Mooresville's Christmas Parade--A Delightful, Chilly Time Was Had By All

Our Special Guest With A Bivy Of Local Beauties

A beautiful, long-stemmed young lady from Graham was the town's special guest for the colorful Christmas parade Tuesday afternoon. The personable Jeanne Swanner—Miss North Carolina and Miss Congeniality of America—drew a constant following before, during and after the hour-long procession. While she waited to take her place of honor near the front of the parade, Miss Swanner relaxed by plunking a ukulele at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Riggs Goodman. Following the parade, she held court at the Jim Rossers. Never tiring of the steady flow of well-wishing grownups and awed children, she found time for a word with everyone, and time for autographs for the younger girls who, without exception, want to grow up to be like her. They have some powerful growing to do, as Miss North Carolina demonstrates. Towering her full 6-2, she playfully compares heights with petite Miss Mooresville, Gayle James, who stands a foot shorter. Grouped around the town and state queens are other local lovelies who had part in Tuesday's festivities. From left are Sandy Sharpe, Carrousel princess; Terry Sprinkle, Senior High homecoming queen; Janice Mills, Miss High Miss; and Debbie Burdette, Junior High queen.
