton Kistler, and Jim Brown.

The hostess, assisted by Miss Louise Ballard, who was co-hostess, served delicious soup, pound cake with ice cream and coffee.

Junior Civic Plans Benefit Card Party

The Public Affairs committee of Mooresville Junior Civic League will sponsor a card party, "Fellowship for Hope", on Saturday night, November 9, at the War Memorial for the members of the League and their invited guests. The party will get underway at 8 p. m. and this will be a fund raising project for the S. S. Hope Hospital Ship.

Project Hope is a Junior project of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs and the party sponsored by the local league, is only one of the many fund-raising activities being promoted by Junior Clubs throughout the United States.

The S. S. Hope is a Medical Training Ship which is sponsored primarily from funds and necessary equipment received by donations due to programs such as the card party. Hope provides a helping hand to others less fortunate and in need of material things for their personal welfare. The ship travels to all parts of the world and the latter part of November it will sail for Guayaquil, Ecuador.

Plaque Unveiled As Memorial To Rev. J. Kenton Parker

Tuesday morning at Centre Presbyterian Church, in presenting the bronze plaque in memory of the Rev. J. Kenton Parker, pastor of the historic church for more than 30 years, Dr. Norman Sholar said:

This memorial plaque is presented to the church by members of the congregation and friends in grateful memory of Rev. J. Kenton Parker whom we lovingly called, "Mr. Parker." This plaque is merely a symbol or a sign and cannot possibly portray the depth of love each of us has for the memory of Mr. Parker.

Mr. Parker served us many years with an unmatched faithfulness. He not only preached the Word of God, as few can, but he lived the Word even more so, as few can. Mr. Parker was loved by us for his humility and his meekness and even more for the strength of his love for the Christ and his God.

We shall never forget his love for us shown in so many, many ways—ways unknown to others, but known to you and me in our own secret way—the bundle of fat pine, cut by his own hands, the strawberries, tomatoes and watermelons, grown by his own hands and lovingly given to us, the sweet note or letter written to us by his own hands, the gift of money to us who needed it by his own sacrifice, the secret prayers he prayed for us by his own lips, his visits to our bedside when many times he gave words of body that we that lay ill in bed. Many times he preached when his body was weak but his spiritual strength was undiminished.

Duke Power's Earnings Up Over Last Year

Duke Power Co. revenues and earnings increased for both the nine months and the 12 months ended September 30, compared with the same periods a year earlier.

W. B. McGuire, Duke Power's president, said the increase in revenues reflected the steady growth of the economy in the Piedmont and mountain area of the Carolinas served by the Company.

Revenues for the nine months increased from $142,096,493 to $152,250,548 and net income rose from $21,458,664 to $23,872,563. Earnings per share of common stock increased from $1.79 to $2.00.

For the 12-month period, revenues increased from $190,098,212 to $201,699,231 and net income rose from $30,034,577 to $32,410,518. Earnings per share increased from $2.51 to $2.71.

A total of 144 industrial plants and major distribution facilities located in the Duke Power service area during the first eight months of this year, while 139 manufacturing and distributors expanded their operations. This new and expanded industry created an estimated 19,701 jobs and a payroll of more than $70.3 million.

During a recent tour of the Duke Power system as the Company's guests, investment bankers and securities analysts from New York City said they were particularly impressed with the diversification of industry in the area.

In addition to the general economic growth, an increased usage of electricity has contributed to Duke Power's progress, Mr. McGuire said. He noted that more than 2,700 commercial customers now are using electric heat and that the Company serves more than 15,000 electrically heated homes.

To meet the needs of such growth, Duke Power recently began operation of the new hydro-electric generating station at Cowans Ford, near Marshall, a steam station scheduled to begin operation in 1965, is under construction.

North Carolina Farm Bureau Plans 28th Annual Session

Grassroots policymakers from North Carolina's farms will gather in Durham next week for the 28th annual meeting of the North Carolina Farm Bureau. The meeting is set for November 10-13 at the Jack Tar Hotel.

In announcing the convention schedule, N. C. Farm Bureau President B. C. Mangum said the 28th annual session "should be one of the most interesting meetings we've had in a long time. Farmers are facing many pressing problems, and we expect to see some good solutions proposed."

Featured on the agenda this year are several outstanding speakers, including Under Secretary of Agriculture Charles S. Murphy, N. C. Agriculture Commissioner L. Y. Ballentine, American Farm Bureau Field Services Director O. R. Long, and Alabama Farm Bureau President J. D. Hays.

Mangum announced that the convention schedule is "a little different this year. The prime purpose of the annual meeting is to conduct business, so we have allotted more time for business this year. We have to have careful deliberation on issues."

Time was found, however, for an appearance by the 1963 American Dairy Princess, Miss Sue Ann Goodridge. She is scheduled to speak November 11 at the convention's opening session, which will also include the annual address of the president.

Commissioner Ballentine will address the delegates on the November 12 morning program, along with Long and Hays. Delegates will hear the first official report of the resolutions committee in the afternoon, and will spend the remainder of the day forging official policies.

The November 13 morning schedule features the address of the Under Secretary of Agriculture, to be followed by continued discussion and action on resolutions.

Coming under the scrutiny of the Farm Bureau delegates this year will be the proposed amendment to the North Carolina Constitution, which would alter the basis for representation in the General Assembly. A planned referendum on the issue is scheduled for January 14.

"We expect that the delegates will resolve to work for a big rural vote in the referendum," Mangum said. The North Carolina Farm Bureau is on record in favor of the amendment.

Tobacco, too, will be in the spotlight.

NEW CHEVELLE!

BY CHEVROLET

The kind of handling ease you'd expect in a smaller car. Come on down and drive it.

Only a car that looks as good as this could come between Chevrolet and Chevy II. Come on down and stare at it.

Now—Chevy spirit in a new kind of car!

We built this one to do more than just stand around looking beautiful. Held its weight down in the 3,000-pound range. Then built four lusty engines—two sixes and two V8's—with output all the way up to 220 horses! And if that makes you think this is one frisky car, you've got the right idea.

You've also got a roomy car here. Yet its 115-inch wheelbase keeps it highly maneuverable in the traffic and very easy to park.

With its Pull Coil suspension, it's got a ride that reminds you of the Jet-smooth kind the way it muffles noise and cushions bumps.

And the fine hand of Body-by-Fisher craftsmen shows up beneath this one's suave good looks, too.

Sounds good? There's more. Like the fact that Chevelle comes in three series with eleven models—convertibles, sport coupes, sedans, wagons, even Super Sport models with front bucket seats. Like the fact that (and see if this isn't one of the nicest surprises of all) the new Chevelle comes at an easy-to-take price! Like to hear more? The listening's wonderful at your Chevrolet dealer's—and so's the driving.

South Iredell Farms And Homes

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1963 — THE MOORESVILLE (N.C.) TRIBUNE —

FHA Loans Available For Improving Water Systems

Loan funds are available to eligible Iredell farmers who wish to develop water supply systems for irrigation, household use and live stock, reports Maynard L. Self, acting county supervisor of the local Farmers Home Administration of the Soil Conservation Service.

Self points out that these funds can be extremely useful in developing the water and land resources of the county.

Iredell farmers may obtain water development and soil conservation loans to drill wells and otherwise improve water supply systems for irrigation, home use, and livestock; purchase pumps, sprinkler systems, and other irrigation equipment; acquire a water supply or water right.

Loans may also be used to construct and repair ponds and tanks, ditches, and canals for irrigation; dig ditches and install tile to drain farmland; develop ponds and water control structures for the production of fish under controlled conditions; level land; carry out basic land treatment practices including liming, fertilizing, and seeding; and soil or sod land.

Loans can also establish permanent pastures and farm forests; establish approved forestry practices on a farm such as pest control, thinning, and fire protection; build dikes, terraces, waterways; and other erosion control structures.

Farmers pay 5 per cent interest on water development and soil conservation loans, according to Self, except that the rate on loan funds approved for forestry purposes is 3 per cent. Loans are scheduled for repayment within the borrower's ability to repay not exceeding 40 years.

To be eligible for a water development and soil conservation loan, a farmer must be unable to obtain the necessary credit on reasonable terms from private and co-operative lenders.

Most Farmers Profit From Feed Tests

North Carolina dairymen are finding that forage and grain testing is putting more milk in the bucket and more dollars in their pocket.

At least, this is what over 100 farmers report in a survey made by Guy Parsons, extension dairy specialist at North Carolina State. N. C. State and the N. C. Department of Agriculture teamed up about five years ago to provide livestock farmers with tests that could show the nutritive value of feed.

Parsons' survey shows: —91 per cent of the participants in the Forage and Grain Analysis Program say forage testing has helped them improve the quality of their forage.

—92 per cent say forage testing has helped increase milk production.

—94 per cent report increased profits due to the program.

—99 per cent say they would recommend the program to others.

—99 per cent believe it should be continued.

Parsons says a second, more detailed survey was conducted with the help of county extension agents on the dollar value of testing. Fifty-eight farmers participated. Thirty-six of the 58 farmers said the program has helped increase profits by increasing production per cow. Their average increase per cow was 1,280 pounds of milk per year.

Twelve farmers said they increased profits by reducing cost of grain mix. The average savings was over $400 per farm, or a savings of about $4 per ton.

Fifteen farmers said they increased profits by feeding less grain per year than previously. Twenty-four farmers said they had increased their total income above feed cost $22.64 per cow since they started testing their forages and grains.

In essence, the Forage and Grain Analysis Program uses science and chemistry to replace the age-old "eyeball" test that farmers had to use previously to judge roughage.

Dairymen have been the main users of the tests. But they have also been available to other livestock producers and poultrymen.

Farmers mail samples of their feed along with some brief information on how the feed was grown and handled to the N. C. Department of Agriculture.

Chemists test the feed and report on the percentage of protein, total digestible nutrients, crude fiber and net energy contained in the feed. A moisture test is also made on silage.

State College extension workers provide farmers with information to help them make the most use of the test report.

Parsons believes the program has not only helped farmers feed a more balanced ration, but it has helped them do a better job of growing quality feed.

Many farmers report, for example, that they are doing a better job of cutting and curing their forages now than they did before the tests were started.

"In summary, we can say that forage and grain testing is another important farm management tool," Parsons commented.

"The progressive farmer uses soil testing as a guide to efficient fertilization... He uses artificial breeding and production records to achieve top production in his dairy herd... He uses forage testing to get efficient use of forages and to strengthen his feeding program."

SOIL AND WATER CONSERVATION

By W. M. BLAND
Work Unit Conservationist

North Carolina, with twenty-one rank third and fourth, and on September 1 had 23 and 21 projects respectively. Arkansas and Tennessee were tied for seventh place with 18 each, and Mississippi with 17.

Twenty other watershed planning projects have been approved by Federal agencies or are awaiting approval by Congressional committees or the state conservation agencies. These are: North Carolina; however, seven projects will soon be in this stage. Second and Third Creek Watershed Improvement Districts in Iredell and Rowan are included in these seven.

In addition, nine watersheds have been approved for planning and another 32 applications have been filed by watershed groups in this state.

In the Southeast the score reads: 146 projects approved for operation; 50 approved for planning; and another 287 watershed groups are waiting assistance. National operations have been authorized on 494 projects covering 28 million acres, planning has been approved for 418 projects, with 612 million acres, and 1,062 applications for aid on 80.2 million acres are yet to be serviced.

"The rate of watershed planning has increased in the last few years as states have supplemented Federal funds for watershed planning," said Conservationist J. P. Kuykendall. "The leading states are supplying funds for the employment of one or more planning parties. North Carolina provides funds for one planning party. In one instance, a county provided the funds for developing a watershed plan."

"State and local participation in planning, as well as in the establishment of the plans, indicates the value of USDA's small watershed program in building the rural economy," Kuykendall said.

Records Show Better Breeding Can Put 'Another Ham On Hog'

"Another ham on the hog." This is an expression that swine experts are using these days to say that a hog is not always just another hog, even when they look alike.

Now, no one has developed a hog with three hams. But swine experts have figured out ways to get more good, lean meat out of a two-ham hog.

Records at the North Carolina Swine Evaluation Station at Clayton show how much the percentage of lean cuts — hams, shoulders, loins — can vary from hog to hog.

Station Supt. J. R. Woodard says some hogs evaluated by the station have yielded 40 per cent lean cuts based on live weight. Other hogs have yielded as low as 32 per cent. The average top hogs sold on North Carolina markets yield an estimated 33 per cent lean cuts.

Now, what does this mean for swine producers? Woodard offered this example: "Suppose a farmer puts two 200-pound hogs on the market. One yields 33 per cent lean cuts; the other 40 per cent. That's a difference of 14 pounds of lean meat, or the equivalent of about one ham."

It is, of course, the lean meat that diet-conscious pork eaters want primarily. And luckily for swine producers, the lean meat of his sow herd and the use of good performance tested boars, can determine what percentage of lean cuts his hogs will yield.

Contour farming is the only way it should be done. Crossing terraces will ruin your land. All hill land in cultivation should be farmed with terraces or contour strip-cropping plus a good soil and water conservation rotation.

Farm's 200 Geese Keep Weeds Down

Two hundred feathered hired hands are keeping weeds under control on the farm of Lawrence DeVick near Blair, Okla.

The hands are 200 geese DeVick bought for $300. They roam his cotton patch, held in bounds by an electric fence 2 inches off the ground. They eat weeds but have no taste for cotton plants.

DeVick said his geese do the work of 9 full-time human farm hands.

Grass has many uses from erosion control to food for life. More Iredell farmers should stop fighting grass, then someday creek sand will not be available for roads. Someone is in the Soil Conservation Service office in Statesville each morning until 8:30 o'clock. Phone Statesville TR3-6761.

Letters to the Editor...

Dear Mr. Editor:

Halloween has come and gone for another year, but before the costumes, masks and "trick or treat" bags are stored away in a closet, I would like to register a protest against the custom of the costumes of this night which I feel has gotten out of hand. By now I'm sure you know I mean the annual "trick or treat" brigade, heralded by the constant doorbell ringing, the never-ending stream of witches, goblins and sometimes even a leather-jacketed teen or two with their already well-filled bags extended for a hand-out.

Since we live in a rural area and are seldom visited by more than a dozen spooks (whom we always recognize as neighbor children), I honestly did not realize the scope of this house-to-house, street-to-street canvass of trick-or-treaters.

And a special thank you to Rev. and Mrs. Thad MacDonald for their interest and services on this project.

Through UNICEF, just one penny can provide a child with five glasses of milk, or the inoculation to protect a child from tuberculosis, where it is a "trick" to stay alive. How much more important is this than the senseless swamping of "treats" among our own healthy children?

Thank you, Mr. Editor, for being my listening post.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Charles Brawley,
President
Junior Civic League

—Some people can't love God. "Who," you ask? Not the illiterate, for they can love. Not the poor, for they have hearts. Not the sinful, for we are all sinners.

"Who then," you repeat? The man who hates his brother! The Bible declares: "If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar." (1 John 4:20)

This is straight talk! Straight from God! You can't love God if you hate your brother. Hate is a cancer that eats away a man's soul. Better drop on your knees and ask the Great Physician to operate. Only he can remove it. Don't let hate keep you from God and destroy your life.

ONE CAKE, TWO BOYS—If Joseph Hamilton, left, looks a tad glum, perhaps it's because he sees only one cake. He shouldn't have worried, there were goodies aplenty for everyone when Joe and his buddy, Jeff Edwards, celebrated their third birthdays recently at Pine Room Nursery. Joe's folks are Mr. and Mrs. Job Hamilton of 318 Nesbit Street; Jeff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Edwards of Mount Ulla.

Thoroughfare Plan To Be Discussed

State Highway Commission engineers will meet tonight (Thursday) with town officials to update the town's thoroughfare plan.

City Manager Cy Brooks said highway officials had requested the meeting to study changes necessary to bring the long-range road plan up to date. All members of the Town Board and the Planning Board were asked to attend the meeting in the municipal building beginning at 7:45 p.m.

Brooks requested the meeting during the Town Board's regular monthly session Monday night.

Other business discussed during the meeting included:

The adoption of a new plumbing inspection fee schedule that will provide for increased fees.

The board turned down a request by Sam Sims to operate a taxicab. George Brannon's request to operate a cab was approved.

The commissioners amended an ordinance to provide a $5 privilege license for persons who want to sell coal in bags of 100 pounds or less.

Upon recommendation by the city manager and the chief of police, the board disallowed parking on the north side of the 100 block of North Academy Street from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Parking on the south side of the 100 block of West Main Avenue was restricted to two hours.

A Dream Assignment Becomes A Nightmare

Fletcher Davis figured things: What could be more entertaining and timely TV fare now, during the overlapping of football and basketball, than a filmed interview with every basketball player and coach in the Atlantic Coast Conference. In this last mad for the cage game, he'd have a ready-made audience, the local photog figured.

So Fletcher worked out the deal of deals. He made all the necessary arrangements through the college publicity offices, secured the services of veteran TV sportscaster Bill Currie, hired an airplane and a pilot, checked out and loaded his sound movie gear. And the troupe waited its happy way.

For a couple days, everything was dreamy. At South Carolina, Fletcher dropped and smashed an expensive light meter, and somebody kicked over and busted his brand-new flood lamp, which didn't come cheap either. But those things happen, and Fletcher dismissed the incidents as par for the course.

The film crew hopped to six schools before flying into Durham and getting grounded by the storm that was whipping off the coast. While they were filming the Duke interview, our cameraman-hero suddenly fainted dead away. A doctor was called and he suspected one of the viruses. Fletcher's illness and the weather stalled the project at Duke, and after four action-packed days, the movie-makers called a halt, with Virginia and Maryland still to go.

Fletcher got home and sent his 3,000 feet of film off to the television station to be processed. Dog-tired, he went home to catch up on his sleep. Late that night, he got a phone call from a frantic TV technician, who informed our boy that he got nothing on all 3,200 feet of film. Fletcher got sick all over again, then he set out to try and find out why.

The trouble: Sometime between the time the camera was loaded with film and the first interview, the camera diaphragm had broken, had fallen shut and had blocked all but the tiniest speck of light to the lens. The $200 worth of film was wasted—and that wasn't all.

Fletcher placed the cost of the whole ill-fated business at $1,000—a figure that included such items as flying 1,000 miles in an airplane rented by the day and the mile.

Early this week, things were looking less gloomy. Fletcher fired off a blistering complaint to the company that built the faulty lens, and he already has an apology and a new lens. There is reason to believe the TV station he was stringing for will come through with the expense money.

Even at best, it was a four-day dream assignment that became a nightmare. Always the happy warrior, Fletcher was thankful for the bad weather and the sudden sickness—at least he didn't waste film at Virginia and Maryland.

With The Rains Came A Big Orange Drank

We won a big orange drank and a moon pie off Philip Parker last Friday. He bet us it wouldn't rain again ever. We won just in time for him to get drenched at the Mooresville-Kannapolis football game.

We Need The Yeast Of Differing Ideas

The Junior Civic League is spearheading what we think is a fine project. The ladies want to bring a foreign exchange student to Mooresville, and they are busily mustering the support of other civic clubs about town. The Civic League held a meeting last week with representatives of other local organizations, and the consensus following the discussion was most encouraging. The first thing the ladies learned about the student exchange program operated through the American Field Service is that a staggering amount of paperwork and administrative wheeling and dealing is involved. Once the $700 in financial backing is assured, an exchange student council will be established here. The council would have the responsibility of seeing to the welfare of the foreign student.

We can't think of anything healthier in education than understanding each other. Needless to say, Mooresville students, and the whole town for that matter, could learn a great deal from an intelligent youngster from another country and another culture. And, needless to add, he or she would get a new slant on us—for the better, we trust. The ferment of ideas is essential to education, and the yeast of differing views is necessary for a fine fermentation.

The Junior Civic League has made it clear that bringing a foreign student into our high school would be a community project. The ladies are trying to get the gears meshed with the American Field Service. These wheels grind exceedingly slow, but we hope they can churn fast enough to have a foreign visitor here for the 1964-65 school term.

The Pastor's Gray Locks Are Doomed

The Rev. Floyd Trexler of St. Mark's has been stealing some of the Tribune's thunder of late. In his weekly Pastor's Newsletter, he has started a feature series on businesses operated by his parishioners. His subject last week was Center Barber Shop, owned by Wilkey Meadows. Another of Floyd's Lutherans, Everett Baxter, barbers there.

Here is an excerpt from the feature: "When asked what all they did at the barber shop, Wilkey replied they just have a big time. When they're not cutting hair they're shooting the bull, according to the management. The days I've been in there they were shooting the bull and cutting hair at the same time."

We're waiting to get a look at Floyd's head the next time Wilkey gets to it with his clippers.

A Cordial Invitation To Citizens-Stockholders

It was not by coincidence that Gov. Terry Sanford, Tarheel's champion of education, chose to conduct his first speaking tour in schools this year on the eve of American Education Week, November 10-18. In his talks to Mooreville students recently, the Governor drew an analogy between education and one's duty to one's country. Doubtless some of us feel it is considerably short of treason to quit school at 16, but none of us can deny that education and a strong democracy are inseparable.

"Education Strengthens the Nation" is the theme of the American Education Week observance this year. This theme is highly appropriate in light of the Governor's remarks here and in view of the world situation in general.

President Kennedy, in his message on education in January of this year, put it this way: "Education is both the foundation and the unifying force of our democratic way of life—it is the mainspring of our economic and social progress—it is the highest expression of achievement in our society, ennobling and enriching human life. In short, it is at the same time, the most profitable investment society can make and the richest reward it can confer."

American Education Week has been observed annually since 1921. It is sponsored by the National Education Association, the American Legion, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and the U. S. Office of Education. The week is set aside to spotlight what schools are doing and to remind citizens that good schools are their personal and collective responsibility.

This year, as in every year of American Education Week, school systems across the nation will open their doors to the real stockholders of American education—the public. These investors are welcomed at school anytime, and especially so during this week when educators make a special effort to hammer home their purpose for being. Nationally, some 30 million parents will make it a point to visit the institutions to which they entrust the care and feeding of their children. They will meet the people who, perhaps more than they, mold the minds of the nation's young.

Here in Mooreville, we are blessed with a school system that is the model for small-town school systems in North Carolina. Ours is a good school system, but it did not just happen to be a good one. The key to its quality lies in the 100 trained and dedicated individuals who make it go. Each member of the school staff extends a cordial welcome to Mooreville citizens-stockholders during special programs set at each school next week. By visiting your schools, you will give evidence you are interested in your children, your community, your teachers and the future of all of them.

Responsibility Key To Highway Safety

Gone is the day, thank heavens, when all you had to do to get your driver's license was reach your 16th birthday. All the world is complicated, and certainly this is true of motoring.

One sure sign of our complicated age is cars themselves. They have evolved into gigantic powerplants motivated by the push of a button and controlled by the touch of a finger. In the very simplicity of driving is the danger.

No longer is it a feat of coordination and dexterity to learn to drive. A three-year-old can watch his mom turn a switch, push a button and zoom out the driveway. He can observe this about twice and then, if he gets a chance, he can do it himself.

We have never been able to understand how anyone can convince himself that applying half a pound of foot pressure is heroic. Yet, to many drivers, today, car speed is somehow associated with adventure and personal power. There is absolutely no skill involved in this kind of deadly demonstration.

We are pleased the N. C. Department of Motor Vehicles has instigated a traffic safety education course, just as we agreed with the General Assembly's demand that all youngsters complete a driver education course before they could be licensed to drive.

The key is individual responsibility on the highway. Anyone can drive a car, but to drive a car safely and sensibly involves a great deal more than starting, stopping and steering.

In driver education in the public schools, kids learn about this responsibility. Now we have a program for the 16-to-18 age group that does not have driver education courses available in schools. This service is aimed at the youngster who is not in school, or who attends a school without driver education.

In the final analysis, personal responsibility and basic good sense are the only ingredients that can make our highways safe. The Department of Motor Vehicles can't do much about basic good sense, but this new training course can do a great deal toward instilling responsibility.

Free Enterprise By Government Decree

The government is going into prices again. Murmurs of an administration campaign against rising prices are being heard at staff levels.

It seems that this time it's not Big Steel alone, although steel will be investigated by a New York grand jury to try and learn if prices are being rigged. This time the administration is shooting at the whole spectrum of price increases—the spiral we usually dismiss as the normal "cost of living." Government economists think most of these hikes are unjustified.

It seems price boosts don't conform to "government guidelines on price increases." In most lines that have increased prices, productivity has risen faster than in industry generally and profits are up substantially over 1962. Under these circumstances, "government guidelines" call for prices to go down.

So, what does the administration plan to do about prices? Well, the President's Consumer Advisory Council will make a "study"—which isn't exactly a novel idea—of the impact of the price increase trend at all levels of the economy. This report is

Blue Devils Are Ready For Season Finale With Children's Home Friday

Mooresville's Blue Devils will come to the end of the trail in their season tomorrow night when the locals take the field against Children's Home. Game time is set for 8 p. m. on the Senior High athletic field.

Mooresville, which sports a 7-2 mark going into the contest, will be an undoubted favorite. However, Coach Roy Boyles has given the scouting report to the gridders and he warns that the Methodists have a much better ball club than their 4-4 record reveals.

Children's Home, running from the single-wing, has practically the entire team returning which almost pulled a surprise against the locals last year before falling 14-0. The Methodists will be out to rebound against Mooresville following a 21-0 setback at the hands of North Rowan last Friday night. They are sure to be at top prime for the encounter against the highly rated defensive Devil line.

The Methodists, after getting off to a fast start the first of the year, have found the going tough in their last four games. They will be out to regain some of the prestige Friday night.

As for the Blue Devils, they aren't selling the abilities of the Methodists short. They have been going through practice sessions the early part of the week, gearing their offensive plays and sharpening up their defenses.

Captain Pearson, although well pleased with the performance of his line in the decision over Kannapolis, still has the forward wall working out at a fast pace.

Pearson works mainly with the line while head Coach Boyles and assistant Jack Loftin spend the major part of their time with the backfield and end chores. This combination, rated one of the best in the North Piedmont, has given Mooresville its share of victories during the past nine games and they hope to add one more to the win side of the column before calling the season a closer.

New plays entered last week are expected to be used against the Methodists. For the many fans who turn out for the game, the coaches have some surprises for the opposition which they hope will also be enjoyable for the fans.

Those expected to start the contest in the backfield for the locals are Tommy Deal at quarterback, Mike Chester at the fullback position and a couple of real speedsters, Mike Robinson and David Oliphant, at the halfback slots.

Pearson's forward block is expected to consist of Roy Brannon, Bill Watson, Dewitt Hinson, Gary Karriker, Bobby Pope, Roy Thompson and Larry Dyson. Plenty of help for these boys will come from Peasey Johnson, Stanley McNeill, David Curtis, Mike Johnson, and Chick Pless on defense.

It is possible that Jim Bailey, Mike Plyter, and Jerry Coats also will see considerable action in the Mooresville backfield.

Possibly the largest crowd of Mooresville fans of the year will be on hand for the season closer.

—The Woman's Society of Christian Service met Tuesday, October 29, at 7:30 p. m. at the church. Mrs. Clay Graham, president, presided. Mrs. Kenneth Overcash gave the devotion. Mrs. Bill A. Drenth, guest speaker, gave a very interesting talk on the missionary work she and her husband are doing in Brazil. The meeting closed with a prayer by Rev. Paul M. Dennis.

Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed by the group. Donuts and coffee were served.

—Quiet Day was observed Thursday, October 31, at the Centenary Methodist Church. Mrs. Jason Blackwelder was in charge of the program. Others participating on the program were Mrs. Jimmy Miller, Mrs. T. E. Goodnight, Jr. and Mrs. Paul M. Dennis. The program entitled "Peace With God" was very inspirational.

At the close of the meeting, the group assembled in the hut for a covered dish lunch.

—Mrs. Clay Graham, Mrs. Raymer Goodman, Mrs. Melvin Cashion, Mrs. Kenneth Overcash and Mrs. Robert M. West attended the World Community Day service at the Triplet Methodist Church Friday night, November 1.

—Circles of the Centenary Methodist Church will meet as follows: Circle No. 1—Tuesday, November 12, at 9:45 a. m. at the home of Mrs. Jason Blackwelder on the Landis Highway.

Circle No. 2—Tuesday, November 12, at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Clay Graham.

Circle No. 3—Monday, November 11, at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Grey Kerr. Mrs. Paul Kerr will be co-hostess.

—The Centenary Home Demonstration Club will meet Tuesday, November 12, at 2:00 p. m. at the home of Mrs. John Lowrance.

—Deep sympathy is extended to the family of Jim Lowrance, who passed away Thursday, October 31, at his home.

—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Attilio and daughter, of New York City, were guests of Mrs. Clem Thompson and children several days last week.

—Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Blackwelder and children spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. James Pyatte in Nebo.

—Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ballard and children, Linda and David, of Charlotte spent Sunday with Mr. Ballard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ballard. They attended the Sunday morning worship service at the First Presbyterian Church in Mooresville. The pastor, Rev. Joe E. Stowe, is a former pastor of theirs.

—Billy Scoggins, student at N. C. State College, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Scoggins.

—Mrs. Clem Thompson and children spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Wren in Raleigh.

World Travelers To Speak At First Baptist Church

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Mitchiner of Oxford will be guest speakers at the First Baptist Church next Sunday evening, November 10, at the 7:30 o'clock worship hour.

For the past 10 years, the couple has spent their vacation time traveling at their own expense, to Home and Foreign Mission fields to gather pictures and information to share with people in churches in an effort to present the cause of World Missions from a layman's viewpoint.

Trips have been around the United States to Mexico, Central America, South America, Europe, Africa, the Near East, Alaska and in 1952 a trip around the world to concentrate upon Southern Baptist Missions in the Orient. They visited 26 states on a Home Mission trip in 1963.

Mitchiner is a native of North Carolina. He holds a B. S. degree in business administration from N. C. State College, and operates a retail home and auto supply business. He has served as church deacon and Sunday School teacher, moderator of the Flat River Baptist Association, and vice president of the North Carolina Brotherhood.

Mrs. Mitchiner is also a native of North Carolina. She holds a B. S. degree in piano and public school music from Meredith College. She has served as Sunday School teacher and department superintendent, WMU president, divisional WMU superintendent, and North Carolina WMU stewardship chairman. Presently, she is a member of the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Adding color and emphasis to the evening's program, a number of the church's young people will wear costumes from the various countries.

The public is cordially invited to attend the service at the local church.

Shepherd Lions Plan Annual Turkey Shoots

The Shepherd Lions Club will begin its annual Turkey Shoots on Saturday, November 9, at 1:30 p. m. across the road from Shinn's Store at Shinnville.

Shoots will be held each Saturday thereafter until Christmas.

Proceeds will go to the Lions' White Cane Drive and other community projects.

The public is cordially invited to participate in these fund-raising shoots.

Local Girl, Student At Saint Andrews, Appears In Comedy

A Mooresville girl—Mary Elizabeth Cobb—appeared as Princess Winifred in the musical comedy, "Once Upon A Mattress," which was presented by the Highland Players of Saint Andrews Presbyterian College at Laurinburg October 23-26.

Royalty from the swamp country, Princess Winifred is the fifth member of royalty to vie for the hand of Prince Dauntless, son of the rulers of this minuscule land.

The musical, directed by Arthur McDonald, proved a delight to the large audiences that attended the several presentations of the play.

BEAUTIFICATION PROJECT—Mrs. S. E. Murdoch, right, president of the Mooresville Garden Council, talks with Mr. and Mrs. John Archer in the small garden spot downtown that the council has leased from the Archers. The plot, where the home of a son-in-law of Mooresville's founder once stood, will be used by the Garden Council for a beautification project under the Home and Neighborhood Development Sponsors program. The council is made up of representatives of the Mooresville Garden Club and the Petal Pushers Garden Club.

Garden Council Launches Beautification Project

Way back at the dawn of this century, R. W. McKee built a home on Main Street in Mooresville. A woods and a rustic wrought iron fence that once decorated one of the town's finest homes.

The lot has been used for parking for some time—all of it, that is except the corner where the "boxwoods" still thrive.

Let us regress long enough to point out that McKee was a son-in-law of John Franklin Moore, the founder of Mooresville. The year after he built the house, McKee sold it and considerable surrounding acreage to M. F. Nesbit, grandfather of Mrs. John Archer. The site now is owned by the Archers. Of passing interest are the notations that Mrs. Archer was the first child born in the house and that her grandfather Nesbit planted the boxwoods that still grow on the lot.

Now enters the Mooresville Garden Council, an organization made up of representatives of the Mooresville Garden Club and the Petal Pushers Garden Club. The council was created primarily to see to the operation of the Home and Neighborhood Development Sponsors program, a Sears Foundation setup that provides grants for community beautification. In the 45-by-30 foot garden plot mid-way the 100 block of North Main, the council has a project just waiting to be beautified.

Last week, the council leased the plot from Mr. and Mrs. Archer and restoration work already is underway. A craftsman has been hired to restore the fence. Benches and possibly a fountain will be placed in the tiny, picturesque downtown garden spot.

The council has called on other civic clubs in town to participate in the project that has the blessing of the town government and the Chamber of Commerce. Persons with suitable shrubs to plant in the plot were asked to contact Mrs. Bill Rader, chairman of the council's HANDS committee. Working with Mrs. Rader on this committee are Mrs. Lucius Delk and Mrs. Tom Delk. Mrs. L. B. Skeen and Mrs. Sam Pharr are serving as consultants for the beautification project.

Postmaster Issues 'Mail Early' Plea

Mooresville Postmaster Ben S. Houston urges patrons to mail Christmas packages to armed forces personnel overseas by surface transportation between November 1 and November 20 or by air parcel post between December 1 and December 10.

The term "Armed Forces overseas" includes personnel of our Armed Forces, members of the families, and authorized U. S. civilians employed overseas who receive mail through APO, New York, N. Y., San Francisco, Calif., or Seattle, Wash., or Fleet Post Office, New York, N. Y., or San Francisco, Calif., or Navy Post Office, c/o Postmaster, Seattle, Wash.

Packaging for Christmas mailing overseas is especially important, Houston said. Boxes should be wood, metal, solid fiberboard, or strong double-faced corrugated fiberboard.

All packages should be securely wrapped in heavy paper which materially strengthens the package. Each package should be well tied with strong cord. Unless completely packed and tightly filled, boxes are likely to be crushed. Sufficient cushioning material should be used to prevent any rattling or loosening of articles within the package.

A slip showing list of contents and the name and address of the addressee should be enclosed in the package, and customs forms 2996 or 2996-A must be completed by the sender for many destinations.

Articles such as alcoholic beverages, firearms ammunition, matches of all kinds and lighter fluids are prohibited in the mails. Cigarettes, other tobacco products, coffee and various other items are prohibited in packages to some military post offices. Persons are urged to consult post office officials in order to prevent a delay or non shipment in such cases.

Tom Swann VFW, Auxiliary To Observe Buddy Poppy Day

By official proclamation of Mayor John C. Miller, Saturday, November 9, will be observed as Buddy Poppy Day in Mooresville.

On that day, members of the Tom Swann Post No. 1072, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and its auxiliary will be on the streets of the town, offering Buddy Poppies for sale.

The patronage of the public will be greatly appreciated.

In his proclamation, Mayor Miller said: "Whereas: The annual sale of Buddy Poppies by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, an organization chartered by the Congress, has been officially recognized and endorsed by the President of the United States and the Veterans Administration; and "Whereas: The proceeds of this worthy fund-raising campaign are used exclusively for the benefit of disabled and needy veterans, and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans; and

"Whereas: The basic purpose of the annual sale of Buddy Poppies by the VFW is eloquently reflected in the desire to 'Honor The Dead by Helping The Living'; therefore,

"I, John C. Miller, Mayor of Mooresville, do hereby recognize the patriotic merits of this cause by urging the citizens of this community to contribute generously to its support through the purchase of Buddy Poppies, on the day set aside for the distribution of these symbols of loyalty in this city."

—The Kennedy Circle met Sunday night in the Chapel, Mrs. Hermon Johnson was leader of the program.

—The Alexander Circle met Wednesday at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. R. P. Craven. Miss Lillian Graham was the leader of the program.

—Prayer meeting will be held Wednesday at 7:30 in the chapel.

—F. E. Dickson is a patient at Lawrence Hospital.

—Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Craven were Mrs. Dallas Alexander, Miss Winona Hebeox and Phil Patterson.

—Our annual barbecue will be held Thursday, November 14. Proceeds will benefit the new fund to develop the new fund.

—The Linwood Home Demonstration Club will meet Tuesday, November 12 at the home of Mrs. Dallas Alexander.

—Friday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Sample were Misses Donna Cashion and Jane Johnson.

—Dr. W. A. Kennedy, Frank Washam, Paul Johnston, and Clarence Blackwelder spent last week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Craven.

—What shall I say to Lucy when she announces she doesn't like Sunday School and Church?

That's easy, be consistent.

By tomorrow and example you can show her that church-going is a necessity. And in later years, she will thank you for bringing into her life the greatest values a mature person can possess—Christian habits and beliefs.

—The church is the greatest factor in the building of character and good citizenship. It is the source of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four words which every person should know: service, respect, faith and love.

Funeral Rites Conducted For P. F. Davis

Funeral services for Ploomy Franklin (Tollie) Davis, 68, of Mount Mourne, were conducted at 4 p. m. last Friday at the Fair View Methodist Church at Mount Mourne.

The services were conducted by the pastor, the Rev. W. E. Ruffy, and a former pastor, the Rev. Don Besty of Charlotte.

Burial was in the Fair View Church cemetery.

Mr. Davis, a barber by trade, operated a shop in Mooresville.

He died in the Charlotte Memorial Hospital at 6 a. m. last Tuesday, October 29, after having been in declining health for a year and seriously ill two weeks.

A native of Iredell county, Mr. Davis was a son of the late Charles L. and Cordia Abernathy Davis. He was born on June 6, 1900.

The survivors include the widow, Mrs. Nela Rimmer Davis; one daughter, Mrs. Jean Hayes of the home; four sons, Ploomy Franklin Davis, Jr., in the Navy at Portsmouth, Va., Fred Samuel Davis in the U. S. Air Force in California, Leroy Davis in the Navy at Naples, Italy, and Johnny Kerton Davis of the home; two brothers, Swain and Boyce Davis, both of Mount Mourne; and one sister, Mrs. Jim Overcash of Troutman.

South School PTA Schedules Chicken Supper

The Parent-Teachers Association of South School will sponsor its annual chicken pie and ham supper on Tuesday night, November 12, at the school. The price will be $1.10 per plate. Take out plates will be available in the school auditorium.

Open house will be observed the same evening and parents are cordially invited to visit the classroom.

The patronage of the public will be appreciated.

Coddle Creek ARP Church Sets Barbecue

Coddle Creek Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church will hold its annual barbecue on Thursday, November 14, beginning at 11:00 a. m. and continuing throughout the evening. About 30 shovels will be pit-cooked with hickory wood on the church grounds on the preceding day under the direction of J. W. Oehler.

Plates with home made cake will be $1.25; sandwiches 35c each. Out-orders will be available. Bulk orders will be delivered in the surrounding area at the room hours.

The church is situated on the Mooresville-Kannapolis road about six miles from Mooresville.

Fair View's Guild Plans Benefit Meal

The Wesleyan Service Guild of the Fair View Methodist Church at Mount Mourne will sponsor a benefit country ham meal on Saturday, November 9, it was announced earlier this week.

The meal will be served in the church's educational building, getting underway at 11 a. m. and continuing throughout the afternoon and early evening. Adult plates will be $1.50 each, while children plates will be 75 cents.

The menu will consist of country ham, candied yams, green beans, stew, pickles, rolls, tea or coffee, pie or cake.

The patronage of the public will be greatly appreciated.

Observance Slated For Veterans Day

The public has been invited to participate in the Veterans Day observance planned Monday, November 11, by the Gresham-Baker Post 66 of the American Legion.

Troy McNeely, post commander, issued the invitation in behalf of the post. He said the post chaplain, the Rev. Wilkes Macaulay, is chairman of a special committee that is organizing the program for the holiday.

The local American Legion unit will join 16,000 other Legion posts throughout the nation in observing Veterans Day.

Meet Judge Richardson Preyer

The people of North Carolina are fortunate in having two able men seek the gubernatorial office in 1964.

Dan Moore of Canton is a man of good stature, dedicated to the proposition that this office demands political honesty and personal integrity. He would make North Carolina an acceptable Governor.

Richardson Preyer of Greensboro has the better all-round qualifications of the two candidates for this office. He would make North Carolina a great and outstanding Governor.

There are those who say one weakness in Preyer's armor lies in the fact that he has never been active in politics, knows nothing about the rough-and-tumble political tactics needed in a contest of this kind.

There are others, and this reporter is among them, who believe this may constitute a valuable asset. Stump politicians have become a dime a dozen, and the fruit of their handiwork leaves much to be desired.

Judge Preyer's intimate associates reveal he is a very quiet and sensitive person whose conception of the purpose of government is of the highest character. We'll swap, at any time and for any office, this approach to a public trust over the razzle-dazzle of flowery speeches and empty promises.

Richardson Preyer comes from one of North Carolina's wealthiest families. His family founded and still owns and operates the Vick Chemical combine with its subsidiaries. At the same time, this family has given more of its wealth away, to hospitals, colleges, churches, and charity institutions, than any other family in North Carolina. A good masie shot from our office, for instance, lies Richardson Field at Davidson College, largely a gift from Richardson Preyer's family.

To see and talk with Judge Preyer, you wouldn't suspect that he has a dime beyond the needs of the day. He is a man of modest dress, habits and talk, quiet, unobtrusive, and possessing one of the most brilliant minds in North Carolina.

In 1956 he was appointed Judge of Superior Court by Governor Luther Hodges. Preyer, a brilliant lawyer in his own right, did not seek the appointment, was at first a bit reluctant to consider it. Hodges said he appointed Preyer, not only because of his ability, but because he seemed to be the unanimous choice of the legal profession and the people of Guilford county.

Five years later, in 1961, the office of U. S. Federal Judge for the North Carolina Middle District became vacant. There was a strong and almost unanimous popular demand in the District for the appointment of Richardson Preyer. The post paid $35,000 a year and was a life-time appointment. As was the case in his Superior Court judgeship, the financial remuneration was less than Preyer could earn in his lucrative private law practice. But again, as was the case in the Superior Court appointment, it was a duty call to public service. At the behest of the people, Governor Sanford recommended him and Kennedy appointed him. As far as Preyer was concerned, there was no politics behind the appointment. He did not seek the appointment, accepted it only in the spirit of duty as a public service.

When a spontaneous "People for Preyer" movement gathered overwhelming force in the Guilford area, he succumbed to the pressure of his admirers, resigned his Federal judgeship and consented to be a candidate for Governor.

From the day he put out his law shingle in Greensboro until this day, Judge Preyer has had little interest in backdoor politics or politicians.

CIVIC LEADER: Many of Judge Preyer's civic activities have generously benefited the entire state, while others have been of a community nature (as represented by Greensboro's 1954 Distinguished Service Award as "Young Man of the Year").

He was first chairman of a special committee which pioneered facilities for treatment of the chronically ill, thus starting a movement now in progress throughout the South. He currently is chairman of the North Carolina Citizens Committee for Better Schools, serves on the Board of Trustees of the North Carolina Symphony, is a member of the education-oriented Board of Visitors for Davidson College, and is or has been a leader in more than 20 other programs of direct civic benefit on a community or statewide level.

BUSINESSMAN: Judge Preyer's administrative experience dates back to World War II. During his four years in the Navy, he became Executive Officer of the Destroyer Preston directing 340 men and 20 officers. Following the war and law school he was trained in administrative duties of the Vick Chemical Co. His latest administrative responsibilities have

Society Elects Carl Baber To State Office

Carl M. Baber, Mooresville's recreation director, has been elected member-at-large of the North Carolina Recreation Society.

Baber was installed in the office for a one-year term Monday during the annual conference of the society in Raleigh. He was one of two members-at-large chosen by the more than 400 professional recreationists participating in the session. Every municipality in the state that supports a recreation program was represented at the conference.

The meeting began Sunday in the Sir Walter Hotel and continued through Wednesday, with a number of outstanding leaders in the field of recreation speaking and taking part in workshops and seminars. The theme of the conference was "The Performing Arts in Recreation," and special emphasis was placed on recreation programs for the elderly.

Bill Sapp of Lumberton was installed as president of the organization, and Ray Kish of High Point began a term as president-elect.

Baber, a 30-year-old Mount Airy native, has headed the local recreation program since August 1961. He came here as assistant recreation director in February 1959. An Army veteran, Baber is a graduate of the University of North Carolina.

In Mooresville, he is active in church and civic activities. He is married and the father of three children.

Officials of the Mooresville Merchants Association said they have scheduled the lights installation project next week in order to have the downtown decorated for the Christmas parade December 3.

"Since we can't order the kind of weather we need to put up the lights," one official said, "we have to plan well in advance in case we have a delay."

Mrs. Jack Duffy, Merchants Association secretary, said the lights will rent this year for $1,500. She explained that all fixtures will be new, and the theme of the lights and their arrangement will be "something different for our citizens to enjoy."

Mooresville's seasonal street lighting project is a cooperative effort spearheaded and directed by the Merchants Association.

The dinner meeting, which is expected to draw some 250 industrial plant heads, will be the Central Piedmont Safety Council's 10-county area, will be held at the War Memorial Building, getting underway at 7:30 p. m.

Hosts for the meeting will be Mooresville Mills and Cascade Weaving Company.

The keynote speaker will be the Rev. Thomas Stephens Haggal of High Point, a well-known "businessman's preacher" and radio commentator, for whose work a national foundation has been formed.

Counties which make up the Central Piedmont Safety Council are Rockingham, Guilford, Randolph, Stokes, Forsyth, Davidson, Davie, Yadkin, Surry, and Iredell.

Chairman of the council is Dayton Crews of Winston-Salem.

Only 35 years of age and thus a relative newcomer to the nation's fraternity of noted speakers, Mr. Haggal's upward spiral in popularity is well known.

Talking about land, Ed Doolittle said he was over in another county the other day and saw a sign where a feller had it posted this way:

No Hunin
No Flutin
No Nothin

Ed allowed as how that was what he'd see over a friendly landowner.

Well, Mister Editor, the political rumblings for 1964, both in the primaries and general election, is starting to rumble. For the next 12 months, to hear them candidates talk, they won't be nothing too good for "the common man."

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

Achievement Event Honors Iredell 4-H

Mooresville Area Folk Participate In Annual County-Wide Program

Deserving 4-H'ers from throughout Iredell county were recognized Tuesday night at the annual county-wide 4-H Achievement Night program.

Held in the Celeste Henkel School auditorium, this year's program drew approximately 250 persons — 4-H'ers, their parents, and adult leaders.

Theme of the most interesting program was "The Wonderful Year of 1963."

In addition to the recognition of the deserving 4-H'ers, another feature of the program was the installation of county council officers for 1964.

Those taking office were: Anne Cooke, Mazepa Club, president; Larry Marlowe, Joyner Club, vice president; Elton Dishman, Mount Mourne Flat Rock Club, secretary; James Bobbit, Cool Springs Club, treasurer; Shirley Martin, Central Club, reporter; Jane Kelly, Mount Mourne Flat Rock Club, and Steve Stutts, Brawley Lucky Clover Club, recreation leaders, and Roger Sharpe, Joyner Club, and Libby Cooke, Mazepa Club, co-editors.

Mary Margaret Hamilton, vice president of the Iredell County 4-H Council, presided, and the pledge of allegiance was led by Edwin Tolliver of the Cool Springs Club. Kay Sloop of the Mazepa Club led the 4-H Club pledge.

Superintendent Appointed For Plant Marshall

A superintendent has been appointed for Plant Marshall, a steam-electric generating station being built by Duke Power Company on Lake Norman at Terrell, seven miles west of Mooresville.

Edward Lowry Thomas has been promoted from assistant superintendent of the Riverbend Steam Station at Mountain Island Lake to superintendent of Marshall, it was announced by Austin C. Thies, Duke Power's manager of steam production.

Construction of the new generating station, which will have an ultimate capacity of 2 million kilowatts, began in the fall of 1962.

The first 350,000-kilowatt generator is expected to be in operation next spring, with a second generator of the same size to go into operation a year later.

Thomas, 37, is a native of Mountain Springs, N. C., and spent his youth at Rock Hill, S. C. He graduated from Clemson College with a degree in mechanical engineering in 1947 and joined Duke Power in the test department at the Cliffside Steam Station.

He and his wife, the former Miss Nedra Chastain of Pelzer, S. C., make their home in Charlotte. They have four children, Mary Lynn, 12, Elizabeth Ann, 8, Laura Leigh, 7, and Samuel Lewis, 5.

Thomas teaches an adult Sunday School class and is active with the Boy Scout troop committee at Cook's Memorial Church. He is secretary and treasurer of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

The banquet will honor community committees, county committeemen and office personnel who have served with the ASCE in Iredell county. This fellowship meeting is held to help each become better acquainted with others in promoting agriculture in the county.

Tickets are $1.75 each and are available to the county ASCE office in Statesville.

MOORESVILLE BUSINESS HOUSES Set Holiday Closing Hours

Beginning Tuesday, November 26, and continuing until Christmas member stores of the Mooresville Merchants Association will observe their regular Tuesday afternoon closing in order to accommodate the buying public who will be busy with the Christmas shopping season.

This announcement was made this week by the office of the association, H. T. Mayhew, President.

Mooresville stores will be closed all day on Thursday, November 28, in observance of Thanksgiving Day.

Local stores also will be closed all day on Wednesday, December 11, in observance of Christmas Day, and Wednesday, January 1, New Year's Day.

The nights the stores will be open for Christmas shopping will be voted at the November board meeting of the association. This meeting is scheduled to be held this (Thursday) evening at 7:45 o'clock in the office of the association in the McNeely Building on North Main Street.

The foregoing schedule for Thanksgiving and Christmas opening and closing was approved by the association directors.

been connected with operating the office of Federal Judge. He has proved himself in the day-to-day world of commerce—being a director of businesses in New York, Greensboro and Atlanta. His accomplishments and integrity as an outstanding North Carolina businessman and civic leader have earned him membership in the Newcomen Society, generally considered the "honor society of the business world."

INDUSTRY: When it was decided the 1963 N. C. Trade Fair should become international in scope, Judge Preyer was chosen as the most logical man in the state to lead 40 other business and professional men on an all-important trade mission throughout Europe (each man paying his own expenses). Several hundred overseas companies were contacted and given convincing reasons why they should show their wares and locate branches in North Carolina. Judge Preyer also was appointed by the late Spencer Love, president of Burlington Industries, to serve on a special committee for attracting out-of-state industries.

EDUCATION: Judge Preyer's consuming interest in educational opportunities is understandable. As father of five children, he naturally joins other parents in their concern for adequate schools and qualified teachers. Because of his deep and genuine interest, Judge Preyer holds one of the highest positions of any layman in the advancement of our schools—that of president of the N. C. Citizens Committee for Better Schools. He also is a trustee and member of the Curriculum Committee of Woodberry Forest School and is on the Board of Visitors for Davidson College.

COMMUNISM: Through the Richardson Foundation (a charitable organization) Judge Preyer has had the unique opportunity to effectively bring the evils of communism to the attention of the American people. As a result, "Cold War Seminars" have been held throughout the nation to expose the dangers of communism. He advocated—and is presently aiding in developing—a program designed to better teach the values of our American heritage to the youth of our state. His wife is a member of the statewide "Educational Council on National Purposes" which is concerned with promoting Americanism as opposed to communism.

HUMANITARIAN: Judge Preyer gives literally of his time, money and talents to hospitals and churches. He helped establish the Central Carolina Rehabilitation Hospital and for five years served as its chairman, and he is vice chairman of the Board of Trustees of the L. Richardson Memorial Hospital. To help support more effective treatment in the state's mental health hospitals, Judge Preyer is active on the North Carolina Foundation for Mental Health.

Since earliest childhood he has been closely associated with the First Presbyterian Church of Greensboro. He serves as an Elder of the church and is a teacher of the Men's Bible Class with over 200 members.

FARMER'S FRIEND: Judge Preyer has demonstrated an inspired interest in the growing economic problems connected with the nearly 200,000 farms in North Carolina—which he notes is the highest number of any state except Texas. Judge Preyer assisted in getting the Richardson Foundation to undertake an important study of "part-time farming in North Carolina." This was due to a realization that farmers can benefit much from earning industrial incomes, while remaining sturdy independent citizens on the family farm.

WAR VETERAN: While Japanese "suicide pilots" were making desperate last-ditch efforts at Okinawa during World War II, young Lieutenant L. Richardson Preyer was in the thick of action as gunnery officer and executive officer of a U. S. destroyer. His bravery and skillful direction of the ship's guns during this fierce action at Okinawa earned him the Bronze Star.

FAMILY: Judge and Mrs. Preyer have five children, ages four through 15. Judge Preyer himself comes from a distinguished North Carolina family. Born in Greensboro in 1919, he is the only lawyer in that family which has produced a long line of teachers, preachers, and outstanding businessmen. His great uncle was president of Washington & Lee University and president of Davidson College; his great-grandfather was an early pastor of Greensboro's First Presbyterian Church (remaining there for 38 years); his grandfather developed the formula for the first Vick's Vapor Rub while operating a small drug store in downtown Greensboro; and Judge Preyer's father was president of Vick Chemical Co. until retiring some 15 years ago.

SPORTS FAN: Being the father of five active youngsters, it isn't surprising that Judge Preyer is particularly involved in athletics. For the past three years he has been Commissioner of Little League and Pony League Baseball in Greensboro. . . and he is himself a strong devotee of physical fitness (he and his wife having won the 1962 Doubles Tennis Tournament in Greensboro).

MRS. PREYER: One of North Carolina's best known and most liked women is Judge Preyer's lovely and gracious wife, Emily Harris Preyer. Her interests closely parallel those of her husband.

Mrs. Preyer taught high school in Charlotte and Greensboro, served Red Cross hospitals in Australia and the Philippines during World War II, and was unanimously chosen Greensboro's "Woman of the Year" in 1958. She is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Consolidated University, member of the Governor's Commission on Education Beyond High School, member of the Executive Committee of the Democratic Party of North Carolina.

er of the South End Club at Mount Moore, presented the devotion, and music was led by Jane Kelly of Mount Moore, county recreational leader.

The address of welcome was given by Forest Thompson, of Mooreville, a member of the 4-H sponsoring committee, and guests were recognized by Larry Stuts, a member of the Brawley Helping Hands Club.

The tribute to the parents was given by Eileen Dishman, a member of the Mount Moore Flat Rock Club, and "The Wonderful Year of 1963" was presented by Brenda Templeton of the Union Grove Club.

Officers for the coming year were installed by Miss Mary Sue Moser of Raleigh, district 4-H club agent.

Winners—national, state, regional, district, and county—were recognized for their achievements during 1963.

Anne Cooke, of the Mazerpa Club, was cited as a national winner in gardening in the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association contest.

State winners included: Mrs. C. W. Watts and Avery Sloop, adult leaders; Ralph Brown, alumni recognition; Anne Cooke, citizenship; Howard Williams, dairy achievement; Robert Stamey, dairy judging; Libby Cooke, fruit and vegetable marketing; Libby Cooke, home improvement.

Also, Anne Cooke and Mary Renegar, honor club; Jane Kelly and Eileen Dishman, poultry marketing demonstration; Anne Cooke, Mary Renegar, Roger Sharpe, and Libby Cooke (alternate), vegetable judging; Mazerpa Community Club, health; Myer Community Club, recreation and Mazerpa Community Club, safety.

Western regional and alternate state winner was Mary Margaret Hamilton, wildlife.

James Bobby was cited as regional winner in dairy judging.

District winners included: Ralph Brown, alumni recognition; Wayne Mayes, agricultural program; Libby Cooke, beautification home grounds; Charles Morrison, beef; Anne Cooke and Michael Reid, citizenship; Roger Sharpe, communications; Marion Bell, cotton demonstration; Howard Williams, dairy achievement; James Bobbitt, dairy herd management; Michael Gregory, electric.

Also, Brenda Templeton, entomology demonstration; Libby Cooke, fruit and vegetable marketing demonstration; Libby Cooke, home improvement; Jimmy Dobson, poultry; Eileen Dishman and Jane Kelly, poultry marketing demonstration; Jimmy Dobson and Mary Todd Hall, poultry production demonstration; Barry Wilson, swine; Larry Marlowe, tobacco demonstration; Mary Margaret Hamilton, wildlife; Ann Hostetler, 5500 Charlotte Observer Scholarship; and Marcia Davis, first alternate dress review.

Special key award recognition went to: Anne Cooke, Michael Gregory, Mary Margaret Hamilton, Shirley Martin, Elaine Renegar, Mary Renegar, Robert Stamey, and Brenda Templeton.

Scores of county winners in both junior and senior divisions were recognition for their good work in the 4-H during 1963.

$200,000 Gift To Be Used In Modernization Program

A gift of $200,000 to modernize the heart of Davidson College's beloved Chambers Building was announced Saturday by College President D. Grier Martin. He made the announcement at a luncheon for the Davidson College Board of Visitors.

The gift from the Martha and Spencer Love Foundation will be used toward the cost of renovation and modernization of the 1200-seat Chambers Building auditorium. The renovated facility will be named the J. Spencer Love Auditorium, President Martin added.

The modernization will amount to almost a complete rebuilding of the interior center of Davidson's landmark structure, enlarging the auditorium, increasing its seating capacity, improving the acoustical treatment, giving it new lighting, modern stage equipment, and an elevator to serve both the main floor and balcony of the auditorium.

"This modernization is one of the college's long-range plans for several years. It will add a great deal to the presentations of lectures and concerts to large groups on the Davidson campus. We are extremely grateful to the Martha and Spencer Love Foundation for its continuing concern for Davidson's needs," President Martin said.

Spencer Love, a textile genius who put together during his lifetime on a small one-mill operation the present gigantic Burlington Industries complex, was a long-time friend of Davidson College and a member of its Board of Visitors at the time of his death.

"His interest in Davidson and higher education generally made him one of the college's most valued friends," President Martin said. "Hardly a week would go by but that he was in touch with us on matters concerning the college."

A member of Mooreville's First Presbyterian Church, Brawley is active in the work of the Men of the Church. He recently was named as Iredell's representative on the council of the Men of the Church of Concord Presbytery.

He is married to the former Miss Eloise Jarrett of Shelby, and the couple has two daughters, Mary Ann and Lynda Leigh Brawley. The Brawleys reside at 522 Carpenter avenue, this city.

In a statement emphasizing the importance of the campaign, Raymer said: "During the coming year, more than ever in the past, our counter-attack against disease will focus not only on tuberculosis but on the entire spectrum of respiratory diseases, the disorders of breathing. When we realize that this group of ailments is the fourth largest killer in the United States, it's obvious that a tremendous job is waiting to be done in addition to our continuing campaign to wipe out tuberculosis."

"To help us meet the challenge, the importance of this year's Christmas Seal Campaign must be clearly emphasized to every member of the community. We feel that Presley Brawley, Jr., is well qualified to fulfill that task and have complete confidence in a record outcome of the drive under his direction."

The auditorium was built in 1929 as the central feature of Chambers Building. Around it are the college's class rooms and administrative offices on three floors. The auditorium, remembered sometimes fondly by Davidsonians across the decades as the center for compulsory chapel programs, has in its time housed many notable occasions for Davidson College—graduations, convocations, inaugurations of college presidents among them.

Dear Contestants: Take Note Of This

Often, the left hand is unaware of what the right hand is up to, as witness the Tribune's football contest page this week. As everyone knows, Mooreville's Blue Devils ended their season last Friday night, but on the contest page, plain as day, are provisions for guessing the total points of the Mooreville game this week.

This, we now realize, will be rather difficult, since there will be no such contest. So, in an effort to cut down on confusion and make amends for our boob, we ask contestants to ignore that portion of the contest dealing with total points scored in the Mooreville game. Time of entry will decide winners in the event of ties.

Sunday Afternoon Ceremony In Charlotte Unites Miss Diane Robinson And Thomas J. Byrum Jr.

In a lovely setting of numerous greenery with candelabra holding Cathedral spires, Miss Iris Diane Robinson became the bride of Thomas Joe Byrum, Jr. on Sunday, November 10, at four o'clock in the afternoon in the Wesley Heights Methodist Church in Charlotte. The Rev. Harold Simpson officiated at the impressive ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Ray Robinson of 1413 West 4th Street, Charlotte and former residents of Mooreville. The bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Byrum, Sr.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Robert Eubanks of Charlotte, organist, and W. R. Durham of Charlotte, soloist. Mr. Durham sang "O Promise Me" and "Whither Thou Goest."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor length gown of white silk tulle with imported lace applique and fashioned with a portrait neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the wrist. The skirt, with a sheath-effect in the front, had a bustle back. Her veil of illusion was attached to a circlet of matching lace and pearl de soie accented with a small bow in front. She carried a cascade bouquet centered with a white orchid.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Danny Ross, Miss Vivian Williams, and Miss Sylvia Miller all of Charlotte. Junior attendants were Miss Mary Jane Dry, of Mooreville, cousin of the bride and Miss Suzanne Byrum of Charlotte, sister of the bridegroom.

Little Miss Sherrie James, of Morganton, cousin of the bride was flower girl. All of the attendants wore floor length dresses of emerald green velvet with matching green velvet headpieces. A cascade of yellow mums accented their matching velvet muffs. Each of the attendants wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bride.

Ernest Ammons, of Charlotte, uncle of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Wilton Tiller, Richard King, and Eddie Ammons, cousin of the bridegroom, all of Charlotte.

Credit Women Plan Two Day Board Meeting In Kinston

About two hundred members of the North Carolina State Association of Credit Women's Breakfast Clubs and sponsors from twenty three clubs through the State are expected to attend the annual fall board meeting at the Hotel Kinston, Kinston, on November 16 and 17. The Kinston Club will be hostess for the meeting.

Registration will begin Saturday afternoon from 4 p. m. until 6 p. m. and Saturday night open house will be in the ballroom of the hotel with dancing, talking, and cards.

Afternoon Bridal Shower Compliments Miss Brawley

The weather forecast for November 9 was showers and in keeping with the forecast, Miss Ann Brawley, who will marry Larry Brown in December, was honored with a miscellaneous shower, given by Mrs. C. F. Melchor at her home on West Statesville avenue, on the arrival of a Western Union messenger, bringing a message to the bride-elect from Dan, Cupid.

At this point of the entertainment, door prizes indicated the arrival of a Western Union messenger, bringing a message to the bride-elect from Dan, Cupid.

Miss Brawley was the recipient of many lovely gifts and Mrs. Larry Caldwell, recent bride, was also presented a gift.

The bride's table was covered with a white imported luncheon cloth and her place was marked with a blue satin garland.

An arrangement of pink snapdragons, pink roses with baby's breath, and mums were used in the center of the bride's table. Members of the wedding party were seated with the honoree.

The home was beautiful throughout with arrangements of mixed flowers, carrying out a rainbow color scheme. Mrs. L. B. Skeen and Mrs. Sam Pharr were in charge of the flower arrangements.

Covers for small tables were in pastel shades and the same color scheme was used in the refreshments.

Favors for the guests were individual nosegays of pink and white forget-me-nots.

The bride-elect was presented an orchid corsage upon arrival and the hostess' gift was a silver tray. Entertainment for the afternoon consisted of a burlesque on marriage which was presented by Mrs. Robert Holshouser.

"Disertation on Brim" was given by Mrs. B. S. Houston and "The Rules of the Game" was rendered by Mrs. Keny Mayhew. Mrs. Charles Smith concluded the refreshment course by "With This Ring—I Thee Wed."

Following the able discussion by

TREAT FOR TEACHERS — In observance of American Education Week, the Mooresville Junior Civic League Tuesday held a coffee hour for members of the Senior High School faculty. Mrs. Ernest Whitmore, who arranged the event as chairman of the club's education committee, pours for Roy Watkins as Mrs. Patricia Barbee waits her turn. Watkins teaches French; Mrs. Barbee is a practice teacher from Appalachian State Teachers College. The Parent-Teacher Associations of the other four schools in the local system planned special recognition for their teachers during the week. The Senior High event was held in the school's home economics department.

Annual Golf Club Banquet Scheduled

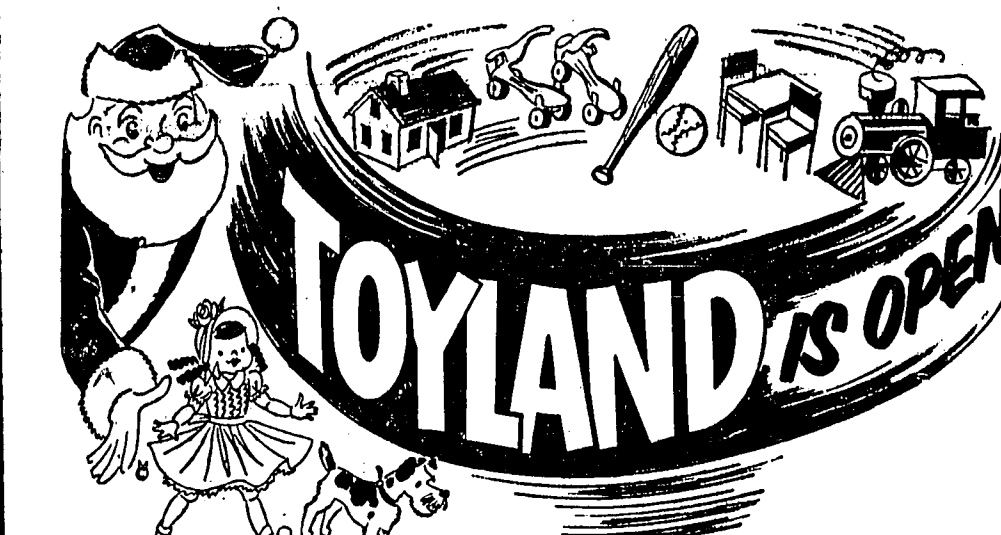

The annual golf banquet and dance of the Mooresville Mills Golf Club will be held Saturday, November 23, at the Army Auditorium, as announced by the golf pro, Norman Ferguson. The banquet, for members of the club and their wives, will begin at 7:30 p. m. after which trophies will be presented to the winners of the tournament. The dance will begin at 9 p. m. and continue until 1 o'clock. Dan Ramsey will be in charge of securing a band for the dance.

OPTIMISTS SPONSORING DANCE Youth Appreciation Week Observed

The Mooresville Optimist Club will sponsor a dance at the War Memorial Friday night, November 15. The special event will be a feature of the local observance of Youth Appreciation Week, an Optimist-sponsored international project. All young people in the area have been invited to attend the dance that will get underway at 8 p. m.

The dance is free to area youngsters. Among the special guests who will be on hand for the affair is E. W. White, chairman of the North Carolina Optimist stay-in-school program. Frank Burke, Optimist Club president, explained that the dance "is our way of showing our appreciation for the side of young people that is too little publicized — the good side." He explained that the delinquency of a few youngsters reflects upon the age group as a whole, and the public tends to ignore the record of steady achievements on the positive side of the youth ledger.

Youth Appreciation Week originated in a Charlotte Optimist Club as an effort to focus public attention on this positive side of youth. The Charlotte observance quickly spread across the state, and then rapidly throughout the world. Youth Appreciation Week now being observed, November 11-17, is the seventh such project on an international level. The objectives of Youth Appreciation Week: To recognize the accomplishments of youth in the home, school, church and community; to promote more active participation by families in family affairs; to encourage groups and organizations to publicly show their respect for youth; to encourage newspapers to devote more space and comment to the 95 per cent of youth who are good citizens; and to provide the environment in which this youth can mature into the nation's leadership corps. As an added feature of the observance by Mooresville Optimists, a fishing rodeo, with prizes in various categories, will be held Saturday, November 16, on Lake Norman. The local club began the week-long observance Sunday by attending worship services in a group at First Baptist Church.

200 HDC Women Attend County-Wide Achievement Day

Approximately 200 women, members of the several Iredell County Home Demonstration Clubs, gathered at Rose Chapel Methodist Church, north of Statesville, last Thursday for their annual county-wide Achievement Day. Council President Mrs. Willis L. Teeter, of Mooresville, presided over the all-day program. Host clubs for the meeting were the Bethany, Midway, and Wayside Clubs. In addition to the keynote address by a former State Home Demonstration Agent and a review of the various activities of the several clubs, another feature of the day's program was the installation of new council officers. The speaker, Miss Ruth Current of Cleveland, was introduced by Mrs. James Lewis, president of the Central Club. Council officers installed for the 1964-65 term were as follows: Mrs. A. E. Hendley, Wayside Club, president; Mrs. Joe McDaniel, Olin Club, vice president; Mrs. Paul Watt, Midway Club, secretary; Mrs. Wade Rimmer, Bethany Club, treasurer; and Mrs. Willis L. Teeter, Oakridge Club, advisor. 1064-65 county project leaders and committee chairmen include: Foods-Nutrition — Mrs. Dawson

TB SEAL TIME—This hard-working group means it's TB seal time again. Thanks to the assistance of students in the Lawrence Hospital School of Nursing, some 2,000 envelopes were prepared this week for distribution throughout South Iredell. The letters contain the familiar tuberculosis seals and a note of explanation concerning the use of funds realized through the annual sale and the work of the tuberculosis associations that handle the project. Mrs. A. B. Stradley, right, executive director of the Iredell County Tuberculosis Association, and Lawrence student nurses busily insert the material as the appeal is prepared for mailing. From left are Lynda Allison, Susan Wreide and Mildred Arthurs.

'64 Jet-smooth Luxury CHEVROLET

Here are looks, luxury and comfort that you'd expect to get only from a car that came from the hands of the people at Chevrolet.

Fresh-minted styling with clean uncluttered lines that give the '64 Jet-smooth Chevrolet its feeling of new youth and loveliness. Rich new interiors with supple fabrics. Foam-cushioned front and rear seats and door-to-door carpeting—now standard in all models, including the modestly priced Biscaynes. And, of course, the niceties of Body by Fisher craftsmanship.

You've got a wealth of power to pick from—engines from a peppery 140-hp 6 to a 425-hp V8! And you've got the '64 Jet-smooth ride to cushion you from road noise and vibration.

Been promising yourself luxury like this someday? Your someday is here, as your dealer will gladly show you. *Optional at extra cost.

Coddle Creek ARP Church Sets Barbecue

Coddle Creek Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church will hold its annual barbecue today (Thursday) beginning at 11 a. m. and continuing throughout the afternoon and early evening.

Plates will be $1.25 and there will be sandwiches at 35 cents each. Take-out orders will be delivered in the surrounding area at the noon hour.

Proceeds realized from the benefit affair will be used to help install new pews in the church sanctuary.

This historic church is located some six miles from Mooreville on the Coddle Creek Road.

Thomas Jefferson regarded agriculture as "the science of the very first order" and urged its inclusion in college curricula.

Presbytery-Wide Youth Rally Planned At Prospect Sunday

Approximately 400 senior high young people from the Presbyterian churches that make up Concord Presbytery will gather at the Prospect Presbyterian Church on Sunday afternoon, November 17, for their annual fall rally.

One of the main features of the afternoon will be the colored presentations and reports of the young people from the presbytery who went to Mexico last summer to visit the church's mission fields. These reports, which will be made by the 15 young people who participated in this venture, will be conducted in several small groups in order to permit a maximum of question-and-answer opportunities for the young people themselves.

Another interesting feature of the meeting will be the report from the North American Presbyterian and Reformed Youth Assembly which was held at Purdue University last July. Concord Presbytery sent two delegates to this convention.

Moderating the afternoon meeting will be Charles Williamson of Hickory, who this year succeeded Miss Vickie Linker of Mooresville as president of the presbytery-wide group.

Mooresville Stands At Another Crossroads

The Mooresville Recreation Commission laid it on the line last week, just as it did last March: If Mooresville citizens want an organized recreation program, they're going to have to pay for it.

The recreation department is at the end of its rope. It has begged, borrowed, pleaded and prodded to keep a recreation program going that long since ceased to function. It always has been a hand-to-mouth operation, rescued year after year by civic club projects, community barbecues, and by just about every means of raising a buck.

With the growing needs for recreation, and with a second recreation center to be ready for operation within a year, Mooresville stands at the crossroads. As Justus Morrow, the Recreation Commission chairman said, money now has become a life or death matter for our recreation program.

The decision is not merely the source of the money so badly needed for recreation. Rather, the town must decide the very existence of a supervised community recreation program.

The citizens of this town, and not a handful of elected leaders, will make this decision. We must search our hearts and our minds, because the path we take from this crossroads will affect the lives of our children.

A Battle In The War Against Blindness

There is every reason to believe Lions of the Mooresville, Troutman, South Irrell and Shepherd clubs saved sight last week: During the two-day glaucoma detection clinic sponsored by the Lions, 1,001 persons were tested for the eye disease. Of that number, 32 were referred for further examination because they had symptoms of glaucoma. Two persons were found to be in the advanced stages of the disease, and emergency treatment was arranged for them. Such a humane project must make a man walk taller.

Wheeling Concrete Beats Calisthenics

Everybody's been asking everybody what brought on the gridiron juggernaut at Chapel Hill. Well, Young White has the answer. Young's Burger Construction Co. built the beautiful addition to Kenan Stadium, and last Thursday night at Rotary Club meeting he showed a blow-by-blow film on the project and explained T-frames and stress and pre-stretched concrete.

During his commentary on the color movie, Young mentioned that several members of the Carolina football team worked through the summer on the project.

"Those boys were a little flabby when they came on the job," he said, "but we built 'em up."

Jim Hickory probably will have every manjack on the squad wheeling concrete next summer.

The High Cost Of A Ride From Charlotte

You've got to be chicken to try this, but it's transportation: Jesse Robbins, who used to live here, now lives in Charlotte across the street from a poultry-processing plant. A couple Sundays back, he and his family drove to Mooresville to visit their former neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Rudy. On the way, the car behaved badly, so Jesse and Ralph left the ladyfolk to their chat and set out to check out the problem. They found a service station open and got the car up on the grease rack. Then they noticed a hen perched on the car axle. Jesse said it was a stray from the plant. The chicken had nothing to do with the car trouble. In the end, the hen paid dearly for the ride; Ralph ate it.

North Carolina Educates Her Own

Just a sidelight to the stories about Mooresville school faculties: Of the 100 teachers, only 15 are Mooresville natives, 64 are native Tar Heels, and a whopping 82 per cent were educated in this state. Just about the same percentages held for all five schools. Wonder how these figures compare with the state average?

For The Older Set, New Competition

In the Chapel Hill Weekly, Pete Ivey reports growing popularity of dart leagues among Orange County churches. He said a number of churches are waging hot competition in fellowship halls. This is just a passing thought by a fellow who is getting a tad old for basketball. If a dart league is organized hereabouts, we want in. May we add that we play a mean left tackle, too, in case anybody needs some bench strength for the tiddlywinks squad.

We Won't Put Our Pay In A Talking Hole

Progress is okay, as far as it goes, but there are some areas in which technological advancement is overdue. For our part, we can't bring ourselves to trust drive-in windows at banks. We clutch our pay in our hot grimy paws and turn it over personally to the teller. There is something cold and impersonal about the grating sound that come from one of those outside speakers. You don't get the warmth and assurance you get person-to-person. Turning over your money to a talking hole in the bank wall strikes us as a foolhardy business, and, besides, you miss the fun of exchanging pleasantries with the folks inside.

The Epitome Of Button-Pushing Madness

This, surely, is the height of laziness, ingenuity or something: Mercedes-Benz is out to capture some of the prestige Rolls Royce commands throughout Europe. At a recent auto showing in London, Mercedes unveiled the granddaddy of them all, the Grand Mercedes. It is heavily automated, it seems to have everything the Rolls has, and then some. A company official admitted, though, that Mercedes drivers and passengers still have to put out their own cigarettes, but not for long. He said the firm is perfecting an automatic ash tray that will open the tray and the spent cigarette drops into a concealed bowl of water—perfumed to suit the individual taste. The butt is extinguished without any messy labor by the smoker, who, we must assume, still is perspiring from the exertion of pressing the button in the first place.

Wesleyan Methodist Church Schedules Week's Revival

Revival services are scheduled to be held at the Wesleyan Methodist Church next week, beginning Sunday, November 17, and continuing through the coming Sunday, November 24.

Sunday morning services will be conducted at 11 o'clock and evening services are planned for 7 o'clock.

The visiting evangelist will be the Rev. Roy R. Nanney of Flat Rock, and the music will be in charge of Hal Sherrill.

The church is located at the corner of East Irrell avenue and East Statesville avenue, and the pastor is the Rev. Carl V. Sparks.

The public is cordially invited to attend the service.

Lucky Clover 4-H's Meet

The Lucky Clover 4-H Club held its monthly meeting November 7 at 7 p. m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Stutts.

Steve Stutts, president, presided over the meeting.

Pam Morrison led the club members in the pledge of allegiance, and Faye Howard led the 4-H club. Following the pledges, Maxine Stewart had the devotions. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Plans were made for a Christmas party the club will have in December.

Following the business session, one of the adult leaders, Mrs. Darrell Stutts, gave club members their new record books for the next year. For the program, Mrs. Stutts showed Christmas ideas she had gotten from a workshop she attended recently.

After the meeting punch and cookies were served.

2nd Church's Stewardship Program To End On Sunday

Sunday, at 11:00 a.m., Second Presbyterian will close its five-week Stewardship program with a dedication service. Members of the congregation have been asked to sit together in family units for the dedicating of their 1964 pledge cards during a special passing of the offering plates. Appropriate music for the service is being planned by Minister of Music Michael Payne and the adult choir with an additional selection by Miss Mary Elisabeth Cobb, soloist.

Sunday's pledge service follows an intensive visitation program over the past two weeks by thirty-four trained men who have gone into the homes of the membership. Over and above the normal operating expenses of the church, the congregation is being challenged to consider four other areas of financial support in 1964.

1. An enlarged, enriched youth program for children and teenagers.
2. An expanded ministry of music with graded choir program for adults, youth and children.
3. A more substantial building fund out of which the church's planning council can project its plans for adequate religious education space for increasing number of children and youth.
4. A continuation of the program of benevolences which embraces home and foreign mission causes throughout the world.

AA Organizational Meeting Is Slated

A meeting to organize a Mooresville Alcoholics Anonymous chapter will be held here Monday night, November 18.

T. C. Homsey, one of the Mooresville men who are working to establish an AA unit here, said the organizational session is scheduled in the parlor of Central Methodist Church.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m., and all interested persons have been urged to attend. Members of the Statesville AA chapter will be on hand to present a program on the work of the organization. The Statesville guests also will assist in planning the early activities of the new unit.

Faith Friends Seeking Aid For Bush Hopkins And Wife

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. V. L. (Bush) Hopkins of Faith have organized a fund-raising campaign for the couple.

O. H. (Red) Hollifield, one of the leaders in efforts to help the physically and financially ailing couple, this week appealed to the general public to rescue them.

Hopkins is widely known in the Mooresville area as a salesman for a Salisbury furniture store. He has served in this section 16 years. Hollifield asked all who have known and it will forward them to the Hopkins through the years to help the destitute couple.

The Hopkins have no income, and no family to turn to for aid. Hollifield said anyone who wishes to help may send contributions to him at Post Office Box 112, Faith.

Persons in this area also may send their gifts to this newspaper, and it will forward them to the Hopkins through the years to help the destitute couple.

The patronage of the public will be greatly appreciated.

David Reid Completes Naval Basic

David L. Reid, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis F. Reid of Mount Mourne, completed basic training November 8, at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif.

The nine-week training schedule includes naval orientation, history and organization, seamanship, ordnance and gunnery, military drill, physical fitness, first aid and survival.

During the training recruits receive tests and interviews which determine their future assignments in the Navy. Upon completing the program they are assigned to service schools for technical instruction or to ships and stations for on-the-job training in a Navy rating specialty.

Naval training produces the power in seapower by supplying qualified personnel to man the ships, aircraft and shore stations of today's Navy.

Triplett Men Plan Breakfast

Methodist Men of the Triplett Methodist Church will meet in the social hall of the church at 8 a. m. for a breakfast meeting next Sunday, November 17.

The meal will be served by the young people's Sunday School Class, with profits going to the support of a Korean orphan.

Speaker will be Taft McCoy of Salisbury, field representative with the Social Security Administration.

All members of the organization are urged to attend the breakfast meeting.

Why all of them haven't died from a combination of tropical heat and pneumonia, this reporter will never know. Reminds me of a perm I once read:

"Beneath this slab lies what is left Of Mrs. Saphronia Stone— In life she never learned to leave The thermostat alone."

We were predicting in this corner the other week that Barry Goldwater, as a candidate for President, would be in hot water around the country trying to explain some of the wild statements he has made in the last couple years.

Newsweek magazine nailed him to the cross with one last week. In an interview, they asked him why he had voted for the $8 billion agricultural appropriation bill when he had been demanding a "prompt and final termination" of the farm subsidy program.

Goldwater denied he had voted for the bill. Whereupon Newsweek confronted him with the records showing he had paired for the bill. The Arizona Senator promptly went back and requested his vote be changed. For a presidential candidate, Barry Barry seems to be a very confused man. For that reason, among others, we still believe that Richard Nixon will be the Republican nominee.

Goldwater belongs to that cult of politicians whose creed is: "When you don't have the answers, it is always wise to have replies." Unable to gain yardage on some of his confused statements, Goldwater is constantly dropping back to punt. He is, for sooth, developing into one of the best punters we've seen in recent campaigns.

Closer home, it would seem from the chain of events around the state that Richardson Preyer is far out in front at the moment in the North Carolina gubernatorial stakes. He is certainly far out in front in Iredell. Sunday afternoon we attended a little get-together of some of the boys who work the precincts in Coddle Creek. The setup was solid for Preyer. Add this strength to the big vote Preyer will get from the unorganized segment and we think it is safe to say that Preyer will be high man in Coddle Creek by a wide margin.

We like the new trend among junketing Congressmen. For years now those boys have been vacationing at taxpayer expense all over the world accompanied by shapely secretaries, kinfolks and the like. But now one of them takes the head waiter in the House dining room on a nice outing to Paris.

House Speaker John McCormack says this could only happen in a land of opportunity such as America. We think this is simply wonderful! This paves the way for truck drivers, plumbers, paper hangers and, who knows, maybe country editors.

Where Russian authorities, long believing the "decadence" of morals in the Western World, perused the American magazine "Playboy" to photograph 40 of the prettiest Russian women for a pin-up layout to be sold in this country. Of the 40, says Newsweek, 12 were photographed in the nude. Ole Nikita Khrushchev will probably explain this at the United Nations as "Operation Comrade Cheese-cake."

Where the Washington bureaucrats have come up with still another new word, "groupmanship." We presume it means a sort of political togetherness.

BY TOM MCKNIGHT
A Little Here & There

Winter is the season of indecision at the Tribune offices. Nobody can agree on just where to set the thermostat.

According to the male contingent at the place, our two charming young ladies, Mary Perry and Juanita Davis, are suffering from "low blood." They freeze to death if the office temperature drops below 80 degrees Fahrenheit. And according to Mary and Juanita, the men have Eskimo blood. They burn up if the thermometer shows anything above freezing.

The result is a constant tug of war, with the thermostat caught in the middle. Everett will come in on a cold morning and push the thermostat up to about 72 degrees. Juanita will come in a half hour later and very casually push the button up to 80 degrees. Very casually, mind you, just lean over and push it up as she comes up the hallway, without missing stride. Len will start frying back in his office and very casually push it down to 60 as he passes up the hallway. The place starts cooling off a bit and Mary will make a trip down the hallway and very casually push it back up to 85. In a few minutes J. W. will start sweating around the collar and take a trip down the hall, very casually pushing the button down to 60 as he passes by.

The strange thing about this thermostat phenomenon is that nobody has ever been able to catch anybody touching the button. Juanita goes so far as to claim she has never touched the button in all the years she has been working there. Sullivan goes even further and swears he didn't even know we had a thermostat.

Why all of them haven't died from a combination of tropical heat and pneumonia, this reporter will never know. Reminds me of a perm I once read:

Unable to gain yardage on some of his confused statements, Goldwater is constantly dropping back to punt. He is, for sooth, developing into one of the best punters we've seen in recent campaigns.

Closer home, it would seem from the chain of events around the state that Richardson Preyer is far out in front at the moment in the North Carolina gubernatorial stakes. He is certainly far out in front in Iredell. Sunday afternoon we attended a little get-together of some of the boys who work the precincts in Coddle Creek. The setup was solid for Preyer. Add this strength to the big vote Preyer will get from the unorganized segment and we think it is safe to say that Preyer will be high man in Coddle Creek by a wide margin.

We like the new trend among junketing Congressmen. For years now those boys have been vacationing at taxpayer expense all over the world accompanied by shapely secretaries, kinfolks and the like. But now one of them takes the head waiter in the House dining room on a nice outing to Paris.

House Speaker John McCormack says this could only happen in a land of opportunity such as America. We think this is simply wonderful! This paves the way for truck drivers, plumbers, paper hangers and, who knows, maybe country editors.

Where Russian authorities, long believing the "decadence" of morals in the Western World, perused the American magazine "Playboy" to photograph 40 of the prettiest Russian women for a pin-up layout to be sold in this country. Of the 40, says Newsweek, 12 were photographed in the nude. Ole Nikita Khrushchev will probably explain this at the United Nations as "Operation Comrade Cheese-cake."

Where the Washington bureaucrats have come up with still another new word, "groupmanship." We presume it means a sort of political togetherness.

Jaycees Slate Toys For Tots Drive Dec. 1

Mooreville Jaycees will conduct a community-wide collection drive for repairable toys Sunday, December 1.

All residents who would like to contribute to the club's "Toys for Tots" project have been asked to bring their contributions in front of their homes near the street.

Frank Loftin is serving as chairman of the "Toys for Tots" campaign this year. Working with him on the toy committee are Jim Roser, Don Whitlow, Roy Church and Joe Troutman.

Arrangements for the collection drive are largely in the hands of the special committee, but every Jaycee will be involved in repairing the toys.

While the club is asking for all kinds of used playthings, gifts of new toys, needless to say, are especially welcomed.

"Fixing up these hand-me-down toys really is a labor of love," Loftin said, "it's a job that makes a difference."

'Tis The Night For Christmas Light Project

The reason Christmas lights weren't put up downtown Tuesday night is simple enough: the rented fixtures didn't get here in time.

Come tonight (Thursday), the freight schedule and the weather permitting, the all new lights will be erected along Main and Broad streets.

In anticipation of the lights installation project, the Christmas lighting committee of the Mooreville Merchants Association has asked a favor of all Mooreville motorists.

The request is this: please don't park in the downtown section of Main street after 6 p. m. tonight. Cars parked in the area to be decorated make the work most difficult, in some cases in past years, the lights installation crews have had to locate the owners of or somepun . . .

Where a patent has been issued for a hair dryer for pets, a metal slicer that turns used coffee cans into birdhouses, a retractable dome light for police cars so they can sneak up on motorists, a record player which will play both sides of a disk without turning it over . . .

No word from Washington yet on how to cut taxes, increase spending, and balance the budget.

Directors

Full corporation Monday night, the hospital board of directors held its regular monthly session. The top order of business at this executive session was the election of officers.

First, the corporation's membership changes: Vacancies were created by the deaths during the past year of Claude Mayhew, J. R. Marks and Thad Lowe, leaving the group with 61 members. Monday night, these men were nominated and unanimously elected to the corporation: Dr. Lewis Brinton, John Simpson, Courtney Cavin, D. E. Turner Jr. and Bub McArthur. This brought to 66 the number of members, so the corporation authorized that number.

The terms of four members of the board of directors had expired, and Director Young White had resigned because of pressing business responsibilities. The four men, H. C. Cobb, O. H. Houston, H. N. Johnston and S. E. Murdoch, were unanimously re-elected to three-year terms. Joe Gilley was chosen to complete White's unexpired term on the board. White had completed one year of the three-year term. John Barger, president of the hospital board of directors, presented a certificate of appreciation to White for his service to the hospital. The document was given in behalf of the corporation. The board of directors has 14 members. The mayor and chief of the hospital medical staff are automatically members. The remaining director are elected to staggered three-year terms.

Following the election, a member asked if election to the corporation was for life. When told that length of term indeed was unlimited, he proposed an amendment to the corporation bylaws to provide for the replacement of members who move away, or who show no interest in the affairs of the hospital. The group discussed a rule that will allow the replacement of corporation members who do not attend, either in person or by proxy, an annual meeting for five years in succession.

The corporation members decided to vote on this point during their next annual meeting, which will be held the third Monday in November.

The board of directors met immediately following the corporation session. During this brief gathering, these officers were re-elected to three-year terms: Joe Gilley was chosen to complete White's unexpired term on proposed amendment. Each man said he had no desire to serve as a director, but he felt he should not be denied the privilege of serving.

"We're not asking to serve on the board. In fact, I don't think any of us want to," Dr. Bittering said. "We're simply saying doctors should have the right to serve as directors if this corporation should see fit to elect them to the board."

His statement seemed to express the consensus of the hospital medical staff.

Among those speaking against the proposed change were Bill Neel and Young White.

Neel said he would have to vote against the amendment, primarily because recognized experts in hospital administration, including the Duke Endowment, strongly recommend the operation of hospitals remain in the hands of persons outside the medical profession. He gave these reasons set forth by Duke Endowment: A physician on the hospital board would not have an advantage in administrative matters over fellow physicians not on the board. Doctors should not have dual official status, that is, serve both on the medical staff and the board of directors.

"Certainly, the way the bylaws now read is not an attempt to regulate our doctors to second-class citizenship," White added. "I simply believe the doctors should see to providing medical service, and that laymen should see to providing the medical facilities."

And White's comment apparently summed up the sentiments of those who voted against the change.

The highlight of the meeting was the annual report by Paul Ellison, the hospital administrator.

Heading the list of achievements during the past year discussed by Ellison was reaccreditation. Lowrance in March received its accreditation by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, the nation's omnipotent authority on hospital quality.

Ellison said reaccreditation was "the biggest event of the year." He added that another inspection of the hospital is scheduled early next year, "and we're hoping for full three-year accreditation."

Improvements cited by Ellison were major factors in the successful drive for reaccreditation. Among these were the establishment of a post-operative recovery room, the installation of an ungrounded electrical system, complete with warning devices throughout the suite of operating rooms.

The administrator said all medical records prior to 1957 were microfilm and that this project made possible a great saving in badly needed hospital space. In fact, enough space was made available by filming the records to establish a fallout shelter in the hospital basement. Ellison said the shelter is ready for use.

A major improvement program

Many people suffer severe pain following meals and are forced to live on soft bland foods which will not further irritate the already inflamed areas of the stomach.

When the body is functioning normally, there is no sensation felt during the process of digestion. The stomach is richly supplied with nerves which control its muscles, blood supply and the normal flow of gastric juices.

The stomach is under the direct coordinating influence of the brain. The brain controls normal stomach function by nerve force in much the same manner as electric light on and off. If a blockage to the vital nerve force flow between brain and stomach occurs, the result is an incoordination of the stomach.

In case of a stomach ulcer, a small area of the stomach does not receive its normal nerve supply and gradually becomes inflamed. Over a period of time, if blockage of vital nerve force remains the inflamed lining of the stomach begins

Fire Destroys Bell St. Home Tuesday Night

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed a frame dwelling on Bell Street Extension last Tuesday night.

The blaze, which was out of hand before firemen were notified, razed the home of Charles White. The structure was owned by Mrs. Mary Lou Pinkston, who lives nearby.

White was not at home at the time of the fire. The fire alarm was sounded at 10:22 p. m. and fire-fighters rushed to the scene. The house was engulfed in flames when firemen arrived, and there was no chance of saving the building.

Mrs. Pinkston told Fire Inspector Howard Pender that White, who is about 80 years old, had no fire in the house when he left about mid-afternoon. Pender said the cause of the fire has not been learned.

Two fire trucks were called to the blaze to prevent it spreading to the tinderbox of grass and woods that surrounded the house. Sixteen volunteer firemen and the full-time fire-fighters fought the blaze and remained at the scene until 1:30 a. m. to prevent any fresh outbreak of flames in the surrounding area.

The building was valued at $2,000, and the value of the contents was placed at $1,000.

John Gardner came to Mooresville in 1950 as part owner of Goodman Drug. He acquired full ownership of the firm in 1951. Medical Centre Pharmacy in Mooresville was opened in 1952 and Medical Centre Pharmacy in Statesville opened its doors in 1961.

In the hospital's electrical wiring system will get underway soon, Ellison said. The work will update the entire system and provide additional outlets, including provisions for air conditioners throughout the 105-bed hospital.

Ellison reminded the group that a general salary increase became effective in August. The administrator praised the work of Carl Brown, the hospital's new maintenance supervisor. Ellison also reminded the corporation of the addition of Dr. Lewis Brinton to the hospital medical staff.

Dr. Lewis MacBryner, hospital chief of staff, spoke briefly. He expressed appreciation to the hospital management for improving the quality of medical records, and he praised the Red Cross blood program as "a fine addition to hospital service . . . a noticeable increase in our blood service here."

Lowrance Hospital is owned by Iredell County and operated by the local corporation that now has 66 members.

Removal of the interference to the vital nerve force flow between brain and stomach allows nature to get back on the job and make the necessary repair.

Lutheran World Federation Topic Of LCW District Meet

"Echoes from Helsinki" was the theme of the annual fall fellowship dinner of the Central District of Lutheran Church Women which was held Saturday night, November 16, at the East Rowan High School.

The Rev. L. O. Roof had the invocation after which the Lutheran Women were served a delicious meal by the Lutheran Church Women of Wittenburg Lutheran Church, Granite Quarry. The dining hall was beautifully decorated by the Lutheran teachers of East Rowan High School with cornucopious overflowing with fruit and flowers. Cutouts of Finland were placed on all tables.

After the dinner, Mrs. J. E. Fisher, president of the central district welcomed the ladies and presented the following district officers: Mrs. Don Allmon, vice president and program chairman; Miss Kathryn Lyerly, recorder and Mrs. Max Hendricks, treasurer.

Other special guests introduced were: Dr. George Whitteer, president of the N. C. Synod of the Lutheran Church of America, and Mrs. Whitteer; Rev. L. O. Roof, pastor of Wittenburg Lutheran Church, and Mrs. Roof; Rev. and Mrs. James Laughlin; Mrs. Paul Campbell, synodical treasurer and Mr. Campbell; Mrs. Terry Agner and Mrs. Glenn Miller, program committee; Mrs. John Tolley, Jr., district reporter; Mrs. Rabb Leonard and Mr. J. E. Fisher.

It was announced that the Central District Assembly will be held April 7, 1964 at St. John's Lutheran Church, Salisbury.

The Rev. James R. Laughlin of Haven Lutheran Church, Salisbury, was the speaker for the evening. He spoke on the Lutheran World Federation which was attended by he and his wife. This past summer in Helsinki, Finland. He brought out many interesting and informative facts about the Lutherans in Helsinki, as well as all over the world. He told of what a thrill it was to be among Lutherans from all over the world, to sit in the street parking places, and you are more than welcome to use them.

One more thing: The Merchants Association Committee said anybody who has the urge should feel free to come on downtown and help put on the lights. The more hands the merrier—and the lighter the load.

The building was valued at $2,000, and the value of the contents was placed at $1,000.

Robber, In Jail, Taxed For Loot

The Internal Revenue Service has filed a tax lien against a convicted bank robber serving a sentence in the federal prison at Terre Haute, Ind., because he has not paid taxes on money he stole but wasn't able to keep.

The lien for $32,462 was filed against Calvin L. Hughes, a former air force man convicted of the 1958 robbery of a bank at San Antonio, Texas.

Hughes was captured about 3 hours after the robbery, and all the money was recovered.

An argument proves only that at least two people are present.

Beautiful slides were shown of their trip to Helsinki and surrounding areas. Of special interest were the slides of huge, beautiful Lutheran churches they visited. One church had a membership of 70,000, while another was over 800 years old.

A special program of music was presented by Mrs. Laughlin accompanied by Mrs. Rabb Leonard at the Piano.

In all, it proved to be an entertaining, enlightening and inspirational evening for the nearly 200 Lutheran Church Women attending the dinner.

Ladies Golf Association Has Luncheon

The monthly luncheon meeting of the Mooreville Ladies Golf Association was held Thursday, November 14, at the golf clubhouse with Mrs. A. C. Craven and Mrs. Burl Narramore as hostesses.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. John Beam, the business session was conducted by the vice-president, Mrs. Carl Hager. It was announced there would be no December meeting.

The luncheon menu consisted of: chicken salad, candied apples, baked spinach, hot rolls, ice box cake and coffee.

Those present were: Mesdames Jim Yeaman, L. T. Horton, J. H. Hattaway, Carl Hager, W. W. Rader, Jim Rosser, and T. H. Mooneyham.

Mrs. John Gravelle was a guest.

Fidelis Class Has Supper At Fish Camp

Members of the Fidelis Class of the First Baptist Church met in the church parking lot at 6:30 on Monday evening, November 18, and went to Jones Fish Camp for a dinner meeting.

A short business period was conducted by the president, Mrs. Marvin Rummage and the evening's devotion was presented by Mrs. J. D. Lowe.

Those enjoying the delightful dinner were: Mesdames Lamar Gullede, Augustine Brown, J. D. Lowe, H. P. Crouch, Floyd Meadows, J. W. Scott, Laura Sherrill, Charles Smith, Johnny Sprinkle, M. L. Sykes, Earl Clive, Ralph Howard, Marvin Sigmon, Helen Burr, R. C. Kistler, Marvin Rummage, and Miss Donnie Hendrix.

Fashion Show Highlight Of Ostwalt Home Club Meeting

Mrs. John P. Sherrill and Mrs. G. G. Sherrill were hostesses to the Ostwalt Home Demonstration Club Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. John P. Sherrill in Troutman. Twelve members were present, with Mrs. J. E. Smith presiding.

During a brief business session, plans were made for the club to have its Christmas luncheon Thursday, December 12, at the Elks Lodge in Mooreville, rather than the regular meeting time.

Mrs. S. O. Whitener, clothing leader, gave an interesting demonstration on "Decorative Trim in Clothing." After the demonstration a fashion show was presented, featuring clothing made by the members, also garments fashioned in the yester-years.

Mrs. George McNeely modeled a navy blue suit she had made, the short coat being lined with the same print of her blouse. Mrs. R. T. Nesbit wore her creation of a navy blue dress, with short jacket to match. Mrs. John P. Sherrill's costume was a black wool sheath with a black and white checked coat with black trim. Her attire was complimented with a black velvet hat which she had made for her ensemble. Mrs. Whitener modeled her suit of teal blue, with matching hat and Mrs. J. E. Smith's attire was an olive green suit, with a blouse of print. Mrs. D. E. Whitener wore a dress of printed silk.

The guests were then shown into the dining room, where many and varied items of handwork were displayed, that were also made by the club members. A beautiful and unique quilt of pastel colors, each block having been embroidered representing the forty-eight states native bird and state flowers, was one of the many items that were admired. This was made by Mrs. J. H. Crisco.

Featuring fashions of many years ago, Mrs. P. L. K. Deaton's contribution was a wedding gown worn by her mother-in-law over eighty years ago. Mrs. W. B. Cansler modeled this, which won first prize. The gown was a light tan, with a print trim of brown, that resembled lace, around the tunic and bustle, also the short train. Huge buttons covered with the material of the dress completed the trim.

Mrs. J. A. Overcash won the second prize with her dress which was 35 years old, with Mrs. Canister taking third place, her dress being thirty-one years of age.

During the social hour, the hostesses served congealed meat salad, wafers, nuts and coffee.

MRS. TED HOWARD EADES

Eades-Hartline Vows Spoken At New Perth ARP Church

At four o'clock in the afternoon on Sunday, November 10, in the New Perth Associate Reformed Presbyterian Church in Troutman, Miss Patricia Ann Hartline, daughter of Mrs. John T. Hartline of Statesville, route 3, and the late Mr. Hartline, became the bride of Ted Howard Eades, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde H. Eades of Statesville, route 2. The bride's pastor, the Rev. Robert E. Sherer, officiated.

Prior to the ceremony, a program of wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Gene Brown of Troutman, organist and Miss Mary Frank Overcash, soloist. Miss Overcash sang "I Love Thee." "If I Could Tell You" and "Wedding Prayer." The traditional wedding march was used for the processional and the recessional.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Tommy Hartline of Statesville, route 3. She wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace and satin fashioned with a lace bodice, round neckline, featuring a border of sequins and long pointed sleeves. The bouffant skirt of satin was joined to the waist with points in front and back, featuring a front lace panel and chapel length train. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls and she carried white roses and mums in cascade form with white satin streamers.

Miss Sandra Brown, of Troutman, was maid of honor. She wore a semi-formal dress of deep shades of teal blue satin styled with a round neckline overblouse and short fitted sleeves. The A line skirt featured a side pleat. Her headpiece was a matching, bandeau of feathers with a flirtation veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow mums.

Mrs. Sidney Whitener, of Troutman, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were: Miss Becky Brown and Miss Evelyn Stillwell, both of Troutman. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Carol Hartline, sister of the bride and Miss Teresa Sherrill, niece of the bridegroom.

Their dresses, headpieces and bouquets were fashioned after the maid of honor's.

Off To School? Best Take Care Or Be 'Gyped'

Many students in this area are "being taken" by correspondence schools, Mooresville Senior High School Guidance Counselor Mrs. Gertrude B. Tilley stated Wednesday.

Mrs. Tilley issued a warning to students to be on the alert for trade and correspondence school solicitations in this area.

She asked that any student contacted by an agent of such a school get in touch with her at once.

"Spring has usually been the worst time for this," Mrs. Tilley said, "but we've had reports they are starting now."

To give an idea of how serious the matter is, Mrs. Tilley quoted a letter from Gilmore W. Johnston, supervisor of business, trade and correspondence schools for the state department of public instruction.

It states: "Seniors, have you received a letter recently that began a sentence like this — 'Congratulations on being a senior?' Then after explaining how you can become qualified in a short time for an 'exciting, high-paying job' you are asked to 'fill in the enclosed card and return it for free information without any obligation' or to 'complete the questions on the enclosed card and see if you can qualify' for a career that is described as being 'exciting, glamorous, in great demand and with high salaries'."

"If you haven't already received this type of letter described above, you probably will ... in the next few months."

Johnson asked all students before returning the card to answer three questions—"Am I really interested in the course being offered?" Do I know anything about the school, is it approved or recognized by an authorized accrediting agency? Do I have the aptitude and other qualifications for the training?" Johnson continued by saying

"We urge that you seek advice from your guidance counselor, principal or teachers before you respond to letters promising short, easy courses leading to such jobs as jet engine mechanic, airline hostess, IBM operator, electronic technician or for civil service positions."

"The invitation to return the enclosed card" in such letters quite often leads to a visit by an agent of the school. Since the agent usually works on a commission you and your parents may be subjected to a long session of high-pressure sales talk which will probably end with you and your parents being asked to sign a contract and pay a down payment on the course."

Mrs. Tilley said "Many drop-outs are grasping for straws and when they are these ads they apply or send for information and many of our students are 'being took'."

"Of course," she continued, "these representatives will send what they tell you but it is of no value."

"All airlines have their own schools," she pointed out.

"We'd like to encourage all students to check with me and their teachers if contacted. Parents should encourage students not to sign up," Mrs. Tilley said.

Three-Fourths Of Iredell's Folk Have Been Born Since End Of WWI

Have you ever stopped to think—

How many present-day Iredell residents can recall the first World War?

How many can remember the prohibition era ... the stock market crash ... the start of World War II?

Not as many as you think!

Figures released by the government reveal that no less than 73 per cent of Iredell county's population was born after 1918, when World War I ended.

In 1920 prohibition went into effect, women got the right to vote in the United States and the League of Nations began. About 27 per cent of the local population was on hand at that time.

The year 1927 was marked by Charles A. Lindbergh's solo flight across the Atlantic and by the appearance of the first talking movie, "The Jazz Singer." Only 40 per cent of the present population of the county had been born then.

The advent of the atomic age, in 1942, marked by the first nuclear chain reaction, can be remembered by no more than 50 per cent locally.

All the figures point to the fact that this is a comparatively young generation.

Principally, the preponderance of young people is attributed to the very sharp increase in birth rates following World War II.

The largest five-year segment of the population in the United States consists of those below age five. There are about 21 million in that age bracket. The second largest group is from age five through nine. They total 20 million.

Taken as a whole, residents of Salisbury; Miss Lura Donaldson, of Concord, and Bonnie, Ray, and William Donaldson, all of Mooresville; Mr. and Mrs. Phil Baker and child, of Cornelius; Church on Sunday, November 17.

Six of Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie's seven children were present for the celebration.

Those present, other than the honoree and Mrs. Gillespie, were: Mr. and Mrs. George Gillespie and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Gillespie, of Mooresville; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gillespie of Charlotte; Mr. and Mrs. Hewitt Gabriel of Davidson; Mr. and Mrs. E. Q. Donaldson, of Mooresville, route 1, and Mrs. Sara Thompson of Cornelius.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Gillespie and two children, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Pope and three children, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Gillespie and child, Mr. and Mrs. Parks Martin, Jr. and Mrs. Elwood Winters and two children, and Tommy Gillespie, all of Mooresville; Mr. and Mrs. Phil Baker and child, of Cornelius; Church on Sunday, November 17.

Rev. W. B. Ruffy, pastor of Fair View Methodist Church and Mrs. Ruffy, Miss Cornelius, and Lloyd Thompson, all of Mount Mourne.

On Saturday evening, November 9, immediately following the wedding rehearsal, the bride's mother, Mrs. J. T. Hartline, entertained at a cake-cutting in the church Fellowship Hall.

Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Rnette Rankin, aunt and uncle of the bride and directed to the register which was kept by Mrs. Bobby Oliphant.

The bride's table, covered with a linen cloth, was appointed with a handsome arrangement of chrysanthemums and white mums in a silver base container, flanked on either side with white taper in silver candelabra. A three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, was on one end of the table and a silver punch service graced the opposite end of the table.

After the couple cut the traditional first slice of wedding cake, Mrs. Jimmie Rhyme of Statesville, aunt of the bride, completed the serving of the cake. Mrs. Collins Parker, of Mooresville, poured punch. Assisting with the serving were cousins of the bride, Misses Jeannie and Selena Rhyme, Joy and Janet Oliphant, and Patty Whitener, niece of the bridegroom.

Area Students To Receive Diplomas At King's College

Dr. John Otts, professor of education at the University of North Carolina and former assistant superintendent of the Charlotte-Mecklenburg schools, will be the speaker at the 63rd annual commencement at King's College in Charlotte on Saturday evening, November 23.

A number of students from Mooresville and Iredell county are to receive diplomas at the exercises which are scheduled to begin at 8 p. m. in the David Owens auditorium.

This well known educator will address the 350 members of the graduating class and their families and friends. More than 2,000 are expected to attend the exercises, which again will be marked by the award of an honorary diploma to a King's College graduate who has attained success in business.

A South Carolinian, Dr. Otts was graduated with an A. B. degree from Wofford College and obtained a master's degree in school administration from Teachers College, Columbia University, where he also received his doctorate in education.

His first educational experience was as a teacher of English, public speaking, and journalism at the high school in Spartanburg, South Carolina. There he was later principal of the Southside elementary school and the Jenkins Junior High School.

For many years, he was principal of Charlotte's Central High School and subsequently became assistant superintendent for personnel and public relations for the Charlotte City Schools. When the city and county schools were consolidated he was named assistant superintendent for instruction.

He resigned that position to become professor of education at Queens College and then in 1962 he became professor of education at the University of North Carolina.

He is the father of four daughters, a member of the Presbyterian Church, and of the Civitan Club.

He had lived in Salisbury some five years, he and Mrs. Felts going there to make their home following his retirement from full-time newspaper work.

The survivors include the widow, Mrs. Thelma Smith Felts, one son, John Russell Felts, Jr., with the U. S. Army at Fort Jackson, South Carolina; four brothers, W. S. Felts of Wilson, and J. A. Charles, and Frank Felts, all of Houston, Texas; and two sisters, Mrs. W. H. Bryant of Anniston, Alabama, and Mrs. E. B. Tomlinson of Lumberton. One grand-daughter, Marie Felts, of Salisbury, also survives.

Free copies of the folder may be obtained from local offices of the Agricultural Extension Service or by writing to the Department of Agricultural Information at N. C. State, Raleigh.

JOHN RUSSELL FELTS
Funeral Rites Saturday

Russell Felts, Former Local Resident, Dies

John Russell Felts, 72, veteran newspaperman and former advertising director of the Mooresville Tribune, died at his home at 208 West Lafayette street in Salisbury at 8:30 p. m. last Thursday.

In declining health several years, he had been seriously ill three weeks.

A native of Chase City, Virginia, Mr. Felts was born on January 2, 1891, a son of the late John W. and Alice Roberts Felts. In addition to the many years he spent in Mooresville with the Mooresville Tribune, he was associated with a number of other newspapers throughout the state, including the Salisbury Post and Oxford Ledger. At the time of his death, he was advertising solicitor in the Mooresville area for the Mecklenburg Gazette in Davidson.

While with the Mooresville Tribune, Mr. Felts authored a weekly column, "Up And Down The Main Stem."

He had lived in Salisbury some five years, he and Mrs. Felts going there to make their home following his retirement from full-time newspaper work.

The survivors include the widow, Mrs. Thelma Smith Felts, one son, John Russell Felts, Jr., with the U. S. Army at Fort Jackson, South Carolina; four brothers, W. S. Felts of Wilson, and J. A. Charles, and Frank Felts, all of Houston, Texas; and two sisters, Mrs. W. H. Bryant of Anniston, Alabama, and Mrs. E. B. Tomlinson of Lumberton. Culberson Wins Golf Tournament

Bodo Culberson has won the Mooresville Mills Golf Club championship for the second straight year.

The champion successfully defended his title in the annual competition completed Sunday afternoon. Culberson fought off all challengers to win the 72-hole, medal play event.

Ken Barnhardt wound up in second place, and second runner-up spot went to Lowell Lyles. Norman Small rounded out the field of top four finishers.

In the first flight of the tournament, Stormy Brown was first, followed by Ernie Couch, Jack Talbott and O. G. McCarter.

H. D. Rhodes won the second flight and Fred Summers was runner-up in this group.

The winners will be recognized and awarded trophies Saturday night during the golf club's annual awards banquet at the National Guard armory.

'64 Fertilizer Guide Offered Free Of Charge

Fertilizer suggestions for the 1964 crop year have been summarized by the Agricultural Extension Service at North Carolina State and are now ready in printed form for farmers.

Crop by crop suggestions are offered on such things as nutrient requirements, examples of fertilizer combinations that can meet the requirements, and annual maintenance of soil fertility levels.

Most of the attention is given to field crops, such as corn, cotton, tobacco, peanut, small grain and sorghum. Information also is given on nutrient requirements of fruits, vegetables, lawns and ornamentals.

The leaflet includes a nitrogen sidressing chart to show how many pounds of different nitrogen materials will give a specific amount of actual nitrogen. There also is a chart showing how to figure total plant nutrients in fertilizers of different analyses.

College agronomists who prepared the folder point out that a soil test is the best method for determining the fertilizer needs of a particular crop. Recommendations in the folder are based on research findings and farmer experiences under average conditions.

Free copies of the folder may be obtained from local offices of the Agricultural Extension Service or by writing to the Department of Agricultural Information at N. C. State, Raleigh.

Fashion Folk Think Of Everything

Zip-The Side Seam Opens... Zip-It Closes Again

Behind many a woman's fashion triumph (as well as a few social tragedies) stands the zipper - slim, toothy, quick, and occasionally temperamental.

Boon of the quick change artist, bane of the single girl with short arms and long back openings in her wardrobe, the zipper is undoubtedly the greatest technological improvement in the apparel industry since the needle.

Yet until recently its gripping talons were not utilized to full capacity.

To be sure, those long, even rows of silver teeth have been clenched together in any number of valuable instances. Iron curtain countries are not as lucky but Americans take side plackets in skirts and dresses for granted. The same is true of zippers in jackets, trousers, housecoats, and the like. Certainly the zipper's most courageous task, these many years since the last World War, is in closing the gaps on girdles.

Of course, there have been times when the zipper failed, but this was rather because more was expected than possible. There have been occasions, too, when a zipper has lost some of its teeth gaging on cloth that had no business being in its path, but a zipper cannot be blamed for that, either.

At any rate, these rare misfortunes have done little to dull womanly enthusiasm for the zipper. That is why it is so common that fashion has been so long in finding new ways of putting it to work.

Indeed, horizontal zippers around hemlines could easily solve the burden of keeping up with fashion's fickle changes of heart about skirt lengths.

T/SGT. WILLIAM C. DEAL . . . Troutman Man

Deal Awarded Strategic Air Command Educational Award

Technical Sergeant William C. Deal of Troutman has been awarded the Strategic Air Command Educational Achievement Award at ceremonies in Peshawar, Pakistan.

Sergeant Deal was selected for the award in recognition of his participation in the United States Air Force adult education program. He was awarded the certificate for completing five Extension Course Institute (ECI) courses and earning college credits for courses attended at Saint Mary's University, San Antonio, Tex., and the University of Maryland Extension.

Sergeant Deal's father, Roy Deal, resides on route 8, Statesville. His wife is the former Vilma D. McReynolds of Clifton, England.

The sergeant presently is assigned to an Air Force support unit as an administrative technician.

Public Library Notes

The Greater Darkness by David Rubin. An American sociologist and his wife, in India on a teaching fellowship, have sharply different reactions to the land and people — while Bill Evans finds it a savage and repellent country, Carol is deeply moved by her Indian experiences. And while Bill looks vainly for love in an affair with an Anglo-Indian girl, Carol is drawn to a more rewarding relationship with a British doctor. A story of varying attitudes toward love, and the impact of a strange culture.

Action At Powder River by Ford Smith. A Western story of a young man who left his home under a cloud of suspicion, seeking a new life elsewhere, but felt compelled to return and fight for vindication before any life would be worth living.

Stacy Tower by Robert H. K. Walter. Life at several levels in a Western state university, from student politicians maneuvering for power in the campus world, to faculty feuds, to the high-level struggle of a liberal professor forced in to bitter compromises by his ambition to become president of the university. A faculty wife, wearied of poverty and her husband's absorption in his work, succumbs to an off-limits love affair; a girl's hopeless love for a professor drives her to desperation; a "panty raid" on a warm spring night develops into vicious rioting and violence.

The Dillinger Days by John Toland. Recap of the heyday of the bigtime bank robbers of the 1930s, notably John Dillinger, who came to a bad end in front of a midwestern theater under the guns of the FBI. The author gives a detailed account of Dillinger's career, and the depredations of other bad men and women of his time — Pretty Boy Floyd, Ma Barker, et al. — and provides a vivid picture of an era of spectacular crime.

Robyn's Way by Jan Hathaway. Teen-age Romance about a high school junior who becomes so absorbed in her ambition to be a historian and record the romantic history of the early lumbering days in her region that she neglects her other studies, and avoids the outside activities of her classmates.

Folklore of American Weather by Eric Sloane. The author and illustrator of several popular books on the subject of weather, Eric Sloane has compiled a book of American weather sayings and beliefs — both true and false. He has investigated origins, separated the many valuable pieces of weather lore from superstition or what he calls "jackass jingles," and arranged his findings in an alphabetical folklore dictionary, enabling the reader to find readily the signs involving stars, wind, dew, etc., and labeled each entry: true (T), false (F), or possible (P). Illustrated by the author.

Grandmother And The Priests. Set in turn-of-the-century England, this tells of the adventures of 11 priests from all over the British Isles, who met at Grandmother Cullen's dinner table in Yorkshire. Little Rose Cullen listens wide-eyed as the visiting clergy entertain her glamorous grandmother with tales of saints and sinners, demons and angels, tyrants, murderers.

Wright Completes Basic Training

Glenn W. Wright, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur W. Wright of Mooresville, completed basic training November 1, at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, California.

The nine-week training includes naval orientation, history and organization, seamanship, ordnance and gunnery, military drill, physical fitness, first aid and survival.

During the training recruits receive tests and interviews which determine their future assignments in the Navy. Upon completing the program they are assigned to service schools for technical instruction or to ships and stations for on-the-job training in a Navy rating specialty.

Naval training produces the power in seapower by supplying qualified personnel to man the ships, aircraft and shore stations of today's Navy.

Duke Power Company
Kannapolis, N. C.

Gentlemen:

We are certainly pleased with our Electric Comfort Heating. Since converting to electric heating we have enjoyed the wonderful room to room control which it affords.

We find that it is a thrifty way to heat. Our average monthly cost for all our electricity used was only $21.21 per month for twelve (12) months operation.

We are very happy we changed to electric heating and would recommend it to anyone who is remodeling or building a new home.

Very truly yours,
Marvin Milem

The Science Club is an extracurricular activity for those students who are especially interested in science.

THOUGHT FOR THIS WEEK...

REV. FLOYD TRICKLER

Who is the meanest person in the world? The one who supports his meanness by the Bible.

Some of our forefathers sanctioned slavery by using certain Bible references. This was worse than the slavery itself. To sell a man is one thing. To blame God as the father of such action is another. The last is worse than the first.

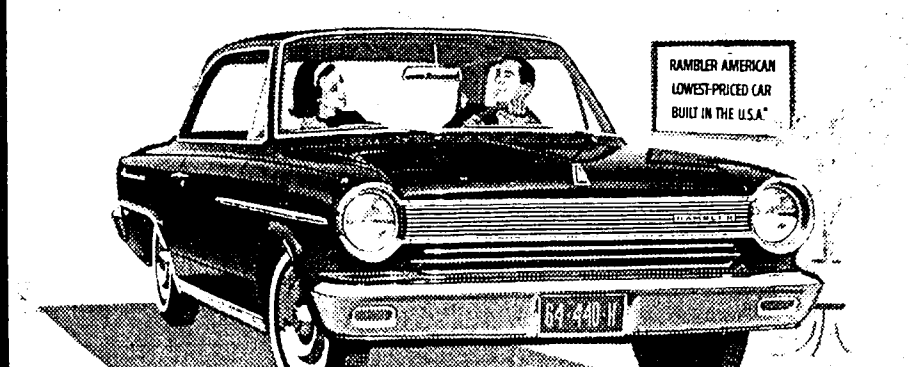

Many in our own day use the Bible to justify their prejudice against another race. Disrespect for both Negroes and Jews has been justified by, "the Bible says..."

Many an alcoholic backs up his drinking with a Scripture verse: "Take a little wine for thy stomach's sake."

Some who dreadfully abuse their children justify their brutality from the Bible.

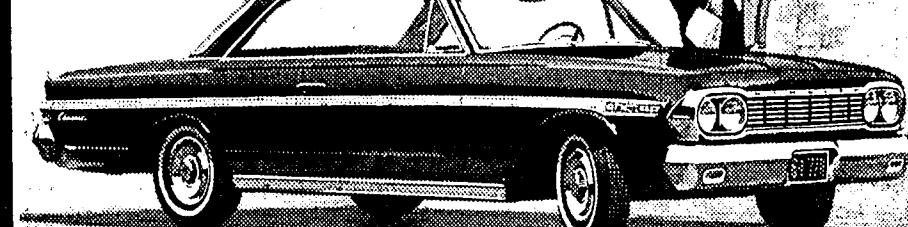

Folks who insist on being child-dro of the Devil ought to stop using God to support their position. Remember, the Devil can quote Scripture. God tells us how to use His Word. "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." (II Timothy 2:15)

Duke Power State Park Opening Scheduled For Around June 1

Located on Lake Norman in the East Monro section of Fredell county, the Duke Power State Park will open to the public around June 1, 1964.

Thomas C. Ellis, superintendent of the state park system, made the announcement this week.

Construction and grading are going full blast in the park, located in Fredell County on the eastern shore of Lake Norman. Lake Norman was formed when Duke Power Co. dammed the Catawba River with the Cowan's Ford Dam and hydro-electric power plant.

Duke Power Co. gave the state 1,300 acres for a state park, and

CHEVROLET

Which type Chevrolet pickup do you need?

Chevrolet now makes four different types, each with its own distinct advantages. Whichever one you buy will be a lot more truck than your money bought the last time!

FLEETSIDE. Based on sales, the best liked pickup in the world. Outstanding feature is its large body extending clear out over the wheels. Two body sizes. Two wheelbases. Best riding truck, by far, with coil springs all around and independent rear suspension. Cab and body have double-wall construction. Chevrolet Fleetside—best for all-around use.

STEPSIDE. Has flat interior body walls and convenient side steps between cab and rear fenders. Comes in same two sizes as the Fleetside plus one bigger size. Big model has heavier frame, 4-speed springs all around and independent rear suspension. Cab and body have double-wall construction. Chevrolet Stepside—best for all-around use.

RAMPside. Nobody else makes a pickup exactly like this one with a ramp at the side. The ramp makes loading easy because of its 16-inch rise. Truck also has a conventional tailgate. Body and frame floor assembly are very rigid because they are welded together. Has larger 95-hp air-cooled engine this year. Independent coil spring suspension all around.

EL CAMINO. If you want a pickup as good looking as any car on the road, this is the one! It can work hard, and look like a million dollars doing it—the only pickup in the world with Body by Fisher! You can order an El Camino as plain or as fancy as you wish: bucket seats, air conditioning, 4-speed transmission, power brakes are some of its extra-cost options.

Jacques Takes Army Basic At Fort Jackson

Pvt. Thomas A. Jacques, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Jacques of Mooresville, is attending basic combat training at Fort Jackson, S. C., where he has been assigned to Company B, 10th Battalion, 8th Training Regiment of the U. S. Army Training Center, Infantry.

During his basic training he will be introduced to a wide variety of infantry skills, along with intensive physical conditioning. He will attend classes in the traditions of the service, character guidance, and the role of the Army in the world today. Many of his instructors are combat veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict.

Fort Jackson uses the U. S. Army's TRAINVIE method of teaching rifle marksmanship. Simulating actual battle conditions, TRAINVIE enables the soldier to become a better rifleman in less time. Under the program, the trainee fires at pop-up targets at unknown distances on terrain which duplicates combat areas.

Other highlights of his intensive basic training schedule include squad tactics, bayonet drill, hand-to-hand combat, and a night program against an "aggressor" force. He will also crawl the infiltration course while live machine-gun fire pops overhead.

During his seven-week training, he lives in the field under conditions similar to a combat zone. Here, moving over rough terrain, he has a chance to participate in realistic combat situations and to apply his newly acquired skills.

Basic training is climaxed by a graduation review before the commanding general of Fort Jackson. Outstanding performers are recognized in a ceremony that is open to parents and invited guests.

'Learn While You Earn' Finds New Meaning In AF

One of the main inducements for voluntary enlistment into the armed forces has long been the opportunity to "learn while you earn."

By this, it was meant that, from the very first day in service, a young man will be drawing a full salary while obtaining technical training in a needed skill. After an enlistment in the service, many young men find that the training and experience received while in uniform is of great benefit to them when seeking civilian employment.

While this is still no less true today than it has always been, the U. S. Air Force has added yet a new dimension to the old slogan of "Learn While You Earn."

Local U. S. Air Force Recruiting Sergeant Arthur A. Hoyle points to the current Air Force active-duty education programs as an example of this. Here too, while the old correspondence courses remain, there are many new programs that have only recently been developed. Under "Operation Bootstrap," for example, airmen study on base in their spare time part time part of the year and then attend the summer semester of the college of their choice on a full-time basis. The "Airman Education and Commissioning Program" offers airmen the opportunity to attend college full-time on a year-round basis and gain a commission as an officer as well. In short, the Air Force has coupled formal education to technical training to add new meaning to the old opportunity to earn and learn.

Sergeant Hoyle has all the facts at the U. S. Air Force Recruiting Office, at the post office building in Statesville each Monday and Friday. The main Air Force office is located in the post office in Hickory.

THE PEOPLE SPEAK:

Food—mention it and it's a sure bet everyone in the sound of the voice will sit up and take notice.

Yes, food is an attention-getting matter—whether the person is a calorie counter or one of those lucky ones who can eat anything and everything without fear of adding pounds.

Food should be an important and attention-getting matter because, without it, we couldn't maintain our strength—couldn't live.

In view of all this, the Mooresville Tribune's roving reporter asked the following question this week as he went about the task of preparing one of the paper's weekly features—The People Speak:

What is your favorite food?

The answers of the four on-the-streets questioned, in full, were as follows:

JAMES SHERRILL, Cascade Weaving Company, route 4: "Steak is about the best . . . it's the only thing I can think of just now when I think of which food I like best."

ELAINE SHERRILL, student, 258 East McNeely avenue: "Lemon pie. I like that flavor."

MARY CATHERINE BURGESS, student, 405 Fieldstone Road: "Hot dogs, all the way. I just love them."

BILL WALTON, railway agent, Burlington: "I really don't know. I like all of it, but I'd say I like shrimp the best."

BEER IS A NATURAL

Brewed slowly, by a centuries-old natural process, beer is North Carolina's traditional beverage of moderation—light, sparkling, delicious.

And naturally, the Brewing Industry is proud of the millions of dollars it contributes to this state's economy through wages, advertising, rentals, insurance, transportation and utilities. Money made in North Carolina, spent in North Carolina. In North Carolina, beer belongs, enjoy it.

SHUCKS and NUBBINS

BY LEN SULLIVAN

A Plowboy's Lament For The Mule

The mule is a noble beast with a glorious past and no future at all. The butt of one of nature's bitter jokes, the mule is cursed with a clown's appearance. It is a hybrid, shackled by inability to reproduce its own kind. Contrary to hostile legend spawned by its comical appearance, the mule is neither stupid nor exceedingly stubborn. It is, without question, the willing servant most responsible for man's successful efforts to harness the South's limitless agricultural energy.

The mule is, or was, the most often maligned and, in turn, the most deeply loved of God's creatures. For centuries, it turned the sod, fetched the groceries and carried the firewood of America without reward or the hope of it. The mule was so closely identified with the man, his farm and his family and it often was treated—mistrusted—as such.

Time was, a man was judged by the number and condition of his mules. This was an accurate measurement, because a man's callus was reflected in his respect for his mules.

Came the smelly, gas-gobbling tractor and the mule's role, once indispensable, was reduced to that of providing basic raw material for glue factories.

We were reminded of the mule's imminent extinction by a report last week that listed the mule population of Catawba County at 50. It is a sad, sad business. We should do no less than establish mule reservations. We did much for Indians who were not in favor of, and, in fact opposed, man and mule harvesting the riches of the land and advancing to a bland, useless society.

Distance And Quality Aren't Synonymous

How often and how foolishly we associate geography and quality. The farther away from home we send our children, the better the education they get; our knowledge, we assume, increases according to the number of miles we travel. Two men trapped in a mine for states away took our hearts, while we cannot concern ourselves with the equally-real suffering about us. The Red Chinese attach a severed hand and we applaud their genius, but we show only passing interest in medical science immediately at hand—until we need it.

A few weeks back, a man was rushed to Lowrance Hospital. A shotgun blast had torn away all but shreds of his right arm near the shoulder. The surgeon noted there was no blood supply; the arm was cold and, for all practical purposes, dead. A snip or two would have completed the amputation, but the surgeon saw a chance and took it. The simple way to have gone about saving the arm would have been to sever it clean away from the destroyed tissue and bone and rejoin it. If this had been the decision, the results would have been, at best, an arm a good three inches shorter than the other.

Instead, the doctor elected to rebuild the arm. Twelve hours in surgery on four different occasions enabled the medical men to establish a blood supply to the arm by borrowing a vein from the patient's leg and substituting it for the artery that was shot away. A metal rod joined the shattered bone ends. The entire cluster of nerves, veins and muscle on the underside of the arm was lost. Only one vein, the cephalic, was somehow intact in the fragments that were left. That vein was enough to provide a return route for the blood. The tedious process of grafting skin from the stomach area to cover the rebuilt section of the arm now is underway. It will continue, and there will be more operations to connect nerves, repair muscles.

With luck and with skill, the arm will be restored to near-full usage. It will take time, a year, probably more, but it is happening, dramatically, here in Mooresville, not in Peking or Zurich or on television.

The United States Of Amortgage

Really, now, how prophetic can you get? Our regular feature, "Our Community in Other Years," this week has this item dated 45 years ago: "Miss Grace Rankin will leave Cameron, Texas, today for her home in this city, after spending sometime in the Loan Star State."

Well, don't feel bad, Texas, aren't we all?

For Want Of Another Wall Receptable . . .

For some reason, this report in the Smithfield Herald broke us up: The Blackman's Crossroads Fire Department was called to Charlie Barefoot's house on a recent evening. It seems Charlie's television set, shorted out and caught fire—but that wasn't all. The TV set was on the sewing machine, a radio was on top of the TV, and a clock was atop the radio. The entertainment center was reduced to a molten blob. Well, like the man said, never put all your appliances in one basket.

McKendree Methodist Church of the Mayhewtown community will sponsor a harvest festival Saturday night. A well-rounded program of fun and entertainment for the whole family is planned.

Events will consist of fishing, country store, auction sales and chances on a chair which will be given away.

The affair, to be held in the fellowship building, will get underway at 8 p. m. The patronage of the public will be greatly appreciated.

E. B. Matheson Funeral Rites Monday At 3

Edgar Bain Matheson, 55, died in the Lowrance Hospital at 9 p. m. Friday shortly after suffering a heart attack at his home at 628 Oak street.

A native of Iredell county, Mr. Matheson was born on April 15, 1908, a son of the late Edgar and Lillian Grant Matheson.

At the time of his death, he was employed by the Crawford Door Sales Company in Charlotte.

The survivors include: the widow, Mrs. Beatrice McKoy Matheson; one son, Edgar Mack Matheson of Frankfurt, Germany; four brothers, Guy and Bruce Matheson, both of Troutman, Joe Matheson of Hickory, and G. R. Matheson of Chicago, Ill.; and one sister, Mrs. Jesse Kerr of Morganton.

Funeral services were conducted at 3 p. m. Monday at the Cavin Funeral Chapel, with the Rev. Thad McDonald, pastor of the Central Methodist Church, in charge. Burial was in Glenwood Memorial Park cemetery.

Son Of Former City Manager Here Is Killed

A former Mooresville resident—James Robert Peck—died in the North Carolina Memorial Hospital at Chapel Hill at 4:45 a. m. Sunday from injuries sustained in an automobile accident near Raleigh on October 28.

A senior at the University of North Carolina, 21-year-old Peck was a son of Chapel Hill Town Manager and Mrs. Robert H. Peck of Chapel Hill. The Pecks resided in Mooresville for a number of years, while Robert H. Peck served as city manager.

The automobile accident victim was a graduate of Washington, North Carolina, High School.

Survivors, in addition to the parents, include: a brother, Richard H. Peck of the home; a sister, Jeanne Peck of the home; the paternal grandfather, Henry Peck of Webster, New York; and the maternal grandfather, George Mac Dougall of Indianapolis, Indiana.

Funeral services were conducted at 3 p. m. Monday at the Chapel Hill Presbyterian Church with the pastor, the Rev. Vance Barron, in charge. Burial was in the Chapel Hill Memorial cemetery.

Funeral Rites Conducted For Flake Murdock

After An Over-Perfect Society, What To Do?

What comes after perfection? Why, over-perfection, which, it appears, is worse than slipshod.

"Over" is America's bugaboo. We over-produce, we over-mechanize, we over-organize, we over-everything. But what to do? Just quit?

Two recent news stories added to this dilemma. One had to do with beef, the other with traffic safety.

First, about the beef: Japan recently was added to the list of countries allowed to export beef to the U. S. The Jap meat will be used largely by connoisseurs of Japanese food in the preparation of a dish called sukiyaki. The special quality of this beef results from massaging the animals, giving them great quantities of beer and keeping them tightly penned to retard muscle development.

The reason for the popularity of beef from away off yonder is that Americans have become bored with the finest beef in the world, the kind they can buy here at home. The reason they have become bored is because we have such an abundance of top-grade beef.

We can produce all the prime beef we need because of the development of art-ficial marbling techniques and because, through the development of artificial insemination, one "perfect" bull can service 10,000 cows a year. This arrangement naturally makes a great many less than perfect bulls available for slaughter.

Cattlemen are moaning because their know-how in producing "perfect" specimens is working a vicious cycle against them. Their reward for their achievement has been increasing amounts of beef imported in competition with them.

And the traffic safety business: The "unrealistic over-protection"—there's another "over"—of children going to and from school is making them sitting ducks for the traffic hazards they'll encounter later in life. So say traffic experts in the Illinois Municipal League. Rights-of-way, police-designed crosswalks, and all the other measures designed to protect our youngsters have served only to make the children think they lead charmed lives.

Kids have been seen strolling nonchalantly into streams of traffic, jumping recklessly out of and into cars, apparently assuming the world owes them protection under all circumstances.

So, what do you do when the more you win the more you lose?

Our Man Randall And The Old Dominion

(From The Greensboro Daily News)
Director George Randall of the North Carolina Prisons Department has marshaled figures which make Virginia's criticism and rejection of the Old North State's work release program ridiculous.

The Old Dominion's Gov. Albertis S. Harrison, acting on a study of the Tar Heel plan by Virginia's Prisons Director W. F. Smith, voiced double objection to the program which has worked with demonstrated success and won the plaudits of prison management in at least 30 other states. He called the plan a risk to society and charged that it results in competition between a prisoner and a free man for a given job.

N. C. Director Randall disposed of the competition criticism with a single sentence: "I'm a little surprised at this line of thinking; if you didn't allow possible competition, a prisoner would never be paroled."

Parole is dependent upon the prisoner to whom it is granted having a job. He was a free man, working in a free labor market, before he ran afoul of the law. It was his removal from society which left a job open in the first place. Patently if there is to be effective rehabilitation of prisoners through any kind of training program they will have to get jobs and make good at them whenever they are discharged or have paid their debt to society.

Governor Harrison also seems to have overlooked the realistic circumstance that under the work release program the working prisoner pays for his prison keep, earns money with which to keep his family off relief and retains his status as a taxpayer. And there are humane considerations as well as economic and social factors which weigh heavily in favor of the North Carolina program.

As for the risk which work release holds for society, Director Randall's figures offer factual rebuttal. Since the program went into effect in September, 1957, approximately 2,400 prisoners have taken part in it, with some 800 presently participating. Director Randall cites the record: "Other than a few escapes, the only crime under work release has been one case of auto theft in connection with an escape. And auto theft is not a crime of violence." And then came the real knockout punch: Whereas the national rate of recidivism is 87 per cent, the recidivism rate has turned sharply downward in North Carolina with an unbelievable 6 per cent among work release prisoners. It is this drop which has given the North Carolina prison system the enviable status of being the only system in the country with a decreasing population.

Yes, Virginia, there is prison progress; and you don't have to wait for Santa Claus to bring it to you.

Our Grain Shows Up Russian Weakness

Americans were incensed by reports of grain rotting in Midwestern streets for want of boxcars to move it to storage. The needed rail facilities were commandeered to haul wheat to ports for shipment to Russia.

All in all, a frustrating deal. But now it appears the Reds' faces are the color of their names because they will have one devil of a time taking care of the wheat once it gets to them.

If and when our wheat deal is consummated, it will only add a monumental headache to the problems the Russians already are having with the grain they bought from Canada. Reports already are coming in that merchant ships are backing up in the Black Sea ports with Canadian wheat.

rail transportation in Russia. In fact, this is so bad that 15,000 freight cars are idle every day in some railway sectors. Poor inspection and slow repair to rolling stock add to the confusion.

So selling wheat to the Reds may turn out to be more of a propaganda tool than we had hoped. It already has shown up a serious weakness in their ability to move material (be it food or rockets) by rail, it has added credence to the claim that the Russian farm program is in a mess generally, and, thirdly, while they're trying to untangle their railroad snafu they'll have to take their minds off hating us.

Safety's Two Bits

The American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, the state officials in charge of vehicle registration and operation, recently recommended the use of "safety" license plates as an effective, inexpensive way to reduce rear-end collisions on our highways.

The safety tags, now being used by 13 states and the District of Columbia and by three more states in 1964, are covered with a reflective material that shines brilliantly at night in the headlights of approaching cars.

If a car could be equipped with a safety device that can be seen from as far as 1,500 feet at night, even if the car that was parked or disabled had no operating lights, it could prevent many accidents.

And the cost? At a quarter a car, it's worth it.

Parson Jones' Pulpit

DEAR MR. PUBLISHER:

Last Sunday was a happy occasion. You should have been here. We finally got old Grandpa Goosefeathers in the Church. We been working on that honery cuss for the past 20 years but all we ever got was cussed out. He said he was having too big a time to get religion.

Well sir, 3 years ago he come down with the roamatism. Since that time he's been to all kinds doctors. He started out with ole Doc Charge Wright, and stuck with him 'til he was might nigh broke. Last I heard he was going to a cowpracter.

Grandpa finally lost everything he had but his roamatism. So when Goosefeathers saw that he was too broke for Hell-raising and too sick even if he had the money, he turned to religion.

He come to see me about joining the Church. I asked him if he'd had a change of heart. He said his heart hadn't bothered him none—it was mainly his roamatism. He allowed as how he'd tried every thing else to get well, so it wouldn't hurt to try a little religion. (Course, I reckon religion was about the only thing left that he could afford.)

Anyhow, Mr. Publisher, Grandpa Goosefeathers is now a bonny-fide member of the church. Ain't it enlightening, sir, why some folks will turn to religion? A site a people use God like He was a tool of some kind!

You take ole Grandpa Goosefeathers for example—he's trying to use God as a real big axepn, so's he can get rid of his roamatism. He figures he'll take 2 or 3 doses of God and when he gets well he can drop the whole matter.

Some folks try to use God as a fire escape. They have Him around—just in case they gotta make a quick get-a-way. These people don't use God unless they got an emergency. You take Ellie McKlesinger's brother, for instance. His boat turned over in the lake last summer, and he prayed so loud you could hear him on the shore. Its the first and the last time I ever heard him pray.

He bollerred, "O Lord, if you get me outa this mess I won't bother you again. Well sir, both of 'em stuck by their bargain. The Lord spared him, and he ain't bothered the Lord since.

Rufe uses God as a big stick. When he can't get his kids to listen he threatens 'em with God. He scares the daylites outa his younguns by telling that God's gonna get 'em if they don't listen. He said that done a hole lot more good than a razor strap.

I'll tell you what, Mr. Publisher, I don't believe folk's is gonna get too far trying to use God... cause He's God. The Good book says that us humans is like clay. Most the clay I've seen is soft and floppy. It looks to me like the best thing we can do is lay right still like, and let God make something outa us.

Well, I gotta go now. I'm going over to Grandpa Goosefeathers and see if I can help the Lord beat a little a that air out of him.

Yours Truly,

Parson Jones

45 YEARS AGO

IN OTHER YEARS

One of our grocerymen caught up with a cheat and swindle about two weeks ago by making a discovery. He had made a "regular engagement" with a young farmer for butter, and the first lot brought the grocer was said to be of excellent quality. Sometime later, however, a batch of the golden-hued article was brought in and soon distributed to customers. One print of the butter was sent to the home of a lady who on cutting into it, found the inside filled with a white substance that was not butter. She fired it back to the merchant. On the following Saturday the young farmer brought in four more prints, the aggregate weight being three pounds and two ounces. After the young farmer had been paid for the butter, the merchant cut one print and found it full of this particular filling, and then the remaining three prints were cut in half, each being carefully stuffed with this substitute, whatever it was. The grocer proceeded at once to find his man, and told him face to face what he thought of a trick like that, and demanded his money back, but refused to prosecute. The farmer said he knew nothing about it. He was accused of putting some sort of compound in the butter. He wanted to get $50 that what was in the butter was not that compound. The various merchants of the town are in the habit of trusting their customers and it is only occasionally that one finds a deception or dishonesty.

A called meeting of the town board of aldermen was held Tuesday night when matters of vital interest to the town were discussed.

On recommendation of the water and light committee, the board voted to make a slight increase in the rates for consumers for electricity on a scale something like this. The minimum rate will be fixed at $1.00, an increase of 10 per cent was permitted on amounts used up to 50 kilowatt, and 4 per cent over that amount.

A petition was accepted asking for the permanent improved paving of the block between Broad and Academy streets on McEl-lan avenue.

An ordinance was passed prohibiting the maintenance of a slaughter house within the corporate limits of the town, and the use of the present house will be denied after the 15th of May. It is also a misdemeanor for any person to bury dead carcasses in the town limits.

There will be a public speaking at the graded school auditorium tonight at 8 o'clock, when General Guy Preston, Commander at Camp Greene, will deliver an address on matters pertaining to the war and the winning of some. He will be accompanied by Hon. Frank R. Mc-Ninch, mayor of Charlotte, who will also submit a few remarks. This will be an interesting meeting and the entire public should turn out to hear these distinguished gentlemen.

The Mooresville Cotton Mills are offering special inducements to the operatives to buy thrift stamps. For instance, any employee who agrees to take out a thrift card will be given the first stamp free of charge and when fifteen stamps have been placed, the mill company will also put on the last one, the employee getting two out of sixteen stamps absolutely free. It is a splendid proposition and many of the hands are taking advantage of this unusual opportunity to help the government and themselves as well.

At a meeting of the board of trustees of Mooresville graded schools, held last Friday night, matters pertaining to the welfare of the school were discussed. While the election for bonds and taxes went by default, the board has organized a plan whereby the schools will be continued and there will be no curtailment in the matter of efficiency in the high school department, or in the lower grades, the details of which will be worked out later.

The board unanimously re-elected W. C. Arliff superintendent for the next school year. His corps of assistants will be elected later. Miss Grace Rankin will leave Cameron, Texas, today for her home in this city, after spending sometime in the Loan Star State at the home of Mr. Espy Watts.

Your attention is called to the change of hours for opening the Library. Hereafter during the summer months the library will be open from 4 to 5 instead of from 3 to 4 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hawthorne and daughter, Miss Telle, will leave tomorrow for Camp Sevier to visit Eugene Hawthorne of the Piedmont Battery.

Mr. Fred Morrow, of the engineering corps, came in from Camp Sevier Monday on a visit of several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Morrow.

Lieut. Moses A. White, of Camp Jackson, spent several days here this week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. White.

TRIBUNE PHOTO
You can harp about your pastoral aesthetics, you can sing to your heart's content about summertime living and ol' man river, the sad fact remains: Picking cotton just ain't fun, not day after day after day. The Charlie Reid family tended seven acres of cotton on the Shuford Duckworth farm near Mount Mourne, and seven acres of a good stand of cotton is a lot of picking. At the end of a day, Reid carefully weighs the fruits of the family's labors, using the ancient steelyard. The centuries-old harvesting operation was in sharp contrast to the modern tractor used to pull the trailer in background.

Asheboro, Shelby In Title Tilt

Asheboro and Shelby will meet for the championship of the Western North Carolina High School Activities Association tomorrow (Friday) night in Asheboro. Asheboro won the North-South Piedmont championship by defeating Monroe 28-0 in the first round of playoffs last Friday night. Shelby took the Northwest-Southwestern title in an overtime battle with Wilkes-Central at Shelby last week.

Monroe, going into the first round, had an unbeaten record of 10 straight wins during the regular season. However, the Rebels could never get their offense rolling against the stout Asheboro defenders. The charges of Coach Lee Stone had a good offensive night, scoring one in the first half and three times in the last two quarters to send Coach Danny Williams and his charges back to Union County with their first loss of the year.

Over at Shelby, more evenly matched teams battled to a 13-13 tie. Following the deadlock, Shelby booted a field goal from 13 yards out in earning the right to their chance at the association title.

Both teams will be out to capture the top honor of the year when they take to the field for the 8 p. m. kick-off at Asheboro Friday.

Cage Teams Strill Practicing Hard For NPC Season

The basketball teams of Senior High continue their hard work in preparation for the coming North Piedmont season. Coach Harlan Bowman of the Devil five and Roy Boyles, who directs the lassies, have been sending their charges through the paces at a fast clip.

Coach Bowman has 18 boys working out in quest of starting slots while Boyles has a gym full of girls (80) vying for the six first team slots on the sextet team.

From all indications, Bowman should field the most experienced Devil team in many years. All five starters of last year are returning for duty. Bowman reports some of the boys who came to the team last week at the completion of football should still have a long way to go before their shooting eye will be what it should.

Tommy Deal and Mike Robinson are running the first guard slot with Johnny Barker and Tim Roach at forwards and Johnny Cane in the center position. If all goes according to plan, these boys will form the first five for the Blue Devils.

Boyles would not even talk about a starting team, what with his entire first team dropping off at graduation last year. To date, the coach has been working out the lassies in an attempt to get them in shape and to see who has the best shooting eye.

Experience-wise, Sandy Sharpe will get the most seasoned guard slot at the forward slot with all the other positions wide open. First action for the local teams will be against Odell in a practice game Dec. 3.

Boosters Plan Big Promotion Of Cage, Wrestling Events

The Mooresville Boosters Club in session Monday night gave hearty approval to the task of stepping up local interest in and attendance at coming sports events.

The club will sponsor the first home basketball game against Odell December 6 and the opening wrestling match between the Blue Devils and South Mecklenburg December 13.

In order to make the affair a success the club will sell tickets to both events with the money going into the athletic fund of the local senior high school.

Tickets for both the basketball game and wrestling match will be on sale by Booster members the first of next week. Admission price is 50 cents for adults and 35 cents for students.

Chances are good that you will be contacted to buy a ticket to both. Should you fail to be approached, make plans now to take part in this worthy promotion. Get on the bandwagon and help the Boosters make this a banner year for fall and winter sports.

Six Blue Devils Listed On All-Conference Team

Mooreville's Blue Devils, second place finishers in the North Piedmont Conference, took big honors in the selection of players chosen on the all-conference team.

Coach Roy Boyles had six of his players selected for the honor team which lists the top players of the North Piedmont. Conference champion Monroe, unbeaten during the regular season, placed seven on the squad.

Recreation Cage League Will Meet

Mooreville Recreation Director Carl Baber has scheduled a meeting Friday night, November 22, of representatives of all teams that expect to compete in the recreation department-sponsored basketball league this winter.

Baber has asked team captains to gather at the War Memorial for the planning session. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. He called for spokesmen of both men and women teams.

"We hope to begin league play the first of December," Baber explained, "and we need to know quickly just where we stand so we can begin the tedious work of arranging a playing schedule."

Six teams of the conference were represented on the team with West Rowan and Troutman failing to get a player on the team.

Mooreville players listed on the unit are Tim Roach, Gary Karriker, Billy Watson, Dewitt Hinson, Tommy Deal and David Oliphant. Of these, only Deal will be returning to the squad for the 1964 campaign.

The complete roster for the North Piedmont is:

Ends—Tim Roach, Mooreville; John Weaver, Children's Home; Mike Bernhardt, East Rowan; and Butch Terry, Monroe.

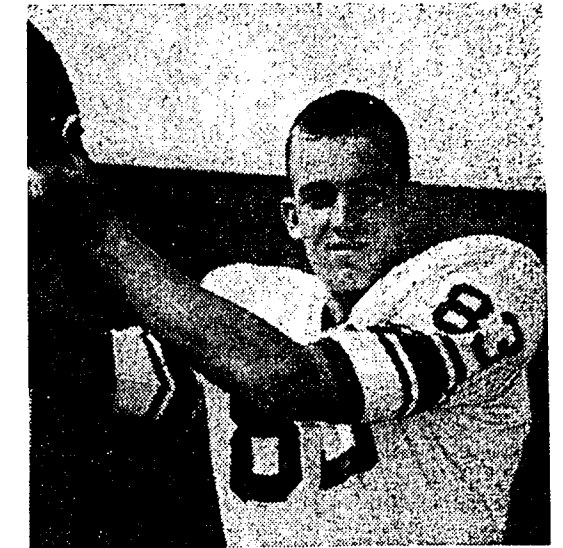

Tackles—Larry Craig, Children's Home; Gary Karriker, Mooreville; Gary Honeycutt, North Rowan; and Ed Dickerson, Monroe.

Guards—Spurgeon Goss, Davie County; Gary Noles, Monroe; Tommy Loflin, North Rowan; and Billy Watson, Mooreville.

Centers—Lee Reecer, Monroe; and Dewitt Hinson, Mooreville. Backs—Grey Medinger, North Rowan; Brad Niven, Monroe; Roger Staley, Children's Home; Kent Lee, Monroe; Jimmy Mullis, Monroe; Tommy Deal, Mooreville; David Oliphant, Mooreville; J. C. Bernhardt, East Rowan and Richard Klutts, East Rowan.

The books explain training programs for the four levels of Girl Scouting—the Brownies, Juniors, Cadettes and Seniors.

"RAISING" CHILDREN BY THE BOOK

We have a choice in America . . . a choice denied millions who live under godless communism. Here is a man who is exercising that choice! He believes that children growing up in the free world ought to cherish and embrace the spiritual insights God has given man. This father introduced his children to the Bible when they were very young. Today the Book of the Ages is their friend. Tomorrow it will be their guide through the frightening age to which they have been born.

The American Bible Society — supported by earnest Christian citizens and the churches they attend — enables millions of families around the globe to share our heritage of Truth with this new generation on whose spiritual future rests the hope of the world.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL — ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a source of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and read your Bible daily.

Cool Springs Site Of State Fiddle-Fest

The granddaddy of all fiddlers' conventions will be held at Cool Springs High School Saturday, November 23.

Billed as the North Carolina championship playoff, the event will be sponsored by the East Fiddle Lions Club. Bill Earnhardt and Shaw Brown, both members of the Mooresville Lions Club, are handling arrangements in this end of the country.

The publicity chairman for the hillbilly whoop-de-do, William Styers, said this year's fiddle-fest will draw country and western pickers, plunkers, strummers, singers, yodelers and whatnot from throughout the state. The competition will begin at 7:30 p. m. in the school auditorium.

The public has been invited by the Lions to attend the event. All earnings from the convention will be used by the Lions to buy and equip a playground in the East Fiddle community.

Grady Lewis, a champion fiddle player himself, is serving as chairman of this year's event. Lewis, who has won 18 awards with his fiddle playing during the past several years, states that only professional musicians are allowed to serve as judges in the championship contest.

Cash prizes plus the state championship trophy will be awarded to the three best bands, the three best fiddle players, and the three best banjo players. Current state champion band is the Lincoln County Partners. State champion fiddle player is Kenneth Fowey of Lincoln County and the state champion banjo player is Hoyt Herbert of Fredrick county.

RENOVATION UNDERWAY—Workmen Sam Rucker, left, and Carl Sutton were busy late last week on the face-lifting project at Delk and Rayless stores, neighboring businesses in the 100-block of North Main Street. The familiar Mooresville Plan front and canopy are being added to the buildings that house the two firms. Negotiations are continuing in efforts to extend the uniform beautification plan throughout the downtown business district. The tunnel effect at left in the picture is produced by existing canopy in the 200 block of North Main. The canopy has proven a business boon year-around, and particularly so during the busiest shopping season of all that is fast approaching.

IMPS IN PRINT

GINDY JACOBS AND MARY WALTON

This week our school is observing Care Week. Last year we contributed $504.00. We are trying to go over this goal this year.

Miss Freeze submitted a poem as the theme of Care Week. It's title "The World is Mine," is enough to get you to give at least.

So, we are trying to achieve a goal. Not for ourselves, but that others might be helped. We have so much and they have so little. The poem is enough to melt the heart (and pocketbook) of even a person with ice water running in his veins.

The Student Council sponsored a dance last Friday night. Yis and everybody had a great time.

Tribune Questions:
What would you do if you came upon an ossuary at midnight?
I would scream and call Mr. Lowder — Darlene Alexander.
Tell him to get lost — Anne De-Vane.

I would call information to find out what it is — Sherry Ervin.
I'd gasp — Lynn Osborne.
Tame it — Mitchell Parker.

Everybody duck, the Martians have arrived — Cathy Story.
I would wake up and say, "Quit pulling the rollers out of my hair — Donna Allison.
Go find Mr. Griffith — Hulene McLean.

I'd scream for Mike — Judy Robinson.

I would kill it and eat it — Clarence Black.
I'd kill it before it spreads —

Suzette Bowles.

I'd say, "You wanta' fight what ever you are?" — Vickie Kennerly.

Tell it to get in bed — Phil Alexander.

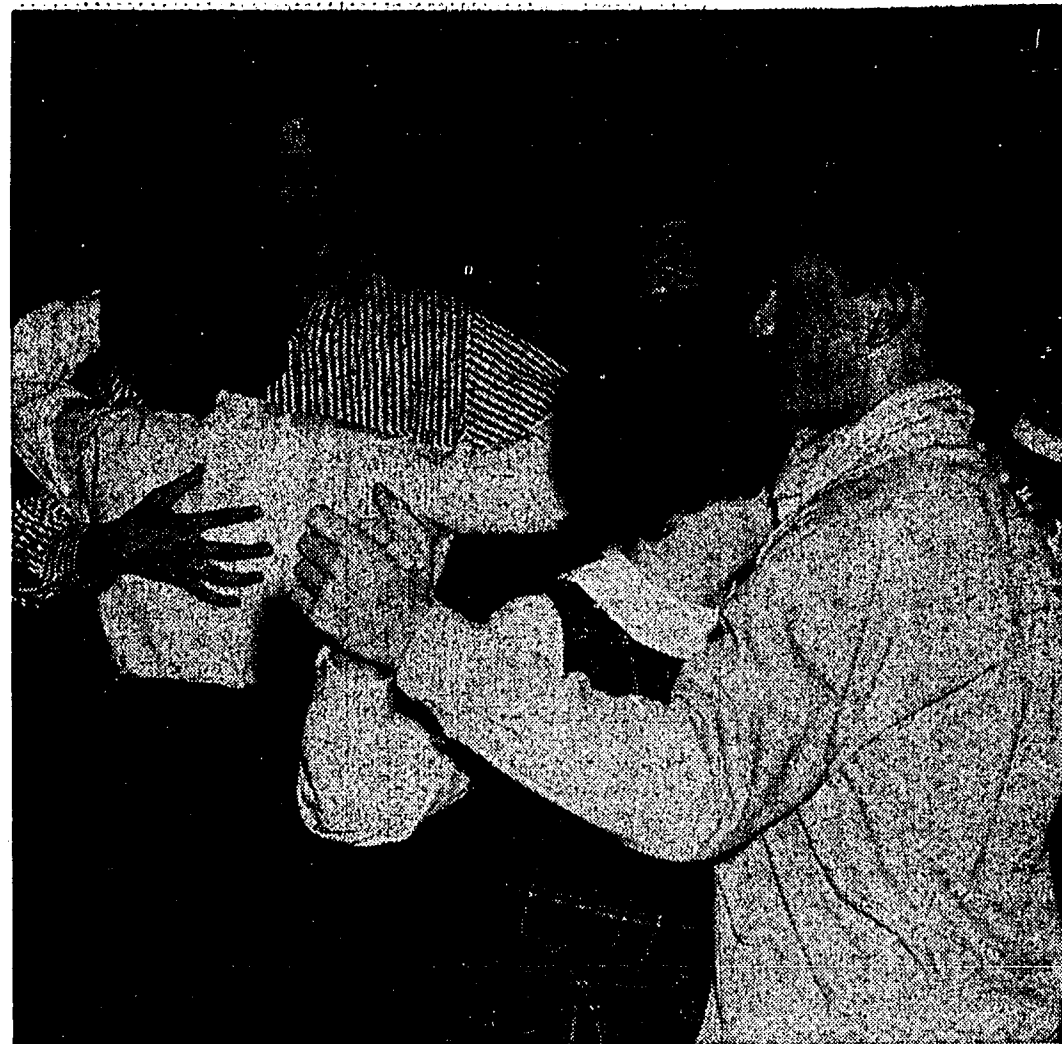

Sell him some Girl Scout Cookies — Marsha Brawley.
Ask him for his autograph — Paulette Compton.

I would telephone for Mighty Mouse — Robert Little.
An ossuary, according to Mr. Webster, is a depository for the bones of the dead.

School Hopes To Grow Cash-Producing Trees

Contrary to the adage that money never grows on trees, Grand Valley State College, at Grand Rapids, Mich., has planted trees expected to yield $10,000 a year by 1973.

Workers have planted 8,300 fir trees on the campus and plan to add some 5,000 seedlings each year for a decade. Proceeds from the sale of trees will be designated for scholarships at nearby Allendale school, which is scheduled to open next autumn.

TRIBUTE TO YOUTH—As a feature of Youth Appreciation Week, the Mooresville Optimist Club sponsored a dance Friday night at the War Memorial. The youngsters sashayed to the beat of LaRay's Dance Band. During intermission of the gala affair, Optimist President Frank Burke expressed, in behalf of the club, thanks to the young people for turning out for the dance, and to the community for its encouragement in furthering Optimist youth activities. Burke introduced Estus White, state chairman of the Optimist Stay-in-School Program, and White spoke briefly on the values of education. He explained the almost insurmountable obstacles a school dropout faces in today's world.

Christmas Decor Discussed At Mt. Mourne HDC

The Mount Mourne Home Demonstration Club held its November meeting on Thursday, November 24, at two o'clock in the home of Mrs. B. S. Templeton. Miss Pla to Kelly, president, and led the devotional thought.

Miss Kelly presented a demonstration on Christmas decorations. She then introduced Mrs. Willis Teeter, Iredell County Home Demonstration Council President, who presented the group and presented Mrs. D. F. Matthews of the Oak Ridge Club, who presented a very interesting demonstration entitled "Decorative Trim On Clothing."

Mrs. Matthews' son, Donnie, was also present and he modeled a red wool vest made by his mother. Mrs. Teeter then gave some added Christmas suggestions to the group, which she had gathered from visiting various clubs in the county.

Mrs. Templeton served delicious refreshments.

Those present were: Mesdames Willis Teeter, D. F. Matthews, Donnie Matthews, Herman Holt, Moore Caldwell, Moore Templeton, Clyde Sherrill, Ralph Howard, Walter Caldwell, C. F. Marlow, Moore Jones, Thomas Dishman, B. S. Templeton, and Misses Sue Templeton and Plato Kelly.

duity, of play-acting, about the whole sorrowful proceedings.

Town offices were closed Monday, court was recessed, flags fluttered at half-mast. Portable television sets were placed on all floors of the hospital; transistor radios were everywhere.

Without exception, Mooresville area ministers made last minute sermon changes to try and comfort a saddened community. Memorial services were held Monday morning. Mooresville Boy Scouts conducted a memorial service Monday night.

That's the way it was in Mooresville during one of the most tragic, certainly the most bizarre, weekends in America's history.

But now, it finds, the four years needed to get a high school diploma add as much to income as do 20 years of experience without a high school education.

The Commerce Clearing House estimates that failure to complete high school costs the average man $46,300 during his working career. The high school graduate in the United States, it reports, averages $5,867 a year as against $4,818 for the drop-out.

Among residents of Iredell county, the educational level was shown by the last census to be relatively high and to be moving higher. The average person locally has been getting 9.9 years of schooling, which is considerably more than was acquired 20 years ago.

It compares with 8.9 years in the State of North Carolina.

Overall parade chairman is T. C. Homesley.

"Everything is moving along nicely," Homesley said earlier this week. "We are pleased with the cooperation we are receiving from local business houses, industrial plants, and professional men."

"With Miss North Carolina as an added attraction," he said, "we expect this year's parade to be the biggest and best ever."

The town's Christmas street lights will be turned on at the start of the parade, and their many colors will add charm and beauty to the already lovely event.

Miss North Carolina is expected to arrive in Mooresville around 2 p. m. on the day of the parade. She will rest and dress for the pageant at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rouse on Cedar street. She is expected to leave Mooresville for her home in Graham immediately following the parade.

A native of Chelsea, Mass., Miss North Carolina is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Swanner, Jr., of Graham. She is a 1961 graduate of Graham High School and is a junior at Auburn University, where she is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta.

She is six feet, two inches tall, weighs 160 pounds, and has light brown hair and blue-green eyes. She likes music and all sports, especially basketball.

Miss Swanner was voted Miss Congeniality in the Miss America pageant at Atlantic City, New Jersey, during the past summer.

FROM UNCLE SAM TO TAR HEEL SCHOOLS

66 Carloads Of Gobblers Earmarked For Thanksgiving

Feast-times are just around the corner with Thanksgiving and Christmas approaching, and school children will be getting lip-smacking delicious turkey dinners for their pre-holiday lunches at 2,028 North Carolina schools operating non-profit lunchrooms.

Foods donated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture are used as nucleus items for the menus, and stimulate local purchases rounding out the diets prepared for school children. The three-hundred items are just part of the 33 commodities offered to schools.

Ray E. Davis, head of the commodity distribution program for the North Carolina Department of Agriculture's markets division, says that plenty of turkeys and chickens are on hand for the holidays. The state's allocation of turkeys has amounted to 66 carloads, or 1,815,000 pounds which will provide about eight servings per child.

Deliveries of the frozen turkey orders are completed, but chickens shipped have amounted to 22 carloads of some 47 on order, Davis said.

While turkey and chicken are part of the seasonal menus, both are served throughout the school year. Davis figures that the 22 carloads of frozen cut up chicken already received just about fills the freezers of the schools.

The turkeys and chickens coming into school are originally from only here in North Carolina, but come from as far away as Utah. Seven carloads of fresh cranberries will be required to round out the festive school lunches.

Davis says that receipt of the juicy red berries started in mid-October and will continue until the early part of December.

Not only do USDA foods go to more than 700 schools in the state, but the distribution section handles commodities which reach some 140 institutions, 120 summer camps, and 48 county needy family programs feeding 234,000 additional persons.

During the last fiscal year ending June of 1963, the schools served by Davis's section received more than $5,500,000 wholesale value in USDA food commodities. By weight flour led the list of commodities furnished the schools amounting to 5,488,550 pounds. In the millions of pounds category the schools used 2,070,704 pounds of butter, 2,115,000 pounds of fresh sweet potatoes (all from N. C. crops), 2,089,970 pounds of tomatoes, 1,313,888 pounds of potatoes, 1,339,200 pounds of cherries, 49,450 pounds of corn, 1,310,940 pounds of process cheese, 1,383,000 pounds of corn meal, 1,664,372 pounds of fresh winter pears, 1,134,283 pounds of ground beef, and 1,650,275 pounds of turkeys.

products and others on the NCDA distribution list originate on North Carolina farms.

All told, some 35 millions of pounds of foods were handled for the schools by the commodity distribution section. Davis estimates that the supplies used by schools generate local purchases to the extent that four dollars are spent for each dollar value of the commodities obtained from the USDA.

Just like drying your hair in the fresh desert air!

The new Schick Le Salon professional hairdryer especially designed for home use (the ultimate in speed and comfort!)

Le Salon dries your hair faster, better than any other dryer you've ever used. Its soft, zephyr-like air is so gentle you never need a net or ear pads, and it leaves your hair soft and easy to manage. And since Le Salon doesn't bake your hair with oven-like heat it won't ever change the color of bleached or tinted hair. It's extra quiet, too, and its large adjustable hood accommodates any hair style. Selective temperature control offers you a choice of cool, medium, warm or hot. It rolls easily on nylon wheels for perfect portability and stores anywhere in the smallest space.

American Home Week Being Observed By Women's Clubs

Clubwomen of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs are observing American Home Week, November 24-30. The purpose of this observance is to point up the importance of the home to the American way of life.

Local clubs marked the observance in cooperation with other groups of the community with special programs, home life exhibits in schools, churches and libraries. Ministers were asked to use the home and family as a basis for sermons, and mayors to proclaim the week. Individual clubwomen and their families marked the week with family reunions, sharing the Thanksgiving spirit with foreign students from nearby colleges, underprivileged, handicapped, and lonely senior citizens. Special emphasis on families visiting nearby historical points of interest was a part of the Federation's emphasis on enjoying "North Carolina Heritage with Your Family."

Mrs. D. O. Arnold, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs said, "If liberty is the touchstone of our society, the American Home must be the pivot of our civilization. If a challenge must be recognized before it can be met,

Mrs. Melchor Hostess To Auxiliary Unit

Mrs. Dale Melchor was hostess to the Auxiliary of Gresham Park, at her home on the River Road Tuesday night, November 19, at 7:30 o'clock.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. R. M. Bennett. The preamble was repeated also the pledge to the flag, followed by the singing of the Star-Spangled Banner.

During the business session, members who had not contributed to the gift shop for the VA Hospital were given a chance to do so. Thirty-two dollars was given by members, which the auxiliary will send to the chairman of the VA Hospital to buy gifts for the boys so they may send Christmas gifts to their families.

On December 13 the Auxiliary members will go to the Salisbury VA Hospital to help boys to select and wrap gifts.

Those attending the meeting were Mesdames Effie Lee Marrow, Edith Blackwelder, Annie Baxter, Gertrude Melchor, Dottie Siller, Lottie Malcom, Virginia Caldwell, Delia Shook, Edna Neal, Flora Saffit, Elizabeth Gabriel, Joleen Brown, Pauline Plyler, Alie Williams, Elizabeth Edwards, Rattie Denny, Mae Bennett, Irene Furr, Nell Winfield, and Miss Myrtle Melchor, Rachel McKey, Kim Brown, Sandy Brown, Ann Gabriel, Rebecca Gabriel, Gloria Melchor, and Camille Melchor.

The hostess assisted by several ladies, served delicious pie and coffee.

The meeting adjourned by all repeating the benediction.

The unit will meet in December with Mrs. Hugh Saffit in her home with Mrs. Lena Moore and Miss Myrtle Melchor as joint hostesses.

Miss Patterson Honored At Bridal Shower

Entertaining in the Fellowship Hall of the Prospect Presbyterian Church, Mesdames Claud Nantz, L. W. Lowrance, B. R. Carrigan, Frank Alexander, C. F. Linker, Thad Linker, R. C. Powers, Harry Carrigan, J. C. Linker, Kenneth Lowrance, Ray Fries, and Misses Donna Poston, Judy Stonestreet, Sharon Linker, and Mary Lowrance honored Miss Lynn Patterson at a bridal shower. The courtesy was held Thursday evening, November 21.

Brass appointments were used throughout the hall and the refreshment table was appointed with an arrangement of bronze mums in a brass bowl and flanked on either side with green tapers in brass candleholders. A similar arrangement was used on the mantel and the gift table.

The hostesses presented to the bride-elect a corsage of yellow mums which complimented her suit of black brocade.

Entertainment for the evening consisted of each married guest telling how she met her husband. Delightful cake squares, decorated with yellow roses, mints, and berries, were served. Mrs. Harry Carrigan presided at the punch bowl.

Many lovely and useful gifts were presented to the honoree by the 60 guests and the hostesses' gift was a handsome white chenille bedspread.

Mazeppa HDC Elects Officers

The Mazeppa Home Demonstration Club met on Tuesday, November 19, at 2:30 p. m. at Triplet Social Hall.

After the singing of "Swing The Shining Cycle," the devotion was given by Mrs. Charles Pierce. Twenty-two members answered the roll call. Mrs. Bill Davis was a visitor.

The following officers were elected: president, Mrs. Charles Pierce; vice-president, Mrs. Marvin Davis; secretary, Mrs. John Sherrill; and treasurer, Mrs. Roy Beaver.

Leaders reports were given by Mrs. A. L. McConnell, housing and furnishings; and Mrs. Johnny McConnell, crafts.

Mrs. McConnell showed a shoe which she covered and a bag which she made from a box and covered with fabric to match the shoes.

Mrs. Elmer London, community service leader, also gave a report.

Mrs. Don Matthews of the Oak Ridge Home Demonstration Club assisted Mrs. George Benfield in giving the demonstration, "Decorative Trims." They displayed a number of articles which had been made by several of the members.

New Junior Leader Appointed In NCFWC

Mrs. James M. Harper, Jr., president of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs, Inc., announced the appointment of Mrs. A. G. Hutton, Jr. of Wilmington to fill the unexpired term of Third Vice-president and Director of Junior Clubs.

As vice-president Mrs. Hutton will serve NCFWC on the Board of Directors and Executive Committee, representing almost 4,000 Junior club-women in North Carolina.

She has served as State Junior Editor of the Clubwoman, Junior Secretary, assistant Junior Director, Historian and as Junior Chairman of the Community Affairs Department. A past president of the North Carolina Junior Sorority, Mrs. Hutton is also active in Wilmington's PTA, Scouts, garden club and church work.

Mrs. Hutton and her husband, who is a civil engineer, are the parents of four children, Ramona 13, Debra 10, Cray 6, and Renee 1 year old.

State wide Junior projects include the Children's Home Society of North Carolina in Greensboro, Children's Clothing Closet, and assistance to the Training Schools at Caswell, Murdock, and Western Carolina. Mrs. Hutton will also coordinate the programs of the 97 Junior Clubs in the state as they work with Women's Clubs in North Carolina and across the nation in the departments of Fine Arts, Education, Conservation, Home Life, International Affairs and Public Affairs.

Mrs. Harper said in her announcement, "We are very fortunate to have such an outstanding young woman to lead the fine work of the Junior of North Carolina. We are particularly proud of the fine way in which Juniors are participating in the programs to 'Strengthen the Arm of Liberty' and promote an appreciation for 'Our Heritage.'"

Clubwomen Schedule Crafts Exhibits

Mrs. Leif Valand of Raleigh, crafts chairman of the North Carolina Federation of Women's Clubs, Inc., announced this week the State Craft Exhibit to be held at the annual convention in Greensboro April 28, 29 and 30. District Exhibits will be held in each of the sixteen districts prior to March 31st and winning entries will be on display in Greensboro. "We have already had reports of the crafts as clubwomen have revived a great enthusiasm in the home and the community for many of the old as well as the new crafts forms," she said. Exhibits planned for district and state displays include ceramics, metal craft, textiles, weaving, woodwork, jewelry, lapidary, basketry, mosaics, decoupage, and many others. Early American crafts are among some of the more popular as the clubs have studied and worked with local and state observances of the Tercentenary Celebration in North Carolina. Mrs. Valand said, "We look forward to a fine exhibit as the clubwomen participate in this creative program of the State Federation. We hope all clubs will have entries in the district events as we work to promote the crafts program along with our cultural work in all of the Arts."

ITALIAN SCHOOL FINDS BOYS CAN LEARN WHILE SNOOZING

A "study while you snooze" experiment on schoolboys in Bergamo, Italy, has proved so successful that it will be expanded when school reopens in October.

The experiment was devised last spring by Mario Bellini, who runs a clinic of psychosomatic medicine in Milan, and tried on 30 teen-age boys. Tape recorders on each boy's desk played first a recording of Bellini's voice which put them to sleep by hypnosis. Next a teacher's voice gave a lecture on a passage of poetry. Then a recording of Bellini's voice awakened the boys.

Each boy, the bright and the slow alike, was able afterward to recite the poem from memory and to explain its meaning. The directors of the school where the experiment was conducted were so pleased they decided to try the method on other subjects later.

Policeman Takes Kin For Robbery

A drama of 3 brothers arrested by a fourth played its last act in district court at Brighton, Colo. Francis and Peter Hoffman, 20-year-old twins of Commerce City, were placed on probation for robbing an automobile shop. Their brother, Virgil, 28, was sentenced to a term in prison when convicted of the same burglary.

The 3 were arrested by Gilbert R. Hoffman, 21, a Commerce City policeman, who said, "They were my brothers, but I knew what the law said had to be done, and I did it."

Lady President Idea Unpopular

Can Mrs. Smith Win GOP Presidential Nomination?

THE PEOPLE SPEAK:

At the age of 65, when the actions of most women are beyond scrutiny or interest, everything that Margaret Chase Smith does has become suddenly important.

"That nice Republican lady senator from Maine" recently hinted that she might seek the GOP presidential nomination.

A lady president?

Perish the thought, most men instinctively react, but the idea is causing delicious little tingles around the office of Mrs. Smith.

It's also causing tingles of alarm elsewhere.

Does Sen. Margaret Chase Smith have a chance of moving into the White House?

The Gallup Poll indicates that voters are not ready to accept a woman president—but the Gallup Poll has been wrong in the past!

In view of all this, the Mooresville Tribune's roving reporter asked the following question this week as he went about the task of preparing one of the paper's weekly features—The People Speak:

What are the chances of Sen. Margaret Chase Smith winning the Republican nomination for President?

The answers of the four on-the-streets question, in full, were as follows:

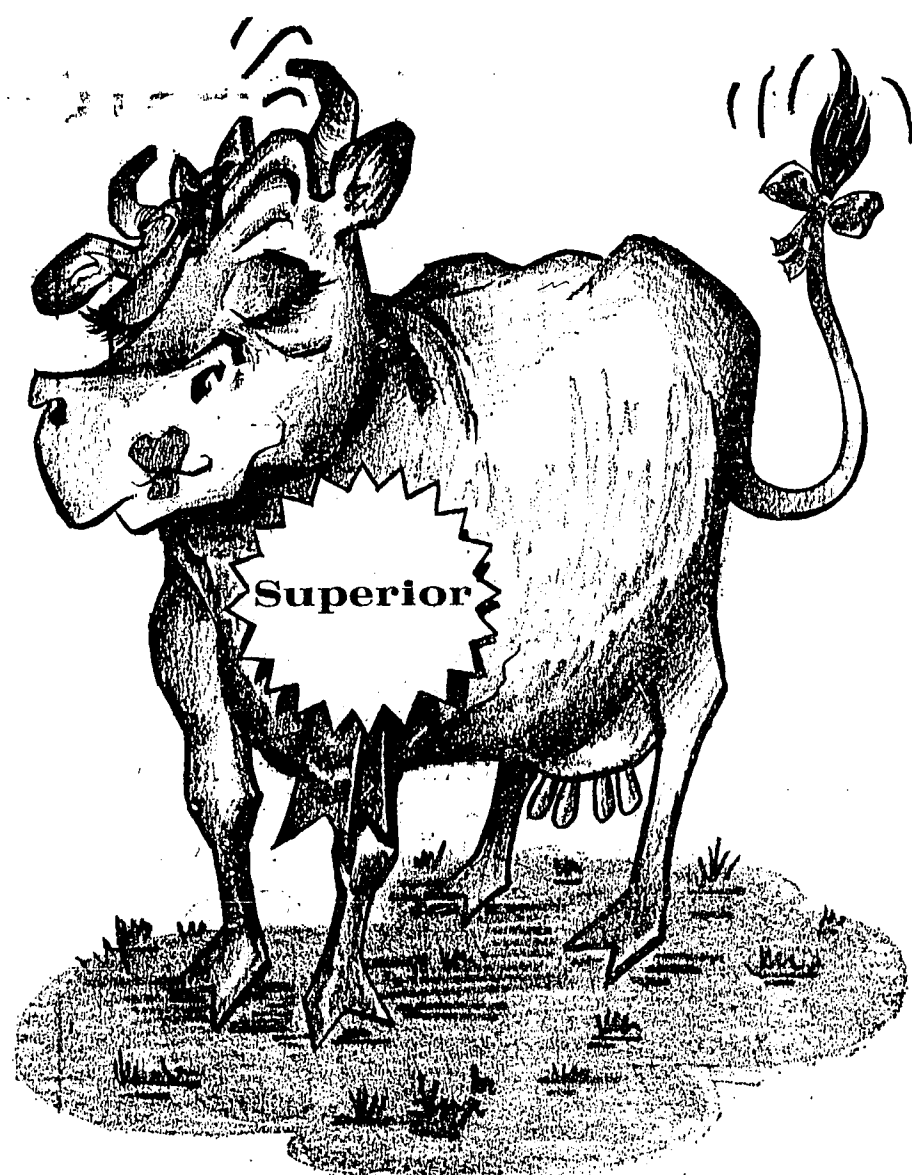

R. B. FISHER, Cascade Weaving Company employee, route 2: "It's possible but I don't think it will happen. At least, I don't believe the lady will win the GOP presidential nomination."

MRS. CHARLES SAPP, homemaker, 819 McLean street: "I don't see anything wrong with the idea but I don't think she has a chance."

MRS. H. C. METZ, homemaker, 366 West Center avenue: "I don't think Sen. Margaret Chase Smith has a chance of winning the Republican nomination for President. We are just not ready for a woman President."

JERRY ROGERS, mechanic, route 4: "I think that if she really tries she could be nominated for President on the Republican ticket. There's always room for more women in politics. It wouldn't hurt a bit to have a lady President."

SOIL AND WATER CONSERVATION

By W. M. BLAND
Work Unit Conservationist

Community development takes many forms, and sometimes what seems to be completely unrelated activities become supplements to each other.

Fire protection and flood prevention—both vital to community welfare—would ordinarily have little ground for common action. Yet these activities, begun independently in the late 1950's, merged in the early 1960's on common ground—water.

Water ski shows in 1962 and 1963 have netted more than $1,100 to support the Walnut Cove, North Carolina, Volunteer Fire Department. Skiers used 37 acres of water impounded by the first of 13 flood detention reservoirs to be built on the Town Fork Creek watershed in Stokes and Forsyth counties.

The seven land owners on which the reservoir is located granted the use of the site for the show. Department members hired professional water ski performers, and set up stands where the Department's Auxiliary sold refreshments. More than 1,100 attended the show last year, but unseasonably hot weather cut the crowd to 800 this year. Adults paid $1 each and children were admitted free. Net profit to date is about $1,100.

The money has helped to pay for a new fire truck for the rural division of the volunteer fire department. As a result, fire insurance rates were reduced an average of 20 per cent in rural areas within a three-mile radius of the fire station. This includes about 16,000 acres in the 84,521-acre Town Fork Creek watershed. The volunteer fire department gives services beyond this limit.

Landowners give easements to permit the local watershed organization to build flood retaining reservoirs on their properties. Technical assistance and construction costs for flood prevention measures are borne by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service. Water in the space reserved for catchment of sediment is incidental to flood prevention, and therefore it is available for other uses at the will of the landowners.

Fred C. Cooke, whose address is Rural Hall, N. C., is one of the landowners who permitted the fire department to use the reservoir. He has also developed a picnic area, beach, and boat dock to add to the value of the lake for recreational purposes.

"As a result, our family spent the summer together this year," he said. "Our two teen-age children both said that this was the best summer we have spent. We had all the pleasures of a resort area right at home, and enjoyed them more than ever."

In a flood detention reservoir the empty "pool" which catches flood water when storms come is much larger than the pools holding water. The total capacity of the 13 watershed reservoirs will be 22,400 acre-feet with 80 per cent reserved for flood storage. The remainder, which is equal to a 1,000-acre reservoir averaging 4.5 feet in depth, may catch water to be used for many purposes—such as for the ski show or other recreation.

The department has 96,100 employees. About 12,000 work in Washington and its environs. The rest are scattered among the offices and agencies in the department's field offices in 100 countries and in some foreign nations.

The department's headquarters in Washington contains a total of 4,844 rooms and 8 miles of corridors.

Mt. Mourne Items Of Interest

By MISS EILEEN DISHAM

—Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John William Caldwell and family were Mr. and Mrs. Bradley Hale and Dorna of Corbitts and Mrs. A. H. McAllister, Jr. of Davidson.

—The Fair View Methodist choir sang at the Bethel Methodist Church in Terrell last Sunday evening.

—Mr. and Mrs. Craig Snead of Coolemans gave the birth of a daughter, Sarah Ann, on Friday, November 22, 1963. Mrs. Snead is the daughter of Mrs. John Christie and the late Mr. Christie.

—Mrs. B. S. Templeton was hostess to the Mount Mourne Home Demonstration Club on November 21, at 2 o'clock, at the Templeton home.

Miss Kelly, presided and gave the devotional thought.

Special guests were Mrs. Willis Teeter, Iredell County Home Demonstration Club Council president, and Mrs. D. F. Mathew, clothing leader of the Oakridge Club.

Mrs. Teeter gave the group Christmas suggestions gathered from visitations to various clubs in the county.

Miss Plato Kelly gave a demonstration on "Making Christmas Devotions."

Mrs. Matthews then gave a demonstration on "Decorative Trim On Clothing." Her son, Donnie, was also present and modeled a red wool vest made by his mother.

The hostess then served delicious refreshments to those present.

Present were: Mrs. Herman Holt, Mrs. Moore Templeton, Miss Sue Templeton, Mrs. Moore Childwell, Mrs. C. F. Marlow, Mrs. Ralph Howard, Mrs. Walter Caldwell, Mrs. Moore Jones, Mrs. Thomas Dishman, Mrs. Clyde Sherill, Miss Plato Kelly, Mrs. Bruce

Templeton, Mrs. Willis Teeter, Mrs. D. F. Matthews, and Donnie.

For the last 6 years, Gene Kelly, 24, has spent most of his waking hours aboard his bicycle, usually far away from his home in Laredo, Texas. He's happy with a life of wandering.

On his travels he has visited all the states except Alaska and Hawaii and has ridden in Canada and Mexico. His food comes from fishing and hunting and from doing odd jobs in restaurants.

Kelly said that when he has seen all of the country he wishes he will return to the family ranch.

William F. Marshall, Walnut Cove, chairman of the Town Fork Creek Watershed Association, points out that the watershed program includes many items other than dams and channel improvement. Conservation measures on upland lands, pastures, woodlands, and roadsides are needed to make the dams and channel work effective, he said. At the same time this work provides benefits to the owners and to the general public. These benefits are in addition to the $144,000 in annual benefits calculated for the 3,800 acres subject to flooding.

"We like to point out how the water in a flood detention reservoir was used by the fire department to raise funds for equipment which in turn gives us additional fire protection and lower fire insurance rates," Marshall said.

"We can call these incidental benefits as far as the watershed project is concerned, but they certainly are not accidental benefits. They are the principal goals of another group of our citizens who also are working for community improvement."

"The multiple efforts of many groups, and the multiple benefits, represent what the U. S. Department of Agriculture calls 'Rural Areas Development,' for forward-looking communities," Marshall concluded.

It is the wedding of such diverse activities as fire protection and flood prevention in a common cause that makes the Walnut Cove story a little more than newsworthy.

Fewer Farmers;
More Officials

The number of farms and farm-ers in the United States keeps declining year after year, but the bureaucracy that has grown up in Washington around the Department of Agriculture never stops growing.

The department has 96,100 employees. About 12,000 work in Washington and its environs. The rest are scattered among the offices and agencies in the department's field offices in 100 countries and in some foreign nations.

The department's headquarters in Washington contains a total of 4,844 rooms and 8 miles of corridors.

Thanksgiving Day brings us a special opportunity for worship and prayer. Isn't this why we want to be in Church with our family? Here we discover the secret of thanksgiving.

HARVEST FESTIVAL QUEEN—Carol Skeen, 18-year-old freshman in the Lowrance Hospital School of Nursing, was chosen queen of the school's harvest festival Monday night. Miss Skeen, who is from Denton, is crowned by Gayle James, the reigning Miss Mooresville. At left is Brenda Mauney, runnerup in the harvest queen contest. Miss James also is a student nurse. The festival, held in the nurses home, featured entertainment by the students, an assortment of door prizes and a variety of foods. All earnings from the event each year go into nursing school projects.

ORIGINAL VIRGINIA HORRIFIED Zip Code For Santa Claus?

CHATHAM, N. Y.—"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus," but this year he may not answer your Christmas letter—unless you know his zip code number.

Zip code for Santa Claus? "What a ridiculous idea!" said Mrs. Virginia Douglas, the 74-year-old grandmother who was the original Santa Claus girl.

Mrs. Douglas was 8-year-old Virginia O'Hanlon when she wrote New York Sun editor Francis Church in 1897: "Some of my friends say there is no Santa Claus. Please tell me the truth."

Church in his famous Christmas editorial replied: "He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist. How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus."

Mrs. Douglas said today she was shocked that the U. S. Post Office could demand not one, but two Zip Code numbers on letters written to Santa Claus at the North Pole.

The letter writer not only has to know Santa's number but also his own—which may be even more difficult to remember.

The general New York City Post Office announced recently that children writing to Santa must know the zip code for the North Pole—99701—and their own neighborhood zip codes in order to receive an answer.

"The North Pole has been found for generations without a zip code," Mrs. Douglas said. "Mr. Church wouldn't approve of such a thing (the zip code)."

"It's such a heart-warming feeling to hear from Santa Claus," said Mrs. Douglas. "What will children think if he doesn't answer? It will only fortify disbelief in him."

"I realize they (the post office) have a difficult job, but some things should be beyond impersonal automation," said the retired New York City public school teacher.

"What a thing to do," she said. "Those sincere letters will probably end up in the dead letter office. I would have felt terrible if my letter had not been answered."

Mrs. Douglas now lives in this Columbia County village with her daughter who has seven children. A spokesman for New York Postmaster Robert K. Christenberry explained that the requirement for zip codes on letters to Santa was part of an educational campaign to get the public to make more general use of the five digit codes. The spokesman said the same sort of thing was going on all over the country.

Mooresville Postmaster Launches 'Mail Early For Christmas' Push

Mooresville Postmaster Ben S. Houston today urged every one's cooperation in the annual "Mail Early For Christmas" campaign. He said that there will probably be an all-time record for mailing of Christmas cards and gifts.

Houston also listed several things which should be checked before gifts or cards are mailed. First, he said to make sure that each address is complete with full name, street and number, city, state and zone or ZIP Code number.

He also urged everyone to get the gift packages, including heavy wrapping paper, corrugated cartons, strong cord and paper adhesive tape.

The postmaster also stated that postage stamps should be purchased now.

Houston stated that free labels are available at the post office for mail on cards after they are sorted into two groups, those for local delivery and those for out-of-town delivery. He said that the labels will be a tremendous help for the workers at the post office.

The postmaster especially requested that everyone schedule Christmas mailings so that all cards and gift packages going to the most distant points are mailed by December 10. Those for local destinations should be mailed at least a week before Christmas.

By Mrs. FLORENCE BROWN

—We didn't think it could happen again in the United States of America, but it did. For the fourth time we have lost our president by the assassin's bullet.

Mr. Kennedy was the fourth president to be killed while in office. Abraham Lincoln was shot by John Wilkes Booth April 14, 1865. July 2, 1881 James A. Garfield was shot by Charles J. Guiteau. September 6, 1901 William McKinley was assassinated by Leon Czolgoz, a Polish anarchist. We, the citizens of these United States, are ashamed and humiliated that such a tragic thing could happen in Christian America.

What will the missionaries tell the people among whom they work?

What can we do about it? Try our best to control our own emotions, so that hatred and ill will cannot grow within them. Read the books of first, second and third John over and over again, and make its teaching the rule of our lives.

Let us offer deep sympathy to Mrs. Kennedy and her children and to the other members of the Kennedy family. We trust that each of us will have the faith and hope that four-year-old Sherry Lynn Church expressed when she said: "Mr. Kennedy is supposed to be dead down here, but he is alive with Jesus in heaven."

—The Methodist Men's Club will meet Sunday morning in the Fellowship Building of Jones Memorial Church. Lawrence Nesbit, president, will preside.

—The Lorena Kelly Bible class will meet in the Fellowship Building of Jones Memorial Church on Tuesday night, December 3, at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Matt Mabe will preside and Mrs. Cecil Settemyere will have charge of the devotions.

—Mrs. J. E. Callaway desires to express her appreciation to members of the Junior M.Y.F. of Jones Memorial Church Sunday for the first time and about three months. He has been ill.

—Mrs. J. E. Callaway was honored with a birthday dinner Sunday at the home of his daughters, Misses Eunice and Polly Alberty, in Greensboro.

—The children of Mrs. James Newcomb honored her with a birthday dinner Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Jim Phillips. Delicious refreshments, including a birthday cake made by Mrs. Jimmy Newcomb, were enjoyed by the following: Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Newcomb and sons, Dale and Dean, of Charlotte, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Newcomb of Mount Mourne, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Phillips and son, Mitchell, and Mr. James Newcomb of Mooresville. Mrs. Newcomb received many beautiful gifts.

—Mrs. O. L. Gunnell was honored at a birthday dinner at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Lambert, Sunday.

A delicious dinner was served at the noon hour and the honoree received many lovely gifts.

Ford's Theater To Be Restored As A Memorial

Historic old Ford's Theater in Washington, when President Abraham Lincoln was shot by John Wilkes Booth, is to be restored as a national memorial. The work, which will cost $2,000,000, will be done by the National Park Service.

It is hoped to dedicate the theater in April, 1965.

The project of restoring the theater to its original appearance is of challenging proportions. The property has been a museum since 1932, but the seats, the stage, and everything else identifying the building as a theater were removed, and the area was divided into offices. Only the exterior remained virtually unchanged.

In the restoration process every piece of the old theater and its furnishings will have to be duplicated by craftsmen using old photographs and records.

Chery II Nova 4-Door Sedan

Now—'64 Chevy II . . .

with a V8 engine

Now you see it. Now you don't. When a Chevy II does that kind of disappearing act you know without looking twice: It's a '64 with a V8 engine.

That's right. A full-grown 195-hp Turbo-Fire V8. It's available for the first time this year along with a choice of three other engines—the standard 4 (in 100 Series sedans), the standard 6 and a new 155-hp 6. (And all of them maintain their high spirits on modest amounts of regular gasoline.)

But the changes aren't confined to what happens when you slip into the driver's seat. There are new styling features like the tasteful grille adjusting and trim accents, for instance. And the larger self-adjusting brakes that further reduce upkeep on a car that already has a reputation of coming out as close to perpetual motion as anything on four wheels can get.

The place to get the full details on the '64 is your Chevrolet dealer's. And after you've got them, we hope you'll attend to one further detail yourself. Drive it.

Helping The Alcoholic And His Family by Thomas J. Ship, In the "Successful Pastoral Counseling Series," this describes the conditions, characteristics and motivations of the alcoholic, and shows how to work with his family. Illustrated with case studies.

The Yankee Rascals by Carter A. Vaughan. Reading like the plot of a movie spectacular, this fast-paced historical novel follows the derring-dos of a Yankee army officer during the American Revolution.

The Beadle by Pauline Smith. A somber, moving story, set among the farm folk of South Africa, about Andrina du Toit, beautiful, young, shy, selfless; and about the two aunts who have raised her, one proud and rigid, the other aware that love is often touched with sorrow; and about the beadle who lives with them and broodingly watches over Andrina. How they are all affected when Andrina bears the child of an Englishman whom she loved, but who abandoned her, is told with tenderness by the author of The Little Karoo.

Image Of Truth by Suzanne Somers. Story of a girl reporter-photographer on a small-town California newspaper who gets her big chance for success on a New York magazine, then, on an assignment in her home town, falls in love and has to face the hard choice of love and career.

Wait For Love by Arlene Hale. Marcia Jordan throws herself into her work after being jilted by a wealthy local playboy, determined to make her career service the best in town — and to have nothing further to do with any notions of love.

The Interpreter's Dictionary Of The Bible, ed. by George Arthur Buttrick et al. A comprehensive, four volume illustrated encyclopedia defining and explaining every person and place named in the Bible or Apocrypha, every plant, animal and mineral, every object used in daily life, every biblical doctrine and theological concept — more than 7500 entries, with over 1000 illustrations, 32 pages in full color, and 24 pages of full-color maps.

Marry In haste by Frances Coleman. When Jimmy learns that Chuck Carter had married her because her obvious adoration bothered his ego, she tries to make a go of their marriage anyway. But then Chuck strikes it rich with an oil lease in Oklahoma, and with a determined playboy on her hands, the Ginny sees her marriage heading for disaster.

Alone No Longer: The Story of a Man Who Refused to Be One of the Living Dead by Stanley Stein, with Lawrence G. Blochman. Thirty years ago, Stanley Stein was sent to the U. S. Public Health Service Hospital at Carville, Louisiana, as a victim of leprosy — confined behind barbed wire, deprived of his vote, cut off from communication with the outside world.

Wait For Love by Arlene Hale. Marcia Jordan throws herself into her work after being jilted by a wealthy local playboy, determined to make her career service the best in town — and to have nothing further to do with any notions of love.

Children Of Certain Wartime Vets May Get Scholarships

Applications may now be submitted by children of certain wartime veterans for scholarships given each year by the State of North Carolina, according to J. Pierce Vanfily, Iredell County Veterans Service officer.

These scholarships, awarded through the North Carolina Veterans' Commission, consist of free tuition, room, and a reasonable board allowance for one child in a national institution, and such other items and institutional services as are embraced within the scope of institutional matriculation fees and other special fees and charges required to be paid as a condition to remain in said institution and pursue the course of study selected.

A scholarship granted shall not extend for a longer period than four academic years, but need not be consecutive. A limited number of scholarships are awarded each year.

Vanfily said that classes of children eligible for this scholarship are children whose fathers were killed in action or died as a direct result of injuries, wounds, or other illnesses contracted during service in the armed forces, or whose fathers have a 100 per cent service connected rating; a limited number of children of veterans with disability of 30 per cent or more; a certain number of veterans with fee and other special fees and charges required to be paid as a condition to remain in said institution and pursue the course of study selected.

A scholarship granted shall not extend for a longer period than four academic years, but need not be consecutive. A limited number of scholarships are awarded each year.

For more specific information, contact the Iredell County Veterans Service officer, located in the Municipal Building, Mooresville, or Robert F. Currence, district officer, North Carolina Veterans Commission, 202 Frye Building, Hickory, North Carolina.

Laugh And Learn

After his eighteenth child was born, the farmer was very unhappy. While drinking with his friends, he promised that if he had another child he would hang himself because he found it impossible to support the eighteen he had.

Sure enough, he became a father for the nineteenth time, and his friends came over to remind him of his promise. So he got himself a rope and went into the barn, while his friends waited outside. In five minutes he came out of the barn with the rope in his hand.

"What's the matter? We thought you were going to hang yourself?"

"Well boys, I'll tell you. I had the rope around my neck and was just ready to jump when all of a sudden it occurred to me that I might be hanging an innocent man."

"Could you," the specialist asked, "pay for an operation if I found one was necessary?"

"Would you," countered the patient, "find one necessary if I couldn't pay for it?"

The glib insurance agent had just signed the trucker on the dotted line.

"Now that amounts to a premium of $6.00 a month on a straight life. That's what you wanted, wasn't it?"

"Well," came the wistful reply. "Could I fool around a little on Saturday nights?"

"He's a psycho-ceramic," "What's that?"

"A crackpot."

Things certainly have been buzzing at MHS. Most of the seniors were measured for caps and gowns Monday and Tuesday. The seniors received their pictures Tuesday. Wednesday morning was College Day. Many colleges sent a representative to talk to the students about the college of the student's choice.

Wednesday afternoon there was an assembly. New members of the Beta Club were inducted. They are as follows:

Becky Wylie
Susan Honeycutt
Kay Cook
Scott Suttles
Jeanie Torrence
Janice Mills
Janet Johnson
Francis Criss
Beverly Barnett
David Lowrance
Judy Lawson
Christine Templeton
Pamela Reed Brown
Steve Chappell

Annual pictures were taken Thursday and Friday.

Then Friday afternoon, everyone was shocked to hear of the death of President John Kennedy. I think that everyone was stunned. No one could do anything but listen to the P. A. system which was connected to a radio. No one could be pulled away from their seats. Let us all pray by the help of God, our nation will live through this crisis.

Ah-h-hh-Choo!

With a Quick-Recovery Electric Water Heater you don't "Catch Cold" when you turn on the Hot!

What's so special about this kind of heater? Simply that it's quick-recovery and flameless electric! And that it works six times faster than standard models—replacing hot water about as fast as you normally use it.

With a modern electric water heater, you can serve up billows of hot water at the turn of a tap. Assures plenty of hot water for baths, laundry and dishes. So go ahead . . . Indulge yourself! Enjoy hot water, as much and as often as you want. The investment is modest. So is the cost per gallon of hot water. See the display of new quick-recovery flameless electric water heaters at your favorite electric appliance dealer, plumber or at Duke Power now.

AS TRADITIONAL AS PUMPKIN PIE

Car-Looking—It's That Time Again

Autumn is a season full of traditions! It's the season of turning leaves, pumpkins, Thanksgiving, homecomings, football . . .

It's also the season for new car-lookings. The autumn unveiling has become as traditional as pumpkin pie, Halloween, or Thanksgiving turkey.

Recently, all over America, the new ones for '64 were unwrapped as people from two to 96 watched. Red ones, blue ones, white ones, two-toned models, full-power, two-barrel, four-barrel, kick-start, automatic, compact, luxury, sports, wide-track, among other assorted adjectives . . . In Mooreville, onlookers were like people all over America: they came, they saw, they commented, whether they came to buy or not! Everybody circled the cars looking and talking, invariably pausing occasionally to kick a tire. A new car is just no good if the tires don't get kicked at least once and stand up under it—sort of an American custom, you know.

"I'll bet that car will do 500 miles an hour," one particularly enthusiastic onlooker remarked after looking at a long sleek new model for about five minutes.

"Yeah, just look at that engine, will you?" a man said to no one in particular.

"Umm, a T-shirt. Doesn't that beat all?" another remarked.

"Boy, I bet you could sleep in those seats. Just look how soft they are."

"I don't care, if we can't afford it, I've got to have that car," one youngster told her husband.

He just shook his head.

"I think all new cars are ugly for the first six months or so until you get used to them," another man allowed. "Then they're suddenly beautiful."

"I really like the grill this year."

"Yeah, that's nice. But the changes to the tail-lights look good, too."

"I just can't afford to trade this year, that's all there is to it."

"Now let's see, financed for two years that will run . . ."

"They all look good, but I believe I prefer this one."

"All the sports models look good against you will apply to the Court for the relief sought."

Thanksgiving Is Where The Thankful Find It

The Eye Opener is a brightly written, generally fascinating newspaper. In it, humor abounds; news and editorial content is neatly balanced. Its circulation is confined to a rather small area, though, because it is the voice of the Oklahoma State Penitentiary.

The staff of the Eye Opener hungers for communication with what the editor refers to, in caps, as the Freeworld. Years ago, the convicts asked to exchange papers with us. We were pleased to, and we assumed the prisoners had asked dozens, perhaps hundreds of other newspapers to do the same. In any event, we have read the Eye Opener with some eye-opening results through the years.

The Eye Opener's editorial philosophy is optimism, because there simply isn't room for more pessimism. As the editor noted recently, a convict should relish the realization that things have got to get better, because they can't get any worse. One guest columnist declared that the great ambition in his life was to become an ex-convict.

All this rambling brings us to an editorial in the current issue of the Eye Opener. It is entitled "Thanksgiving," and it makes an off-made point. Here are a few excerpts:

"The month of November is the time for all of us to give thanks for what we have. Granted that a convict has very little to be grateful about, but there are some things for which we should be thankful."

"Those of us who are blessed with good health have something a lot of people are without. If our families are well and happy and love us—what more could we ask? This year, there remain millions in the world who are unclothed and unfed. This is something a convict doesn't have to worry about.

"No matter how bad off you are, there is always someone worse off."

This paper is dated Thanksgiving Day. Of course, you received it Wednesday, most of you, at a time when you are preparing for what we welcome as a day off from work. If the Oklahoma State Penitentiary inmates can get glowing hope in Thanksgiving, think of reasons for a humble, solemn observance of the occasion in Mooreville. Take stock of your place in the Freeworld.

Come to think of it, Freeworld deserves to be capitalized. What a narrow line between the restrictions of prison walls and the Iron Curtain. We would prefer a nice, clean prison with plenty of books to read and three squares.

We might get a bit mushy and consider all the sacrifices that have gone into establishing and maintaining our Free world.

We should, by all means, make every effort to combat what seems to be the prevailing theory: everything is going so well, things are bound to get worse. Instead, we should dedicate ourselves to the ideals that produced the first Thanksgiving.

We must apply ourselves to the proposition that the Freeworld is worth whatever it costs. We can do no less, if Thanksgiving is not to become a hollow mockery.

Parson Jones' Pulpit

DEAR MR. PUBLISHER:

I reckon you been reading about Christine Keyler lately. She shore stirred up a stunk in the whoopie across the waters. It spelled so strong the scent has come all the way over here. That gals got an awful pretty name to be tacked on to a hussy. Use to be years ago a name meant something. Now, you take the name Christine—it means Christian. Ain't it a shame to give a name like that to a shrew-devil. I got a good name for her, but you wouldn't print it if it wrote it.

The name I got in mind means something, come it fits. She ain't the only one that got misnamed. You take that Elizabeth Taylor. Her name means "God's Promise." Now if she's "God's Promise" I'm a monkey's uncle. She trots after everything that comes along. Some body said she had a set a towels marked "Her's" and "Next."

Yes sir, things shore has changed. Use to be it was a disgrace to be a hussy. Now-a-days they give 'em a movie contract. In the Good Book it tells about a woman who had been married 5 times and was living with a felts that wasn't either one of the five. She was looked down on.

Mr. Publisher, she was just born too soon. Now-a-days they would give her a screen test and put her in the movies. Folks would crowd around her to get her autograph. Have you noticed, Sir, that all the movies are about either "nuts" or "hussies"?

Course, if Christine don't make the movies they can always use her in these naked women magazines. There seems to be a big demand for these right now. I was over to see Rufe the other day, and I saw one of these books laying on the television set. He swore the situation wasn't as bad as it looked cause his 14 year old boy had bought it, not him. That was awful comforting to hear.

Mr. Publisher, women folks have come a long way since they were allowed to vote—all the way from being a man in a cotton dress to sex toys. That's what I call progress! Use to be men looked for a woman's legs, and I saw one of these books laying on the television set. He swore the situation wasn't as bad as it looked cause his 14 year old boy had bought it, not him. That was awful comforting to hear.

There's one place in the Good Book where it says folks oughta be able to blush. It seems to me we done lost our blusher. Don't nothing bother us anymore, so I reckon we'll just go on giving people Christian names and let 'em act like the devil.

I often wondered why they invented rouge for women's faces. Now I know. I think the men folks need a little too. Let's at least look like we're blushing.

See you?

Yours Truly,
Parson Jones

OUR COMMUNITY

1954

IN OTHER YEARS

George W. Randall and C. V. Henkel, Jr. have announced that they will be candidates for reelection to the House and Senate, respectively, of the North Carolina Legislature. Randall, a Mooreville resident, and Henkel, resident of north Iredell, both served their first term at the last session of the Legislature.

Cliff Ingram has announced the sale of Ingram's Cleaners to Howard Combs and Carl Robinson, the change in ownership having become effective Sunday, April 17. Under the new setup, the business will be operated as a partnership.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Blackwelder of the Centenary community have been married 47 years. This union has been blessed with 11 children, all of them living. Last Thursday night was the first time in all their 47 years of happy married life that Mr. and Mrs. Blackwelder have spent alone. During the first years of their marriage they lived with a parent and an aunt. "Then," said Mrs. Blackwelder, "there were the children, and it is just happened that in all the 47 years we had never spent a night alone."

On Wednesday evening, April 24, at the War Memorial Building, the local branch of the Duke Power Company celebrated its 25th anniversary at a dinner meeting.

Three of the employees received their 25 year pins at this time—P. V. Fields, branch manager; Roy L. Sherrill, line foreman and Andy Torrence, groundsman. One other employee had previously received his 25 year pin, John P. Sherrill, of Troutman.

James Walter (Bunny) Kinnison, 51, salesman for the 745 Chevrolet Company, died in the Mercy Hospital at Charlotte at 7:15 o'clock last Friday morning. Suffering from a heart ailment for the past seven years, he had been seriously ill for the past month. He entered the hospital on Wednesday.

Last Sunday morning at the close of the worship service at the Second Presbyterian Church, the congregation presented a beautiful silver service to Mrs. L. Young White in recognition of her many years of faithful and efficient service as church pianist and organist.

Sgt. Glenn Beaver, who recently returned to the states after a tour of Army duty in Korea, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Sloan Beaver, at her home on Lawrence street.

Mrs. Robert R. Gabriel entered Charlotte Memorial Hospital Tuesday afternoon for an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Todd Gibson and son, Jimmy, and Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Gibson, Sr., of Mooreville, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Gibson, Jr., of Wake Forest, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Edwards had as their week end guests, Cpl. and Mrs. Lynn S. Edwards and son, Mark, of Columbia, S. C., and Mr. and Mrs. John P. Campbell and daughters, Linda and Donna, of Charlotte.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Morrow and son, Kenneth, Jr., of Danville, Va., were week end guests in the home of Mrs. Morrow's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall F. Crouch.

Mrs. Snowdell T. Davis of Newport News, Va., spent Sunday night with her sister, Mrs. Lester L. Troutman.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Scott, of High Point, spent the Easter week end here, visiting Mrs. Scott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Metz, at their home on West Center avenue.

Dr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Mack and children, of Richmond, Va., were guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mack, during the Easter holidays.

Dr. and Mrs. Chalmers Carr and children, William and Alice, of Kenilworth, N.J., were week end guests with Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Turlington at their home on West Center avenue. Dr. Carr is a nephew of Mrs. Turlington.

SPORTS

Bowman, Boyles' Cage Charges Step Up Pace As Opening Game Is Near

With their opening game still over a week away, the basketball charges of coaches Harlan Bowman and Roy Boyles have really stepped up their pace in the pre-season practice sessions.

On checking over at the local roundball training center, spectators are amazed with the hard work the youngsters are putting forth. Bowman, with his entire starting five returning for this campaign, knows just where he stands in preparing his charges for battle.

Mike Robinson, Tommy Deal, Johnny Barrie, Johnny Cane and Tim Rouse in all probability will form the first five. However, Bowman refuses to name a first line unit as other boys have been showing up well in practice and it is quite possible when the opening Odell rolls around December 6 there could be new faces in the starting unit.

In all, Bowman has 17 boys working out in practice. Meanwhile, Coach Boyles still is searching his talent for a first six to begin the opening game. Graduation took the bulk of his starting talent at forwards, and Joan Miller transferring to Troutman, has the task of getting a completely new crew at the forward positions.

In exchange for Miller, Boyles acquired the services of Sherry Sherrill who was a member of the Troutman team last year and she will be shooting for the Devil next year.

With this new rule, action in a girls game is going on all the time. When the opposition scores the other team takes the ball out of bounds under its own basket. In past years when a team scored the other team got the ball at midcourt and had a chance to score.

Also, this new system permits eight players to be on one end of the court. In the old game there were only six. During last year it appeared the locals were hard pressed to return the ball up court after the other team scored and this will be one of the problems Boyles will have to work out if the locals are to succeed in the coming season.

The schedule follows:

Candidates for the Senior High wrestling team have taken to the mat in rigorous practice for the upcoming grapple schedule.

Coach Perry Pearson, who has the duties of handling the Blue Devil unit during the campaign, has 22 boys on hand in early sessions. Pearson relates, they will provide the depth for a well rounded team. Newsletters to the squad are Mike Thompson, Allen Brawley, Tim Triese, Robert Thompson, George Evans, Randy Nelson, Gary Leazer, Alec Beam, Ray Brannon and Richard Carver.

With only one week of practice gone it would be hard to evaluate the abilities of the squad. However, this could well be the year for the Blue Devils to have a banner season. Only time will tell just how far they will go.

It is expected the locals will be able to send a boy to the mat in all the weight classes. Last year, the Devils lost several matches due to the fact they had to forfeit at least one, and sometimes two, weight classes in their match.

Twenty-two boys are now taking part in the practice with twelve being lettermen. Around these boys, Pearson hopes to build this year's team and should some of the new boys come through, the team will have good depth.

Actually, the regular season is nothing but practice for the tournament which decides the championship team as well as the individual weight champions. Last year the Blue Devils placed fourth in the tournament and won three individual championships. Of these champions, Dewitt Hinson is the only returnee to the team.

Mainstays of the locals' talent will be David Clapham, Hinson, Bobby Ham, Larry Dyeon, William Kelly, Tommy Pennington, Mike Couch, Preston Ingram, Bobby Ingram, David Curtis, Mike Johnston and Jeff Stonestreet. Each of these boys has considerable experience and from all indications they will be a formidable team.

James Walter (Bunny) Kinnison, 51, salesman for the 745 Chevrolet Company, died in the Mercy Hospital at Charlotte at 7:15 o'clock last Friday morning. Suffering from a heart ailment for the past seven years, he had been seriously ill for the past month. He entered the hospital on Wednesday.

Last Sunday morning at the close of the worship service at the Second Presbyterian Church, the congregation presented a beautiful silver service to Mrs. L. Young White in recognition of her many years of faithful and efficient service as church pianist and organist.

Sgt. Glenn Beaver, who recently returned to the states after a tour of Army duty in Korea, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Sloan Beaver, at her home on Lawrence street.

Mrs. Robert R. Gabriel entered Charlotte Memorial Hospital Tuesday afternoon for an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Todd Gibson and son, Jimmy, and Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Gibson, Sr., of Mooreville, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Gibson, Jr., of Wake Forest, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Edwards had as their week end guests, Cpl. and Mrs. Lynn S. Edwards and son, Mark, of Columbia, S. C., and Mr. and Mrs. John P. Campbell and daughters, Linda and Donna, of Charlotte.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Morrow and son, Kenneth, Jr., of Danville, Va., were week end guests in the home of Mrs. Morrow's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall F. Crouch.

Mrs. Snowdell T. Davis of Newport News, Va., spent Sunday night with her sister, Mrs. Lester L. Troutman.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Scott, of High Point, spent the Easter week end here, visiting Mrs. Scott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Metz, at their home on West Center avenue.

Dr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Mack and children, of Richmond, Va., were guests of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mack, during the Easter holidays.

Dr. and Mrs. Chalmers Carr and children, William and Alice, of Kenilworth, N.J., were week end guests with Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Turlington at their home on West Center avenue. Dr. Carr is a nephew of Mrs. Turlington.

Asheboro Wins WNC Grid Title

Coach Lee Stone's Asheboro Blue Comets took all the marbles in Western North Carolina High School Activities Association football with a 21-6 decision over Shelby in the championship game Friday night.

The contest, played on the Comets' home field, had the winners coming back from a 6-0 second period deficit with a touchdown and extra point to go ahead 7-6 at the half.

In the final two quarters, Asheboro took command of the game completely, adding touchdowns in each of the last two chapters to pick up its first championship in three attempts.

Previously Asheboro had made the trip to the finals three straight times only to see its dreams vanish.

Asheboro earned the chance in the title game by routing Monroe 28-0 in the first round of the playoffs. Shelby slipped into the finals with an overtime decision over Wilkes-Central, last year's champion of the WNCISAA.

Boosters Need Your Help In Backing Sports

At a recent Booster Club meeting, the club went on record as being a year-around support of the sports programs in local schools. Their activities during the football season are well known, but some think the organization fades away at the last football game. Such is not the case.

Also, it is well known that football is the only paying sport in the school, and money received from admissions to gridiron contests has to foot the bill for the entire athletic program. All the other sports are non-money making propositions.

The goal of the Booster Club is to build up attendance at the other sport activities in an effort to bring more revenue into the athletic fund.

As a start to this end the club has agreed to sponsor the opening basketball game against Odell December 6 and the opening wrestling match against South Mecklenburg on December 13.

The club will make an all-out effort to get both these sports started off in a money-making way. Boosters plan to promote and plan various activities in helping to enlarge the attendance at sports affairs.

To do this it will not only take the efforts of the club, but the help of all sports fans. In the Mooreville area, therefore, the club will not only appreciate it, but it will beg for your attendance at the sporting events.

To get the program off to a big start, members of the Booster Club will put on sale tickets to the opening basketball game and wrestling match. Prices of the tickets are 50 cents for each event. The tickets will be on sale at various business places in town.

Why not make this a banner year in fan production in Mooreville.

Junior High Cagers Begin Practice

Coach Dave Richardson of the boys team and Dan Woody of the girls Junior High basketballers are now in practice sessions. The teams began workouts last week in preparation for the Central Piedmont Conference schedule which begins December 12.

Both teams will be in a rebuilding year. Most starters on both teams were ninth graders during the last campaign.

Richardson has around 19 boys vying for positions on his team. Woody has a larger number of candidates for the girls squad.

The boys will be out to improve on their 5-5 record of last year. The lassies dropped all 10 of their 1962-63 games.

A New Slant On A Long Ignored Theme

A succinct editorial in the Palo Alto Times a few weeks back introduced a little-discussed slant on juvenile delinquency. It was a comment on a statement by a retiring Oakland policeman.

The officer recalled his years of working in the juvenile division of the police department. He pointed out "we rarely had an Oriental kid who was in the wrong. The only logical conclusion we can draw from this is the fact that strong home ties, the sense of honor toward the family have made it almost inconceivable for these kids to go astray."

What a tremendous commendation this is for Orientals. And what a condemnation it is for Occidental parents. Not all parents whose children run afoul of the law are to blame by any means. And when the Oriental's idea of family honor takes the forms of assassinations and hourly street riots in their own countries, we must accept this cop's truism with a grain of salt.

The fact remains that his observation has this sound basis: where parents instill a sense of honor and build strong home ties in their children, the kids are more likely to respect the existing social order, in whatever country they live.

And the sad second fact: all this talk about family name and honor is passe in most of America.

Yokels Can Wear The Name With Pride

From The Times (London)

In an account in a London paper of some recent efforts to add urban gaiety to the rusticity of a country town its inhabitants were spoken of as yokels. If that word be derived, as some think, from the yoking of oxen or horses and the driving of a plough the yokel was a man of some ability. In the same paper was a description of the complicated machinery of a combine-harvester which the alleged yokel has now to master. That vehicle of several purposes has saved an immense amount of labour

The names bestowed on the yokel have been absurdly insulting. He has been termed a bumpkin, a clod-hopper, a chaw-bacon and a hobbledyho. Compared with these the American hayseed seems almost polite. Now that the bumpkin has to be a mechanic and electrician these titles may be increasingly forgotten, as they deserve to be. Before farming was mechanized and the barish pump gushed petrol the great writers who came from the country did not think of its people as clods. Thomas Hardy's men of the dairies, the flocks, and the forest were not zany with straws in their hair. In Shakespeare's Arden the shepherd Corin could hold his own in argument with Touchstone. Late of the court, and crushed, the quibbling clown with his final remark, "the greatest of my pride is to see my ewes graze and my lambs suck." To keep a flock in health and land in good heart may be yokel's work. If so, it honours that name.
