Sam Is A Democrat

We have had several requests in the past couple weeks for copies of a column that appeared in this corner back in July. The column was titled "Fat Cat Republicans" and discussed the political heresy of long-time Democrats who became turncoat Republicans when their pocketbook got fat.

The thought, of course, was not original with us. As far back as the twenties the late Will Rogers put the spotlight on these boys. "When a Democrat," said Will, "makes his first million, he begins to doubt the wisdom of the Democratic party. By the time he has made his second million, all doubt disappears."

Nobody transcends us in our genuine respect for a genuine Republican. We have, for instance, a high regard for the political convictions of such local and active Republicans as R. T. Brantley, John Simpson, Marshall Crouch and others reared in a family Republican tradition. Through fair weather and foul, such citizens have believed in the Republican doctrines and have worked to further promulgate them.

Our political displeasure centers around these boys who, as we said before, were card-carrying Democrats running around in the thirties with the seat of their pants out, and who became well-to-do under two decades of Democratic administration, then suddenly became turncoat or fat-cat Republicans.

The civil rights issue has given these turncoat boys a built-in shelter. "I can't go for the Negro," loving Kennedy's, they proclaim from street corner to street corner. This is a popular nostrum through-out the Southland these days.

These turncoats forget two things. First, the sections of the Civil Rights Bill that are most obnoxious to the rank and file Southerner will not pass in the Congress. And who will block them? Dyed-in-the-wool Democrats who will vote the straight Democratic ticket in 1964. We refer to such Senators as Dick Russell, Sam Ervin, Everett Jordan, Herman Talmadge, and many others. Helping to block it will be dozens and dozens of Democratic Congressmen from throughout the South. And who will be leading the troops fighting for the passage of those sections of the Civil Rights Bill most obnoxious to most Southerners? Such Republican leaders as Senator Jacob Javits of New York.

Secondly, the odds are overwhelming that the Republican candidate for President will be either Nelson Rockefeller or Barry Goldwater. Rockefeller is even more radical in his race stand than Bobby Kennedy. It was he who rebuilt the bombed churches in Georgia from his own pocketbook. Goldwater soft-pedals the race issue in the South, whoops it up in the urban areas of the East and Mid-West. Goldwater is one of these smoothies who is all things to all men. He voted against the test-ban treaty, and his foreign policy, had he been President, would have brought nuclear war over Cuba.

There are certain parts of the Civil Rights Bill with which we agree, certain parts with which we disagree. We think, for instance, that the public accommodations section of the bill is an infringement upon private rights and is unconstitutional. Sam Ervin proved it. Incidentally, in case you haven't heard, Sam is a Democrat.

Actually, these turncoat Republicans fool nobody. The civil rights shelter isn't thick enough to hide them. The Democratic party has always been the Party of the common man, the poor man, and now that they are no longer common or poor, they have no need for the Democratic Party.

And speaking of politics, we have come to the conclusion, after reading the Congressional Record for 20 years, that there is nothing under God's canopy that is noncontroversial in the Congress.

Last week Congressman Matthews of Florida dropped a little bill into the hopper that would permit the manufacture of a few odd-size wooden baskets and hampers. In a hearing before the House Science Committee on the bill, it went like this:

Matthews: "This bill is non-controversial. It would just amend the 1928 Standard Container Act to permit the basket makers to compete with other types of containers . . . only the basket makers are limited by law in the size containers they can make."

Rep. James G. Fulton, R-Pa.: "This would appear to be a further extension of the federal power over interstate commerce."

Rep. John W. Davis, D-Ga.: "This has nothing to do with interstate commerce. The 1928 act is based on the power given the federal government by the Constitution to fix standards of weights and measures."

Rep. Donald Rumsfeld, R-Ill.: "I say we should either repeal the 1928 act or bring every body under it."

Fulton: "I say we should repeal it."

Rep. Charles A. Mosher, R-Ohio: "I'm interested to hear this is noncontroversial. When I told the growers in my district about it they voiced immediate

Yule Parade Scheduled For Dec. 3

'Miss North Carolina' Invited To Participate

Sponsored by the Mooresville Junior Chamber of Commerce, Mooresville's annual Christmas parade is scheduled to be held on Tuesday afternoon, December 3.

On that date, at 4 p. m., Santa Claus, garbed in his familiar red costume, will make a pre-Christmas visit to Mooresville, and all indications point to the greatest reception ever afforded any visitor to Mooresville being rolled out to greet the perennial spreader of good cheer.

Miss Jeanne Swanner of Graham, "Miss North Carolina," has been extended a special invitation to ride in the parade, and her answer to the invitation is being awaited with a great deal of anticipation by the Jaycees.

The parade will mark the official opening of the town's Yule shopping season.

T. C. Homesley is overall chairman of the parade.

A number of gaily-decorated units will accompany Santa Claus on his tour of the business district of the town, with the music for the occasion being furnished by a number of local and out-of-town bands. In addition to locally-built floats, there will be professional-built ones—the latter being products of J. C. Cline of Newton, nationally-known builder of floats.

There will be scores of pretty girls and queens from local and out-of-town schools, including "Miss Mooresville"—Gayle McKnight-James, who is a student nurse at Lowrance Hospital.

These, needless to say, will add beauty and charm to the event. All business firms, civic organizations, industrial plants, and individuals are urged to enter floats in the parade.

Don Peiffer Memorial Fund Established

A memorial fund to Donald Harry Peiffer, former principal of the Mooresville Senior High School, was established in Mooresville last week.

Officially, the fund will be known as "The D. H. Peiffer Memorial Fund."

Memorial funds received will be used to set up an educational loan scholarship for a worthy student of the local senior school and to purchase appropriate furnishings for the stage at the Roland R. Morgan auditorium.

A committee will be selected to handle this fund within the next few days. At present, all funds are being sent to Dr. Roland Morgan, superintendent of the Mooresville

Uncle Dan From Doolie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellows at the country store down here might be discussing the changing times. The Republicans claimed they was changing for the worse and the Democrats was allowing as how we never had it so good. Zeke Grubb, that votes both ways, depending on how farm prices is looking at election time, was setting as the Judge.

Ed Doolie, that wears Abe Lincoln's picture in the back of his pocket watch, said things had hit the bottom and any change after 1964 would be down hill. He told the fellows even the Federal highway signs was getting so complicated since we crossed the New Frontier that a one-gangman couldn't tell if he was going or coming. He reported he went on a fishing trip last week and coming back they got on one of them new interstate highways and they was a sign about ever mile to "Keep Off The Median." He said they stopped a patrolman and ask him what it meant and he told 'em it meant they didn't allow no messing around in the middle. Now there, claimed Ed, was a good Republican, a feller that give it to you so's you could understand it.

Personal, Mister Editor, I didn't get in the argument one way or the other on account of I ain't got no money worries at the moment. I have run complete out of money.

Yours truly, Uncle Dan

Town Asks County To Zone Perimeter

Orderly Growth In 'No-Man's Land' Also Spurs New Annexation Study

The county willing, the mile-wide "no-man's land" perimeter around Mooresville will be no more. The Town Board, this week decided to ask the Iredell Planning Board to include this fast-developing suburban strip under its soon-to-beadoption zoning regulations.

The "no-man's land" is so called because it has been under no zoning authority. The local board's action Monday night followed a detailed discussion of zoning needs in and around growing municipalities.

Under state statute, Mooresville has perimeter zoning powers. The town could extend its zoning authority to cover a mile in every direction from the town limits. After talking the matter over during their regular monthly meeting, four of the five town commissioners present voted to relinquish this right to the county. The majority of the board felt the county zoning would better equip it to deal with rural zoning, since the local zoning board has no rural representation.

Should the county agree to extend its zoning power to the town limits, it will not be a permanent arrangement, necessarily. Mooresville is asking the county to zone where the town has lawful zoning authority. If the town should want to change its planning board and zone this perimeter, it may do so.

The important thing, the Town Board felt, was to get the area under some zoning requirements. The commissioners were careful

The Champ Won By Three Full Laps

The United Fund promotion downtown Saturday was made to order for kids of all ages. For example, what could be greater than all the free pie you could eat and a prize for eating it. These chaps were among participants in a pie-eating contest. Both use the popular short-stroke method, and, as you can see, neither is a slouch at the sport. Sonny Mills chooses to get down where his pie is. Johnny Brown prefers the upright stance, so he brings the pie up where he is. Their efforts were not good enough; Tink Cloaninger won the contest by three full laps. He won 50 movie passes, and that must've made his day complete.

UF Campaign Passes $16,500; South Iredell Progress Report Meeting Set

Leaders of the Mooresville-South Iredell United Fund will meet today (Thursday) for their first progress report since the drive for $27,815 began September 30.

John Simpson, area UP campaign, has called for a review of the appeal during a luncheon meeting at Elks Restaurant at 12:30 p. m. He has asked all division chairmen to attend the session. The final report meeting of the drive is scheduled October 18, Simpson reminded.

The campaign workers are certain to have collected more than $16,500 of the goal, because that much had been raised through last Friday, The $425 Bill Koury and his special events committee accounted for during Saturday's daylong UP promotion pushed the total to near $17,000 by the end of the week.

The all-important industrial division of the drive has a target of $17,250, and practically all of the $16,500 in the early report came from Dave Jones' industrial division.
