

If Your Check Bounces, Your Faucets Will Break The News

If you're short of money, but you don't want to run short of water, here's what to do:

You pay your water bill at the very last minute—around the 12th of the month—and you pay with a rubber check. It'll take the rest of the month for the check to come back marked, as you know it will be, "insufficient funds." By the time the town does you the favor of informing you of the "slip-up," why, it's time to start a new month.

That's the system a few Mooresville water customers have been usually habitually and to the distress of the town's bookkeepers. The Town Board put an end this week to the unintentional policy of accepting I.O.U.'s for water.

In the first place, it's crooked. Writing bad checks is against the law. In the second place, it's unfair to other water users who can't pay their bill, and honestly admit it, and get their water cut off.

Town Manager Cy Brooks suggested this remedy: Immediately after the rubber check bounces, the town will cut off the water of the errant customer—then the user will be notified of his "mistake." The customer will be required to pay the $1 reconnection fee to fill his faucets again.

The Town Board liked his plan and adopted it.

With the aid of sewing teachers and expertly written and illustrated guide books, both experienced and inexperienced home sewers are taught how to easily make adjustments, clean the machine and operate it properly.

They actually try stitching on samples of the newest natural and synthetic fabrics while learning to adjust the tension, stitch length, thread and needle. Then they take the next little box that comes with every machine. It's filled with a collection of oddly shaped metal forms, referred to as "attachments."

Once these are mastered, the sewer is ready to go back home and teach her young club members what they need to know to begin their clothing projects. This knowledge not only helps the women to have a better club, it also enables them to do more sewing with less effort at home.

The training materials, workbooks and instructors are all furnished free of charge by the Singer Company, sponsor of the program.

Since 1955 when sessions were first offered, 65,000 leaders and 345,000 members have received this made-to-order training, the Cooperative Extension Service reports.

Air-Conditioned Manhole Aids in Cable Splicing

Air-conditioning has reached down into the manholes in the streets of New York City.

When underground workers are splicing extra high-voltage cables a specially equipped trailer backs up to the manhole and air-conditioning equipment regulates temperature and humidity at comfortable levels.

SHIFTING BACK BONES DISCOVERED BY SCIENTISTS

In the Chicago Tribune a year or so ago, Dr. Theodore P. Van Deil wrote in his column about the aches and pains of our muscles and joints. He said, "A British physician, Dr. James McDermott, came to conclusion recently that many of these bizarre aches and pains are the result of poor posture while asleep." Also, "during sleep, the muscles relax, leaving the joints unsupported . . . at the same time, the nerves and other soft tissues are compressed by the shifting bones."

That sort of language could come from a chiropractor, but coming from such a source, you seldom get a chance to see it in print.

We agree with the British M. D. and predict that in the future years you will likely read such agreements of spinal nerve facts more frequently.

The next time you hear someone say bones do NOT compress nerves, you might try quoting this English physician, although for over 65 long hard years the chiropractic profession has been compiling millions of case records to prove it. The office of Dr. Howard J. Baker, has been publishing similar facts in this paper for many weeks now.

Wide-Track, for instance. Wide-Track is what does away with tilting your way around turns. Pontiac's smoother, quieter ride is another thing you might point out. A big 389-cubic-inch Trophy V-8 is standard in each and every Pontiac. You get to choose from 34 engine/transmission teams to harness all that power. (Happy chomping!)

Now then—on to more of the things that make the '64 Pontiac so thoroughly likeable. Frankly, we couldn't think of anything radical to do with this car. Oh, we made the styling even more stylish, as you can plainly see. We lavished even more care on the interiors. We even improved the light bulbs. But as for engine/transmission teams to harness all that power. (Happy chomping!)

Dog Eats Steak, But Cash Grows

Fei Fo Yu, a Pekingese, had a yen for steaks, porterhouse and sirloin steak.

In order to make sure that the dog received his daily steak, his late mistress, Miss Elvora Miller, of Philadelphia, left a $10,000 trust fund when she died in 1958.

Recently Fei Fo Yu died at the age of 12. His estate which has grown to $12,000, will go to the board of foreign and national relations of the Presbyterian church.

Meanwhile, here is another actual case history showing how compressed or irritated nerves can cause MORE than aching muscles.

Several years ago a fifty-six-year-old widow, who for years had been suffering with daily headaches, dizziness, gallbladder trouble, nervous indigestion, aching in back of the head, neck, and shoulders. She related that she had a constant low back pain that seemed to rob her of energy and left her with a "tired feeling." Upon recommendation of a friend she came to us for a spinal analysis that located several disturbed nerve areas and X-rays brought in to view the subluxations (misalignments) causing the interference producing the distressing symptoms. Our spinal adjustments corrected the shifted back bones and restored normal function. It was wonderful to see her feeling well again.

Millions of successful case histories such as this one have made chiropractic the largest non-medical healing art in the world. Results speak for themselves.

We cannot accept all cases . . . but we help almost all that we do accept. . . . We would like to see if yours is a chiropractic case.
