Prospect Senior High Fellowship Sets Toy Drive

Do you have old toys that need a wheel . . . a little paint . . . or are just in the way around your home?

If so, give them to the Toy Drive of the Junior High Fellowship of the Prospect Presbyterian Church.

These young people will repair these toys and give them to small children of needy families at Christmastime.

If you have such toys in your home, please call Prospect Presbyterian Church at 664-1514 and leave your name and address. The toys will be picked up tonight (Thursday) between the hours of 7 and 9 o'clock.

The cooperation of the public will be greatly appreciated.

Bothered By Bats? Well, Let Them Be

A word of warning to all who have bats in their belfries, or anyplace:

Let the bats be.

County health officials this week warned against handling bats, particularly strangely behaving ones. Reason: They may have rabies. One Iredell child contracted hydrophobia, and the cause was believed to be a rabid bat.

Few adults would consider bats lovable creatures, but repulsion to grownups often is fascination to children. Warn your youngsters against touching bats. Tell them not to try and administer to what appears to be an injured bat.

Experts To Begin Updating Study Of Fallout Shelters

Members of a Charlotte architectural firm will return to Iredell in mid-November to conduct another study of facilities in the county that can be used as public fallout shelters.

Pierce VanHoy, county Civil Defense director, said the experts made an initial study of buildings suitable for fallout shelters 18 months ago. At that time, only two structures in Mooresville were approved for use in the event of a nuclear attack.

"Since that time," VanHoy said, "new buildings have gone up and old ones have been renovated. We want to determine to what extent the fallout shelter picture has changed in the county."

The CD chief asked that persons owning buildings that could accommodate 50 or more persons in an emergency to contact his office.
