

BOOST RURAL SCOUTING—The Iredell Boy Scout District has launched a program designed to strengthen the youth organization in rural areas. In this connection, the assistant national director of rural relations for Boy Scouts of America, Marvin Barber, was in Mooresville last Friday. He met with district scouting leaders for lunch and high-level planning. From left are Riggs Goodman of Mooresville, district commissioner; Howard Smith, district executive; Barber; and Mitchell Mack of Mooresville, commissioner-elect of the district.

Area Wrecks Keep Officers On Jump During Week End

Area wrecks kept investigating officers on the go quite a bit during the past week end.

Nine persons were injured as a result of two separate two-car crashes on U. S. Highway 21 at Kerr's Branch, some six miles north of Mooresville.

The first of these wrecks occurred at 1:10 p. m. Saturday. Six persons were injured in this smash-up.

Treated and released from Iredell Memorial Hospital in Statesville, were Joseph Edmond Martin, 70, route 1, Troutman; Clyde Nelson Dixon, 33, Negro, 646 Harland street; Fred Long, Jr., 18, Sylvia street; Mary K. Davidson, 18, Templeton Hill; and Jacqueline Wallace, 18, and Brenda Covington, 18, both of East Sharpe street, all of Statesville.

Martin was driving south in a 1950 Ford and Dixon was also driving south in a 1955 Pontiac when the accident occurred.

Patrolman R. D. Cranford said that the Martin vehicle was attempting to make a left turn and was struck in the left side by the Dixon vehicle, which was attempting to pass.

Martin told Patrolman Cranford that he gave a signal and he was substantiated by an eye-witness. Dixon stated that he did not sound his horn before attempting to pass. Damages were estimated at $200 to Ford and $350 to Pontiac. Dixon was charged with improper passing.

Three persons were hurt in the week-end second wreck at Kerr's Branch, this accident occurring at 12:10 a. m. Sunday.

Treated and released from Iredell Memorial Hospital in Statesville were Jerry Clyde Hall, 22, and his wife, Frankie, both of route 4, Statesville, and Fred Willard Malcolm, 21, route 1, Troutman. A hospital spokesman this morning said that the trio only suffered minor cuts and bruises.

Hall was driving north in a 1961 Chevrolet and Malcolm was driving south in a 1959 Ford when the accident occurred.

Patrolman C. L. Brown said that Malcolm was driving at a high rate of speed and drove his vehicle across the center line where it hit head-on with the Hall car. The Malcolm car then went off the left side of the road where it cut off a light pole and hit the front of a house.

Patrolman Brown added that Malcolm was apparently drinking prior to the accident and was driving west in a 1963 Oldsmobile. Damages to the vehicles were estimated at $1,000 to the Chevrolet and $500 to the Ford. Malcolm was charged with driving on the wrong side of the road.

Approximately $150 damages resulted from a two-car collision approximately three miles west of Mooresville on N. C. Highway 150 at 1:20 p. m. Sunday.

Paul William Bumbarger, Jr., 43, of Hickory, was driving west in a 1962 Oldsmobile and Lorena Stubbs Skeen of Biscoe was also driving west in a 1963 Oldsmobile.

Patrolman Gaither said that the Skeen vehicle was attempting to pass the Bumbarger vehicle when both of the drivers noticed that another vehicle was passing in front of them. Both of the drivers applied their brakes and the Skeen car struck the left side of the other car.

Patrolman Gaither said that the Skeen car skidded 64 feet before the impact which apparently occurred on the center line. Damages were estimated at $10 to the 1963 Oldsmobile and $150 to the 1962 Oldsmobile. No charges were filed.

Brawley PTA Schedules Carnival Event

The Parent-Teachers Association of the Brawley School has announced there will be a Halloween carnival at the school on Friday night, October 25, beginning at 6 p. m. until 11 p. m.

A number of activities, including games, contests, Bingo, and etc., are being planned for the annual carnival.

Hot dogs and cold drinks will be sold and cakes will also be available.

The highlight of the evening will be the crowning of the King and Queen.

All parents and children of the school, as well as the public, are invited to attend the affair for a delightful evening.

Official Welcome For A New Tar Heel

During his visit here last week, Gov. Terry Sanford reversed Horace Greeley's advice. The Tar Heel chief executive met Wesley Carter, an official of Continental Device Corp. of Hawthorne, Calif., and welcomed him to North Carolina and Mooresville. The firm will begin operations here early in November. The Governor asked Carter to invite others from the West Coast to "come east, especially to North Carolina." Between the coast-to-coast handshake are Dr. Boyce Brawley, right, president of the Mooresville Chamber of Commerce; and Roy Creamer, chairman of the Chamber's industrial committee.

Amendment Must Be Defeated

On January 14 the voters of North Carolina will go to the polls to pass judgment on a proposed constitutional amendment that would give each of North Carolina's 100 counties one representative in the lower branch of our General Assembly and 70 senators.

We hold no quarrel with the recent special session of the General Assembly that voted to submit this issue to the people. We agree with Cliff Blue, Speaker of the House, whose vote broke the tie that sent this question to the people. It is generally believed by Blue's closest friends that, although he comes from a small eastern county, he is against the amendment. However, Speaker Blue said it was the right of the people to decide this issue, and his vote was in support of this right, not in support of the amendment.

Should this amendment be adopted by the people on January 14 it would be a vicious turn in the government of North Carolina.

It is, in effect, government by geography rather than by representation. It would give, for all intent and purpose, to a relatively small percentage of the people of North Carolina the power to govern the state.

One has only to examine the political history of Georgia for the past several decades to see what this situation can, will do to state government. Until recently, when the U. S. Supreme Court tossed the idea out the back door, Georgia has been ruled by the county unit system. In short, certain hunkers of geography got certain representation, regardless of how few voters lived in such geographical locations. Under this geographical arrangement, little Echols county in south central Georgia, with a population of less than 3,000, had about as much power in electing the course of state government as did Fulton county with 500,000 population.

This constitutional amendment would do about the same thing to North Carolina. Little Camden county, with a population of around 6,000, would have the same power in the N. C. House of Representatives as would Mecklenburg with around 300,000 population.

This reporter has been a subscriber and daily reader of the Atlanta Journal for the past 23 consecutive years. Based upon the picture of Georgia as filmed by that great newspaper, it is our studied conviction that Georgia has had, year in and year out, the most corrupt state government in America. We cannot recall a 30-day period in the past 23 years when anywhere from one to a half dozen public officials in Georgia were not under indictment, in jail, out on bond, waiting for appeal decisions. Sometimes it is a sheriff charged with distilling white liquor, again it is a member of the state House of Representatives charged with embezzlement. At this very moment a recently resigned high state official is under criminal investigation.

As a result of this type of state government, Georgia ranks near the bottom of states in the nation in its prison system, school system, public roads system, and on down the line. One follows the other as day follows night.

Under a more representative system and a new Governor, Georgia is making great strides today to correct the evils of the past, but it still has a long way to go.

No state can have good government—with its resultant progress and prosperity—when 19 per cent of the population is in prison.

Sink Property Is Leased By New Industry

Everything is proceeding smooth as silk for Continental Device Corporation, Mooresville's newest industry.

That was the word this week from Wesley Carter, official of the West Coast electronics manufacturing firm that will begin operations here by mid-November.

Carter, who is here to get the plant in operation, is manager of facilities engineering for the firm that has headquarters in Hawthorne, California. The plant here will mark the concern's first operation on the East Coast.

Continental Device has leased the building in which Mooresville Laundry was located. The structure, at the corner of East Main and Irwell avenues, is owned by Joe Sink. It contains 6,650 square feet of floor space.

Carter said the brick structure is ideal for his company's operation. Workmen now are remodeling the interior to suit the needs of the firm. Equipment has been ordered, and actual manufacturing operations are expected to get underway on November 11.

Machinists are being hired by Continental Device now, with other workers for the high-speed electronic industry to be employed in about two weeks. Carter said Dave Baldwin will move here from Hawthorne to serve as plant superintendent.

Uncle Dan From Doolie Says

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

You might recollect I was telling you here awhile back about the U. S. Education Department advising a new kind of arithmetic for the school kids, claiming the old "tutem law" of 2 times 2 is four ain't necessary true in all cases. Well, we got another jolt coming from the deep thinkers. A science feller named Dr. Kaplan has announced that what we been calling the Big Toe since the beginning of time ain't always the Big Toe.

After studying this matter and measuring toes for years, he says about half the time the toe next to the Big Toe is the longest. It's giving to the place, Mister Editor, where nothing we and we was raised up to believe is sacred no more.

We was discussing these matters at the county store Saturday night and Ed Doolie said the worst ain't got here yet. For instance, he reported he was reading a piece in the papers where the women folks is gradual taking over the pool rooms. Ed said, this piece claimed the heavy mahogany tables with the green tops, the dirty light bulb hanging from the ceiling, the windows with soiled curtains, all was on the way out. Now they was putting in pool rooms with thick walled-wall carpets, sweet music playing, soft lights glowing, swanky lounge chairs setting around, and furnishing college girls to teach the women all

Moor Mills, Cascade Set Pay Increase

Salary Boost Becomes Effective November 4

Some 2,000 of Mooresville's textile workers will be affected by the pay increase announced recently by Burlington Industries.

This week, officials of the town's two Burlington plants, Mooresville Mills and Cascade Weaving Co., joined in local announcements of the salary hike that will average five per cent of the present earnings of all wage employees.

About 500 Cascade workers will receive more robust pay envelopes as a result of the hike; at Mooresville Mills, 1,500 employees.

HDC Women Plan Annual Review Event

The annual achievement day program of the Iredell County Home Demonstration Clubs will be held next Thursday, November 7, at Rose Chapel Methodist Church, five miles north of Statesville on U. S. Highway 21.

Mrs. Willie Trotter of Mooresville, president of the county home demonstration council, will preside.

Principal speaker will be Miss Ruth Current of Cleveland, who recently retired after serving for a number of years as State Home Demonstration Agent, with headquarters in Raleigh.

The work of the 26 clubs which make up the county organization will be reviewed and luncheon will be served at the Bethany Home Demonstration Clubhouse at 12 o'clock noon.

Mrs. Gray Chester, a member of the Brawley Club, and county secretary will have a part in the program.

Approximately 250 persons are expected to attend the meeting.

Who's 'Skeered' Of Halloween Goblins?

The Halloween goblins will be out in force this (Thursday) evening, but Ellen Beaver and David Dalton aren't 'skeered' of the spooks—not much, that is! The two youngsters examine a Halloween jack-o-lantern and skeleton before starting out on a trick or treat parade. Ellen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Beaver of East Center avenue and David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Dalton of West Lawrence street.

APPRECIATION DINNER DRAWS 200

Mack Heads Iredell Scout District

Mooresville's Mitchell Mack, assisted with Scouting since his early boyhood days, has been selected to serve as chairman of the Iredell District, Boy Scouts of America, during 1964.

Other top officials selected to serve with Mack are: William H. Lee of Statesville and W. Ray Nesbit of Mooresville, vice chairman; and M. Riggs Goodman of Mooresville, district commissioner.

These officers were presented Tuesday night at the annual Iredell Scouters Appreciation Dinner which was held in the Moore Lodge at Barium Springs. The dinner meeting drew an estimated 200 persons.

W. Ray Nesbit of Mooresville, a vice chairman of the district, presided at the dinner. District Scout Executive Howard T. Smith of Statesville presented the new officers.

The keynote speaker, Weddie W. Huffman of Greensboro, industrial relations manager for Burlington Industries, was introduced by M. Riggs Goodman of Mooresville, district commissioner.

In his opening remarks, Huffman commended the Scouters and their wives—for their leadership in the giving of their time and talents to Scouting.

"Too many people just won't take the time to help in this worthy work," he declared, "and I salute you who have been so faithful."

He continued his most thoughtful, provoking talk by stressing the importance of being receptive and resourceful.

Be receptive to those with whom you come in contact," he urged, "because, many a time it means so much to the other person."

Touching on the religious aspect of life, he declared that "it's not what's on the outside but what's on the inside... in your heart."

Yours truly, Uncle Dan

$28,147 Drive Soars Above 1964 Budget

In one sense, you could say it's all over but the shouting. But, to put it more positively, it's all over but the serving.

"It" is the Mooresville-South Iredell United Fund. This area has completed the most successful UF drive in its history. The Mooresville appeal was the first in North Carolina to raise 100 per cent of its goal.

The local UF budget for 1964 was $27,815—an increase of some $500 over last year's. At noon Tuesday, the "mercury" in the downtown UF "thermometer" registered $28,147.45. That figure represented the most money ever contributed to United Fund in this area. It also represented 101.18 per cent of the amount sought to aid local, regional, state and national service organizations.

Final figures on contributions were prepared Tuesday afternoon for presentation at the final report meeting scheduled at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday. Here is where the $28,000-plus came from: The all-important industrial division provided $17,910, the commercial and business division accounted for $5,012, public employees gave $2,635, the professional group contributed $1,300, the residential division collected $725, the rural workers turned in $133 and the special projects division produced $430.

Campaign Chairman John Simpson was elated, and understandably so, at the final tally. He heaped praise on all his key workers, but he emphasized that full credit for this tremendous effort must go to every citizen who opened his heart and gave."

He mentioned particularly those persons who work in Mooresville, but live elsewhere. He explained that only through unanimous support throughout the business and industry community could the campaign have been so successful.

"It is impossible, not to mention unfair, to single out one person and say he or she got the job done," Simpson added, "we went into this thing united, and we made United Fund a success because we stayed united."

Simpson wouldn't take any credit himself, but he would admit to doing a good job in selecting his division chairmen. These are the key persons who directed the separate units of the appeal: Dave Jones served as chairman of industry, Clyde Millsaps and Jimmy Brawley were co-chairmen of commercial, Roy Creamer headed public employees, T. C. Honesley directed the professional division, Mrs. Ira Ussery and Mrs. Mac Gibson had charge of canvassing residential areas; Joe Gilley was chairman of the rural division and Bill Koury headed special projects.

United Fund President Jim Rosser joined Simpson in offering congratulations to all South Iredell citizens. Rosser directed last year's campaign which reached the UF goal for the first time ever here.

So, the money is in, and vital community services are assured for another year. Local organizations whose very existence depends on United Fund are the Christian Mission, Boy Scout, Girl Scouts, and other Piedmont North Carolina Schools.

In his opening remarks, Governor Sanford declared that he could have gone to the county commissioners, boards of education, and adults of the community with a better education message but he

Teen-Agers Are Now $6.8 Million Economic Force In Iredell County

Iredell county's teenage population has become an economic force of importance — a force of $6,812,000 a year.

As a consumer group, they have this impressive amount of money at their command, which, incidentally, is a matter of great interest to local retail merchants.

The figure is arrived at through studies and surveys made by the Department of Agriculture, the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the Gilbert Youth Research Organization and others.

They show that nearly $11 billion is spent annually by the nation's teen-agers.

As a result, they are being courted as never before by retail merchants.

According to the Department of Agriculture, the biggest item is food, which averages $450 a year. Another $275 or so goes for clothes and the remainder for housing, medical care, sports, entertainment and miscellaneous expenditures.

All in all, the teenage market has become an economic force and, in addition, the fastest-growing one in the nation.

The latest figures reveal that the number of teen-agers is increasing at 3 1/2 times the rate of the rest of the population, reflecting the high birth rate that followed the last war.

The expectation is, as a result, that Iredell county's teenage population in 1965 will be 30 per cent above the 1960 total.
