Fence magnate George Cherry tossed his annual birthday party last night at the Cherry plantation near Pate. Democratic politicians who hope to amount to anything never miss this one.

Among the 300 guests were the two gubernatorial hopefuls, Dan Moore and Richardson Preyer. Columnist Charlie Craven of the Raleigh News & Observer reported both these boys must do a complete overhaul job on their campaigning technique if they expect to make any headway with the one-gallop boys. Preyer, a Federal Court Judge, and former Superior Court Judge Moore were both giving it the dignified bench approach at Pate. In fact, reported Charlie, one of Preyer's supporters called him aside and whispered, "Judge, in this business you got to learn to say 'daffin' a couple times and spit now and then."

Reminds me of George Randall's first campaign for the House from Iredell. George was campaigning all over North Iredell with that eternal cigar in his mouth. Some of us got the word that the boys up there liked George but were giving him a minus grade on that cigar. George bought a pipe and can of Prince Albert smoking tobacco and retraced his steps. This time the report was good. He stuck with it for the duration of the campaign. But it was like the castor oil treatment. To this day George raises the window and turns on the blower every time anybody comes in his office smoking a pipe.

The Kennedy boys are getting their jumps in the South these days. I noted in the Atlanta Journal where service stations along the highways in Georgia, Alabama, and Mississippi are displaying this sign out front: "If You Like The Kennedy Boys, Don't Stop Here."

And by a 22 to 3 vote the 25 home owners on a street in Albany, Georgia, named Kennedy Boulevard for the President, have changed the name to Russell Road.

Of course, they always have a new approach to things in Georgia. Where else could a guy win $3 million in a libel suit? And last week a Judge down there not only took a guy's driver's license for two years, but had it put into the court record that he wasn't even allowed to ride in the front seat of a car for two years!

I am becoming alarmed over what the advertising profession is doing to language and thought in this country. It says here, for instance, that Revlon perfume is "cherished as one of the world's seven great fragrances." I can't get to sleep at night for wondering what the other six are.

And I note here where one company is making a "Guide-A-Matic" shoe. The inference, I reckon, is that with these shoes a guy doesn't need to know where he's going. Just let the shoes do the work.

And here's a night club ad in the entertainment section of the Atlanta Journal that intrigues me. It shows a gal with all the proper curves and bumps in some sort of dance pose. Under the photo are these two words: "Grecian Ecstasy." Well, I have to go to my super-duper dictionary to find this one, the dictionary that weighs 20 pounds and is stored up in the attic with Cathy's first bicycle. It says it comes from a Greek word meaning "to cast off outer garments." In other words, she puts on a strip act. Why the devil didn't they say so! "Grecian Ecstasy." Ugh!

The late Congressman Bob Doughton, for all his rough mountain exterior, was a statesman. Make no mistake about that! I was reading some microfilm in the University at Greensboro library last week and came across this one. It was from the N. Y. Times of July 31, 1944. "When the war ends," stated Congressman Doughton, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, "we must curtail the tax burdens on individuals and corporations. At the same time, we must pay something regularly on our public debt."

Uncle Bob has been dead for more than a decade now, but he's still probably turning over in his grave about how things have gone since 1944.

It says here they suspended a high school chemistry teacher in a Pasadena, Calif., school because he had grown a goatee beard over the summer. How stupid can we get?

It reminds me of the impractical rule they have in Mooresville, Stateville, Charlotte and all over that a small girl in the lower grades must wear a dress, not play clothes, during the hot September weeks. Up in the collar greens country of Troutman School, we use a little better judgment in these matters.

When our Cathy gets ready for high school chemistry, our primary interest will be in how much she can teach it. Otherwise, we are not whether he wears a Vandyke beard or puts his pants on backwards.

Educators Gather In Mooresville

Addresses, Seminars Highlight Program

A warming October sun greeted and remained with some 2,200 educators from a six-county area Tuesday as they came to Mooresville to attend the 41st annual meeting of the Southwestern District of the North Carolina Education Association.

Plans for the all-day meeting were arranged by Mooresville's Robert O. Klepper, district president, with the assistance of the Mooresville unit of the NCEA, who hosted the session, and Donald Morrow of Raleigh, a member of the NCEA staff. Morrow was born and reared in Mooresville, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Morrow of 129 North Magnolia street.

The district is composed of NCEA units in a six-county area—Catawba, Cleveland, Gaston, Iredell, Lincoln, and Rutherford. Keynote speaker for the general session, which got underway at 9:30 a. m. in the Roland R. Morgan auditorium at the Mooresville Senior High School, was Imre Kovacs, a keen student of world affairs, who spoke on the subject: "Education In The American Mosaic."

Throughout his thought-provoking address, Mr. Kovacs, Hungarian by birth, Yugoslav by compulsion, and American by choice, stressed the importance of freedom—freedom as enjoyed only in America.

"The way you teach is the way this great nation will go," the speaker told the educators, after stating that he was "impressed by the intellectual alertness of North Carolinians."

"Tomorrow's world," he declared, "is dependent upon the way American school teachers think and teach today."

"It is human nature in America," he said.

Gene Johnston Heads Civic Action Group

The Mooresville Civic Action Committee, the town's behind-the-scenes prime mover, has a new slate of officers.

Gene Johnston was elected chairman of the 18-member group during a meeting last week. He replaced Jim Mack Morrow, who served two years. Other new officers of the committee are Vice Chairman Emmett Morrow and Secretary Mrs. Bob McKnight.

The Civic Action Committee was created by Mayor Boyce Brawley in 1961.

Uncle Dan From Doolie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where 1964 will be a busy year for the post office. In the nation, this item says they'll be 34 U. S. Senators and 435 House members running for reelection and they'll mail free of postage to their constituents. They just have to get to the post office and postmasters all over the country has to see that it goes to ever "patron" on the rural routes, city routes and to those having boxes. In fact, the post office is doing a lot of things to help the taxpayer. It says, $1,500,000 to handle this political mail. Of course, in these days and times a million and a half dollars is peanuts to the folks back home paying the bill, but they were one angle to this news item that bothers me. How come then Congressmen don't make the Washington post office come after this mail instead of taking it themselves?

And I was reading another interesting piece from the General Service Administration that was dealing in crib figures. This Government agency says the United States owns around 3 billion documents that is classified as secret and confidential. It was pointed out that this means we got at least one secret document for every man, woman, and child in the world. These so-called secret documents have to be kept in special, spy-proof cabinets and the General Service Administration estimated it will cost $12 million in the next few years just to make normal replacements of the cabinets. Senator Byrd of Virginia was illustrating the other day how we got so many secret documents. For example, last year the Congress passed a law that private shippers had to get at least 35 per cent of the repair work on Navy ships. The Navy shippers, wanting to hog all the business, spent $187,000 of the taxpayers money to get a consulting firm to analyze the costs. The Navy was certain the figures would show they were doing the job cheaper than the private shipbuilders. But the figures showed private shipbuilders were doing the job much cheaper. Well, the Defense Department immediately classed the survey as top secret. The cat was let out of the bag when a reporter on a Baltimore paper accidental got hold of a copy and his paper printed it on the front page. Furthermore, when the thing got a little fresh air, it was covered that the private shipbuilders had conducted the same survey for $20,000.

I reckon it would be a sight in this world how many of them 3 billion documents was put in the secret department to keep the taxpayers from knowing the truth. I always thought Government secrets was things we didn't want the enemy to know, but it looks like them bureaucrats in Washington has got the taxpayers classed as Enemy Number One.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

DUKE POWER COMPANY'S PLANT MARSHALL TAKES SHAPE
Giant Steam-Electric Project Located On Lake Norman At Terrell

MULTI-MILLION DOLLAR JOB

Plant Marshall Work Moves Ahead

With approximately 400 men on the job, work on Plant Marshall is moving along on schedule, according to John C. Rogers, resident engineer in charge of the project.

The plant, which will have a capacity of 500,000 kilowatts, and when completed the five-unit plant will have a capacity of 1,000,000 kilowatts.

Each of the plant's first two units will have a capacity of 500,000 kilowatts, and when completed the five-unit plant will have a capacity of 1,000,000 kilowatts.

New York Financial Experts Tour Plant Marshall Project

A group of New York City financial experts started getting a first-hand look today at the bustling Piedmont Carolina economy on a three-day tour sponsored by Duke Power Co.

About 30 investment bankers and securities analysts, who arrived in Charlotte Tuesday night, were guests Wednesday morning at a breakfast sponsored by North Carolina National Bank at its Charlotte headquarters.

The tour was part of a series of events planned by the Power Building where they were oriented on Duke's operations, and its service area and the industrial complex it embraces.

They visited the site of Plant Marshall, the new unit under construction at Lake Norman. At that time, the Negro spokesman said they favored the mayor-appointed body, and they recommended that the mayor "move with all possible speed" to name the members.

10-Member Biracial Committee Created

Mayor Terms Good Neighbor Council 'A Bridge To Better Understanding'

Mayor John C. Miller announced Wednesday the appointment of a 10-member Good Neighbor Council. The biracial committee, made up of a cross-section of community leaders, has the full endorsement of the Town Board.

In discussing the creation of a group to deal with race relations in the community, Mayor Miller said he is confident the committee will function as "an important bridge to better understanding between the two races."

The mayor emphasized that the council has no legislative powers of any kind. The committee can serve only as a human relations forum and as an advisory agency to the town government. The appointments this week ended nearly a month of consultation between the mayor and local leaders of both races.

Named to serve as chairman of the council was Dr. Boyce Brawley, a former mayor of the town and currently president of the local Chamber of Commerce and a member of the local school board. Serving with him on the council are three ministers, three downtown merchants, a newspaperman, a mill official and a college student.

The preachers are the Rev. Thad McDonald, pastor of Central Methodist Church; the Rev. J. E. McKenzie, pastor of Reid's Memorial Presbyterian Church; and the Rev. W. T. Elliott, pastor of Stewart's Chapel Methodist Church.

The local business leaders on the committee are Mrs. Irma Wise Burgess, Harding Rogers and Gene Johnson. The other members are Bill Duff, controller of Mooresville Mills; Len Sullivan, editor of this newspaper; and Miss Martha Gamble, a student at Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte.

The mayor appointed the council members to one-year terms. Mr. McKenzie, Mr. Elliott and Mrs. Gamble are Negro representatives on the South Piedmont Citizens League. No regular meeting schedule has been decided upon.

During its meeting September 3, the Town Board discussed at length the suggestion that such a committee be established in Mooresville. The commissioners voiced strong support for the mayor-appointed body, and they recommended that the mayor "move with all possible speed" to name the members.

The idea of a biracial group to study race relations here grew from a meeting August 13 between the mayor, the city manager and the executive committee of the South Piedmont Citizens League. At that time, the Negro spokesman said they favored the mayor-appointed body, and they recommended that the mayor "move with all possible speed" to name the members.

DRIVE FOR $27,815 BEGINS

Saturday Is UF Whoo-It-Up Day

"For the next three weeks, let's sleep and live United Fund."

That was the gist of John Simpson's sermon at the kickoff breakfast Monday at the Moore's Hotel. Simpson, a member of the United Fund campaign committee, urged that everyone who can contribute to the drive should do so.

The big build-up during the week, in addition to the solicitation of funds, was planning for the United Fund promotion day Saturday, October 5, Bill Koury, UF chairman of special events, is directing the project that will offer something for everybody.

Koury said Mooresville merchants have agreed to provide about $10,000 worth of gifts that will be presented to lucky ticket holders during the day. In addition to the prizes, which include such items as savings bonds and certificates for free merchandise, local car dealers will provide a used car to be given away during the promotion.

Don H. Peiffer Suffers Fatal Heart Attack

Donald Harry Peiffer, 45, principal of the Mooresville Senior High School, died unexpectedly of a heart attack at his home at 369 Cedar street at 10 p. m. Monday.

Although he suffered a minor illness during the week end, Mr. Peiffer apparently had recovered and was on the job at the local school until late Monday.

His untimely passing came as a great shock to school officials, Mooresville Senior High School students, and the entire community.

A native of Waynesboro, Penn., Mr. Peiffer was born on January 10, 1918, a son of Mrs. Charles R. Peiffer.

Mooresville City Schools Employ Speech Therapist

Mrs. Louise Pitchford Hampton of Davidson has been employed as a speech therapist in the Mooresville City Schools, effective Monday morning.

In this capacity, Mrs. Hampton will work with the children in the local elementary schools who have speech impediments.

This teaching position in the local schools came about for the first time this year as a result of a special allotment by the State Board of Education in Raleigh.

Mrs. Hampton is a graduate of the University of Texas, having received her master's degree in education from that institution.

ea," he declared, "to take our freedom for granted. We must recognize the aggressiveness of America's freedom."

"But," he cautioned, "if Americans continue to keep silent and the communists continue to shout 'who will mankind believe?'"

"The worst we have in America is better than the best they have behind the Iron Curtain," he stressed, "because the worst we have is open to criticism, examination and improvement, while the best the communists have is the end result of a frozen society and an intimidated generation."

"Without God, Russia is looking for an Utopia," the speaker declared as he stressed the fact that "without God no Utopia is possible."

Continuing to stress the fact that America is a land of abundance because the country is free, he pointed out that "in America our young people are being taught to build a bridge of freedom, good will, and brotherhood."

"With this kind of a bridge," Mr. Kovacs stated, "we can move into the great flower garden of America."

In conclusion, the speaker declared that he was thankful for American school teachers who are teaching their students the importance of the freedom enjoyed in this country.

"If Americans will begin to speak out about their country and its freedoms, other countries—the entire world—eventually will become free," the speaker stated.

At the very beginning of his address, Mr. Kovacs paid tribute to Donald Harry Peiffer, principal of Mooreville's Senior High School, who died of a heart attack only a few hours prior to the convening of the district NCEA session.

In addition to Mr. Kovacs' address, greetings were brought by Dr. Charles F. Carroll, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Raleigh, Dr. Frank G. Fuller, of Greenville, president of the NCEA, Bert Ishee of Fayetteville, NEA director, and Dr. A. C. Dawson, Jr., of Raleigh, NCEA executive secretary.

Among other things, Dr. Carroll declared that this year $400 million are being spent on education in North Carolina, an in-

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Overcash, of Mooreville, and Samuel R. Overcash, III, of Belmont, were Sunday evening supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cooper, Jr. and children, at their home in Charlotte.

Textile revenues rose from $16.8 million to $43.2 million in this year while all industrial revenues, including textiles, grew from $20.5 million to $68.8 million. Of equal importance to stabilize the economy, Burton said, is the increase in revenue from residential customers which has grown from 29 per cent of the total in 1952 to 39 per cent in 1962.

Following Mr. Kovacs' address, new district officers were installed as follows: Harry P. Jaynes, president, and Mrs. Elizabeth S. Storie, secretary. Jaynes is principal of the Kings Mountain High School, while Mrs. Storie is a member of the Senior High School faculty at Statesville.

District President Klepper presided and introduced the platform guests. Dr. Roland Morgan, superintendent of the Mooreville City Schools, introduced the speaker and the invocation was given by Homer Keever of Statesville, district director of the NCEA.

Immediately following the general session, luncheon meetings were held by the following groups: Classroom teachers, in the recreation room of the Central Methodist Church; superintendents, directors of instruction, and education secretaries, at the Mooreville Elks Lodge; principals and directors of higher education, at the War Memorial Building; guidance counselors, at the Rowan Dairy Bar; and food service personnel, at the Mooreville Junior High School.

The following groups of the district NCEA met at the Mooreville Senior High School at 2 p. m. for departmental meetings:

Agriculture, audio-visual, Bible, business education, elementary education, English and dramatic arts, health, physical education and recreation, home economics, industrial arts, modern education, mathematics, industrial foreign languages, retired teachers, school librarians, science, social studies, and special education.

Members of the music department met at the Mooreville Association Reformer Presbyterian Church at 2 p. m.

The first speaker at Duke Power was W. J. Burton, Duke's manager of public relations.

Burton pointed out the significant change in the sources of Duke Power income over the past 10 years. He emphasized that in spite of the healthy growth of the textile industry in this part of the country, other industries have been moving into the Duke area at an even greater rate.

Textile revenues rose from $16.8 million to $43.2 million in this year while all industrial revenues, including textiles, grew from $20.5 million to $68.8 million. Shumake Attending Houston Convention

Mooreville Police Chief Lloyd Shumake left this morning (Thursday) to attend the annual convention of the International Police Chiefs Association in Houston, Texas.

The meeting, which will attract law enforcement officers from throughout the Western world, will begin at 8 a. m. and continue through October 10.

There was a little argument going round and about among the constituents, so when President Benjamin Harrison was handed the final papers he closed his eyes, shuffled the two documents, covered the top with a newspaper lying nearby, signed both documents, shuffled them again, and handed them to an assistant. To this day neither State can claim numerical priority, and both South Dakota and North Dakota are officially listed as being the 39th or 40th State.

Naturally, in the 74 years that have elapsed, both states have claimed to have "inside information" and both claim to be the 39th State. The historical fact is that neither State knows.

Two weeks ago the N. Y. World Telegram offered front page space to any U. S. Post Office official who could prove the Zip number was any improvement over the old zone system. No word yet from the P. O. boys. Just like I said, this Zip thing ain't from nothing.

And, in case you're interested, they got a real rharbar going out in Wisconsin these days. (We get all this stuff via the exchange papers sent to us by users of our syndicated column around the nation.)

Wisconsin, the big butter state, has a state law against selling colored oleomargarine anywhere in the state. They also have a law against going across the state line into Illinois and playing bingo. That's okay. But the catch is that these bingo folks are smuggling colored oleo back into Wisconsin.

Oh, well, I reckon everything doesn't happen in Georgia.

P. S. I'm still troubled over those other six "World's Greatest Fragrances." Was just thinking, the perfume of honeysuckle vines under a June moon would have to come in there somewhere. You got any nominations?

Each division chairman on hand for the official beginning of the annual appeal spoke briefly during the program, explaining his organization and progress. Each echoed Simpson's optimism for a successful drive.

Jimmy Rosser, the UP president, summed up the attitude of the group by saying he had never witnessed such cooperation and enthusiasm for anything as he saw for United Fund.

Musie during the day will be provided by Hugh Sykes' Sonics, Bill McDow and his Blue Grass Ramblers, the Junior High and Senior High bands and by A&B Music Co., which will furnish a juke box. Senior High organizations that will aid in the event are the Student Council, French Club, Latin Club, Beta Club, Library Club, Girls Monogram Club, Science Club, Math Club and the Key Club. Master of ceremonies for the promotion will be Wayne Simpson.

The incentive that is sure to bring out the folks are the gifts and services provided by just about every merchant in the heart of town. The participating business are First National Bank, Piedmont Bank, Federal Savings and Loan, Mooreville Drug, Libby's, Brown's Men Shop, Bryan's Youth Center, Western Auto, Gibson Furniture, Leonard Jewelers, Bell's People's Furniture, Keith's Department Store, Kelly Clothing, Cat's, Johnston Hardware, Citizens Savings and Loan, Miller Drug, Army-Navy Store, Bay's, M.J.M. At the same time, Dr. Roland Morgan, superintendent of the Mooreville City Schools, announced that Max Manney, principal of the Mooreville Senior High School staff, had been designated as acting principal until a successor to Mr. Peiffer is named.

It is rather ironical that the initial sequence of their native state is not precisely known.

I recall Dr. Hamilton of UNC telling his history class how North and South Dakota were born. When the United States divided the Dakota Territory into two states, their statehood status became official in the instant the President affixed his signature to the proclamations.

There was a little argument going round and about among the constituents, so when President Benjamin Harrison was handed the final papers he closed his eyes, shuffled the two documents, covered the top with a newspaper lying nearby, signed both documents, shuffled them again, and handed them to an assistant. Rotarians Postpone Teachers' Night Until Next Week

The Mooreville Rotary Club has postponed the annual Teachers' Night program until next Thursday, October 10, due to the unexpected death of one of its members, Donald Harry Peiffer, principal of the Mooreville Senior High School.

This week, at 6:30 p. m. Thursday, a regular meeting will be held at the War Memorial Building, Bill Dunn, president of the civic organization announced.

presented during a brief business session.

The principal speaker for the banquet will be Dr. Benjamin W. Goodman of Hickory. Dr. Goodman, 48, is one of the state's most active Red Cross volunteer workers. He will speak on the value of Red Cross in a community.

In 1958, it was founded to assist in all civic undertakings, and especially to function as an advisory agency to the Town Board. The committee's first duty was serving as a planning group to organize and promote the Mooreville Plan for downtown rejuvenation. This program for modernizing the town's central business district still is the committee's major project.

As its name suggests, the committee concerns itself with all phases of community development. The members, leaders in the town's business, industrial and professional life, are called on often to study programs of a civic nature and to submit recommendations to the town government.

The committee was instrumental in the beginning of public housing and urban renewal programs here, and it worked long and successfully for town perimeter zoning and annexation.

Currently, the committee is actively supporting orderly growth on the Lake Norman floodplain. The group also is working to generate more interest in the revised Mooreville Plan prepared last year.

MISS THOMAS BECOMES BRIDE OF ROBERT SCHELD SATURDAY

Miss Alice Marie Thomas became the bride of Robert Alan Scheld at a 6 o'clock ceremony Saturday evening, September 28, at Western Avenue Baptist Church. The bride was Miss Patsy Ann McAllister.

The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Elmer Lee Thomas, 138 Rosemary Lane, Statesville, and Mr. Scheld is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert William Scheld of Wilkesboro Road, Statesville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of ivory silk peau de soie. The train of the bodice were a round neckline and elbow-length sleeves. The waistline was accented by a high-rise midriff and the full skirt of unpressed pleats flowed into a cathedral train. She wore a floor-length mantilla of illusion applique with re-embroidered flowers of Alencon lace. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of white roses and Stephanotis.

Miss Kay Davis, and Miss Carolyn Poole both of Statesville, Miss Jennie Lou Thomas of Elberle and Miss Jane Ellen Hodges of Davidson, Tenn., were bridesmaids, and Mrs. David Owens of Mooresville, a cousin of the bride, served as matron of honor. The attendants wore floor-length dresses of gold satin on Sunday, September 29. The bridesmaids wore dresses of yellow silk organza over tulle. The junior bridesmaids had veils of illusion attached to silk roses and carried cascades of yellow roses. Headpieces for the flower girls were bands of flowers and each carried baskets of yellow roses and fern.

Ringbearers were Rickie Owens of Mooresville and Eddie Jones of Salisbury.

Music for the ceremony was rendered by Ellihu Sloan, minister of music at the First Baptist Church, Siler City. His thirty minute of prelude organ music included: "Fear Joy of Man's Desiring," "Sheep May Safely Graze," and "Ariso," all by Bach; "Ave Verum" and "Nocturne" from Midsummer Night's Dream by Mendelssohn. For the processional he played "Air" from Handel's Water Music and the recessional was Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary."

Mrs. T. T. Alexander, Jr., of Statesville, sang "O Lord On Most High" by Mozart, "O Jesu Joy of

3 Traffic Mishaps Are Recorded

Three traffic accidents claimed the attention of the local police during the past week end, according to records on file in the office of Police Chief Lloyd B. Shumaker.

David Junius Cook, 59, of 510 Dingler street, was charged with driving under the influence, after he backed his 1955 Pontiac into the side of a 1957 Chevrolet owned by Eugene B. Melchor, 38, of 408 Water street. At the time, 4:50 p. m. Sunday, the Melchor car was parked in front of the Melchor home.

Damages were estimated at $150 to the Melchor car and $50 to the Cook vehicle by the investigating officer, Sgt. Marvin Barlow.

Two local drivers ran their cars off the road and hit Duke Power Company poles.

David Dean Hager, 28, of Mooresville, route 1, told Sergeant Barlow that he ran off the road while traveling west on East Main avenue when he lost control of his car after reaching down to pick up a flashlight that had fallen from the front seat to the car's floorboard. The out-of-control vehicle struck a power pole, snapping it off several feet above the ground. Hager's car was damaged approximately $400 and the value of the pole was set at $125. No charges were pressed. Time of the accident was 5:20 p. m. Sunday.

Everette Emanuel Goodman, 22, 423 West Wilson avenue, was going north on Main street when he applied his brakes sharply to avoid another car and ran off the road. The car struck a power pole, snapping it off. Goodman told investigating officer L. V. Barger that his brakes apparently locked. The accident occurred Saturday at 9:10 p. m. An estimated $200 damage was done to Goodman's 1956 Chevrolet. He was treated for minor bruises at Lawrance Hospital.

Letters to the Editor...

Open Letter To The Citizens Of Mooresville:

Dear Friends:

Seldom, if ever, has Mooresville played host to over 2,000 visitors in a single day.

Seldom does any community join together and work so hard to witness the success of a common venture.

Seldom do we have the opportunity to see the genuine warmth and friendliness of our own town.

All of these things happened last Tuesday when the Southwestern District of the North Carolina Education Association met here in Mooresville.

It is impossible to thank each and every one responsible for the success of this meeting as many contributed to this success in quiet ways unknown to most of us and

However, may I take this opportunity to thank, especially, the members of the local unit of the NCEA, the students of the Mooresville Senior High School, the local police officers, the Mooresville merchants, the local newspaper and all those who helped in the care and feeding of this tremendous crowd of visitors.

Without the help of all of you, this meeting could not have been held in Mooresville but, with your fine co-operation in every way, its success was assured.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Robert O. Klepper,

UDC Chapter Has Meeting At Allred Home

The Battle of Bentonville Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, met Tuesday, October 2, at 3:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. John Allred. Hostesses assisting Mrs. Allred were Mrs. B. S. Templeton, Mrs. J. P. Cavin, and Mrs. R. M. Culp.

Twenty-three members were present. Special guests attending the meeting were Mrs. Charlotte Mills, Mrs. Helen Justice, Mrs. Raymond Morgan, and Mrs. Donald Stewart.

Miss Myrtle Melchor led the ritual and pledges and Mrs. C. W. Kipka gave an interesting program on the life of General Joseph E. Johnston.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. E. Burger and during the months of November, December, January, and February, the meeting time will be 3:00 p. m. instead of 3:30 p. m.

The hostesses served a delicious tea course.

Plant Marshall

tion will be 360,000 gallons per minute.

This water will flow from the bottom of a nearby lagoon on Lake Norman, through Plant Marshall, under N. C. Highway 150, and back into Lake Norman through another lagoon.

Unit one of the two units under construction is scheduled for completion by March 1, 1965, and the second unit is scheduled for completion by May 15, 1966.

The completion date for the entire five-unit plant has not been revealed by Duke Power Company.

Plant Marshall will be the latest addition to the "most electrified river in the world." When completed it will be linked with the present Dike Power system to provide additional power through Piedmont North and South Carolina.

Excavation work on the project got underway on March 12, 1962.

Linwood Club Plans Session Next Tuesday

The Linwood Home Demonstration Club will meet next Tuesday, October 8 at 2 p. m., in the Linwood Home Demonstration Clubhouse. The program will be presented by a representative from the home agent's office. All members of the club are urged to attend.

Mention the name Bostonian to a man, and he'll be reminded of two things...baked beans, and famous Bostonian Shoes. Bostonians have been footwear favorites with the male animal for more years than we can remember, but the interesting news is a new and captivating collection of fashion casuals called Lady Bostonians, designed and manufactured by the maker of men's Bostonians. They're sleek in look...trim in fit...wonderfully light and comfortable, and our informant tells us, "irresistibly graceful!"

District NCEA Meeting Principals

Mooresville NCEA Unit Holds Session

The Mooresville unit of the North Carolina Education Association held its first meeting of the 1963-64 school year in the Mooresville Senior High School band room on September 22, at 3:30 p. m.

Ryan Weiner, president, called the meeting to order. After the business session, a very enjoyable program was given by Hugh Hagman, Mrs. Mildred Miller, Miss Ethel Stewart, and Robert Klepfer. As delegates they shared the highlights of the National Education Association convention, held in Detroit, Michigan, in July of the past summer. At this convention, North Carolina's hopes were fulfilled when Miss Lois Edinger was elected to become North Carolina's first president-elect of the National Education Association since 1910. Miss Edinger's victory enhances North Carolina's prestige both in and out of the National Education Association, and the image created by the Tar Heel delegation in the week in Detroit made a good impression on other states.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Dr. Roland Morgan, superintendent of the Mooresville City Schools, encouraged all teachers of the Mooresville City Schools to join their professional organizations. For the past eighteen years Mooresville teachers have had 100 percent membership in the Classroom Teachers Association, North Carolina Education Association, North Carolina Education Association and National Education Association.

Auto Plate Agency Announces Opening

Mooresville's new motor vehicles license plate agency will hold a formal opening Tuesday, October 8, according to Lloyd Cashion, manager of the office.

The tag outlet will be located in the building occupied by Service Auto Supply at 101 South Broad Street. The official opening will be held at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Cashion said this week he has completed the state-sponsored week-long school dealing with the administrative work involved in handling car tag sales and the complicated transfer and application of titles.

He will open for business Monday, October 7. His hours will be from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m., with the exception of Wednesdays and Saturdays, when the office will close at noon.

Mooresville Woman Wins Refrigerator

Mrs. Joe M. Cross of Mooresville, route 3, was one of 270 persons to win a refrigerator-freezer in a nationwide contest. More than $100,000 of refrigerator-freezers are being given away to housewives in the contest.

Don Turman, Missionary, Speaks Here

Rev. Don Turman spoke at the morning worship service at Broad Street Methodist Church last Sunday.

A short term missionary of the Methodist church to Malaysia for the past three years, the Rev. Mr. Turman was the pastor of two churches and taught in the Methodist English School.

A member of Triplett Methodist Church, he is enrolled currently at Candler School of Theology, Emory University, Georgia. Someday he and his wife hope to return as missionaries to Asia.

In the sermon, the Rev. Mr. Turman stated that "Malaysia is a very modern country and in many respects much like our country with very progressive educational systems, good hospitals, excellent roads, and telephone systems. The majority of the people are Muslims and the government has laws which greatly hinder the Christian missionary from trying to perform his task. Therefore, the primary work of the missionary in Malaysia is to be between the Chinese and Indian people."

Town Getting Hard-Nosed About Taxes

"The town got dead serious about this nagging delinquent tax business this week."

City Manager Cy Brooks said Wednesday morning his office has levy papers ready to be served. He also said the wages of several backsliding taxpayers already have been garnished.

The reason for the hard-nosed bit is this: After Monday, October 7, the town loses all 1963 unpaid taxes except those delinquencies in which legal action already has been started.

Brooks said the public can rest assured legal action will be started, and that attachment of property and wages will be made wherever possible. He said legal action is pending against about 30 persons who owe 1963 taxes.

The city manager also warned that the town will not be content hereafter to collect one year's back taxes at the 10-year cutoff. Beginning early next year, he said, a concentrated drive will begin for all 1964 and 1965 unpaid taxes.

Brooks urged all persons who aren't sure whether they are in the clear on 1964-65 taxes to check with the office in order to avoid a deadline and possible court action.

Proceeds From Race To Go To White Cane Drive

A big motorcycle drag race will be held Sunday, October 6, at Leazer's Drag Strip, three miles east of Mooresville on N. C. Highway 152.

This event is being sponsored by the local White Cane Drive Club and all proceeds will be donated to the Lions Club White Cane Drive For The Blind.

Glenn Leazer is donating the use of his drag strip for this event. There will be trophies for all classes and a top elimination trophy will be awarded.

Gates will open at 1 p. m. All motorcycles are urged to attend and participate in the race. Admission for the benefit event will be $1.

IMPORTANT TRANSACTION — Tuesday was a long-awaited red-letter day for the Mooresville Housing Authority, which is directing the town's public housing program. Tuesday morning, the Authority bought the first piece of land for its West End housing development. A house and lot were sold by Mrs. Lillian F. Mills of 211 Sherrill Street. Watching as Mrs. Mills signs the necessary legal papers are Jack Duffy, left, chairman of the five-member Authority; and Bill Neel, attorney for the housing group. Duffy said lawyers still are busy clearing land titles in the 21-acre site, and that about 80 per cent of the property owners involved have their land under option to the Authority. The housing board already owns a three-acre building site in Keelertown.

Large And Complex World Thriving Under Sidewalks Of New York City

A person could spend his entire life under New York City and would have to emerge into the open air and sunlight only to be buried.

There is no room for graveyards in the vast, complex, underground world inhabited by thousands and used by millions beneath the giant steel and concrete skyscrapers. But under the sidewalks of the city are nearly everything else—stores and service facilities of the best hotels and to theaters, restaurants, hospitals, office buildings—every facility needed to live an adequate if not entirely normal life in a region of perpetual artificial light.

So complex is the development beneath Manhattan that no map depicts it and no man knows all that's there.

Buried in the relatively small island are enough telephone cables and wires to string 75 lines to the moon—10,000,000 miles of them—enough cable (61,500 miles) to wrap twice around the earth and tie a bow as broad as the United States.

If placed end to end, the 6,000 cars traveling 140 miles of subways—plus another 100 miles above ground—would span the 75 miles from Manhattan to New Haven, Conn.

There are stories of all kinds below the street level.

Workers digging beneath the island often turn up a long-lost item, such as a forgotten British dagger or a highway's tunnel leading from the Hudson River to what was once a prohibition era speakeasy.

On underground sidewalks, a person can walk the half-mile from Penn Station to Times Square. Pedestrian tunnels from Grand Central Station lead within 5 blocks of the subterranean development of Rockefeller Center, which embraces some 20 buildings.

Underground New York has also developed its characters, like legendary Teddy May, the "sultan of the sewers," or Maurice, the "book man."

Teddy May died a few years ago at the age of 85 after spending 50 years working in the sewers of the city. From him, the city got information for the map of a 5,000-mile system which never before had been charted.

Maurice, a gray-bearded book seller, has fought a running battle with concessionaires for years over the thousands of books he keeps stored in subway station lockers.

Remains Of Monk Preserved In Ice

The body of Angelo Visconti, a Salernitan monk, missing for 12 years, was discovered preserved in ice by a squad of Italian Alpine soldiers on maneuvers near Aosta, Italy.

Visconti vanished when he dropped into a crevasse while engaged in climbing Ruto Mountain.

Town Of Old West Too Tough To Die

Some 70 miles southeast of Tucson, Arizona, lies an old western hamlet that resembles a town forgotten by time. Its buildings are old, its streets are quiet and nearly deserted when tourists are not swarming through them. There is little to indicate that this town, called Tombstone, at one time possessed a roaring life.

But close examination of Tombstone's past reveals that the town, founded in the late 1870's by a prospector who struck a rich vein of silver ore, was one of the wildest in the West during a period when the fast draw and mob rule decided what was right or wrong.

Tombstone today is widely known as "the town too tough to die" and aptly so, thanks to a small group of city fathers who have refused to let it become a ghost town.

Nearly every historic landmark has been preserved or restored as a tourist attraction, and the town itself is developing into a year-round health resort. The booming tourist season is highlighted during a 3-day celebration called "Hell-Rorado," which recreates the days of the 1880's.

When a burly young prospector named Ed Schieffelin made a big strike in the Lucky Cuss silver mine in 1879, the town was born. As other miners and prospectors stamped into the region, followed by those who operated stores, hotels, rooming houses, and saloons.

When Tombstone reached the height of its activity in 1882, about 5,300 persons populated the town, the seat of Cochise County. The silver mines were then producing more than $5,000,000 worth of ore annually.

Before Tombstone reached its prime years in silver mining, however, a separate chapter in its violent history was begun in 1879 when 4 brothers and a dentist turned gambler came to town from Prescott.

Named Town Marshal

The second eldest brother, Virgil Earp, was named town marshal. The others, James, Morgan, and Wyatt Earp, and John Henry (Doc) Holliday, were gamblers of some note, although they were available to assist Virgil when necessary.

A violent feud developed among the Earp faction and 2 sets of brothers, the McLowerys and the Clantons. It ended the afternoon of October 26, 1881, in one of the most famous episodes in Tombstone's history, the gun fight at the OK Corral. When it was over, Frank and Tom McLowery and Billy Clanton were dead and Ike Clanton was locked in jail.

Water Closes Mines

In 1888 Tombstone's history almost came to an end when water filled all the mine shafts and pumps could no longer work fast enough to keep it out. By the time most of the mines closed, more than $40,000,000 worth of silver ore had been extracted from the earth.

Tombstone's Boothill Cemetery, one of the top tourist attractions, contains the graves of more than 250 town residents, most of whom met violent death in the town's early days. Billy Clanton and Tom and Frank McLowery are buried there, along with others whose markers are "shot by mistake" and "ambushed by Apaches."

The Tombstone Restoration Commission, which was formed in 1949 to preserve, and in some cases restore, the town's Old West character, has been actively pushing to restore gas lamps to the street, wooden plankings over the concrete sidewalks, and an architectural pattern of the late 19th Century.

Burglar Suspect Gets Head Stuck In Window

When residents of an apartment house at San Diego reported hearing a noise, police had little difficulty in capturing a man they booked on suspicion of burglary.

Police reported finding Larry Lopez trapped with his head stuck under a window that had slammed down upon him.

Never Burn Leaves On A Windy Day

Householders who clean up their yards as a part of Fire Prevention Week were reminded by the National Board of Fire Underwriters today that in many communities a permit must be obtained from the fire department to burn leaves. If you burn leaves, it is a good plan to burn them in an incinerator with a cover to prevent sparks from rising.

The National Board has these suggestions:

1. Never burn leaves on a windy day.
2. Have the garden hose connected to a water line and ready to use if your fire should get out of hand.
3. Be sure your fire is completely out before you leave it.

CB ENTHUSIAST BRAWLEY

AND ANOTHER IN HIS SHOP
'Party Line' For Fun And Profit

CITIZENS BAND RADIO

A Successor For The Party Line

Back in the summer, the rising tide caught Sam Brawley as he attempted to pull his boat ashore near Myrtle Beach. When his pickup floundered in the surf, Brawley used the citizens band radio in his truck to flash a 10-36—emergency—message. Within minutes, he had all the help he needed to get truck, trailer and boat out of reach of the sea.

Judy Carter is a 15-year-old Mocksville resident. She is a diabetic and unable to be as active as she would like. She sits at home and chats with friends all over the Piedmont—via her citizens band unit. She says she'd rather talk to Moorsville folks than anybody, because they're interesting, and because there are so many of them who operate and enjoy citizens band radios.

These are just two examples of the value and growing popularity of CB radio in this area. The little two-way units are popping up everywhere, in businesses, homes, industry, on the farm, wherever people want electronic assistance in communicating.

There are CB fans all over Moorsville, and they are forever chatting with each other and with other operators throughout this section. Sam Brawley, for example, has units in his home, his garage and in his truck. He often contacts friends in nearby towns for help in locating car parts he needs in his garage.

The CB radio not only is handy and useful, it can be the difference between life and death for handicapped persons. Many persons who are physically handicapped drive alone in safety, knowing if they have car trouble that help is as near as their mobile CB microphone. Their radios are as comforting as an able-bodied companion.

Throughout the nation, licensed CB operators are increasing at the rate of 60,000 monthly. Moorsville is adding its share of voices to this exciting replacement and improvement over the old party-line telephones that once let everybody in on what everybody else was doing. A Hoke County lady, who is confined to a wheel chair, uses her CB unit to gather news for her local paper.

It's a great help in adding friends, too. Brawley has a collection of some 300 call letter cards from CB operators in 32 states who have talked with him while passing through this area.

And it is more than talking for fun and profit. Plans are underway to organize a stronger CB club in this area. One of the club's first projects will be starting a REACT service. That means Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Teams.

It has been proven in other sections of the state that these REACT operations are a boon to policemen, firemen and all charged with seeing to the public's safety.

Laugh and Learn

A man took his Great Dane to a vet. "Doctor," he said, "you've got to do something. My dog does nothing but chase spots cars."

"Well, that's only natural," replied the vet. "Most dogs chase cars."

"Yes," the man agreed, "but mine catches them and buries them in the back yard."

Successful door-to-door salesman to housewife: "I'd like to show you a little item your neighbors said you couldn't afford."

The widow was inconsolable, weeping steadily for three days. Everybody was talking about it. Then, the insurance man came with a check for $50,000.

Bravely, she smiled through her tears and said haltingly, "I'd gladly give $10,000 of this to have him back."

The storekeeper in a small Vermont town was greeted by a neighbor who consoled him on the loss of his merchandise during a fire.

"Did you lose much?" asked the friend.

"Not too much," came the laconic reply. "I had just marked most of my stock down 20 per cent."

As usual, the girls were talking about marriage.

"I'll have trouble finding the kind of man I want to marry," commented Denise. "He'll have to be smart enough to earn a lot of money but stupid enough to give it to me."

"Did you have any trouble getting home from the party last night?"

"Not a bit—until I turned down my street and some dope stepped on my fingers!"

The society which scorns plumbing is a humble activity, and tolerates shoddiness in philosophy because philosophy is an exalted activity, yet have neither good plumbing nor good philosophy. Neither its pipes nor its theories will hold water.—John W. Gardner, President, Carnegie Foundation.

SOIL AND WATER CONSERVATION

By W. M. BLAND
Work Unit Conservationist

Conservation Reserve Farms

Unless the present program is extended, quite a number of freddie farms will come out of the Conservation Reserve Program at the end of 1963. The first thing the owner should do is contact the Soil Conservation Service and request assistance in the development of a conservation plan for the farm. Free assistance for farm planning is made available by the SCS working through the freddie Soil and Water Conservation District. The office is in the Statesville Post Office building and someone is in until 8:30 each morning.

Farm Land Will Be Scarce

It is estimated that 2,000 acres of farm land is being changed to other uses each day in our country. Most of this is going for highways, towns, airports, factories, colleges and punch were served to the group.

—Mr. and Mrs. Burette Powers were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Powers of Salisbury.

—Robert McLaughlin, student at State College, Raleigh, was the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin.

—Mrs. Harry Hobbs accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Quentin McKnight and son, Jeff, visited Mr. and Mrs. Billie Kennington and son, Danny, and Mr. and Mrs. John Davidson, all of Charlotte last Friday afternoon.

—A record attendance of 389 for Rally Day was made at Prospect Church last Sunday morning.

—Mrs. J. W. Humphries, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Humphries, Jr., and children, Penny and Wes, of Petersburg, Va., were week end guests of Mrs. and Mr. F. H. Clinard. Mrs. J. W. Humphries, Jr., is the granddaughter of the Clinards.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Brown and children, Linda and Ronald, spent Sunday at ASTC at Boone with their daughter, Miss Pam Brown.

—Approximately 40 men from Prospect Church attended the fall Rally at Barium Springs last Tuesday night.

—Lane Freeze, freshman at State College, Raleigh, was the week end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Freeze.

—Mrs. John Rodgers of Statesville was the week end guest of her sister, Miss Ruby Moore.

—Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Leonard of Redwoodville, S. C., were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Leonard's sister, Mrs. Olin Blackwelder and Mr. Blackwelder.

—Mrs. A. F. Towell was honored

Woodland Conservation

This is the best time of the year to have your growing pines marked for thinning so that the cutting operation can be done before winter sets in. Free assistance is available for marking your trees before thinning. Thinning every seven or eight years leaving the best trees spaced "diameter at breast height, plus six feet" apart. The business like way to manage your tree crop until it reaches maturity at about 80 to 100 years of age.

Soil Conservation Service Staff

The Soil Conservation Service, working through the freddie Soil and Water Conservation District, is represented by only three people in freddie. They are W. M. Bland, Work Unit Conservationist; B. G. Brock, Soil Conservationist; and J. B. Simpson, Soil Conservation Technician. All can be contacted at about 8:30 a. m.

SCIATICA

Sciatica, or Neuritis of the Sciatic nerve in the hip and leg, is one of the most painful afflictions known to man. Pain starts in the hip, radiating down the leg, sometimes to the toes. In many instances this inflammation of the nerve is due to spinal pressure on the nerve where it leaves the spinal column, and Chiropactic spinal adjustments have proven a boon to thousands of these sufferers. Town Advertisers To Lure Doctor

"Doctor, there is a $100,000 clinic waiting for you."

This is the legend on a billboard near Uniontown, Alabama. The town erected a modern medical center and erected the sign when its last physician retired.

Until a doctor arrives, the 5,000 residents of Uniontown must get first-aid from Mrs. Sarah Mott, a nurse, and travel 30 miles to Selma, Ala., if they happen to need the services of a physician.

Circle No. 3 will meet Monday, October 7, at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Jimmy Gibson.

During the Sunday morning worship service at the Centenary Methodist Church, Thomas Lee Roberts, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Roberts, received infant baptism.

Mrs. Clay Graham, Mrs. Paul M. Dennis, Mrs. Jason Blackwelder attended the Woman's Society of Christian Service Seminar of the Salisbury District at the Epworth

Local Teachers Named To NCEA Divisional Posts

Five Mooreville teachers were named to divisional posts in the North Carolina Education Association Tuesday.

Miss Edith Stewart, a member of the Park View Elementary School staff, was named president of the classroom teachers division.

Mrs. June Reene, a teacher at the Mooreville Junior High School, was named secretary of the classroom teachers division.

Mrs. B. V. Smailey, a member of the Mooreville Senior High School staff, was elected vice president of the business education division.

Miss Shirley Henson, a member of the Park View Elementary School staff, was named president of the elementary education division.

Conard C. Tharpe, industrial arts teacher, was selected as vice president of the industrial arts division.

Grandma, Shorty Still Happily Wed

Seventeen years ago, Grandma and Shorty Spouse — she was 77 and he was 17 — created a rare love story when they were married in a ceremony at Louisville, Ky.

Today, at 94 and 34, they are still happily married, living in a one-room cabin on Irish Creek, which is located near Louisville.

FAMILY WALKS 1,000 MILES TO PLACE FATHER IN SCHOOL

It's more than 1,000 miles from Holbrook, Arizona, to an Indian Bible school at Hot Springs, South Dakota, but a young Indian, his wife, and their son are making the trip on foot so that the father can enter the school and get the education he never received as a child.

The Indians, who refused to give their names because they said they didn't want relatives to worry about them, are walking all the way. They take turns pushing a baby carriage in which their 13-month-old son rides. Two suitcases are strapped to the carriage.

Lives 15 Years In Wrong Place

For 15 years, Mrs. Lennie Grayson, Tulsa, Okla., has been living in the wrong place. All the time, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Simmons, of Bakersfield, Calif., have been paying her real estate taxes amounting to $44 a year as absentee owners while Mrs. Grayson lives tax free, claiming a $1,000 homestead exemption on her residence.

Fifteen years ago Mrs. Grayson built a house on a lot which is actually next door to the lot she owns.

The Tulsa Urban Renewal Authority, which uncovered the confusion, has decided to file lawsuits against both parties to clear titles to the land. The authority wishes to buy both of the lots.

Old Slave Unit Becomes Capitol

A 300-year-old castle that once housed a slave warehouse in Accra, Ghana, has been remodeled into an administrative center for the Little African republic.

Modern office wings also have been built on the castle to house offices for the country's president, Kwame Nkrumah.

The old building was built in 1667 by the Swedes as a fortress and later became a slave trading post. A chute still leads from dungeons below to the beach where slaves once were taken to ships.

There Will Be 1.5 Million Weddings In U. S. In '63

There'll be about 1 1/2 million weddings in the United States this year and, as usual, June rates as the most popular month for the altar-bond.

Why June became the traditional month of weddings and roses probably relates to the transportation difficulties in early America . . . too much snow in the winter to get to a wedding celebration. Spring and fall were bad times too, because folks were busy with planting or harvesting.

Another influencing factor may have been that June was named after the Roman goddess, Juno. The Greeks had a difficult name for this date—Hera. Anyway, the point is that June (or Hera) was the goddess of womanhood, of marriage and of maternity. She was usually represented as a matronly type, but nonetheless beautiful. The peacock, the cuckoo and the pomegranate were sacred to her. Homer spoke of her as the "white-armed goddess" and the "ox-eyed queen"—all of which adds up to the kind of deity every prospective bride ought to have on her side.

These and many other interesting observations about the origins of wedding customs are culled from Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia. Here are some more:

For instance, the engagement ring represents the very old custom of a gift to a girl desired in marriage. "The diamond ring originated in Italy where the diamond was believed to be a 'stone of love.' In ancient Egypt, the ring was a symbol of eternity. It also symbolized the 'captive bride' whose hands were tied to prevent her from escaping. Anglo-Saxons wore the ring on the right hand until the wedding when it was transferred to the left.

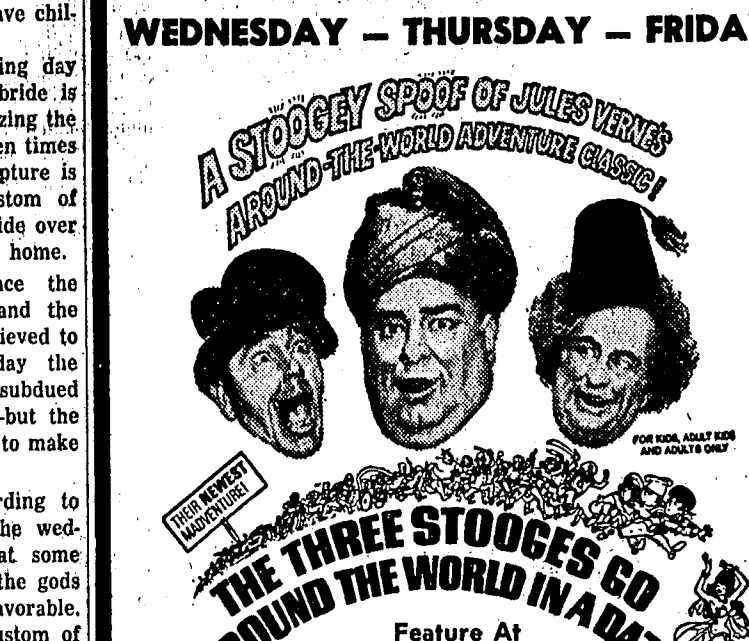

Another custom credited to an ancient Egypt is throwing old shoes or tying them to the bride's feet. In the land of the pyramids, the father handed the bride's sandals to the groom, symbolizing a transfer of authority.

Mohammedans, back in the middle ages, used orange blossoms in their ceremonies, as the orange was their most prolific fruit. To day orange blossoms symbolize the hope that the wedded couple will be blessed with children. Throwing rice carries the same wish . . . but in ancient times it was also a way to "protect" the marriage from evil gods.

REV. FRANK MOORE
Revival Speaker

Revival Set At Soutside Baptist Church

Revival services will begin in the Soutside Baptist Church Monday evening, October 7, at 7:30 o'clock, and continue through Sunday, October 13.

The Rev. Frank Moore, pastor of the Oakhurst Baptist Church, Charlotte, will be the guest speaker.

Mr. Moore is a graduate of Wake Forest College and of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas. On September 1, he completed his 10th year as pastor of the Oakhurst Church. He is active in the work of the Mecklenburg Baptist Association and the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina.

Mr. Moore is the son of missionary parents and spent the first five years of his life in China. His mother, the former Anna Green, is sister to Mrs. M. T. Rankin. Mr. Rankin was for years the beloved secretary of the Foreign Mission Board of Southern Baptist.

The public is cordially invited to worship with the local church during these series of services.

SHUCKS and NUBBINS

Another Special 'Week' For Mooreville

By the authority vested in us, which is none whatever, we hereby proclaim this week Mooreville Pat' Em On The Back Week, because:

The Mooreville-South Tredell United Fund campaign began officially Monday, and even the veteran U.F. workers say they never before seen such organization and enthusiasm. The spirit of uniting giving already has swept the town, and the build-up shows no signs of let-up. God Speed!

Mooreville area residents rolled up their sleeves and marched through the bloodmobile lines last week in unprecedented droves. The 22 gallons of blood donated during the Red Cross collection last week was the greatest non-violent blood-letting on record in these parts. The community again proved beyond any shadow of doubt it has a real appreciation of the blood service program, and its citizens illustrated they have a real compassion for the welfare of each other. Standing applause!

Mayor John C. Miller appointed his Good Neighbor Council, a 10-member group charged with handling the most sensitive and most demanding problem in our society today. How much the Council is able to accomplish depends entirely on public attitude. We all know this. That Moorevillians' approach to race relations is a hopeful one has been demonstrated often, most recently in the industrial division of the United Fund. The Negroes in our community have a fine record of participation in United Fund. At the U.F. kickoff breakfast Monday, Rufus Dalton noted that 95 per cent of the workforce at Temple-Chempun's all-Negro plant here contributed to United Fund. The town as a whole should do so well.

The town has shown that all its citizens can work together for the common good. We are confident the Good Neighbor Council will get the public support it must have to do any worthwhile work.

The Mooreville Chamber of Commerce organized another Fire Prevention Week campaign that is sure to be a valuable aid in the town's efforts to hold down fire losses. For its promotion of fire safety last year, the local Chamber was a national award from the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. W. J. and his people want another award this year, and not necessarily for the recognition as such. The Chamber wants to perform a service, and if the town gets a prize for the service, so much the better.

The town in general and the school system in particular played hosts Tuesday to more than 2,000 school teachers and administrators. 'Tis a feather in Mooreville's cap that the town attracted such a gathering of visitors, and the organization that enabled the annual meeting Southeastern District of the N. C. Education Association to go off so smoothly was a further tribute. The town's head cheerer jumped by a third overnight, but we handled the one-day population explosion with ease and grace.

Gene Johnston last week took on still more duties by allowing himself to be elected chairman of the influential Civic Action Committee. Perhaps more than any other single organization, this group of civic leaders has been the source of leadership and guidance behind most of the forward strides Mooreville has made in the past five years. Gene follows in the chairmanship top-caliber men such as Avery Craven and Jim Mack Morrow. We're sure he will continue their tradition of civic dedication.

There oughta be a law against these tactless promoters who plaster cars without the consent of the owners—and, usually, against the owners' wishes. At one tourist attraction in the mountains, we managed to head off a guy with an awful of stickers just as he took a bee-line for our car. We asked him how, when you were against becoming a rolling ad, could you avoid getting your bumper decorated. He said the bumper-sticker stickers have a code. Just place a small rock on your bumper as a sign you want your car left alone, he said. We'd like this at the next place we stopped, where the sticker was very careful to balance the rock on the hood ornament—before he plastered bills on both bumpers.

What reminded us of this small, but genuine frustration was an item in the papers about the fellow who has come up with the perfect bumper sticker. He is marketing one that says "Post No Bills." We would like one.

Cleaning The Grist From The Mill

Let us rejoice for the husband who got a howling ball for his wife—he says it was the best trade he ever made.

By the authority vested in us, which is none whatever, we hereby proclaim this week Mooreville Pat' Em On The Back Week, because:

The Mooreville-South Tredell United Fund campaign began officially Monday, and even the veteran U.F. workers say they never before seen such organization and enthusiasm. The spirit of uniting giving already has swept the town, and the build-up shows no signs of let-up. God Speed!

Brawley Certified As Official Hunter Safety Instructor

Presley B. Brawley, Jr., 822 Carpenter avenue, Mooreville, has been certified an official Hunter Safety Instructor becoming an essential part of a nation-wide program of firearm safety education and of the Hunter Safety Program of the N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission. He is available to give information, assistance, or guidance to others in the community interested in this program.

Bumper Stickers Are The Ultimate Insult

It happened, just as we knew it would. In Raleigh, some luckless soul was the victim of the ultimate insult. He parked his car within sight of some of those bumper-sticker maniacs, and got his car plastered with advertisements for a politician—the candidate whose views he strongly opposes.

There oughta be a law against these tactless promoters who plaster cars without the consent of the owners—and, usually, against the owners' wishes. At one tourist attraction in the mountains, we managed to head off a guy with an awful of stickers just as he took a bee-line for our car. We asked him how, when you were against becoming a rolling ad, could you avoid getting your bumper decorated. He said the bumper-sticker stickers have a code. Just place a small rock on your bumper as a sign you want your car left alone, he said. MARGARET HENDERSON
Receives Honor

Local Student Scholarship Semi-Finalist

Margaret Ann Henderson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Henderson of Mooreville, has been named a semi-finalist in the 1963-64 Merit Scholarship competition, according to announcement made today by Don H. Peffer, principal of the Mooreville Senior High School.

Miss Henderson is a member of the senior class.

She was named a semi-finalist through her outstanding performance on the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test, which was given in more than 16,500 high schools last March.

She is one of 13,000 seniors throughout the country who attained semi-finalist status. This group is composed of the highest scoring students in each state and in United States territories.

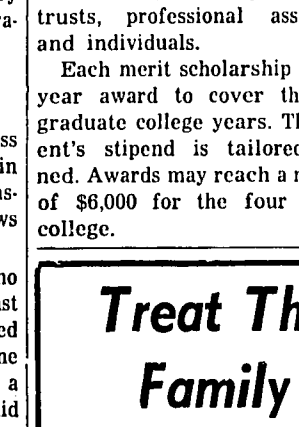

Each semi-finalist now moves a step closer to winning a four-year Merit Scholarship to the college of his choice. Semi-finalists must substantiate their qualifying test performance on a second examination, be endorsed by their schools, and fulfill certain routine requirements to become finalists. All Merit Scholars are selected from the finalist group.

All finalists receive a Certificate of Merit in recognition of their outstanding performance in the program. As finalists, the student will be eligible for scholarship awards sponsored by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation and about 175 business corporations, foundations, colleges, unions, trusts, professional associations, and individuals.

Each merit scholarship is a four-year award to cover the undergraduate college years. The recipient's stipend is tailored to his need. Awards may reach a maximum of $5,000 for the four years in college.

Mooreville, Monroe At 3-0 Head NPC

Going into the night of decision, Mooreville and Monroe are all knotted for the top spot in North Piedmont Conference standings. Each sports a 3-0 league mark, but this will be changed when the two teams collide on the Rebels home field Friday night.

Both teams bring unbeaten 4-0 overall marks into the important struggle and the winner will have undisputed top spot in the conference standings.

Children's Home, one of the early-season leaders, fell to the first defeat of the season at West Rowan last week. By virtue of this loss the Methodists drop to fourth place in the standings. West Rowan took over third spot with a 2-1-1 conference mark.

The Methodists' conference mark now stands at 1-1 with a 3-1 overall season record. North Rowan, with one conference victory and a 1-3-1 overall record, has fourth spot in the standings.

Overall, Troutman is 1-3, Davie County is 1-2, and the four teams have lost four and had one tie.

West Rowan	2	1	0
Children's Home	1	1	1
North Rowan	1	1	1
Troutman	1	3	1
Davie County	0	2	1
East Rowan	0	3	0

OUTSTANDING "BLUE DEVIL" IN THE East Rowan Game

MIKE CHESTER... 175-lb. Senior Fullback
Son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernal Lee, Route 3

Chosen By M.S.H.S. Football Squad

Awarded $5.00 GIFT CERTIFICATE By

John Mack & Son

"HERE I COME" — Shouts fullback-end Mike Chester as he returns a punt in the game last week. Chester was moved to split end in the East Rowan game, replacing injured Tim Roach. Several pass receptions by Chester helped the locals to victory. On this punt run-back, south-east blockers Larry Dyson (on top) and Thurston McNeely clear the path for Chester.

Blue Devils To Trek On Unscorched Soil In Struggle At Monroe Friday

Tomorrow night (Friday) the Mooreville Blue Devils hit the halfway mark of their regular season schedule in a tilt which, in all probability, will make the decision as to the North Piedmont Champion.

Both teams are unbeaten, each with a 4-0 mark. They are all alone at the top of the league standings. Following this crucial contest the winner will emerge as the front runner. The loser will drop into the "wait 'til next year" brand of thinking.

For our boys (the Blue Devils) this game is their chief desire of the year. Since the season opened it has appeared the conference game between Mooreville and Monroe would be the highlight of the season.

Standings, scoring punch and defensive ability put both almost on an equal plane. The major factor in the outcome of the game could be the playing site. This year the game is at Monroe and playing the invader role will prove to be the biggest obstacle in the face of Mooreville.

During a tenure which has stretched over three years, Monroe has run up a 22-game win streak on its home field. Still another thought: Monroe's last home loss came at the hands of the same Blue Devils who make the motor journey down to Union County Friday night.

This is truly the game of the year for the North Piedmont.

SQUEEZE PLAY — Quarterback Tommy Deal gives one mighty huff and puff as he squeezes through two East Rowan defenders for the third Mooreville score in the 25-7 conquest of the Mustangs last Friday night. Other Devil players are Gary Karriker (65), David Oliphant (21) and Roy Thompson (83). The locals hit the mid-way point of the regular season in a crucial conference battle against unbeaten Monroe tomorrow (Friday) night at Monroe.

BY SCORE OF 25 TO 7

East Rowan Becomes Devil's Fourth Victim

The Mooreville Blue Devils, who have run hot and cold all year, made like Sleeping Beauty half the ball game, then awoke just in time to pull out a 25-7 victory over winless East Rowan last Friday night.

Going into the dressing room at half-time all tied 7-7, the Devils' Prince Charming, alias Coach Roy Boyles, must have put the magic kiss on Mooreville's running and passing game. Following intermission, the locals took on new life to score three times and rack up their fourth straight win of the young season.

It took all the forces quarterback Tommy Deal could muster in the final two quarters to preserve the victory after two gift plays accounted for both touchdowns in the first half.

Midway the first quarter, the Mustangs, first and 10 on their 25-yard line, sent fullback Richard Klutts blitzing into the line. A jarring tackle by linebacker Padgy Johnson at the line of scrimmage sent the pigskin tumbling across the turf. An alert David Oliphant picked up the ball on second bounce and lit out like a flash across the goal line for the score.

Gary Karriker tied the extra point and Mooreville was ahead 7-0. The Blue Devils almost immediately returned the favor. Following the kick-off, East took over and marched from its 20 to the 14-yard line. On the first running play East recovered the Mooreville fumble at the 13.

This time Hamilton dropped back and with good protection threw a strike to Hayden Carter, one of three East receivers wide open in the end zone. On the extra point try Mickey Holthouser passed complete to Sonny Miller.

The locals got another drive going on the passing of Deal to halfbacks Mike Robinson and Mike Chester. They moved the ball to the East 19-yard marker before the officials held up the game, allowing the clock to run out before the locals could get play underway.

Less than a minute to play, East on fourth and three on its own 36-yard line went for the yardage and failed. Twenty-two seconds left, Deal tossed one incomplete pass and on the next try called the perfect play, a screen pass over the line to Robinson which was complete. Robinson ran around defenders to make the score move to 25-7. Again Karriker's successful kick was killed by a five-yard penalty and again the second attempt went astray. Nevertheless, the local charges left the turf 25-7 winners, their fourth straight win of the season.

Others with identical records of 11 correct and only one point off the correct total points for the Mooreville-East Rowan game, but later turning in their entries, were Steve Mack, 746 North Main; Leon Gabriel, 621 East Iredell; Mrs. Lloyd Best, route 4, and Jack Culbertson, 103 Cabarus.

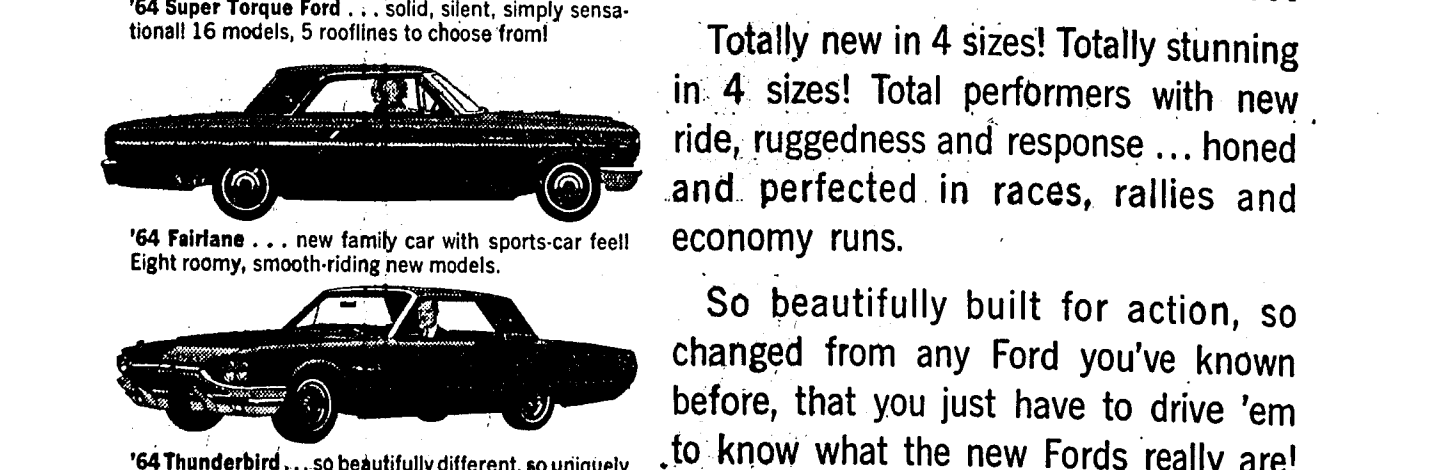

Others with 11 correct but off more than one point on the total points scored in the Mooreville-East Rowan game were: Paul Dinger, 814 South Main; W. W. Turman, route 4; W. L. Moore, 250 Institute; Mrs. Bill Young, 339 Patterson; Mrs. Charles H. Young, route 1; Steven Kennedy, route 1; A. L. Smith, route 1; and William T. Caldwell, route 1.

Guessing the exact score of the N. C. State-Southern Mississippi game, Harold W. Robertson, 129 North Sherrill street and Terry White, 708 East Iredell avenue, each won one-half gallon of DeLuxe Ice Cream, compliments of the Mooreville Ice Cream Company.

Also, for guessing the exact score of the University of South Carolina-Maryland game, Charles D. Berg, route 4, Box 129, and Bob Setzer, route 2, each won a box of Russell Stover candy, compliments of Medical Center Pharmacy and Goodman Drug Company.

SIDELINE COMMENTS

One Have Will Become A Have-Not Friday

Tomorrow night (Friday) the Blue Devils and Monroe will lay all the chips on the table. This is the game of decision for both. From all appearances, this could well be billed as the championship game of the North Piedmont conference. The two are at the top of the standings and the winner will have the inside track on the conference title. The loser will be just one of the other teams making up the conference.

Mrs. Young Top Winner In Grid Contest

Mrs. Earl Young, a resident of 347 Patterson avenue, took first place and a cash award of $7 in the weekly football contest being sponsored by Mooreville merchants and the Mooreville Tribune.

Mrs. Young had 11 correct guesses out of a possible 12 and guessed correctly the exact total score of the Mooreville-East Rowan game (22). The deciding factor, however, was that Mrs. Young turned in her entry at 9:40 a. m. Thursday.

Second place and a cash award of $4 went to Joe Griffith of Mooreville, route 4. He, too, had 11 correct guesses out of a possible 12 and guessed correctly the exact total score of the Mooreville-East Rowan game. He turned in his entry at 11:10 a. m. Friday.

F. L. Upright of the Mooreville Police Department took the third place prize of $3 in cash. He had 11 correct guesses and guessed 33 points as the total score of the Mooreville-East Rowan game. He turned in his entry at 7:20 a. m. Thursday.

Others with identical records of 11 correct and only one point off the correct total points for the Mooreville-East Rowan game, but later turning in their entries, were Steve Mack, 746 North Main; Leon Gabriel, 621 East Iredell; Mrs. Lloyd Best, route 4, and Jack Culbertson, 103 Cabarus.

Our predicting took a real whirl-lashing last week. Of four our side only one came out on our side of the ledger. We tried for two weeks and neither panned out. Our average for the year now stands at 173, based on 17 correct guesses in 22 attempts.

It could get even harder this week as East Rowan travels to Children's Home. West Rowan goes to Davie County. Troutman moves up in Iredell to take on Scotts and Mooreville has the important contest at Monroe.

Strictly on guesswork, we take Children's Home over East Rowan 19-0. Davie County over West Rowan 20-8. Troutman to sink (they've got to win sometime) Scotts 13-7 and, in the big one, we pull for the Blue Devils over Monroe by a score of 14-1. It can be done!

Iron Works, Templon Win Tilts

Using sheer speed Templon raced by the John Barger team 21-6 and Iron Works continued their unbeaten ways in grinding out a 14-7 decision over Drymore in Midget League Football action Monday night.

The Ironmen, coached by Tate Mills and Roy Church continued to show top form on the gridiron handling the ball well and passing with precision. Linebacker Chuck Byrd, judged by many fans as the top back in the league guided his team to their third win to run their record in four games to 3-0-1. Earlier in the season this same Drymore unit deadlocked the Ironmen 21-21.

End Clyde Millsaps scored both the touchdowns for the winners, both on the famed double reverse play worked by perfection by Mills charges. Millsaps swept wide on both plays and raced untouched for the score. Line busting full-back Glenn Wells added both extra points on a line plunge.

Drymore, although beaten for the first time gave the winners a real run for their money. Halfback Johnny Morrow brought the Drymore fans to their feet when in the third quarter he broke loose around end and raced 45 yards for a touchdown.

Halfback Hal Sherrill with one touchdown and end Huey Young with a pair of scores kept the Templon unit to a 21-8 margin over the winless John Barger team in which end play on both teams was outstanding.

Although losing Coach Fred Rinchard's team came through with their best game of the year as the Barger boys held the fast-paced Templon team well in check with the exception of three long scoring plays. In scoring their six points Barger unleashed a new style shotgun offense. A long pass from Don Pfeiffer connected to end Tommy Mills to set up the score on the three yard stripe. Two plays later Halfback Gary Brown cracked over for the score.

Two regular season playing dates remain on the schedule for the local Midget gridriders. Saturday the four teams will play night contests beginning at 7:00 p. m.

DEVELOPERS — Wins come a-plenty for the Blue Devil football team and helping to cheer the squad to victory during the coming grid battles will be the group of young ladies. Kneeling left to right, first row are: Carol Parker and Judy Stevens. Second group are Janice Mills and Mary Marshall Marks and backing up them are Susan Brown, Gloria Sloop and Terry Sprinkle.

Monroe Tops NPC Offense, Methodists Lead Defense

The Monroe Rebels continue to hold the lead in the offensive averages of the North Piedmont Conference.

Monroe, in winning four games, has scored a total of 87 points for an average of 21.8 points per game. Second spot in the offensive standings is held by Mooreville, which has pushed across 77 points for an average of 19.2 points per game.

A close third in the race are the Methodists of Children's Home, which has a 73-point total and an 18.2 average. West Rowan rounds out the top four in the league with an average of eight points per game.

Defensively, Children's Home is at the top of the ladder, allowing a total of 16 points, an average yield of four points per game. Mooreville had a good chance to be on top definitively before allowing East Rowan to gain seven in their game last week. The locals hold down second place in defense, having given up a total of 20 points for an average of five per game.

Emotions Of The Young

Jubilation Becomes Consternation

Where better to witness emotion in the raw than amongst rabid football fans? Mooreville Senior High's "devil," Patsy Byers, takes her sport seriously indeed, as you can see. At left the symbol of the Blue Devils screams her delight as the good guys get off a good gain in a recent encounter. Seconds later, she stares in anguish in the opposite direction as the bad guys momentarily get the upper hand. Perhaps Patsy illustrates what it is about the game that demands such attention—the fortunes of grid war are so unpredictable and so quick to change.

Junior High Gridders At China Grove Sat.

Mooreville's Junior High Red Imps still reeling from a 27-0 defeat in their opener Monday afternoon with D. Matt Thompson of Statesville, will travel to China Grove Saturday night for their second game of the season.

Games time set for 7:30 on the Grove home turf.

Coach Dave Richardson, during the past three days has sent the team through a rugged drilling and also has spent considerable time on the fundamentals of the game. In their opener the locals were set back more than 100 yards in penalties, and hampered by this defect, could never get a serious scoring drive underway.

Only bright spot of the game for the Imps was the stout play of center of the forward wall composed of Joe Benson, Frank Rader.

Fire Leaves Three Families Homeless

Members of the Mooresville Fire Department are shown as they battle Monday morning's fire at a three-apartment structure on West Moore avenue. The blaze caused damages estimated at approximately $10,000 and left three families homeless. The dwelling, owned by M. F. Crouch, Sr., was occupied by Mrs. Cora Cornelius, Mrs. Mary Carr, and Tom Johnston. Crouch, who estimated the loss to the house itself at $7,500, said the loss was partly covered by insurance. An electrical short was blamed for the blaze.

Tar Heel Farm Organizations Will Hear Under Secretary

Charles S. Murphy, Under Secretary of Agriculture, has been scheduled as principal speaker at the annual joint meeting of two farm organizations in Raleigh Tuesday, October 8.

He will address members of the Farmers Cooperative Exchange and the N. C. Cotton Growers Cooperative Association. The meeting will be held in the Horton Arena on the N. C. State Fairgrounds and will begin at 10:30 a. m.

A native of North Carolina, Murphy has served as No. 2 man in the U. S. Department of Agriculture since early 1961. He was born in Duplin County and received two degrees from Duke University.

Most of the years he has spent in Washington have been in government service, and he has been closely associated with the drafting of agricultural legislation.

G. D. Arndt, general manager of the two organizations, said a crowd of between 3,000 and 4,000 is expected for the annual event.

During the business sessions, delegates will elect members of the boards of directors.

Nominated to the FCX board at district meetings earlier in the year and subject to election at the annual meeting are James H. Campbell, Williamston, S. C.; G. D. Cox, Winterville; C. V. Howard, Salem; and R. H. Kennedy, Harmon.

Cotton Association directors nominated at district meetings and also subject to election by the membership are J. McEn. Gillis, Fayetteville; J. V. Taylor, Bethel; W. W. Andrews, Goldsboro; and A. H. Harris, Concord.

FOR LABOR FORCE

North Carolina Needs More Trained Workers

Despite North Carolina's active program to create more jobs and to train workers to fill jobs, there is still a lot of room for improvement, according to agricultural economists at North Carolina State.

The labor force increased by 18 per cent in the last decade in the face of substantial outmigration. "We need to do more than sustain our current rate of economic growth to accommodate the increased labor force," say the economists.

"An effective training program must be planned in light of the prospects for jobs in the future," the state economists say. "The basic educational level in the state should be of concern to all. Only 32 per cent of the people over 25 in North Carolina have a high school education. If they can't be trained in high school, some other methods of training should be sought."

These and other alternatives to the various manpower situations are discussed in one of five leaflets prepared by the Agricultural Policy Institute at N. C. State.

The leaflets, entitled Decisions for Progress, are designed to provide reference material for discussion groups that are interested in the economic growth of their communities and state.

The above material was taken from leaflet No. 2, entitled Manpower and Growth. All five are available without charge at the local agricultural offices.

Field strip cropping is a much better way to farm than crossing terraces or around the field farming. Much of it is not exactly on the contour because it is staked off parallel thus eliminating all short rows. Poultrymen Seek Ways To Adjust To Narrowing Margins Of Profit

North Carolina poultry producers this year are placing renewed emphasis on efficient production practices — one of their most effective weapons in fighting back at declining profit losses.

Ever mindful of the need for efficiency, the poultryman is now searching for those small, obscure items which, when corrected and added up, can make a significant change in the difference in cost of production and income.

"With the narrowing of margins of profits, everyone must give more than passing notice to those factors which might influence more efficient production," observes C. F. (Chick) Parrish, in charge of extension poultry at North Carolina State.

Parrish offers some suggestions that poultrymen might find helpful in their operation:

1. Are birds, especially in cases of severe debarking, actually getting enough mash to maintain body weight and to produce eggs at a high rate? "It has been my observation," said Parrish, "that this is one thing that should be considered where wellbred birds in healthy condition are not producing at a high rate—around 70 per cent or more. Possibly an additional feeding of crumbles or pellets would be justified."
2. Additional watering space should be provided during summer months. Birds consume more water during hot weather as they attempt to stay cool. Waterers should be washed twice daily.
3. Birds normally consume more feed during the cool morning hours. Lights may be in order.
4. If new poultry houses are being planned, insulation should be given careful consideration. In present houses where insulation is difficult, poultry netting may be placed over the tie beams and about 18 inches of grain straw placed between it and the roof.
5. Some operators could afford to operate sprinklers on the roof or, when the humidity is low, foggers and fans can be operated on the inside of the houses.
6. The planting of green crops around the house, especially where the sun is reflected into the poultry houses, can be beneficial in maintaining a comfortable summertime temperature for the birds.

Rancher Ray Houck, former lieutenant governor of South Dakota, said he would drive 2,000 head of cattle 125 miles down the Missouri River Valley from his ranch in Walworth County to his Standing Butte spread, which is located near Pierre.

Alfalfa seeded in strips through the field provides permanent protection against erosion. It provides extra protection in case the terraces overflow. Photo by Soil Conservation Service.

N. C. Nickles For Know-How Vote Scheduled For Tuesday, Nov. 19

The well-known Nickles For Know-How program in North Carolina for the support of agricultural research, education and extension at N. C. State College will be voted on again by the farm people in North Carolina on November 19.

The Nickles For Know-How plan was originated with a group of farm organizations and farmers in the early 1950's and the 1951 General Assembly passed an Enabling Act to permit farm people to conduct a referendum and assess themselves 5 cents per ton of feed and fertilizer purchased. The law provides that each year the Nickles for Know-How program will be voted on to determine if it will continue.

Past referendums for Nickles For Know-How referendums were held in 1951, 1954, 1957 and 1960. Funds received from the Nickles for Know-How program enable North Carolina to employ some of the best scientists and also to carry out many advanced research projects dealing with North Carolina agriculture. Numerous research projects are underway at the present time supported by Nickles for Know-How. One of the most outstanding results has been the development of a new variety of peanuts which out yields any other variety to date.

All purchasers of feed and fertilizer will have an opportunity to vote Tuesday, November 19, at the following polling places in Iredell County:

When Trading Trucks, Know Operating Cost

Take a look around a country store after supper some night and you'll get some idea of the popularity of pickup trucks among Tar Heel farmers.

Chances are there will be a dozen or so trucks parked at the store while their drivers chat inside about the weather, crops and politics. Or they may be discussing trading trucks or about the one they just bought.

There are over 91,000 farm trucks operated in North Carolina. "These represent a considerable investment by over 81,000 farmers," observes D. G. Harwood, Jr., extension farm management specialist at North Carolina State. "And sooner or later, these farmers are faced with the problem of when they should trade or when they should buy a truck."

Harwood points out that a survey conducted by the Agricultural Experiment Station in Arkansas showed that the average cost of operating a half-ton truck was about 6.7 cents per mile when driven 20,000 miles per year and traded every four years.

If the truck is driven less than 20,000 miles per year, or if traded in more often than every four years, the total cost of operation per mile is higher. Trucks traded every year cost about one cent per mile more than trucks traded every five years. This would amount to about $200 per year on the basis of driving 20,000 miles per year.

Harwood commented that farmers who drive trucks great distances each year can justify trading more often for a new vehicle.

Creek bottoms should be producing at least 100 bushels of corn or 20 tons of silage per acre. This bottom of Homer B. and Carl Tolbert of Amity is doing that well. Bottoms need crimson clover as a winter cover crop to improve the soil and yields. Photo by Soil Conservation Service.

'64 Jet-smooth Luxury CHEVROLET

'64 Chevrolet Impala Sport Sedan

Besides looks, ride and power—what's so special about it? (It's so reasonably priced.)

Kind of leaves the high-priced cars some explaining to do, wouldn't you say? Long and luxurious—with a fresh-crested look. Richer roomy interiors with subtle new blendings of colors and fabrics. Like the ultra-soft vinyl upholstery in the new Chevrolet Impala Super Sport Series.

A choice of seven engines, no less, with output all the way up to 425 hp.* And a choice of four smooth transmissions to go with them. And underlying it all, the opulent feel of this '64 Chevrolet's Jet-smooth ride.

Matter of fact, the most noticeable difference between this beautiful new 1964 Chevrolet and the high-priced cars is the price itself.

Let your dealer show you how much luxury that reasonable Chevrolet price now buys.

THOUGHT FOR THIS WEEK...

The worst disease in the world is Me-I-Tus. It is extremely painful and often fatal. You can tell when a person has this dreadful malady by the fact that the victim sits around thinking about himself all day. Instead of getting out and helping others he waits in his home for others to help him. Instead of helping his minister, he grumbles and snorts because he doesn't visit him enough.

An ingrown personality is about as ugly as an ingrown toe-nail.

What is the cure? Forget about yourself. You're not the only person in the world. There are millions who need your help. Service to others is the best medicine for Me-I-Tus.

Jesus reminds us: "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. For whosoever will save his life shall lose it, and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it." (Matthew 16:24-25)

First Baptist Ordains Brooks

Cyrus Brooks, newly-elected deacon at the First Baptist Church, was ordained in an impressive service at the local church Sunday evening.

The ordination sermon was delivered by the pastor of the church, the Rev. Bob D. Shepherd, and the candidate was charged by Bill Young, chairman of the church's board of deacons.

The prayer of ordination was given by Dr. Calvin E. Tyner, after which time all ordained deacons came forward and participated in the laying on of hands.

Special music for the service was rendered by a quartet, composed of J. W. Hager, J. D. Lowe, Carl Coone, and Dan Johnson.

Out-of-town guests attending the service included: Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Brooks of High Point, parents of the new deacon; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cumby, James Cumby, and W. B. Johnson, all of High Point; and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Powers of Winston-Salem.

Area Methodists Schedule Dinner At Central Methodist

Dr. Philip L. Shore, minister of the First Methodist Church in Charlotte, will address church leaders from 15 Mooreville area Methodist churches at a dinner meeting at Mooreville's Central Methodist Church on Thursday evening, October 10, at 6:30 o'clock.

The dinner meeting is held annually, one month prior to the Methodist Annual Conference, to introduce the church's courses and faculty and to promote attendance and participation in the school.

Participating churches include: Broad Street, Centenary, Central, Davidson, Fair View, Jones Memorial, McKendree, Mount Pleasant, Rehoboth, Rocky Mount, Shiloh, Triplett, Vanderburg, Wesley's Chapel, and Williamson's Chapel. The training school for this year is scheduled for the week on November 3-7.

WHY DOES GOD CARE?

We are so tiny in the vastness of space, so drab in the grandeur of nature. Why does God care about each one of us?

This question has always plagued the mind of man. It will probably never be completely answered to his satisfaction until he sees and believes the evidence of man's importance to God: Thou hast made him a little lower than the angels.

It remained for Jesus Christ to reveal the love of God. Sunday — World Communion Day — Christians will unite in the sacrament which is their richest experience of the glory and honor God has given.

The world over, men will rejoice in the Divine Love, so far-reaching, that God gave His Son for humanity.

DEVILS TALES

By DIANN SINCLAIR

All the way Big Blue, all the way. The Mooreville Blue Devils did it again. East Rowan was defeated by the Devils 25-7. We hope to be able to say that the Devils defeated some school every week.

Congratulations to Sandy Sharpe who has been chosen Carousell Princess. We know that she will represent our school well.

Also, congratulations to Mr. Ludwig's homeroom which was chosen Homeroom of the Week.

If you could change anything at MHS, what would it be?

Mary Marshall Marks — Three minute bell to 5 minutes.

Dean Patterson — Nothing, except put a certain person in first lunch.

Diann Sinclair — I'd get bigger mirrors.

Bobby Ingram — More school spirit.

Jerry Brantley — The glassy floors.

Rickey Phillips — Put a shelter over the smoking area.

Gary Cornelius — Slick floors.

Ronnie Wilson — More emphasis on basketball.

Linda Cook — Put lights on the stairs.

Sandy Torrence — Slick floors.

Rosalee Bryan — New bleachers.

Lynn Karlikar — Let out of town students come to Junior-Senior.

Wayne Stowe — Put more chairs in the recreation room.

Mooreville Given Portraits Of Moores

City Manager Cy Brooks and Mrs. Mary Mallard display portraits of Mooreville's original benefactors, Mr. and Mrs. John Franklin Moore, that were given to the town last week by Mrs. Mallard and her mother, Mrs. Octa Brown, both of 429 North Main Street. Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Mallard are granddaughter and great-granddaughter of John Franklin Moore, for whom Mooreville was named. Moore gave the railroad a depot site here, and he also donated other land toward the development of the town. The pictures have been hung in the vestibule of the municipal building.

Southside's Anniversary Day Speakers

Two former pastors at Southside Baptist Church—the Rev. Homer O. Baker, left, and the Rev. Paul T. Brock—will be featured speakers at the 50th anniversary day program at the local church next Sunday, October 6. Mr. Brock will speak at the morning service, and Mr. Baker will be heard at the afternoon service.

OCTOBER 6 EVENT

Southside Baptist Church Plans 50th Anniversary Day Program

Sunday, October 6!

That's the day Southside Baptist Church will observe the 50th anniversary of its organization. It will be an all-day event, with two former pastors, the Rev. Homer O. Baker and the Rev. Paul T. Brock, as featured speakers, according to announcement made earlier this week by the pastor, the Rev. P. C. Gantt.

Mr. Brock, who served as pastor of the church for eight years, 1952-1960, will speak at the 10:50 a. m. worship service, while Mr. Baker, who pastored the church for three years, 1949-51, will make the keynote address at the 1:30 p. m. service.

Special music at the morning service will be rendered by Jerry Jones, soloist, who will sing "His Eye Is On The Sparrow" and the sanctuary choir, which will render "How Great Thou Art."

In addition to Mr. Baker's address at the afternoon service, two other former pastors, the Rev. J. Clyde Yates and the Rev. W. W. Abernathy, will bring greetings.

Special music at the afternoon service will be rendered by the Southside Baptist Church quartet and the South Yaddan Baptist Association's Men's Chorus.

The Rev. Mr. Brock is now pastor of the Reedy Ford Baptist Church at Greensboro, and the Rev. Mr. Baker serves as pastor of the Edneyville Baptist Church at Edneyville.

The church, according to the best records available, was organized in the latter part of December, 1913, with the Rev. Allen Wasson Wilcox as pastor.

Dinner will be served picnic style at the noon hour.

All members, former members, former pastors, and friends of the church are cordially invited to attend the anniversary program.

50-Year-Old Southside Baptist Church Has Interesting History

For many years (1882-1913), Mooreville had only one Baptist Church. The history of that church and the history of the Southside Baptist Church are inseparably united. The First Baptist Church is actually the mother church of Southside.

It is never pleasant when misunderstanding and difficulties creep into a church, but the story that follows shows how God can take the unpleasant and make it work out for His glory and for the advancement of His Kingdom. For out of a division in a church there came two strong churches that have labored together for half a century in winning the lost and extending the bounds of the Kingdom of Christ.

In 1912, the Rev. J. W. Whitley of Matthews was called as pastor of the Mooreville Baptist Church (First Baptist Church). Mr. Whitley was to divide his time between the church at Mooreville and the church at Matthews. In 1913, the Mooreville church, having secured subscriptions sufficient to pay a pastor full-time service, voted to go on a full-time basis.

The call was extended to the Rev. A. W. Wilcox of Mooreville, who at that time was serving the Berea and Shady Grove Baptist Churches in the South Yaddan Baptist Association.

It seems, however, that the Rev. Mr. Wilcox did not receive a clear majority of the votes, and he did not officially take up the work as pastor of the Mooreville Baptist Church (First Baptist Church).

Instead, a group withdrew from the Mooreville Baptist Church and formed the nucleus of what is now Southside Baptist Church, with Mr. Wilcox as pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Wilcox, who served as pastor of the church in the fall of 1912, serving until the spring of 1929 when he resigned to accept the pastorate of a High Point church.

The Rev. W. W. Abernathy succeeded Mr. Wilcox. Mr. Abernathy served three years and was succeeded by the Rev. W. W. Rimmer.

Following Mr. Rimmer's resignation on October 3, 1937, the Rev. Wade H. James was called to the local field, beginning his work at the local church on May 8, 1938.

Mr. James resigned in September, 1939, and was succeeded by the Rev. W. G. Russell, who served until August 15, 1944.

In August, 1944, the church called the Rev. J. R. C. Henderson as pastor. It was during his pastorate that plans were made for a new sanctuary and a great deal of emphasis was placed on a building fund.

Mr. Baker's resignation became effective October 31, 1961.

On December 23, 1961, the church called as its pastor the Rev. Paul T. Brock. During his pastorate of eight years many improvements were made.

Mr. Brock submitted his resignation to the church on January 3, 1960, and the Rev. P. C. Gantt accepted the call to become pastor of Southside and moved to Mooreville on July 1, 1960.

Under his leadership the church has continued to go forward in the work of the Kingdom.

Man Never Has Learned To Harness Fire Genie

Ho, hum, too many of us say, here comes another of those "weeks."

True, Fire Prevention Week, October 6-12, is another of those "weeks," and true, every week is something new. But while we may not get excited about the week itself, we ignore the message of Fire Prevention Week at our peril. Even National Fire Week has a message for those of us who enjoy our pickles.

Mooreville traditionally observes two weeks each year that go hand in hand—Clean Up-Paint Up-Fix Up Week and Fire Prevention Week. In both, the lesson to learn is: Don't give fire a place to start. If you keep your home and office neat and free of trash paper and debris, you will go a long way toward meeting the recommendations of both "weeks."

There is none of the usual commercial pitch connected with Fire Prevention Week. It is simply a promotion designed to save lives and property. In Mooreville, the Chamber of Commerce sponsors the annual observance because the Chamber realizes that every fire prevented makes for a stronger community. Year after year, we bend our ears with the same dreary statistics, yet the siren of the Mooreville fire engines whine across town just about every day. Here in our town, we can't cite figures to prove that Fire Prevention Week is effective in itself, but our firemen are convinced that year-around fire safety consciousness in Mooreville keeps our fire loss as low as it is. Nationally, a week set aside during the year to stress the dangers of fire has proven a valuable weapon in the endless war against needless fire loss of life and property.

But fire still strikes an average of more than 1,000 American homes every day. Some are fatal, most are serious, a few are inconsequential. Every one means a loss. During 1962, 11,700 Americans lost their lives to fire, an additional 70,000 persons were injured in fires.

Fire is one of man's indispensable servants; unfortunately, it also is one of our most treacherous helpers. Fire is a genie not easily harnessed. It can be controlled; it cannot be tamed. Just when we take fire for granted is when it runs rampant over us.

Fire plays no favorites, it hits where it is least wanted and least expected. Last year there were deadly fires in hospitals, schools, rest homes and churches as well as in private dwellings. Many of these fires need not have happened. The National Board of Fire Underwriters reminds us three-fourths of all fires are the result of carelessness, and with a little care we should be able to reduce our mounting fire toll. And mounting it is, in spite of all our Fire Prevention Weeks. Last year, fire losses in the U. S. amounted to more than $1 billion—another all-time high, an increase of 4.6 per cent over 1961.

What are you going to do about it? Do you say, oh, hum, the fire truck never has been called to my block? You never have been killed in an auto accident, either, but you could be. The time to worry about giving fire a place to start is before it starts. Like right now.

Amazing New Boom To Learning Process

(From Antiquarian Bookman)

A new aid to rapid—almost magical—learning has made its appearance. Indications are that if it catches on, all the electronic gadgets will be so much junk.

The device is known as Built-in Orderly Organized Knowledge. The makers generally call it by its initials, BOOK.

Many advantages are claimed over the old style learning and teaching aids on which most people are brought up nowadays. It has no wires, no electric circuit to break down. No connection is needed to an electrical power point. It is made entirely without mechanical parts to go wrong or need replacement.

Anyone can use BOOK, even children, and it fits comfortably into the hands. It can be conveniently used sitting in an armchair by the fire.

How does this revolutionary, unbelievably easy invention work? Basically BOOK consists only of a large number of paper sheets. These may be run to hundreds where BOOK covers a lengthy programme of information. Each sheet bears a number in sequence, so that the sheets cannot be used in the wrong order. To make it even easier for the user to keep the sheets in the proper order, they are held firmly in place by a special locking device called a "binding." Each sheet of paper presents the user with an information sequence in the form of symbols, which he absorbs optically for automatic registration on the brain. When one sheet has been assimilated a flick of the finger turns it over and further information is found on the other side.

By using both sides of each sheet in this way a great economy is effected, thus reducing both the size and cost of BOOK. No buttons need to be pressed to move from one sheet to another, to open or close BOOK, or to start it working.

BOOK may be taken up at any time and used by merely opening it. Nothing has to be connected up or switched on. The user may turn at will to any sheet going backwards or forwards as he pleases. A sheet is provided near the beginning as a location finder for any required information sequence.

The initial cost varies with the size and subject matter. Already a vast range of BOOKS is available, covering every conceivable subject and adjusted to different levels of aptitude. One BOOK, small enough to be held in the hands, may contain an entire learning schedule. Once purchased, BOOK requires no further upkeep cost; no batteries or wires are needed, since the motive power, thanks to an ingenious device patented by the makers, is supplied by the brain of the user.

BOOKS may be stored on handy shelves and for ease of references the programme schedule is normally indicated on the back of the binding.

Altogether the Built-in Orderly Organized Knowledge seems to have great advantages with no drawbacks. We predict a big future for it.

Dinosaur's Dilemma

Scientists who study the fossilized remains of extinct animal life on the Earth tell us that if a dinosaur had been stuck in the tip of its tail with a pile it would have taken a minute or so for the sensation of pain to travel 70 or 80 feet to its brain. It became so overgrown and slow in its reactions that one end of it was hardly aware of what the other end was doing. The federal government seems to have developed similar characteristics.

Months ago President Kennedy, in his transportation message to Congress, made a clear statement of the fact that resources devoted to providing transportation service should be used as effectively and efficiently as possible. He added: "This basic objective can and must be achieved primarily by continued reliance on unsubsidized privately-owned facilities, operating under the incentives of private profit and the checks of competition to the maximum extent practicable."

Why is it, then, that so many public officials are on the opposite tack and with fervent devotion promote tax free and tax subsidized government competition with investor-owned businesses and private citizens?

The Post Office Department provides a current example of this contradiction. It is seeking to expand its parcel post service in competition with private shippers by maintaining tax supported low rates in spite of the fact that this service already accounts for $127 million of the $231 million postal deficit expected in the year ahead. Legislation is proposed which would vest rate setting authority in Congress and free the Post Office Department from the present requirement that it fix rates for parcel post rates by some 25 per cent, and it pays no taxes. Recently a 13 per cent increase in rates was requested—about half of the proper figure.

Political rather than economic considerations will triumph if the Post Office Department is given the green light to intensify its subsidized low-rate competition with the nation's tax-paying, investor-owned parcel and small shipment business.

Parson Jones' Pulpit

DEAR MR. PUBLISHER:

I shone stirred up a hornet's nest last Sunday. I preached on sex. Four women got up and left when I announced my subject; two stomped out in the middle of my talk; Ellie Nicklesinger pounded her shoe on the floor and pulled a walk-out just when I was winding up. What's worse—ten folks left right before we took up collection.

Now, Mr. Publisher, I don't mind folks leaving during my sermon but I do wish they would turn in their money before they leave. (You've heard folks say, "It ain't the money—it's the principle of the thing.") Sir, I'm more worried about the money than I am the principle. You can't buy taters with principle.)

A delegation of ladies, headed up by Ellie Nicklesinger, has already been to see me. They told me I had plumb stepped out of line. I told her that all I done was to preach on sex and I couldn't see any reason for all the fuss. Ellie said she wasn't deaf—she had heard the whole sorry mess, and the church wasn't no place for such talk. Heckle's wife agreed that folks ought to mix sex and religion.

I tried to explain why I done what I done, but Ellie wouldn't shut the big hole in her face long enough to let anything in her pore little ears. (When the good Lord put ears on that woman it was a pore investment!) I thought maybe if I told you, and you wrote it in the paper, Ellie might see with her eyes what bounced off her ears.

It's a funny thing to me Mr. Publisher that we mix everything under the sun with sex. We've got sex and whiskey, sex and movies, sex and magazines, sex and fun, sex and jokes—and we even mix it with the moon. But, for some odd reason or other we don't want to mix it with religion. One of the reasons sex has caused so much trouble is that we've tried to keep religion and sex separated. It looks to me like the Church is the logical place to talk about it.

Mr. Publisher, I've always felt like sex was a pretty good thing. The good Lord gave it to us—not the devil I figure when a fella's counting his blessings sex ought to be one of 'em.

It looks to me like when a body can bow his head and talk to God about sex, like he can about what's on his dinner table, then he'll have his mind outta the gutter.

From what the ole Parson can see happening to some married couples, husbands-and-wives could use a little religion in their sex life. According to the Good Book sex is as much a part of family life as eating together. Married folks that forget it are headed for trouble. I hope Ellie Nicklesinger reads this. Maybe it'll clean up her mind a little bit.

Well, Mr. Publisher, I gotta be going. I'm supposed to run my wife and Ellie Nicklesinger by the movies. They're gonna see Cleopatra, starring Liz Taylor. So long.

Yours Truly,

Parson Jones

IN OTHER YEARS

The regular monthly meeting of the town board of commissioners was held Monday night. Routine business was taken up and bills ordered paid.

One of the most important resolutions that has ever been before the board was offered and adopted, and will mean a great deal to the taxpayers of Mooreville. It was decided to discount the taxes of every taxpayer 2 per cent on 1914 taxes if paid on or before the 1st of December 1914. If not paid by that time, the usual procedure in the way of making collections will be enforced.

A committee consisting of Mayor Frontis, Clerk E. C. Deaton and Commissioner C. A. Mayhew was appointed to arrange for a cotton platform.

An application was made by parties interested for permission to open and operate a public pool room in the town. The matter was discussed but no action was taken, the ordinance against such a room standing as formerly.

A top-sold dressing is being placed on the beautifully graded streets of the town and when complete the principal thoroughfares will present a very different appearance from what they did after the rains two weeks ago. Superintendent James L. Donald, of the water and light plant, is busy with his corps of assistants removing from Main street along the business section all the poles and trees, preparatory to eventually establishing a "white way," at the same time lessening danger by falling wire and other materials.

Mr. J. C. McCoy, a Canadian who has been living in Mooreville for several months, and Miss Clyde Rash, of Ashe county, were happily married last night at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Shaw. Rev. Charles L. Austin officiating. The bride made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Shaw for several years and has numerous friends throughout the vicinity. Several invited guests were present to witness the affair. Miss Brettie Gray played the wedding march and Mr. J. H. McElwain was the groom's best man. The couple will board at Mr. Shaw's for a while.

Monday afternoon Messrs. Q. M. Nantz and Broadus Kerr were butchering a cow at the Benson slaughter pen for J. T. Jennings, who operates a meat wagon. The animal had been dressed and the men were in the act of placing one quarter in the wagon, when Mr. Nantz's arm slipped and the butcher knife that he held in his hand cut a two inch gash under the left of the chin in Mr. Kerr's throat. Had the cut gone just a fraction deeper, serious if not fatal injuries would have resulted. As it is the young man had a very narrow escape and the gash, ugly and painful.

Miss Willie Kilpatrick left Monday for Charlotte, where, at the Sanatorium, she will take a course in bacteriology. Upon finishing this course she will take charge of a laboratory for the resident physicians.

Mr. H. E. Shoaf, for many years a prominent farmer of the Mill Bridge section of Rowan county, has moved with his family to Mooreville and will live with his son, Mr. Jay Shoaf on Center avenue.

Miss Myrtle Melchor entertained the members of "The Four Leaf Clover Club" at a Halloween party on Saturday evening. The time was spent in playing games and telling ghost stories. Delicious refreshments were served.

Rowan county is doing an excellent work in extending the Mill Bridge road to the Iredell line. Surveyors and road workers are to-day laying off the grades, and the work will be pushed to completion, beginning at once.

One day last week a cotton picking contest took place on the farm of Mr. T. W. Kistler, of Coddie Creek township, and two of his children, a boy and a girl, made good records. Miss Lella Kistler, aged 13 years, picked 300 pounds and her brother Guy just 10 years of age, picked 293 pounds. They completed their picking in one hour and a half in a field that had been picked over three times before.

While loading saw dust into a wagon at the Barger farm south of town Tuesday morning Mr. Will Cook stepped from a big log on to a small pole, when his foot slipped, causing a badly sprained ankle. Mr. Cook is using crutches and will be confined for sometime to come.

The homes of Messrs. Ralph M. Brawley, W. P. Carpenter, Joe Ketchie and Harry Deaton have been relieved of the yellow flag, the scarlet fever cases having run their courses and the homes fumigated. Mrs. Tom Hill will probably get out next Monday.

Mooreville Mayor Issues Proclamation

Incident to the annual National Fire Prevention Week, Mayor John C. Miller has issued the following proclamation:

"Whereas, it is an established fact that loss of life and loss of property by fire is annually a costly item in our lives, and

Whereas, much of this loss could be avoided if every citizen would take the necessary precautions once a year to eliminate fire hazards.

Be it proclaimed that the week from October 6 to October 12 be Fire Prevention Week in the Town of Mooreville, during which time all citizens of said town be urged to eliminate all fire hazards within their jurisdiction."

JOHN C. MILLER,

Mayor of Mooreville

This the 1st day of October, 1963.

Tips Are Offered For Rural Fire Protection

If you live in an isolated suburban community or on a farm situated some distance from water mains, fire hydrants, or a fire department, the National Board of Fire Underwriters suggests you follow these tips to "increase" home fire safety:

1. Keep a garden hose handy if you have water under pressure, and make sure your house has plenty of threaded faucets. A garden hose can extinguish small fires before they become big ones.
2. Have a back-pack pump handy. These pumps usually hold five gallons of water, and can be carried to a fire anywhere.
3. If you have fruit- or shrub-spraying equipment, keep it ready for use. It makes a good fire extinguisher.
4. Keep a ladder in a place where it can be obtained quickly to reach fires on roofs or for rescue purposes.

Check Your Home For Fire Hazards

Fire Prevention Week in your community will be effective only if you participate, the National Board of Fire Underwriters said today.

Here's what you can do:

1. Check your attic and basement for accumulations of old newspapers, empty paint cans and other combustible trash which feed fires.
2. Check your electrical circuits, appliances, and extension cords to make sure they are in proper working order.
3. Check your fuse box. All fuses should be of the proper amperage.
4. Don't leave matches lying around. See to it that they are kept out of reach of children.
5. Never leave children at home alone. If you employ a baby sitter, be sure she knows how to call the fire department.

WATCH FOR FIRE IN YOUR KITCHEN!

Fire loves grease, so kitchen stoves should be cleaned often. Curtains too near an open burner and catch fire. Pot holders and cans of fat burn quickly. Keep them away from the burner! Remember to keep children from playing near the stove! If you gamble with fire—the odds are against you!

Kiss 'em goodbye, Mom...

but be sure you see them again!

Children home alone, the youngest ones especially, would be helpless to escape if fire should strike while you're away.

This tragedy happens every day and actually is the cause of one out of every three child fire deaths.

Never leave small children alone. Even if it is necessary to leave the house for only a few minutes ask a neighbor to stay with the children. And whenever you must go out for a longer time, leave the children in the care of a baby sitter who not only has been told what to do in case of fire but who is also physically and mentally capable of carrying out such instructions.

Dr. Brawley Asks Citizens' Support For Fire Safety

The president of the Mooreville Chamber of Commerce joins the mayor this week in appealing for cooperation from all Mooreville citizens in making Fire Prevention Week more than a mere lip service to fire safety.

The Chamber sponsors Fire Prevention Week each year in an effort to make local residents more aware of the tragic fruits of carelessness with fire. The Chamber is joining other such organizations across the nation in promoting the observance.

Dr. Boyce Brawley, local Chamber president, asks all Mooreville citizens to take an active part in promoting fire safety during Fire Prevention Week October 6-12.

Matches, Smoking Continue As The Leading Fire Cause

Matches and smoking continue to be the leading cause of fires, the National Board of Fire Underwriters reported today.

Nearly one-fourth of all fires are caused by matches and smoking, according to a Board study. Misuse of electrical equipment is the second largest cause of fires, accounting for more than 20 per cent of the total.

And, the National Board notes, three-fourths of all fires are the result of carelessness. The Board points out that you can help prevent fires by simply using care.

Firemen Attend Four-Session School

Sponsored by the Fire and Rescue Service Division of the North Carolina Insurance Department, a four-session school was held in Mooreville during the past summer for members of the Mooreville Volunteer Fire Department and the Mooreville Rescue Squad. The school was termed very successful. Here, Jim Finison, right, and Mr. Dawson, left, who conducted the school, pose with Charles A. Troutman, Jr., chief of the Mooreville Volunteer Fire Department.

In United States, Sixty-Six Homes Are Struck By Fire Each Hour

Every hour, 66 American homes are destroyed or damaged by fire.

Every hour and a quarter, one person—most frequently a child or elderly person—died in a dwelling fire.

These figures, from National Fire Protection Association research, are the measure of our failure to heed fire hazards, and the measurable result of our failure to correct them.

The causes of most home fires are no mystery. A carelessly discarded cigarette is left to smolder in an overstuffed chair, a portable oil heater is refilled while still lighted, electrical circuits are overloaded and overused, uncleaned rubbish becomes a breeding place for fire.

There is nothing mysterious about the causes of most fire deaths in homes. They occur when the simple rules of safety from fire are violated—from smoking in bed, leaving children alone in the house, allowing youngsters to play with matches.

A critical failure is being unprepared for fire emergencies in the home—no family planning of escape routes, no periodic family fire drill to make sure that both adults and children can act quickly and without panic.

Fires represent failure. Fire Prevention Week is a time to recognize this fact, and to act—to correct hazards, to exercise care, to be prepared.

Your actions and your attitude now can make you and your family safe from the tragic consequences of fire in the months ahead.

Mooreville Firemen Practice 'Ounce Of Prevention' Adage

The Mooreville Fire Department fights fires, sure, but what does it do toward preventing them?

Foremost, it is the full-time job of Howard Pender to make and keep Mooreville as free from fire as he possibly can. As the town's fire inspector, he seeks out and eliminates fire hazards, and he advises citizens on fire safety. He enforces the local school law to cultivate a respect for fire among children. He cooperates with builders to try and make each new structure safe from fire. He investigates every fire to try and learn how it was caused—and from such investigations he learns how to avoid fires.

The fire department cooperates with all interested civic groups and town to promote fire safety. Fire Chief Charlie Troutman says his department is working with the Mooreville Chamber of Commerce again this year to make Fire Prevention Week a meaningful observance.

Chief Troutman naturally feels strongly about fire safety. He knows from personal observation the terrible loss of life and property that fire can cause in a few minutes. He also knows that by using a few simple precautionary methods, citizens can prevent most damaging fires.

The fire chief, discussing replacement costs, said that, "even in small fires, where the firemen are able to confine the flames to one room, it costs property owners two to three times as much to refurnish the burned-out areas as it did ten years ago." The chief particularly emphasized these points:

Great damage to our city is caused by rubbish fires. If we remove the rubbish from our cellars, attics and closets, fire losses will come down and many alarms will be eliminated.

Buildings classified as conflagration hazards should be protected by automatic sprinklers. Such installations will pay for themselves out of savings in insurance premiums and as a result our conflagration areas will be eliminated.

Basement fires are the hardest to fight. Firemen have difficulty fighting their way in and often do not know what the conditions will be when they reach the basement. If these also were protected by automatic sprinklers, our country's nearly one billion dollars in fire losses would be greatly reduced.

The chief particularly emphasized the large number of fires caused from carelessness in handling matches and smoking.

"Matches should be kept where small children cannot reach them and a liberal supply of ash trays throughout the house would reduce fires," the chief said. He emphasized that, "if you value your life, do not smoke in bed!"

Drive Started To Save Lives Cut Losses

A step-up in fire prevention efforts to hold down the nation's gigantic fire toll was urged today by Lewis A. Vincent, general manager of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Mr. Vincent said that Fire Prevention Week—October 6-12—is a local starting point.

Commenting on the nation's human fire toll—11,800 persons lost their lives from fire last year and thousands more were injured—Mr. Vincent said: "The loss of a single life is a tragedy, and the loss of nearly twelve thousand lives gives emphasis to the need for everyone to be constantly alert to this ever-present threat. The loss of life can and must be reduced. There can be no relaxation in the efforts to eliminate uncontrolled fire."

"A point to be remembered," he continued, "is that each one of those persons who died or was injured was an individual, and while the statistics show large numbers, the individual suffering and the grief of friends and relatives underline the need for thinking not only in terms of large numbers but more importantly of the individual."

The Measures Of Loss

In relation to property destroyed or damaged by fire, the dollar value of property destroyed and the number of fire losses which occur are the usual measures of the fire loss. Mr. Vincent said: "The fire loss of 1962 measured in dollars, which amounted to $1,265,002, is an enormous drain on the economy of this country."

He added, "Every effort must be made to reduce that loss."

"We must remember that the fire loss is made up of a large number of fires, any one of which could have involved loss of life, and brought physical suffering to individuals as well as loss of their property."

On the bright side, Mr. Vincent reported that fire prevention is paying off.

"It is clear that fire prevention efforts and fire protection facilities have in effect reduced the annual toll from fire," Mr. Vincent said. "The ratio of loss of life from fire to the population of the country has dropped as the population has increased. Studies also show that fire losses as compared with the amount of property and value of property subject to fire loss have actually been reduced steadily over the past 60 years, and these reductions are continuing during the present decade. In fact it is a matter of record that had it not been for fire prevention and fire protection measures, the annual fire loss would probably be three times as great as it is."

"We must recognize that fires can be controlled, but it is up to the individual to do his part. It is not something we can leave to others to do for us because each of us could be the next victim unless we take steps to prevent fire and to provide proper safeguards to minimize the hazard of fire."

Congratulations To The Mooreville Fire Department

Mooreville's New Fire Fighting Equipment Acquisition

In addition to the new fire truck, the department has a 1921 American LaFrance 750 gallon pumper, a 1938 Ford 500 gallon pumper, a 1951 Ford-LaFrance 500 gallon pumper and a fully equipped 1961 Ford rescue truck. The Gamewell Fire alarm system with 57 fire alarm street boxes serves our town. Any home in Mooreville can be reached with the use of 5,560 feet of 2 1/2 inch hose and 2,200 feet of 1 1/2 inch hose. The present estimated value of apparatus and equipment in serviceable condition is $56,369.65.

It is with great pride that we commend the Firemen of Mooreville for their dedication to services of fire prevention and control. Most of us only see them as they answer the day time calls. This is their easiest task. Regardless of hour or weather, when the call comes, they are on the job. There are also many hours of study and practice in which the firemen all participate, not to mention the dangers involved. To this great and needed group of men... again we salute you.

A BIG LOSS

HERE ARE SOME THINGS WE CAN ALL DO:

1. Clear the house of rubbish, oily rags, etc.
2. Check heating systems for cracks and clogging. See that woodwork isn't too close to smoke and heat pipes.
3. Have plenty of ash trays. Don't smoke in bed.
4. Keep matches in metal containers: out of reach of children.
5. Do not use inflammable cleaning fluids in the home.
6. Beware of frayed electric cords: don't use over-size fuses.
7. Keep dead grass and refuse away from buildings.
8. Observe fire precautions 52 weeks of the year.

FIRE CAN TAKE A VERY TRAGIC TOLL IN LIVES AND PROPERTY. DON'T LET IT STRIKE HOME WITH YOU. TAKE PREVENTIONS. SEE THAT YOUR HOME IS FREE FROM FIRE HAZARDS BY CHECKING IT NOW. IF YOU NEED ASSISTANCE OR INFORMATION CONCERNING THE SAFETY OF YOUR HOME, CALL THE LOCAL FIRE DEPARTMENT AND THEY WILL BE GLAD TO HELP YOU.

DON'T GIVE FIRE A PLACE IN WHICH TO START

Your Fire Is Not Only Your Loss — But A Loss To The Whole Community

LOSSES AT PEAK

Fire Prevention Set-up Urged In Year Ahead

More intensive fire prevention efforts for the year ahead were urged today by Lewis A. Vincent, general manager of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. Despite the excellent work of fire safety groups, fire marshals, fire departments, and service organizations, fire losses continue to mount, said Mr. Vincent. "Last year, 11,700 persons lost their lives in fires. Thousands more were injured. "Let us make Fire Prevention Week this year a time of renewed fire safety education that will continue throughout the year," Mr. Vincent said.

Reasons For Rise

Contributing to the rise were: 1—A continuing increase in the number of large loss fires ($100,000 or higher). 2—Continued expansion of the economy and the inflationary trend, which is reflected in the rising cost of materials, goods and services. 3—The multi-million dollar Bel-Air-Brentwood conflagration in Los Angeles County last November. "These factors contributed to the large loss in 1962," Mr. Vincent said, "but the chief cause of fire is carelessness. "With greater awareness of the fire problem and intensified fire safety education efforts, we will be taking a giant step forward in holding down our fire toll."

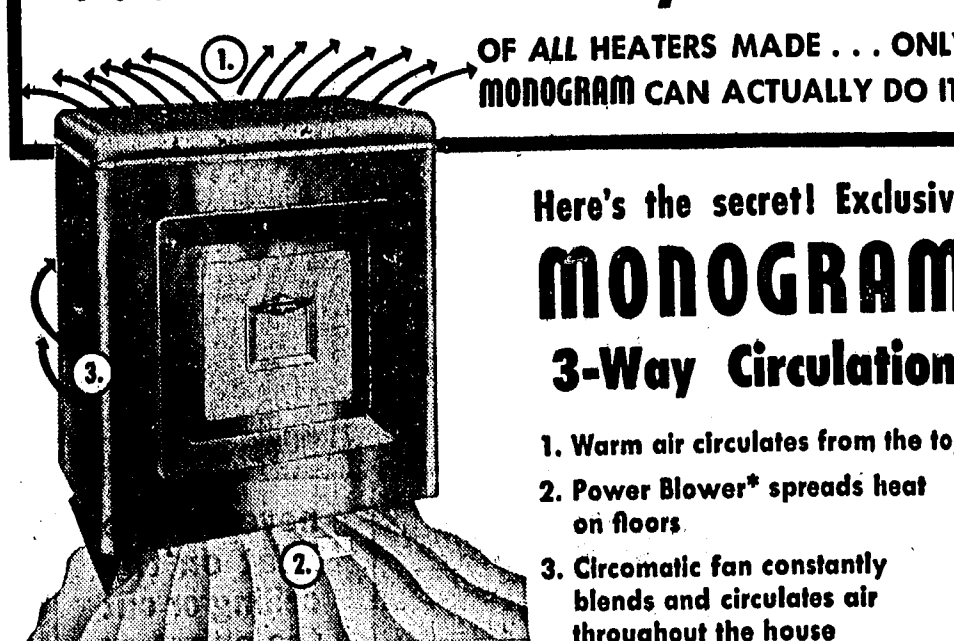

BE CAREFUL WITH OIL STOVES!

Oil stoves can be dangerous if not used correctly. They should always be kept clean. Don't wait—have them fixed immediately if they are not working properly. Make sure the stove is turned on and off according to the directions. Also follow the instructions when refilling with clean oil or kerosene. If you gamble with fire—the odds are against you!

TWO-GALLON BLOOD DONOR BOBBY WILSON
Red Cross Nurse Joanne Wynne Accepts 16th Pint

A Record Blood-Letting By Mooreville Donors

More than 22 gallons of blood flowed at the War Memorial last week — an all-time record for non-violent blood-letting in this area.

The 178 pints of blood collected here last Wednesday by the Piedmont Carolinas Regional Blood Program was the most blood South Iredell citizens ever have contributed in a single day by the bloodmobile. The quota for the collection drive was 125 pints.

T. C. Homesley, who directs the program service project within the South Iredell Red Cross Chapter, said the turnout Wednesday proved once again that area citizens know and appreciate the value of having a reliable supply of a variety of types of whole blood available.

The news of the day was the record-high contribution, but there were other highlights. One was the appearance of Bobby F. Wilson, Wilson, 37-year-old resident of 914 East Center Avenue, was the first donor in the line Wednesday morning. He gave the 16th pint of blood, and the donation qualified him and his family for life coverage under the Red Cross blood program. The two-gallon donor has been giving blood since the Red Cross first organized its blood program in 1940. He is employed at Mooreville Mills.

Another noteworthy incident was an emergency call from the regional office in Charlotte for 10 pints of a certain type of blood. Donors of the specified type quickly were recruited, and the blood was rushed to Charlotte laboratories for processing.

The blood given in Mooreville Wednesday morning was used during an operation in Baptist Hospital in Winston-Salem Thursday morning. It would not be stretching a point to say the blood given here saved a life.

In addition to the service of doctors, student nurses and bloodmobile staff, these Mooreville nurses worked during the collection drive last week: Mrs. Hoyle Setzer, Mrs. Lewis Mack, Mrs. Charlotte Mills, Mrs. Juanita Adkins, Mrs. Phillip Mack, Mrs. Shirley Settlemeyer, Nancy Rappe and Mrs. Ann Smith.

The Red Cross bloodmobile will make the last of its five annual visits to South Iredell December 20. Again the quota will be 125 pints. Homesley said acceptance of the blood service program has given him every assurance that the local Red Cross chapter's annual quota of 625 pints will be reached. These are the people who made last week's blood collection campaign so successful. They gave the blood.

County CD Will Resume Special Public Classes

The Iredell County Civil Defense Agency announced today that it will resume special training courses as soon as sufficient interest is shown by the public in medical self-help instruction and radiological monitoring.

Retail Stores Can Play Part In Fire Safety

Proprietors of retail stores were urged by the National Board of Fire Underwriters today to participate in Fire Prevention Week by checking their premises, including stock rooms, for combustible trash. The National Board of Fire Underwriters offered these suggestions:

1. Be sure all employees know what to do in case of fire. Fire drills should be held regularly.
2. Employees should be taught to work in teams if fire should occur. One member of the team should help evacuate customers, and another should quickly call the fire department.
3. Check all exits to be sure they are accessible and have been clearly marked with a sign reading "EXIT."

According to Pierce VanHoy, county CD director, the training will be offered in Mooreville and Statesville. The classes were started early this year, but they were discontinued during the mid-summer months.

Trained instructors have been selected to teach in each field. The medical self-help course will be offered to groups, organizations, and individuals. This course consists of eight two-hour classes usually taught once a week. Courses in radiological monitoring will be offered to anyone with a high school education or the equivalent. Training sessions can be worked out to the satisfaction of the largest number of persons desiring to enroll.

Presley Brawley and Harry Hart are serving as co-directors for the training program in Mooreville. Additional information on the above subjects may be obtained from the Iredell County Civil Defense Agency, Court Square, Statesville.

Adult education courses are also available to the general public. This program is supervised by the respective superintendent of schools in Statesville, Mooreville and Iredell County. Public school teachers in each locality have received special training in this field and have been certified as qualified instructors.

Once a fire gets "Out Of Hand" the results can be disastrous to property, to life and limb. That's why fire prevention is so important to everybody. Check your home and habits for fire hazards. Stop fires before they start.

If Fire Strikes Your Home...

GET OUT of the house the minute you discover it or smell smoke! ALWAYS be ready to use different escape routes from any room in your house! TEST doors before opening. If doors are hot, block them with furniture or wet mattresses to keep out smoke and gases. Get out another way! NEVER jump from upper-story windows except as a last resort! Wait for firemen. HOLD your breath if you have to make a dash through smoke and flames! REMEMBER, the air is usually better near the door in a smoke-filled room! CALL the fire department at once! They know how to fight fire. Don't waste your time or your life trying to fight a fire, unless it's so small you're sure you can control it with the right equipment. DON'T ever go back to a burning building for any reason! Smoke and fire gases from even the smallest fire can be deadly. GET medical treatment at once, if you're burned or exposed to fire and smoke! Slightly injured burns or smoke inhalation can have fatal results.

Are 8-Minute Phone Calls A Help Or A Hindrance?

THE PEOPLE SPEAK:

About a year ago, the Mooresville Telephone Company equipped its telephones with automatic cut-off devices which limit local calls to eight minutes.

At the time, a majority of the patrons, who answered a questionnaire concerning the matter, favored the installation of the automatic cut-off devices.

During the ensuing months, the pros and cons of the automatic cut-off devices on the telephone have been discussed—in homes, business houses, and on the street corners.

Therefore, this week when the Mooresville Tribune's roving reporter went about the task of writing one of the paper's weekly features, The People Speak, he asked four on-the-streeters the following question:

Have you found the eight-minute limit on local phone calls a help or a hindrance?

The answers of the four persons questioned were as follows:

MRS. PAUL BRAWLEY, homemaker, 375 West Stewart avenue: "During certain times of the day it's a great help. Especially all day long. I'm on a private line and many a time I couldn't get the phone. Now, I find the phone free ever now and then."

BILL BRAWLEY, merchant, 732 North Main street: "It's a big help. Kids like to get on the phone and talk . . . talk . . . talk . . . all day long. I'm on a private line and many a time I couldn't get the phone. Now, I find the phone free ever now and then."

MRS. WYATT FESPERMAN, bookkeeper, route 3: "A help. We were on a 10-party line and the limiting of local calls to eight minutes was a big help."

JIM ANGELLE, Troutman Shirt, Highway 801: "I would say that in some instances the limiting of calls to eight minutes has been a help, while in others it has been a hindrance. It's a help if a person, when the eight minutes runs out, hangs up. But many a time the person just redials the number and talks another eight minutes. Thus way it's a hindrance."

South School PTA Plans First Session

The first Parent-Teacher Association meeting of the 1963-64 school year will be held at South School Tuesday night, October 8, at 7:30 o'clock.

Following a brief business meeting, there will be a reception at which time parents will have the opportunity to meet their child's teacher.

Officers for the association this year are: president, Dr. Robert Gray; vice-president, Mrs. Willis Shoemaker; secretary, Mrs. Wayne Brannon and treasurer, Mrs. Charles Gates.

Senior High Pupils Begin French Club

Students at Mooresville Senior High have organized a French club, according to the new organization's advisor, Roy Watkins. Watkins, who teaches French at the local school, said the club has 60 charter members. The club held its organizational meeting last week.

Chosen to lead the new student club were President Susan Jones, Vice President David Brown, Secretary Martha Waters, Treasurer Charles Caskey and Reporter Candy Hord.

A feature of the club will be the use of the French language during conversations, singing and business sessions at club meetings.

Mack Continues At Belmont Abbey
Franklin David Mack has entered Belmont Abbey College, Belmont, to continue his college studies as a member of the junior class.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mack of 313 East Center avenue, he is a graduate of Mooresville Senior High School.

Central Methodist Church Plans Preaching Mission

Dr. W. Kenneth Goodson, minister of the Centenary Methodist Church of Winston-Salem, will be the guest minister in a preaching mission at Mooresville's Central Methodist Church in mid-October, according to the Rev. Thad McDonald, pastor of the local church.

The special series of services will begin on Sunday evening, October 13, and continue each evening at 7:45 o'clock through Thursday, October 17.

A native of Salisbury, Dr. Goodson was educated in the public schools of that city. He attended Catawba College in Salisbury, graduating in 1934.

He took his seminary training at the Divinity School of Duke University at Durham and did some additional summer study at Union Theological Seminary in New York City.

He was admitted into the Western North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church in 1935 and was given full ordination in 1939.

Dr. Goodson has served as pastor of Methodist churches in Oak Ridge, Moirs Chapel Methodist Church, Greensboro; First Methodist Church, Wadesboro; First Methodist Church, High Point; and First Methodist Church, Charlotte.

4 Elders Named At Mooresville's 1st Presbyterian

Mooresville's First Presbyterian Church, which uses the rotating plan when it comes to church officers, has elected four elders to a six-year term, beginning January 1, 1964.

The four selected during recent congregational sessions are as follows: Robert Holsinger, Homer Hampe, Lucius Delk, and H. N. (Dick) Johnston, Jr.

Elders who will step down January 1, 1964, having completed their six-year term of office are: Dr. C. L. Bittinger, W. G. Calhoun, Dr. Boyce Brawley, and Albert H. Copelein.

Ten deacons are to be elected during a congregational session scheduled for October 20, according to the pastor of the local church, the Rev. Joe Stowe.

Area Lions Clubs To Sponsor Glaucoma Clinic In November

Lions clubs in South Iredell will sponsor a glaucoma clinic in Mooresville early in November.

June Reece, president of the Mooresville Lions Club, said this week the disease-detection clinic is scheduled at the National Guard armory November 5-6. Sponsors, in addition to the local Lions Club, will be the Shepherd, Troutman and South Iredell Lions clubs.

Reece said services of doctors and nurses have been assured for the two days. This area's first glaucoma clinic was held at the armory two years ago, and it was widely praised as a public service.

Glaucoma is an eye disease that steals sight gradually, painlessly but surely. It strikes without warning of any kind, and only after vision has been severely impaired does the victim realize his sight is failing.

The disease strikes one in 50 persons over 40 years of age. Nearly a million Americans are unsuspecting victims of glaucoma today. Once vision is impaired, it cannot be restored, but treatment can halt advance of the disease.

All persons will be invited to attend the clinic. There will be no charge whatever for the examination that takes about a minute.

Reece also announced his club is renewing its efforts to aid the citizens in this community who already are blind or less handicapped visually.

He asked that names and addresses of all blind and visually handicapped in the Mooresville area be submitted to the Lions Club. Persons who know of someone who needs aid such as eye glasses were urged to contact a local Lion.

Local WWI Barracks Will Meet On Friday

Members of Mooresville Barracks No. 543, World War I, will meet tomorrow (Friday) evening at 7 o'clock in the private dining room of Sally's Grill for a Dutch dinner.

Commander Lester C. Boyd urges all members of the service organization to attend the meeting.

Jackson Assigned To Amarilla Base

Airman Third Class Robert Jackson of Mooresville is being reassigned to Stewart Air Force Base, Tennessee, following his graduation from the United States Air Force technical training course for jet aircraft mechanics at Amarilla Air Force Base, Texas.

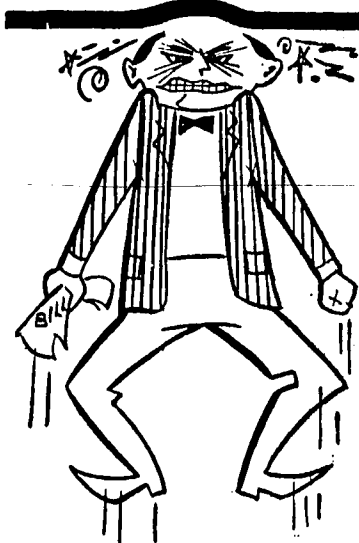

Airman Jackson, whose parents reside on route 1, Mooresville, was trained to maintain and service multi-engine jet aircraft and aircraft systems.

The airman is a graduate of Mooresville High School.

Budding Scientists Elect Officers

Sam Is A Democrat

We have had several requests in the past couple weeks for copies of a column that appeared in this corner back in July. The column was titled "Fat Cat Republicans" and discussed the political heresy of long-time Democrats who became turncoat Republicans when their pocketbook got fat.

The thought, of course, was not original with us. As far back as the twenties the late Will Rogers put the spotlight on these boys. "When a Democrat," said Will, "makes his first million, he begins to doubt the wisdom of the Democratic party. By the time he has made his second million, all doubt disappears."

Nobody transcends us in our genuine respect for a genuine Republican. We have, for instance, a high regard for the political convictions of such local and active Republicans as R. T. Brantley, John Simpson, Marshall Crouch and others reared in a family Republican tradition. Through fair weather and foul, such citizens have believed in the Republican doctrines and have worked to further promulgate them.

Our political displeasure centers around these boys who, as we said before, were card-carrying Democrats running around in the thirties with the seat of their pants out, and who became well-to-do under two decades of Democratic administration, then suddenly became turncoat or fat-cat Republicans.

The civil rights issue has given these turncoat boys a built-in shelter. "I can't go for the Negro," loving Kennedy's, they proclaim from street corner to street corner. This is a popular nostrum through-out the Southland these days.

These turncoats forget two things. First, the sections of the Civil Rights Bill that are most obnoxious to the rank and file Southerner will not pass in the Congress. And who will block them? Dyed-in-the-wool Democrats who will vote the straight Democratic ticket in 1964. We refer to such Senators as Dick Russell, Sam Ervin, Everett Jordan, Herman Talmadge, and many others. Helping to block it will be dozens and dozens of Democratic Congressmen from throughout the South. And who will be leading the troops fighting for the passage of those sections of the Civil Rights Bill most obnoxious to most Southerners? Such Republican leaders as Senator Jacob Javits of New York.

Secondly, the odds are overwhelming that the Republican candidate for President will be either Nelson Rockefeller or Barry Goldwater. Rockefeller is even more radical in his race stand than Bobby Kennedy. It was he who rebuilt the bombed churches in Georgia from his own pocketbook. Goldwater soft-pedals the race issue in the South, whoops it up in the urban areas of the East and Mid-West. Goldwater is one of these smoothies who is all things to all men. He voted against the test-ban treaty, and his foreign policy, had he been President, would have brought nuclear war over Cuba.

There are certain parts of the Civil Rights Bill with which we agree, certain parts with which we disagree. We think, for instance, that the public accommodations section of the bill is an infringement upon private rights and is unconstitutional. Sam Ervin proved it. Incidentally, in case you haven't heard, Sam is a Democrat.

Actually, these turncoat Republicans fool nobody. The civil rights shelter isn't thick enough to hide them. The Democratic party has always been the Party of the common man, the poor man, and now that they are no longer common or poor, they have no need for the Democratic Party.

And speaking of politics, we have come to the conclusion, after reading the Congressional Record for 20 years, that there is nothing under God's canopy that is noncontroversial in the Congress.

Last week Congressman Matthews of Florida dropped a little bill into the hopper that would permit the manufacture of a few odd-size wooden baskets and hampers. In a hearing before the House Science Committee on the bill, it went like this:

Matthews: "This bill is non-controversial. It would just amend the 1928 Standard Container Act to permit the basket makers to compete with other types of containers . . . only the basket makers are limited by law in the size containers they can make."

Rep. James G. Fulton, R-Pa.: "This would appear to be a further extension of the federal power over interstate commerce."

Rep. John W. Davis, D-Ga.: "This has nothing to do with interstate commerce. The 1928 act is based on the power given the federal government by the Constitution to fix standards of weights and measures."

Rep. Donald Rumsfeld, R-Ill.: "I say we should either repeal the 1928 act or bring every body under it."

Fulton: "I say we should repeal it."

Rep. Charles A. Mosher, R-Ohio: "I'm interested to hear this is noncontroversial. When I told the growers in my district about it they voiced immediate

Yule Parade Scheduled For Dec. 3

'Miss North Carolina' Invited To Participate

Sponsored by the Mooresville Junior Chamber of Commerce, Mooresville's annual Christmas parade is scheduled to be held on Tuesday afternoon, December 3.

On that date, at 4 p. m., Santa Claus, garbed in his familiar red costume, will make a pre-Christmas visit to Mooresville, and all indications point to the greatest reception ever afforded any visitor to Mooresville being rolled out to greet the perennial spreader of good cheer.

Miss Jeanne Swanner of Graham, "Miss North Carolina," has been extended a special invitation to ride in the parade, and her answer to the invitation is being awaited with a great deal of anticipation by the Jaycees.

The parade will mark the official opening of the town's Yule shopping season.

T. C. Homesley is overall chairman of the parade.

A number of gaily-decorated units will accompany Santa Claus on his tour of the business district of the town, with the music for the occasion being furnished by a number of local and out-of-town bands. In addition to locally-built floats, there will be professional-built ones—the latter being products of J. C. Cline of Newton, nationally-known builder of floats.

There will be scores of pretty girls and queens from local and out-of-town schools, including "Miss Mooresville"—Gayle McKnight-James, who is a student nurse at Lowrance Hospital.

These, needless to say, will add beauty and charm to the event. All business firms, civic organizations, industrial plants, and individuals are urged to enter floats in the parade.

Don Peiffer Memorial Fund Established

A memorial fund to Donald Harry Peiffer, former principal of the Mooresville Senior High School, was established in Mooresville last week.

Officially, the fund will be known as "The D. H. Peiffer Memorial Fund."

Memorial funds received will be used to set up an educational loan scholarship for a worthy student of the local senior school and to purchase appropriate furnishings for the stage at the Roland R. Morgan auditorium.

A committee will be selected to handle this fund within the next few days. At present, all funds are being sent to Dr. Roland Morgan, superintendent of the Mooresville Public Schools.

Uncle Dan From Doolie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellows at the country store down here might be discussing the changing times. The Republicans claimed they was changing for the worse and the Democrats was allowing as how we never had it so good. Zeke Grubb, that votes both ways, depending on how farm prices is looking at election time, was setting as the Judge.

Ed Doolie, that wears Abe Lincoln's picture in the back of his pocket watch, said things had hit the bottom and any change after 1964 would be down hill. He told the fellows even the Federal highway signs was getting so complicated since we crossed the New Frontier that a one-gallon man couldn't tell if he was going or coming. He reported he went on a fishing trip last week and coming back they got on one of them new interstate highways and they was a sign about ever mile to "Keep Off The Median." He said they stopped a patrolman and ask him what it meant and he told 'em it meant they didn't allow no messing around in the middle. Now there, claimed Ed, was a good Republican, a feller that give it to you so's you could understand it.

Clem Webster, chairman of the Democrat delegation, argued that these things was caused by a population explosion of automobile, that politics didn't have nothing to do with it. Per instance, he said we now got drive-in banks, drug stores and such things that makes traffic very confusing and calls for a heap of signs.

Judge Zeke didn't pernoctance sentence either way, but it looked like he was leaning a little with the Republicans. He said he was reading where a writer feller named Burke Davis had saw this sign at a street corner:

Yours truly, Uncle Dan

The Champ Won By Three Full Laps

The United Fund promotion downtown Saturday was made to order for kids of all ages. For example, what could be greater than all the free pie you could eat and a prize for eating it. These chaps were among participants in a pie-eating contest. Both use the popular short-stroke method, and, as you can see, neither is a slouch at the sport. Sonny Mills chooses to get down where his pie is. Johnny Brown prefers the upright stance, so he brings the pie up where he is. Their efforts were not good enough; Tink Cloaninger won the contest by three full laps. He won 50 movie passes, and that must've made his day complete.

Leaders of the Mooresville-South Iredell United Fund will meet today (Thursday) for their first progress report since the drive for $27,815 began September 30.

John Simpson, area UP campaign, has called for a review of the appeal during a luncheon meeting at Elks Restaurant at 12:30 p. m. He has asked all division chairmen to attend the session. The final report meeting of the drive is scheduled October 18, Simpson reminded.

The campaign workers are certain to have collected more than $16,500 of the goal, because that much had been raised through last Friday, The $425 Bill Koury and his special events committee accounted for during Saturday's daylong UP promotion pushed the total to near $17,000 by the end of the week.

The all-important industrial division of the drive has a target of $17,250, and practically all of the $16,500 in the early report came from Dave Jones' industrial division.

Town Asks County To Zone Perimeter

Orderly Growth In 'No-Man's Land' Also Spurs New Annexation Study

The county willing, the mile-wide "no-man's land" perimeter around Mooresville will be no more. The Town Board, this week decided to ask the Iredell Planning Board to include this fast-developing suburban strip under its soon-to-beadoption zoning regulations.

The "no-man's land" is so called because it has been under no zoning authority. The local board's action Monday night followed a detailed discussion of zoning needs in and around growing municipalities.

Under state statute, Mooresville has perimeter zoning powers. The town could extend its zoning authority to cover a mile in every direction from the town limits. After talking the matter over during their regular monthly meeting, four of the five town commissioners present voted to relinquish this right to the county. The majority of the board felt the county zoning power was better equipped to deal with rural zoning, since the local zoning board has no rural representation.

Should the county agree to extend its zoning power to the town limits, it will not be a permanent arrangement, necessarily. Mooresville is asking the county to zone where the town has lawful zoning authority. If the town should want to enlarge its planning board and zone this perimeter, it may do so.

The important thing, the Town Board felt, was to get the area under some zoning requirements. The commissioners were careful to note that the town would not be giving up its zoning authority.

The board granted a request from the Iredell County School Board to transfer $800 from "Guidance Counselor" to "Attendance Counselor."

The commissioners approved the hiring of Ed Parks of Statesville as an assistant in the county law office at a salary of $350 per month.

Centre Church Will Be Scene Of Anniversary Celebration

The Synod of North Carolina, Presbyterian Church in the United States, is not only observing its centennial in 1963, but also the 175th anniversary of the organization of the Synod of the Carolinas which occurred on November 5, 1788, in the Centre Presbyterian Church near Mount Mourne.

When the Synod of the Carolinas was organized, there were now the Synods of North Carolina, South Carolina, and Appalachia, the latter a territory composed of the western portions of Virginia and North Carolina, and the eastern portions of Kentucky and Tennessee.

The speakers for the occasion will be Dr. Daniel W. Hollis, professor of history, University of North Carolina, Columbia, S. C., who will speak on "The Development Of The Presbyterian Church In The Carolinas" and Dr. William H. McCorkle, Bristol, Tennessee, moderator of the General Assembly, whose subject will be "Church Is Mission."

Fratern delegates from various presbyteries and synods are expected to attend the celebration and will be presented by Dr. Francis Johnston, Davidson College, chairman of the celebration committee.

Miss Mann Hostess To LCW Group

Group No. 3 of Lutheran Church Women of St. Mark's Lutheran Church met with Miss Kathleen Mann on Tuesday evening, October 2, at her home on Carpenter avenue.

The program "Woman to Woman" was given most interestingly by Mrs. Hugh Beaver after which a business period was conducted.

The hostess served delightful refreshments to the following: Mesdames Harold Overcash, George Setzer, Grady Shoe, Dwight Shoe, Robert Morrison, Sr., Bobby Setzer, Jackie Anderson, Hugh Beaver, and Miss Kathleen Mann.

Mrs. Donald Westmoreland was a guest.

Breakfast Honors Bridal Party And Out Of Town Guests

Entertaining in the dining room of the Elks Restaurant on Saturday morning, October 5, at 11 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Davis, and Miss Vernie Howard were hosts at a wedding breakfast honoring Miss Brenda Brotherton and Larry Caldwell, their attendants and out-of-town guests.

The U-shaped table was laid with a white linen cloth and appointed with a long low arrangement of pink-candied apples and snowflake pom-poms. The center of the table was enhanced with branches of galax foliage.

Wedding bell place cards marked the seating arrangement for the forty-two guests.

The menu consisted of tomato juice, turkey and dressing, green peas, parsley potatoes, cranberry sauce, congealed salad, sliced tomatoes, pickles, olives, hot rolls, coffee, iced tea, and cherry tarts with whipped cream.

For the breakfast, Miss Brotherton wore a red dress, and the bridesmaids wore a green and white ensemble with black accessories and a green cymbidium orchid corsage.

4—THE MOORESVILLE (N.C.) TRIBUNE—THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1963

Thirteen freshmen of the Lowrance Hospital School of Nursing were honored at a lovely reception Tuesday evening at the Nurse's Home on West Statesville Avenue. The reception was given by the faculty of the School of Nursing and approximately 150 guests were present.

Mrs. Owen Conducts Mooreville Garden Club Workshop

A workshop on basic flower arranging and designing was conducted for the members of the Mooreville Garden Club last Thursday at the War Memorial.

Mrs. Roy Owen, of Charlotte, an accredited judge and director of the Southeastern Flower and Garden Show for 1964, was in charge of the workshop.

Freshman Class Of Lowrance Hospital School Of Nursing Honored At Lovely Reception

On Tuesday evening, October 1, the faculty of the Lowrance Hospital School of Nursing honored the freshmen class at a reception at the Nurses Residence from eight to ten o'clock.

Two master arrangements of pansies in pottery vases were used in the alcove of the living room. Of special interest on the coffee table was an arrangement of floating water lilies and lighted candles in a milk glass dish.

Miss Leona Deckworth, assistant director of Nursing Service, greeted the guests in the living room and introduced them to the receiving line which was composed of Miss Norma Purches, director of the School of Nursing and the following freshmen students: Misses Barbara Cannup, Vivian Marian, Mary Motley, Phyllis Morgan, Bel-ty Propst, Monica Jean Propst, Sylvia Quinn, Patsy Riddle, Jean Schenk, Carol Sloan, Carol Ware, Gwendolyn Wrenn and Janice Wensel.

Mrs. William Edmiston, dietitian, and Mrs. Harry Sloop, instructor in obstetrics, directed to the library where a handsome fan-shaped arrangement of purple dahlias were featured on a console table.

Miss Beulah Mullis, assistant director of Nursing Education, greeted the guests and Mrs. Clinton Holdslaw, instructor in Psychology introduced to the receiving line composed of Miss Sara Kennedy, Medical-Surgical instructor, Mrs. Frank Rinehardt, Operating Room supervisor and Misses Shirley Holms, Brenda Cates, and Brenda Robinson. Misses Patricia Palmer, Gayle James, and Brenda Mauney directed the guests downstairs where the guests were received by Miss Lala Paris, director of Nursing Education, who also directed to the recreation room.

In the recreation room an arrangement of yellow pyracantha berries in a brass planter was placed on the piano and flanked by yellow tapers in brass candlesticks. A special feature in the room was the theme "Nursing School" which was carried out by the use of a student's desk with a display of books of subjects taught in the school and a nurse doll in graduate uniform complete with the school cap, a bouquet of red roses and diploma.

The refreshment table was covered with an imported white cut-work cloth centered with an arrangement of Hot Summer gladioli, yellow chrysanthemums and bronze pom-poms placed on a white candle board which were flanked by six yellow tapers. A crystal punch bowl was placed at one end of the table and Miss Ann Rose poured fruit punch the first hour and was relieved by Miss Robin Knewstubb.

Delectable refreshments consisting of chicken salad puffs, cheese croquettes, assorted cookies, mints and nuts were served to approximately 150 guests.

Assisting with the serving were: Misses Brenda Ketchie, Veronica Waugh, Kay Connor and Barbara West.

During the social hours, the following students rendered several musical selections accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Carl Harkey: Misses Beverly Babson, Sandra Farrell, Mildred Arthur, and Carol Kennedy.

Out-of-town guests were from Charlotte, Salisbury, Statesville, Mocksville, Concord, and Kannapolis.

Visiting the club this month was Mrs. Thad Linker.

For the October meeting members will meet at the home of Mrs. Don Matthews on the Salisbury Road.

An excellent report was made by Mrs. Edith Blackwelder on international relations.

Mrs. Forrest Hudson gave highlights and an article on the small fruit crop of the coming year. Remarkable that the prices will be considerably higher on such items as strawberries.

Mrs. Nancy Myers, county agent, presented the program of the month, entitled "Framing And Hanging Pictures."

Pointing out that hanging pictures properly is as important as proper selections. She gave cues in hanging such as:

1. Height — Hang pictures with the center at about eye level from where you will be looking.

2. Scale — Keep the size of the picture related to the furniture grouping and the amount of wall space.

3. Emphasis — In a pleasing picture arrangement the point of interest on emphasis is important. Each object should take its proper place in order to have a balanced appearance.

4. Rhythm — Hang pictures so that their lines carry the eye toward a group and not away from it. Both furniture and pictures should seem to belong together.

5. Grouping — Combine any number of pictures in a variety of sizes, as long as all of them compose a pleasing shape.

In framing pictures, a frame encloses a picture and adds to its

Oak Ridge Home Club Has Program On Framing Pictures

The Oak Ridge Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. George Freeze on the 150 By-Pass last Tuesday. Having lived in the Orient, Mrs. Freeze surprised the club by displaying many of her treasured oriental possessions. She told interesting stories of how she found some of her collection. Accepted throughout her lovely new home are some of her findings.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Bruce Carigan. She welcomed visitors and members and invited visitors to join the club.

The members joined in singing "God Of Our Fathers."

The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting and made the roll call.

An educational report was given by Mrs. George Freeze along with book reports by Mrs. Claude Kipka, Mrs. Harold Overcash, and Mrs. Don Matthews.

Mrs. Claude Kipka, foods and nutrition leaders, pointed out that now is the time for all members to take advantage of the abundance of pears by making preserves.

An excellent report was made by Mrs. Edith Blackwelder on international relations.

Mrs. Forrest Hudson gave highlights and an article on the small fruit crop of the coming year. Remarkable that the prices will be considerably higher on such items as strawberries.

MRS. CLEGG WALLACE AVETT, JR.

Avett-Oliphant Nuptials Spoken In Pretty Afternoon Ceremony At Triplett Church

The Triplett Methodist Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Geraldine Oliphant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davidson Oliphant of Mooresville, and Clegg Wallace Avett, Jr., of Rocky Mount, N.C., on Saturday, October 5, at four o'clock in the afternoon. The bridegroom's father officiated at the impressive ceremony.

A program of wedding music was rendered by Julius Beam of Mount Airy, organist, and Jerry Jones of Pilot Mountain, soloist. The bride and groom were escorted by the Rev. and Mrs. Clegg W. Avett of Hudson, on Saturday, October 5, at four o'clock in the afternoon. The bridegroom's father officiated at the impressive ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white satin dress with long tapered sleeves ending in a point over the ring finger. The portrait neckline was enhanced with appliques of angel lace and the princess effect had sprays of re-embroidered alencon lace. The back closing had tiny self button closing with a butterfly buckle bow ending in a chandelier. A jeweled tiara held her veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses surrounded with English ivy.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Avett, wore a dress of felt blue imported polished cotton with black accessories and a corsage of white feathered carnations.

Following a wedding trip to western North Carolina, the couple will make their home at 1117 Sycamore street, Rocky Mount. For her going-away outfit, the bride chose a navy blue wool suit with navy accessories and she lifted the roses from her bouquet for a corsage.

Mrs. Avett attended Berea College and prior to her marriage she was employed by Reeves Brothers at Cornelia. Her husband is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, School of Journalism, Chapel Hill and is now employed by the Rocky Mount Evening Telegram.

On Friday evening, October 4, Mr. and Mrs. Avett, parents of the bridegroom, were host at a rehearsal dinner in the social hall of the Triplett Methodist Church. The food was prepared and served by the members of the Shepherd Home Demonstration Club.

The traditional green and white wedding scheme was carried out most appropriately in the decor of the hall.

Approximately 30 guests were present for the dinner party.

Following the wedding rehearsal on Friday evening, October 4, Mr. and Mrs. Oliphant, parents of the bride, entertained at a cake-cutting in the Educational Building of the church.

The bride's table, covered with a white linen cloth, was appointed with crystal candelabra which held lighted tapers. The three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, was placed on one end of the table and a crystal cut-glass punch service was used at the opposite end of the table. Silver compotes, holding nuts and green and white mints, adorned the table.

Edwards Family Gets Together After 46 Years

A reunion of the Edwards family took place on the week end of October 4, at the Edwards family homestead—a 100 year old structure on Mount Ulla Highway in which Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Edwards reside. This is the first time the brothers and sisters had been together in 46 years.

The reunion started with Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Edwards entertaining at dinner on Friday evening with the following guests present: Mr. and Mrs. Locke Edwards and Mack Edwards of Derby, Kansas and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Edwards of Prospect Park, Pennsylvania.

Saturday afternoon a picnic supper was held in honor of the birthday of Locke Edwards, the oldest member of the family. A weiner roast followed in the evening.

In addition to the above guests the following were also present: Mrs. W. F. Basinger of Salisbury; George M. Basinger and son, George of Essington, Pennsylvania; Mr. and Mrs. Lynn S. Edwards and sons, Mark and Michael, of Greenville, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Edwards and children, Pam and David, of Mt. Ulla; Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Edwards and son, Clegg, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Edwards and grandsons, David Knight and Neil Register, Mrs. D. B. Edwards, and Mrs. Tom Thompson, all of Kannapolis; Mrs. David Sloop and children, Linda and Allen; Mrs. Mrs. Tony Basinger and son, Randy, of Salisbury; Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell and children, Donna, Linda, Eddie, Cindy, and Susan, of Charlotte; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Freese of Statesville; Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Cagle and girls, Becky, Connie, and Joan, of Mooresville; and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Basinger and daughter, Janis, of Salisbury.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Grady Sloop and children, Chris and Sammie of China Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Edwards and son, Mark, of Mount Ulla; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Edwards and daughter, Betty, Doy Edwards and daughter, Shirley, and Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Edwards, all of Kannapolis; Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Edwards and son, Olin of Mount Ulla; Luke Gwaltney of Mooresville; Mrs. Charlie Sloop of Salisbury; and Michael Edwards, a student at N. C. State College, Raleigh.

On Sunday morning following the worship service at the Triplett Methodist Church Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Edwards and Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Edwards were co-hosts at a dinner at the homestead for the immediate Edwards family with Mrs. Ray S. Clegg and Mrs. D. B. Edwards as guests.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Avett, wore a dress of felt blue imported polished cotton with black accessories and a corsage of white feathered carnations.

Following a wedding trip to western North Carolina, the couple will make their home at 1117 Sycamore street, Rocky Mount. For her going-away outfit, the bride chose a navy blue wool suit with navy accessories and she lifted the roses from her bouquet for a corsage.

Jr. Civic Orients Ten New Members

Orientation night for ten new members of the Mooresville Junior Civic League was conducted Tuesday night, October 8, at 7:30 o'clock at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church.

The orientation was conducted by Mrs. Charles Brawley, president, and Mrs. Donald Gibson, past president and district director of Juniors. The purpose of the orientation was to acquaint the new members with the history, organization, and program of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Gibson gave a brief history of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the N. C. Federation of Women's Clubs, of which the Mooresville Junior Civic League is a member. She also pointed out that the League is a part of the largest women's organization in the world with a total membership of 11 million women.

Mrs. Gibson also outlined the organization of the national, state, district and local clubs.

Mrs. Brawley instructed the new members in the history and program of the local club, detailing the six major departments and 29 divisions, and the special committees, and how these are applied to local community service. She concluded with the purpose of the Junior Civic League, which is to promote civic, cultural, educational and social betterment of our community.

The new members also received their year books.

New members are: Mesdames Russell W. Chesley Burton, Jerry Whittington, Martin Johnson, Graham Barnhardt, James Winecoff, Mack Starke, Charles Morris, Donald Parker, and John Brown.

Miss Gail Slides, a senior at Appalachian State Teachers College, Boone, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Slides.

Michael Holthouser, a freshman at N. C. State College, Raleigh, spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Holthouser.

Miss Alma Beaver, a junior at Appalachian State Teachers College, Boone, visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hazel C. Beaver, of Mooresville, route 2, last week end.

Mrs. Newell Isenhour was honored at a birthday dinner at her home in Landis on Sunday, October 6. Those present for the dinner were: Newell Isenhour and Brenda, Mrs. Spencer Hartell, Mrs. Grace Hager, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Caskey, Mrs. George Brannon, all of Mooresville; Mrs. Gusie Leach of York, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hager of Troutman; Mrs. W. H. Isenhour of Mount Mourne; Miss Faye Joyce Ervin of Kannapolis; and Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Beaver and children of the church, called on Mr. Hethcox who spoke briefly of the work at the orphanage.

After Mr. Hethcox spoke, the Rev. Grier introduced Dr. Brinton who showed slides, souvenirs, and talked of mission work in the Congo, Africa.

Dr. Brinton was born in the Congo where his parents were missionaries. He told of their work and also of his brother who is now laboring in this field. His message was most interesting and informative.

Come And Sit Tea Honors Miss Cherry

Miss Pat Cherry, whose wedding to Kenneth Summerville, of Raleigh, will be an event of Sunday, October 13, was honored at a Come and Sit tea Saturday afternoon, October 5. The courtesy was given by Mrs. R. L. Parker at her home on Park avenue from four until five o'clock in the afternoon.

Lavender and pink flower arrangements were of special interest in the living room and dining room. The dining table was covered with a lace cloth and appointed with a handsome arrangement of lavender and pink chrysanthemums, gladioli and fern in a silver bowl. Lavender candles in silver holders were on either side of the arrangement. Ivy, lavender chrysanthemums and candles were used most effectively on the bar in the dining room.

Silver trays held dainty wedding, well and heart shaped sandwiches of chicken salad, and pineapple cream cheese, cheese roses, pea fingers, and pink cake squares. Mrs. Glenn White presided at the tea service.

The hostess presented a pretty white carnation corsage to the honoree which complimented her pink wool dress and a gift of china in her chosen palette.

Guests enjoying the tea, other than Miss Cherry and her hostess, were: Mrs. Paul Cherry of Mooresville and Mrs. P. M. Summerville of Charlotte, mothers of the engaged couple; Miss Lavonia Summerville of Charlotte, sister of the bridegroom-elect; Mrs. Eural Clippard, Mrs. R. J. Holshouser, Miss Lora Lee Holshouser, Mrs. R. J. Holshouser, Mrs. Eugene Kerley, Miss Jo Nell Kerley, Miss Diane Parker, and Mrs. Glen White.

On Wednesday the following to guests members attended the convention. Mrs. Jack Jefford, president of the local Chapter, Mrs. Ray Morgan, Mrs. N. F. Howard, Mrs. M. Person, Mrs. L. C. Boyd and Miss Winnie Gabriel.

Mrs. L. C. Boyd is state chairman of the scrap book committee and serving with her are Mrs. John Alfred and Mrs. Giles Lytle.

Registration took place Monday afternoon at the Sir Walter Hotel, convention headquarters, with an executive meeting that night.

The Tuesday calendar included the executive board luncheon at the home of Mrs. Charles Lee Smith, Sr., honoring Mrs. Pansy B. Foster of Shelby, president of the North Carolina division. A memorial hour came in the afternoon, which was followed by a tour of the new legislative building. The chapter president's banquet, when Mrs. Morgan gave the welcome for the host district, was Tuesday night.

Also on Tuesday a reception honoring the state president, and was given by members of the Eighth District.

The Wednesday afternoon schedule was a tea at the Governor's Mansion, with the historians' banquet that night. This is followed by "historical evening" when the Chapter of Military Service and the Jefferson Davis Medal were awarded to several recipients.

Following the historian and president's workshop and the business session Thursday morning, the convention adjourned.

Mrs. S. C. Coltrane of Raleigh was convention chairman, representing the Eighth District. Other taking part during the meeting were the state officers, they are: Mrs. Ernest J. Meier, Jr., of Lexington, vice-president, whose work deals mainly with district directors.

Mrs. Robert B. Street of route 1, also, Leonard S. Daniel and Lawrence P. Zachary, Jr., World War II and William D. Locke, Jr., of the V.A. Hospital gift shop. These gifts and money are used to set up a shop for the patients to do their Christmas shopping for their families and there is no charge to the patients.

Others receiving this award were: Emory Byrd Denny, Chief Justice, North Carolina Supreme Court; William Ernest Starnes and Secretary of State Thad Eure, all World War I veterans.

Also, Leonard S. Daniel and Lawrence P. Zachary, Jr., World War II and William D. Locke, Jr., of the V.A. Hospital gift shop. These gifts and money are used to set up a shop for the patients to do their Christmas shopping for their families and there is no charge to the patients.

A BOY'S WORLD — How good can a boy have it? This good. Take a youngster outdoors, give him reasonably free rein, let him go barefoot, provide a fishing pole, a long pier and a lake that is fast becoming known for its fish, and what do you have? Just about as near perfect contentment as you can get. These happy chaps frolicking on Lake Norman are building memories they will savor a lifetime. They are, from left, Mike Wilson, Bill Dunn, Lamar Gullede, David Perry and Warren Nesbitt. This scene was typical of the happy times during a recent overnight camping trip.

"Although I Disagree With Everything You Say I Will Defend Unto Death Your Right To Say It"

Mrs. Doane Laid To Rest Sunday At 2

Mrs. Minnie Haynes Doane, wife of Fred Lee Doane, died at her home at 307 Carolina Boulevard in Salisbury at 6 p. m. last Thursday. Death was unexpected, being attributed to a heart attack.

A former resident of Mooreville, Mrs. Doane was the mother of Mrs. Ed Christenbury and a sister of Mrs. Joe A. Cashion, both of Mooreville.

The survivors, in addition to the husband, include: three daughters, Mrs. Billie J. Wilson of Salisbury, Mrs. Ed Christenbury of Mooreville, and Mrs. B. E. Davis of Asheville; one brother, L. L. Haynes of Kannapolis; and two sisters, Mrs. Joe A. Cashion of Mooreville and Mrs. Pearl Long of High Point. Four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Lyerly Funeral Chapel in Salisbury, and burial was in Glenwood Memorial Park cemetery in Mooreville.

Boys' Choir Registration Is Extended

The deadline for registration for participation in the Mooreville Optimist Club-sponsored Boys' Choir this season has been extended two weeks. It was announced today by Hugh L. Sloop, choir director.

This will give members of the various midget football teams and other interested boys a further opportunity to join the group.

The registration, Sloop pointed out, is free, and Mrs. T. C. Baby, member of the choir mothers committee, is serving as secretary.

Practice sessions are held each Monday afternoon at the War Memorial Building from 3:30 until 4:30 o'clock.

Assisting Sloop with the direction of the choir is George Harbinson.

Boys, who have already registered, are: Tommy Baby, Lester Bost, Douglas Parker, Randy Hedrick, Sammy Harbinson, Jimmy Sullivan, Robert Brawley, Tommy McCraw, David McCraw, Tommy Woods.

Also, Freddy Rogers, Eric Debe, Jimmy Cook, Charles Rader, Kim Craven, Brian Nelson, Hugh Roy Beaver, Allen Howard, Larry Sullivan, Lewis Anderson, Harvey Rasar, Robert Lee, Timmy Lee, and Chucky Nantz.

Bowling Tourney Will Benefit White Cane Fund

During the two-week period, beginning October 6, Moore Lanes, Inc., is carrying on a no top tournament for men and women for the benefit of the Mooreville Lion Club's White Cane Fund.

Separate trophies will be given to the man and woman who present the highest three-game totals for the no top tourney (9 pins count a strike).

The entire proceeds will go to the White Cane Fund, which is a statewide drive for the benefit of funds for the State Association For The Blind.

Others who were elected include: Grier Brown, administrative vice president; Dr. George I. Wike, educational vice president; Al Hill, secretary and treasurer; and June Reese, sergeant-at-arms.

The club meets regularly on the first and third Monday nights of each month.

President Hagley, immediately upon election, challenged the club to work for higher goals in toastmastering, especially in the area of social or civic affair.

Peach Trees Bloom At Overcash Home

Fred C. Overcash, one of the Mooreville Tribune's readers out in the Prospect community, called Tuesday morning to report that four of his peach trees were in bloom.

"He said that the four trees had quite a few blossoms on them."

"A little late for the 1963 season and a little early for the 1964 season—but in bloom just the same," Overcash allowed.

TROUTMAN LEGION POST WILL BE ON A SPACIOUS, WOODED LOT Determined Members Hope To Have The Roof On Before The Week Is Out

Cutting Costs Of New Post In Half

Troutman Legionnaires Are Expert Do-It-Yourselfers

Would you like to build a $35,000 home for something like half that figure? Sounds great, huh? A little far-fetched, maybe?

It isn't easy, but it can be done. Members of Troutman American Legion Post 401 are proving it can. This group of ex-servicemen is putting up a handsome new post home for just about half what the contract price on the job would be. They are using their own skills, together with helping portions of initiative and determination to construct the first home of the six-year-old post has ever had.

A Race With Winter

"We got started on the building in August," Rogers said, "and we've been holding up the construction site, but we've been held up a month because the company sent us the wrong kind of tie-in brick. We had to hire some bricklayers this week to help out, because we've got to get the building closed in before bad weather sets in."

Stewart said the post is blessed with several members who are plumbers and an equal number who are electricians.

"We've got no sweat on the plumbing and electrical work," he added, "and every man in the unit is either a carpenter or thinks he is."

Everybody's A Carpenter

The jackleg carpenters come in mighty handy, the commander has tended to add, because they're all good workers and they know how to follow instructions.

There was not the usual hubbub of activity about the building during this past week end. The reason: Only the men who know their business are allowed to actually lay the brick, and right now the pride in their new post home.

"When we first started talking about trying to build," Stewart said, "the first thing we agreed on was that if we're going to build a post, it's going to be built right. We are determined to stick to that rule."

The commander explained that Harold Munday, a member of the post, is a bricklayer by trade and that five or six other Legionnaires of Munday is in charge of on Monday is in charge of bricklaying.

"Saturdays and nights are the only times most of us have any time to work here," Rogers said, "and we've been burning the night out the last few weeks because we can't let winter catch us without a roof."

"Come by next Saturday," he added, "and you'll really see some work."

The new home for the post is the fruit of a great deal of labor by a great many people. But more than labor has gone into the building.

"People around here have been mighty fine in their support," Stewart explained, "we've got some contributions and we've raised

Mooreville Area Methodist Churches Plan Workshop

Dr. Leroy H. Walker will conduct a workshop on Membership and Evangelism on Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the Central Methodist Church in Mooreville for all the Methodist Churches in the Mooreville area.

A member of the Pacific Northwest Conference, Dr. Walker is in his thirteenth year on the staff of the General Board of Evangelism of the Methodist Church. He came highly qualified to the Board of Evangelism through a background of long experience in personal and visitation evangelism in many cities around the country. At present, Dr. Walker is the director of the Committees on Church Attendance and Membership Care and Conservation of the Board of Evangelism.

During the workshop here in Mooreville, Dr. Walker will discuss some of the basic steps in personal visitation evangelism. Also to be discussed are ways to visit the inactive church members and ways to handle unusual situations occurring in visitation.

Members of the local commissions on Membership and Evangelism as well as other interested persons are urged to attend.

Lyerly Trial For Gambling Set Monday

TRIAL is set for Monday, October 14, for Richard Joe Lyerly, local businessman, who is charged with possessing and selling lottery tickets and punchboards.

Most church members are illiterate! Oh, not in secular things. Most kids can recite from memory the TV schedule for the day. Father has sense enough to know that the Mets are the worst baseball team in history. Mother is well aware of the latest beauty secrets.

But when it comes to the Bible it's a different story! At home we dabble in the Bible occasionally; at church some tolerate an hour at Sunday School and a 15 minute sermon at church. What kind of Bible education is that?

Our problem is not that Bible teaching is unavailable. . . . Most folks just aren't interested. A spiritually illiterate people will be the result of the divine.

Take heed to the words of Scripture: "Where there is no vision, the people perish." (Proverbs 29:18).

SALEM ROOMMATES

Their Mothers Set The Stage

(Editor's note: This feature, written by Mamie H. Braddy, staff reporter for the Winston-Salem Journal, concerns Annette McNeely Lyerly and her daughter, Molly. Molly is the late afternoon for a little rest before speaking at the $2-per-plate dinner at the Elks Lodge.

He will speak over station WHIP at 2 p. m. before going to Barring township for a visit. He will return to Mooreville in the late afternoon for a little rest before speaking at the $2-per-plate dinner at the Elks Lodge.

The dinner is being sponsored by the South Iredell Republican Club. In South Iredell, where he lives, he is a frequent visitor.

Miss McNeely married a tobacco buyer for R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., until he was transferred to Athens, Greece, a short time ago. Her daughter, Mary Annette (Molly) Lyerly, who has five sisters and a brother, said, "I never even thought about going anywhere but to Salem. My mother has talked about Salem as far back as I can remember and I was as anxious to come as she was to have me choose Salem."

Miss Hawkins married a physician, Dr. Claude A. McNeill, Jr. They live in Elkin.

"My mother not only has talked about Salem through the years, but she comes here as often as she can," said her daughter, Barbara. "She has a real good excuse now, in fact there are two excuses. She is secretary of the Salem College Alumnae Association, and I'm here."

Both girls recalled that "about all the women in the family of each had attended Salem College. Molly has traveled extensively in addition to frequent trips to the United States with her family. Her father's three-month vacation every other year gave them ample time for trips.

She speaks Turkish and French as well as English, has studied Latin and at Salem will study German and ancient Greek. She will major in mathematics.

At the Izmir Dependents' School, where she graduated, she was a member of the National Honor Society, president of the Student Council, served as secretary and treasurer of the Junior Classical League, and was chosen most popular and the best dancer among the seniors.

Barbara applied last October for entrance to Salem and for an honor scholarship. She was notified in January that she had been accepted.

Later she learned she had been chosen as one of three Salem scholars. They are the students with highest scholastic records of applicants for honor scholarships. This is the first year of the scholars program.

Barbara was chosen most intelligent in class superlatives at Elkin High School, and was salutatorian. She was a chief marshal, business manager of the annual, a National Merit finalist, member of the Beta Club and the Capetecia, a precision dancing group. She also was president of a Junior Garden Club and the Tri-Hi-Y, and vice president of the Junior Music Club.

Both girls are interested in sports and music. Molly once thought she would like to major in piano. "Now I just play for the enjoyment of it," she said.

"We'll wait awhile until we decide more into things before we decide about music activity interests," said Molly.

"We won't be going out much overnight. Guess we'll save up until Thanksgiving," said Barbara. "But my folks will be coming off, notice, for her alumnae work, my father to Wake Forest College as a trustee, and my younger brother."

Molly will be having visitors. Her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Booe, live in Walkertown.

Members of the Troutman Chapter were among the 1,000 Future Homemakers of America who attended a district rally at South Rowan High School last Saturday.

The rally, planned and carried out by the teen-agers themselves, gave the Troutman Chapter members opportunity to exchange ideas with FHEAers from 11 counties which make up the district.

The theme of the convention, "Your Home A Key To The Future," was planned to help FHEAers find ways to use their program of work for 1962-63 through which they will emphasize Stay In School, Marriage Calls For Preparation, Family Friendship, Action For Citizenship, and The Aged.

Future Homemakers of America is a national organization of students studying homemaking in junior and senior high schools. National membership totals nearly 600,000. The North Carolina FHEA Association has 27,454 members in 434 chapters.

50TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION Big Doings At Southside Baptist

Under brilliant October skies, members, former members, and long-time friends of Southside Baptist Church gathered at the church last Sunday, October 6, to celebrate the church's fiftieth anniversary and homecoming day.

Beginning about 9:30 a. m., a steady stream of people came, and by the 11 o'clock worship hour, the auditorium was filled, the balcony was filled, and chairs had to be placed in the aisles and at the front of the church to take care of the overflow audience.

The Rev. P. C. Gantt, pastor of the church, welcomed the members and visitors, and the Rev. Elmer Thomas, of Statesville, missionary of the South Yankin Baptist Association, led the morning prayer.

Special music was rendered by Jerry Jones, minister of music at the First Baptist Church at Pilot Mountain. He sang "His Eye Is On The Sparrow." With Mrs. P. C. Gantt at the piano, the church directed by Jesse Lancaster, rendered "How Great Thou Art," Clyde Summers singing the solo part.

A former pastor, the Rev. Paul T. Brook, brought the message of the morning, discussing the topic: "What Shall I Do With Jesus?" He also brought greetings and best wishes, directed by Jesse Lancaster, rendered "How Great Thou Art," which the congregation sang at the church's 50th anniversary.

Following the morning service, a picnic-style dinner was enjoyed. The afternoon program began at 1:45 o'clock.

Special visitors included: the Rev. W. W. Abernathy, pastor of the Piney Grove Baptist Church in Charlotte. Both are former pastors of Southside.

Special music for the afternoon service was rendered by the Men's Chorus of the South Yankin Baptist Association, and the Southside Quartette, composed of Jesse Lancaster, T. G. Phillips, George Henderson, and Clyde Summers.

Speaker of the afternoon was the Rev. Homer O. Baker, pastor of the Edenville Baptist Church at Edenville. A former pastor at Southside, Mr. Baker discussed the topic: "Homecoming Of The Redeemed."

A bronze and gold flower arrangement at the altar of the church was placed there by members of the Woman's Missionary Union of the church in memory of

Lyerly Trial For Gambling Set Monday

Trial is set here Monday, October 14, for Richard Joe Lyerly, local businessman, who is charged with possessing and selling lottery tickets and punchboards.

Lyerly, 34, operator of the News Center at 252 North Main Street, was arrested at his place of business Saturday and charged with dealing in the gambling devices. Lyerly, who lives at 227 Culp Avenue, is free under $1,000 bond.

Ray Garland, a State Bureau of Investigation officer, headed the party of officers who raided the News Center about noon Saturday. With Garland were Mooreville policemen Marvin Barlow, Wiley Jones and Alvin Huffman, as well as Iredell deputy sheriffs Tom Thompson and Dick Perkins. The officers found a punchboard, 69 tip boards and 78 football parlay cards in the shop.

Garland said the raid climaxed several weeks investigation concerning gambling operations at the News Center.

SALEM ROOMMATES

Their Mothers Set The Stage

(Editor's note: This feature, written by Mamie H. Braddy, staff reporter for "The Winston-Salem Journal," concerns Annette McNeely Lyerly, daughter and granddaughter, respectively, of Mrs. Roy K. McNeely, of Mooreville.)

Annette McNeely, who was a registrar at the time, and Barbara Lyerly, a freshman, became friends at Salem College in 1939. Now, 24 years, thousands of miles and lots of correspondence later, their daughters finally have met in person and are roommates as freshmen at the college.

Miss McNeely married a tobacco man, Edwin M. Leight. They lived in Izmir, Turkey, where he was a buyer for R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., until he was transferred to Athens, Greece, a short time ago. Her daughter, Mary Annette (Molly) Leight, who has five sisters and a brother, said, "I never even thought about going anywhere but to Salem. My mother has talked about Salem as far back as I can remember and I was as anxious to come as she was to have me choose Salem."

Miss Hawkins married a physician, Dr. Claude A. McNeill, Jr. They live in Elkin.

My mother not only has talked about Salem through the years, but she comes here as often as she can," said her daughter, Barbara. "She has a real good excuse now, in fact there are two excuses. She is secretary of the Salem College Alumnae Association, and I'm here."

Both girls recalled that "about all the women in the family of each had attended Salem College."

Molly has traveled extensively in addition to frequent trips to the United States with her family. Her father's three-month vacation every other year gave them ample time for trips.

She speaks Turkish and French as well as English, has studied Latin and at Salem will study German and ancient Greek. She will major in mathematics.

At the Izmir Dependents' School, where she graduated, she was a member of the National Honor Society, president of the Student Council, served as secretary and treasurer of the Junior Classical League, and was chosen most popular and the best dancer among the seniors.

Barbara applied last October for entrance to Salem and for an honor scholarship. She was notified in January that she had been accepted.

Later she learned she had been chosen as one of three Salem scholars. They are the students with highest scholastic records of applicants for honor scholarships. This is the first year the scholars program.

Barbara was chosen most intelligent in class superlatives at Elkin High School, and was salutatorian. She was a chief marshal, business manager of the annual National Merit finalist, member of the Beta Club and the Capettes, a precision dancing group. She also was

CAROUSEL PRINCESS—Members of the senior class at the Mooreville Senior High School have named Sandy Sharpe as the school's representative in the Carrousel program at Charlotte at Thanksgiving. THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a home of spiritual values. Without a church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four ways to build a church: 1. By the use of the Bible. 2. By the use of the Church. 3. By the use of the Church. 4. By the use of the Church.

HEAD TROUTMAN ROOTERS—Grid season means many things to many people. Some like to sit in the bleachers and watch the football players. It's quite possible that at Troutman many tickets are sold to young folks (male) who just pay to watch this fine group of lasses lead the cheers for the Bobcats. Either way we feel they get their money's worth. The lineup consists of, left to right, Sandra Rimmer, Ann Cornelius, Becky Young, Karen Young, Karen Crews, Libby Gryder, Gal Nance, Cissie Raymer, Judy Lambert and Sheila Brewington.

Why Journey Afar To Social Security Office? It's Here

This is a reminder, an important reminder, that the Social Security Administration is in Mooreville two days each month to serve residents of this area.

Lately, he has become concerned because citizens are not taking advantage of his service. Instead, persons having business with the Social Security folks still are journeying to other cities in the mistaken belief they cannot handle their business in Mooreville.

Because so few persons are using McCoy's services, he said this week his work here may be discontinued. He is available in the municipal building each second and fourth Tuesday. He is trained to handle

School Board Okays Revised Dunbar Plans

The five-member Mooreville School Board, in session Monday evening, made plans to have representatives at the 9th annual delegate assembly of the North Carolina School Boards Association in Chapel Hill on Wednesday, October 23.

Goldstein Finishes Infantry Officer's Orientation Course

Army 2nd Lt. Ronald J. Goldstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Goldstein, 174 Cedar street, Mooreville, completed the eight-week infantry officer orientation course at the Infantry Center, Fort Benning, Ga., September 24.

During the course, Lieutenant Goldstein received instruction in the duties and responsibilities of a newly commissioned infantry officer.

White Cane Drive Gets Boost In Eye Bank Week Observance

Even while the White Cane Drive is going full blast, Mooreville Lions this week announced that October 6-11 has been proclaimed in the town, state and nation as Eye Bank Week.

The special observance honoring the Eye Bank Association of America and its state affiliates has been given impetus locally by Mayor Johnny Miller and state-wide by Governor Sanford. Both men pointed to the outstanding service rendered by Lions in guarding and restoring sight, and in helping those who are blind and less served visually handicapped.

The work of the N. C. Eye Bank which now has some 27,000 eye bills on file, is supported almost entirely by Lions, who get funds from this support through White Cane campaigns.

The purpose of the eye bank is to secure corneal tissue and make it available to any surgeon who is qualified to perform the transplant operation. Eyes are never bought or sold and the eye bank services are made without charge.

"Eye Bank Week is a perfect tie-in with our White Cane Drive," explained June Beece, president of the Mooreville Lions Club, "the Eye Bank program is one of the many activities for the preservation of eyesight supported by White Cane contributions."

As a feature of the White Cane appeal, Moore Lions this week is conducting a tournament to raise

'Radio Day' Will Be A Lark—But Not For Nervous Jaycees

Bobby Brawley and Ernest Whitmore, WHIP's Huntley-Brinkley team-for-a-day, said this week they are fairly certain that plans are progressing for Saturday's "Jaycee Radio Day."

The two Jaycees are co-directors of the second annual project. Neither ever had seen the inside of a radio station until a couple of weeks ago.

Buck Mills, a veteran member of the radio station staff, stopped by the paper early this week. He said what we announced last week was true, that the station management had turned over the

Burgess Child Taken In Death

Susan Lynette Burgess, nine-month-old daughter of Roy Clayton and Kathleen Moffitt Burgess, 824 Spruce street, died suddenly at home Sunday.

In addition to parents, the child is survived by a sister, Tina Louise Burgess of the home; one brother, Roy William Burgess of the home; paternal grandmother, Mrs. Susie B. McLean of Mooreville, and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Moffitt of China Grove.

Funeral services were conducted at Hopewell Baptist Church at 2 p.m. Tuesday, with Rev. R. R. Templeton and Rev. Roy Pierce officiating. Burial followed in the church cemetery.

THE REV. BRADY FAGGART Holds N. C. Synod Office

Rev. Faggart Speaks Sunday At St. Mark's

Members of St. Mark's Lutheran Church will hear the Rev. Brady Faggart, Synod Director, during another in a series of special programs being conducted at the local church this month.

Mr. Faggart, secretary of Christian education of the North Carolina Lutheran Synod, will speak at 11 a.m. on the "Teaching Mission of the Church." His message will be in connection with Sunday School Rally emphasis being observed at St. Mark's during October.

A native of Concord, Mr. Faggart is a Lenoir Rhyne graduate. He prepared for the ministry at the Lutheran School of Theology in Chicago. He was mission developer and the first pastor of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Hickory until 1960, and pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in China Grove from 1960 until his election in January of this year to the synod office.

The pastor of the local Lutheran Church, the Rev. Floyd Trexler, and members of the church have extended an invitation to the public to attend the Sunday morning service and hear Mr. Faggart.

SHUCKS and NUBBINS

A Tireless Behind-The-Curtain Worker

Don Peiffer spent most of the last day of his life preparing for some 2,200 teachers and school administrators who gathered at his Senior High School last week. Late in the afternoon, while chairs were being placed on the auditorium stage for the next morning's session, a student jokingly asked Don if he was going to have to sit on stage in front of all those people. Don Peiffer's answer gave an insight to his life:

"I won't be on stage where you can see me," he said, "I'll be working behind the curtain."

In his profession, he was esteemed among educators. The overworked world beloved might well apply to the way his students felt about him. Working as he did in the glass house of the schools, under constant scrutiny of the public in general and parents in particular, he earned the respect and admiration of the entire community.

Don was a prime mover, a behind-the-curtain worker who avoided the spotlight whenever possible. He tried unsuccessfully to conceal the burning compassion he felt for young lives under his supervision. He knew his students, their failings and their great potentials. Their problems were his problems, even their minor triumphs excited him, their achievements were his rewards. We talked with him by phone during his last afternoon. He was frantically trying to locate a picture for a student whose deadline for applying for a scholarship seemed to concern him more than it did the student.

Now his death has diminished all of us. And because he worked tirelessly and selflessly and without fanfare, only now can we realize how deep is that loss.

The World Was Left To Shift For Itself

The sale of what to the Russians, Madame Nhu, Goldwater and the Vatican City parley were left to shift for themselves as the eyes of the world focused on the City of the Angels, a name, incidentally, which may be changed officially to the City of the Dodgers. The Yankees no doubt have some strong thoughts on this point.

How thoroughly the excitement of the series permeated our society was illustrated at Second Presbyterian Church Sunday, and no doubt at countless thousands of other functions during the day.

At the beginning of the morning service, the pastor made the usual public announcements. Among them was the notation that the doctors had changed the time of their Sunday afternoon meetings from 2 to 1 o'clock. That was all Mr. Kercher said, but a knowledgeable smile touched his lips.

Girls Scouts have created a fourth level of scouting. The new order, called Cadettes, is between the 9-11 Juniors and the 12-and-over Seniors. The Cadettes are an admission that adults are facing the fact that girls become women faster than ever. The Cadettes have their own handbook that, according to the director of the Scouts' Program Development Division, helps leaders "deal directly with the needs of young adolescents."

The Cadettes will be given advice on the social graces—clothes, poise, makeup, getting into and out of cars. But the latest sign of the changes times for the girls' scouts: To earn a cook's badge, a young lady now must "bake a cake from a prepared mix by following directions on the package."

Just like mother.

Plaudits All Around For UF Promotion

Bill Koury did a bang-up job arranging the United Fund promotion held last Saturday, no doubt about it. He put in long hours doing each of the legwork himself, and he certainly earned the thanks of the community. But in a humdrum task such as the UF promotion, we often overlook others who give their time, talents and whatever they have to boost the project. The gifts provided by local merchants were a great drawing card, and the car given away by local auto dealers kept interest in the promotion at fever pitch until the end.

But our thanks must go to the "outsiders" who have no stake in our town. Ned Jarrett, the race driver, was gracious enough to stand in the boiling sun and explain all the intricacies of his racer to the pack of kids that flocked wherever he was. Pancho, a fellow who makes his living doing what he did here Saturday for nothing, earned a spot in Mooreville's heart.

And, of course, a vote of thanks goes to the people, far too numerous to mention here, who did their utmost to make the whole world conscious of the Mooreville-South Iredell United Fund. To give you an idea of these sacrifices, John Simpson swallowed a banana whole to win an eating contest in no time flat.

Up With This Announcing We Cannot Put

One of the many organizations that took part in UF promotion day was the Jaycees. This Saturday these same young men, who will hold their second annual Jaycees Day at radio station WHIP. The station will turn over its facilities to the Jaycees, but, a technician will be on hand to keep the boys from busting up everything by turning the wrong dials.

A word to the disc-jockeys-for-a-day: Please, when you read the news, don't get as tangled as did a young-sounding announcer (out-of-town) we heard during the week end. He read news flashes several times during the hour or so we half-listened. Each time, he mentioned some folks lost at sea, and each time he said very solemnly "they still haven't been heard of from."

There will be choir singing, solo, chorus, trio, and quartette singing each evening.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

Scout Executive To Address Local Optimist Club

Howard Smith of Statesville, Boy Scout Executive, will be the guest speaker this (Thursday) evening at 6 o'clock at the meeting of the Mooreville Optimist Club.

Frank Burke, president of the civic group, announces that the meeting will be held in the private dining room of Stonestreet's Cafe. All members of the club are urged to attend.

Giles New Manager Provident Finance

John L. Giles has assumed the duties of manager of the Provident Finance Company in Mooreville, succeeding Bill Barker who has returned to Clinton.

Giles, a native of Missouri, comes here from High Point, where he served as manager of the Provident Finance Company office for six months.

Twenty-four years of age, he is married to the former Barbara Jean Lane of Cameron, and the couple has two children. The family plans to move here within a short time.

Misplaced Confidence In The Almighty Buck

Apathy is a terrible affliction, an insidious malady that strikes wherever complacency leaves an opening. Like the tuberculosis germ, the apathy virus is everywhere. It gets a foothold before its victim suspects anything. History has taught that an apathy epidemic, left unchecked, can crumble empires.

We Americans assume that nothing is wrong or can go wrong with the whole or any part of our society that enough money can't fix. It follows that because we have floods of money, comparatively speaking, and because we are spending it about three times faster than we are making it, that all must be right with the (our) world.

We are kidding ourselves and we know it. We don't care that we're kidding ourselves. That's apathy.

How much money would it take to cure the nation's growing school "dropout" sickness? Answer: All there is is not near enough—if we insist on relying on the power of dollars alone.

Recently, the Mooresville school system employed an "attendance counselor," which is a polite term for a truant officer who happens to have additional duties. We are pleased that our schools were able to recruit the services of Mrs. Jim Suttles. A trained psychologist, she is fully qualified to perform a valuable service in this new field. She will work to reduce absenteeism by getting at the root of the reasons students stay out of school. She has full authority to bring the power of the courts down on the heads of parents who allow their children to skip school.

It is important to note that Mrs. Suttles is paid by the state. For the first time, North Carolina has deemed school attendance important enough to warrant paying trained personnel to see to it. Mooresville was among the first public school systems in the state to hire an attendance counselor, a new position in state public schools. Tar Heel government leaders and school administrators realize that the finest school buildings, faculties and equipment in the world are just so much waste without students. They realize, too, that the "dropout" problem originates when a child has problems, and that children have problems even in the lower grades. If Mrs. Suttles and others in similar positions across the state can help a troubled child early, they can Glue-Sniffing To Vandalism To What?

In Mooresville Recorder's Court recently, a 16-year-old boy was convicted of public drunkenness. The youth pled guilty to the charge. It's sad enough to see wastes such as this, but it is even more disturbing to note that the youngster was drunk on glue fumes. He was found in a stupor in 17th Park, with his portable bar—paper bag and tubes of airplane glue.

He is not the only kid around Mooresville who has tried the glue-sniffing fad. From what local police can learn, an alarming number of boys hereabouts are getting their kicks from a paper bag.

Such a stupid pastime—if so mild a term can apply—is a sure sign that something is wrong with our society. Just what is out of kilter is difficult to give a name to. It has been called everything from boredom to meanness, and all the sociological shades in between. Police have glue-sniffers, church robberies and, if these problems aren't enough, the officers are plagued by what they judge to be a pack of youngsters who have nothing better to do than ransack and snap radio aerials off cars in mill parking lots.

Crime is one ugly word for the whole business. The headlines are full of crime, but the nonchalant public takes the attitude that it is not crime that is on the climb, it is merely the newspaper dramatization of it. An interesting feature recently in U. S. News & World Report pointed out the ominous fact that "by every measure, America is on the brink of a major crisis in crime. Rise in crime far outstrips population increase. It shows across the board—in crimes against property and in vicious assaults on persons."

At another point, the magazine reports that "in cities where there is a non-sensational attitude toward crime and criminals, and where people insist upon law enforcement," there is less crime.

We use the local examples to illustrate that Mooresville is not free of these social disturbances. Comparatively, we probably fare very well in the crime rate statistics. Because we have a law-abiding community, relatively speaking, is no reason to take lightly the youth problems we have.

Last year, youths under 18 years of age were responsible for 62 per cent of all auto thefts, 51 per cent of all larcenies, 49 per cent of all burglaries, 19 per cent of all rapes—etc., etc.

A kid silly enough to inhale glue fumes and break antennas off cars is silly enough to try most anything.

It should make us stop and think.

Adult Education

The University of Chicago's national opinion research center concludes that 25 million adult Americans are continuing their education by one means or another.

Fewer than half of the adult-education studies are being pursued under regular academic institutions. Most adults are boning up on subjects of personal concern, such as job-related skills and improvement of personality.

Regrettably, only 27 per cent are delving into the realm of ideas and values found in academic, religious and public-affairs categories. If this is true, the adults in their studies are not getting education in its real sense; they are getting "training."

Education is the acquisition of knowledge, and education at its highest is the use of that knowledge for the betterment of man. Certainly, today, youth and adult alike must be equipped to make a living—but more important is equipment on how to live.

Parson Jones' Pulpit

DEAR MR. PUBLISHER:

Do you like to watch women wrestlers on TV? If you do you would get a big kick out of seeing Sister Nell and my wife in a little match of their own. It started when this dear sister came bouncing up to my wife's Sunday School room right after class was over and started telling her off. She was so snorting mad that the air from her nose smeared her lipstick.

I reckon you would want all the hell-raising was about, Mr. Publisher. Well you see, Sister Nell's 17 year old daughter is a member of my wife's Sunday School class. It seems that she fell in love with Big Slim's little ole boy that always set next to her. My wife said that all they ever done was hold hands and giggle during the lesson.

His done got outa hand now Mr. Publisher—they stopped giggling and got married. You can imagine how Sister Nell musta hit the ceiling when her daughter and Big Slim's boy come home and announced that they was married and expecting all in the same breath.

Nell told my wife it was her fault allowing such a thing to happen right under her nose. According to her, if the madam had been teaching what she shoulda this terrible thing wouldn't have happened.

Well sir, they don't nobody talk to my wife like that and get away with it. She stuck her finger on Nell's nose and let her have it with both barrels. She told her that if her and her ole man had been a decent daddy and mama, the youngun wouldn't have married just to get away from home. Both of 'em worked all the time and never done nothing with the youngins. Besides that, Sister Nell's having a boy friend a couple times didn't help matters any. Nell and her ole man was always the first to get mad at the preacher and the last to get over it. In fact she pouted so long one time that it effected her gall bladder.

And, somebody told me that Nell and her family had roast pepper every day for dinner. I reckon that accounts for her unction. My wife told Sister Nell that if she had set a little better example around the house things might be different. In short, she told her that if her youngun went to Hell it was cause she was following her mama and daddy.

About that time, Sir, Nell's nostrils stopped smearing the lipstick and she sang the Lord on her lip. She hauled off and popped my wife up side the head. The madam grabbed her by the string hair and slung her to the floor. From then on it was just like TV. (Only no punches pulled) My wife finally got the best of her, and the fight was over in time for preaching.

The younguns really got a kick out of the wrestling match. One little kid asked me if they was gonna do this every Sunday. I took for attendance to pick up next Sunday. There's nothing like teaching 'em while they're young.

Well, I gotta go. I wonder how the world got in the shape it is?

Yours Truly,
Parson Jones

OUR COMMUNITY

1918

45 YEARS AGO

IN OTHER YEARS

We have received a very neat little pamphlet entitled "Technical Education at State College" which has just been issued from the Registrar's office in West Raleigh. It contains pictures of all the buildings, with full explanations of the courses and of the many advantages offered there. This is a time when people can better than ever understand and appreciate the good points of education in practical, everyday things.

Mrs. Shirley Horton, aged 29 years, 8 months and 11 days, died at her home near No. 2 cotton mill Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock of complications following measles. She is survived by her husband and three children, one an infant. The remains were conveyed to Wesley Chapel where the funeral was held at 1 o'clock yesterday, conducted by Rev. J. C. Kever, the pastor.

Mr. Lake Templeton received a card today stating that his brother, R. Bunk Templeton, had arrived safely in France.

Mr. L. F. Brown has sold the Rainbow theatre and the business is now in charge of Mr. J. S. Hammack, of Charlotte. It is the purpose of the new manager to put on only the very best shows and we bespeak for him a good patronage.

Mr. J. P. Havrell is thought to be somewhat better after a very severe attack of indigestion and heart trouble last Saturday. His son, Mr. W. E. Havrell and son-in-law, Mr. John Bell Brantley, have returned to Charlotte after a visit to their father.

A marriage of peculiar interest to the community was solemnized Saturday evening at the home of the bride, corner of Church street and Center avenue, when Mrs. Emma Lee Deaton and Mr. Emmett M. Dodd were reunited in marriage. Many years ago this couple was married and about eight years ago became estranged. Mrs. Dodd secured a divorce. Matters were adjusted, however, and the couple were married at stated, Rev. L. A. Falls of the Methodist Church officiating. They have two children, Miss Grace and Master "Jack" Dodd.

John C. Shinn, of Shinnville, aged 59 years, died at a sanatorium in Charlotte yesterday of paralysis. Mr. Shinn was very corpulent and when stricken several weeks ago it was decided best to take him to a hospital and on last Saturday he was moved. His condition grew worse until the end.

The pupils of the Mooresville High School will present the very entertaining comedy, "At the end of the Rainbow," in the school auditorium on Saturday night, March 18. The proceeds will be given to the athletic association. It is hoped the young people will play to a full house.

Messrs. Pratt Brawley and Houston Fairchild are working at the shipyards in Newport News. They write glowing accounts of the works there and tell much about the activities in the naval waters around Hampton Roads.

The Hudson Company is now putting down the asphalt through Main street. It will be only a few days now until the street will again be opened to traffic. It is a great pity there is nothing permanent on that street to keep the dry wagons from backing along the west sidewalk, at the depot platform.

Lieut. W. D. McLeland has been promoted to the command of Ambulance Company 314, and says he hopes he will be permitted to go to the head of his company "over there."

Tuesday night someone entered the confectionery store of Theodore Patterson and stole a cigar box in which the money was kept. It is not known just how much the invaders secured, but it amounted to the sales of two days. If anything else was taken, it is not known.

The Gohone Camp Fire Girls will go to Hickory tomorrow night to contest for honors with the Hickory girls.

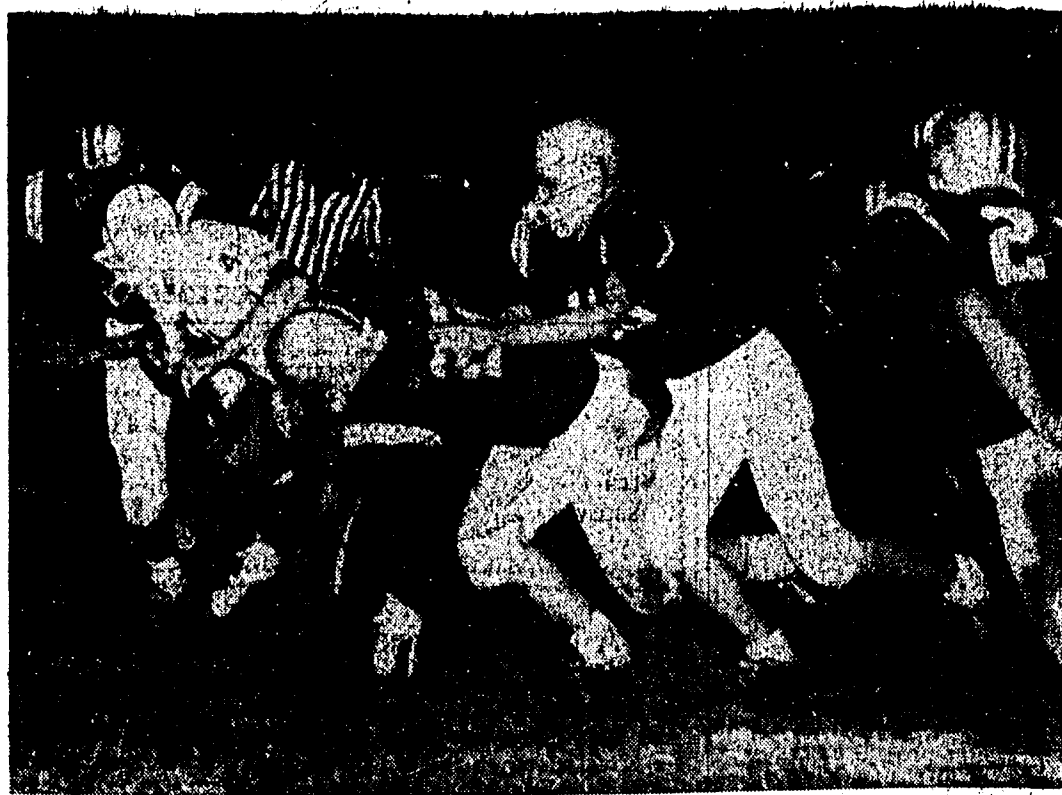

Rev. John W. Jones has returned from Richmond and is in fine condition. He is again at the M. & F. Bank.

Mr. J. F. Fairchild has sold his stock of groceries to Mr. P. E. Kale, the latter having established a small business at the J. E. Brown stand.

The MacDowell Music Club will meet with Mrs. G. M. Kipka Friday night, at her home on Center avenue, at 8 o'clock.

Cards received by various ones this morning state that Mr. Ross Johnston has arrived safely at port "overseas."

Miss Lillian Williams yesterday afternoon entertained the Band Boost club and a number of additional guests.

LEAP FROG TIME — With Mooresville's Jimmy Bailey on the front end, several Monroe players wait their turn in the leap frog contest held at Monroe last Friday night. Bailey got off on a good run, but Monroe out-leaped the locals by a 13-11 score. Kings Mountain will be visiting the Mooresville field for another session Friday night.

Unbeaten Kings Mountain Takes On Crippled Blue Devils Here Friday

Two years ago, officials of Mooresville High School had an open date on their football schedule. Scouting around, they found the only team available for that date was Kings Mountain of the Southwestern Conference. The two schools agreed on a home-and-home series.

At that time, no one realized what an attraction this year's game would be to local and Kings Mountain fans. Two fine teams will collide on Blue Devil ground tomorrow night. Game time is set for 8 p. m.

Each team has reached the half-way mark of the season. Mooresville's 4-1 record, while Kings Mountain brings an unblemished record to the local turf. The Mounties are leading their conference, while Mooresville has the second spot in the North Piedmont standing.

From all indications, the locals will have their hands full should they expect to record a win Friday night. Last year's game, if any indication, ended 20-13 in favor of the Blue Devils in what was an even battle.

Coach Roy Boyles and his unit have been working hard all week getting ready for this inter-conference clash. Injuries have played havoc with the locals. Five regulars will, in all probability, be on the sideline unable to play.

Dewitt Hinson, pugled Johnson, Tim Reach and Mike Robinson were on the injured list last week. None of these boys can be counted on for full-time game duty tomorrow night.

Mike Johnston, third string center who replaced Hinson two weeks ago, is expected to do the ball-snapping chores, should Hinson not be able to play.

Stanley McConnell, another junior who has taken over game duties in the past two weeks and has given a good account of himself, is also expected to see considerable action. Also, guard Ed Miller will be counted on for service.

13-11 SCORE Giant Effort Fails As Monroe Defeats Devils

Mooresville's march to the 1963 North Piedmont Conference was a big stumbling block at Monroe last Friday night. Both teams were unbeaten, going into the important league battle. Monroe came out the winner by a 13-11 tally.

Writing the contest cannot do justice to the tremendous battle put up by both teams. It was truly the best of the year for both squads with decisive breaks determining the game in favor of the Rebels.

Coach Roy Boyles' charges got on the score sheet first on a 62-yard march engineered by quarterback Tommy Deal. Mike Robinson scooped over the final four yards for the score. Longest gain of the drive was a 31-yard pass from Deal to Robinson which carried to the Monroe 35-yard stripe. Halfback David Oliphant moved the ball on key third down plays, keeping the drive alive.

Following Robinson's crossing of the goal line, Gary Karriker's extra punt try was off to the right and Mooresville had the upper hand by a 6-0 margin only on a short while.

The single-wing offense of Moore generated a drive which carried to the Mooresville 40-yard marker. The drive bogged down on the basis of a five-yard penalty and tailback Brad Niven booted a punt which was downed by Monroe on the Moors' 13-yard stripe.

Three running plays netted the locals eight yards and Deal dropped back to kick. The punt rolled off the side of his shoe and Monroe had possession on the Devils' 25-yard line.

With Niven and fullback Jimmy Mullis taking turns totting the ball, the Rebels moved to the Moors' 13-yard line, from where Niven connected on a pass to wingback Kent Lee for the Monroe touch-down. Lee Roeder booted the point and it was Monroe 7, Mooresville 6.

The stout-hearted Devils, with a fine effort by Deal, Oliphant and Mike Plyler, carried the following kick-off down to the Monroe 16-yard line. Here the locals were slipped with a five-yard penalty moving the ball back to the 21-yard line.

With only six seconds remaining in the first half, the Devils called on Karriker to try a field goal. Karriker kicked a perfect strike through the uprights and Mooresville was ahead 9-7 at intermission time.

Following the rest period, the climactic stages of the game began. Mooresville took the opening kick-off down to the Monroe 16-yard line. Here the locals were downed for punt the ball away. Monroe took over on its 45 and moved for the deciding score.

With Niven and Mullis the only ball carriers, and with a 20-yard pass completion from Niven to Lee moving to the five, Mullis pitched out to Niven around end for the score putting the Rebels ahead 13-9. The extra point kick was a good.

Mooresville still had plenty of fight. After an exchange of punts, the locals had Monroe backed up to its two-yard line. On an end play, Niven was tackled hard in the Monroe end zone by Chick Pless and the ball rolled all around three Devils before Niven reclaimed the pigskin, giving Mooresville two points to make the tally 13-11.

In the closing seconds of the game, the Devils made a desperate bid to pull the contest out of the fire before the fast-moving clock brought the game to a close.

Robinson, Deal, Oliphant, Mike Plyler and the talents of linemen Gary Karriker, Ray Brannon, Billy Watson, Roy Thompson, Larry Dylson and Dewitt Hinson enabled the locals to move to the 40-yard line before a pass from Deal was picked off by the air to kill any hopes for a Blue Devil victory.

Although losing, Coach Boyles had high praise for his charges and he was elated with the fine effort of the entire team. He was especially high on the performance of Stanley McConnell, who did a fine job at linebacker.

Monroe All Alone Atop NPC Ladder

Monroe, by virtue of the 13-11 decision over Mooresville, is the top team in the North Piedmont Conference standings. The Rebels sport a 4-0 conference mark and are 5-0 overall. They are the only unbeaten team in the conference.

Although losing to Monroe, the Blue Devils claim undisputed possession of second place, one game back from Monroe. The locals holds a 4-1 overall record at the middle of the season.

West Rowan, with two conference wins, two tie games and one tie holds third place in the standings, and an overall mark of 2-3-1. Davie County and Children's Home are tied for fourth place.

The 1-2 marks. Overall, Children's Home is 3-2 while Davie County is 1-4. Troutman has a 1-3-1 mark in five games while North Rowan has the same overall mark. East Rowan is 1-4-1.

The NP conference standings through games of last week are:

SIDELINE COMMENTS

Hope Faded, But Admiration For Blue Devils At New High

BY PHILIP PARKER

As we sat in Bowman Gray Stadium at Winston-Salem Saturday night watching UNC and Wake Forest doing battle, our thoughts were still on the Monroe game of the previous night. If this, or if that our boys would have been the winners.

Still, on Sunday the score in the paper said Monroe 13, Mooresville 11. That's the way it goes in the world of sports.

From this corner we have many regrets about losing the game, but we have no regrets about the fine game our boys played. In losing they gained even more admiration from us. They played a fine game, and we appreciate the fine effort the entire team put forth.

Going to tomorrow night, the locals have another tough assignment, stopping the win streak of Kings Mountain. The Mounties have a fine team and with the many injuries to the Blue Devils we face a tough game.

Over and around the association, many of the teams are playing some splendid games and all indications when play-off time and Shrine Bowl selection time comes around we will receive many honors. Shelby, Hickory and Wilkes Central, along with Morganton and Kings Mountain, are making the sports scribes work overtime with their pencils and typewriters.

As for our predicting, the games of last Friday night had us pitching at a 500 clip, which is way below our average. Since our record-breaking average of .889 two weeks ago we have continued to drop until our average now stands at .731 based on 19 correct guesses in 26 attempts.

Our correct guesses were Davie County over West Rowan 7-0, and East Rowan over Children's Home 13-7. We missed on the Troutman-Scotts series as the Rebels won the narrow 13-11 decision of Monroe over Mooresville.

Five games are on tap in the North Piedmont tomorrow night, three conference clashes and two inter-conference battles. Non-conference games have Mooresville entertaining Kings Mountain and North Rowan traveling to Concord.

Conference affairs see Children's Home traveling to Monroe, Davie County comes to Troutman and East Rowan is at West Rowan. This week our average could well get even lower as all the games are rated as close affairs.

However, we'll take Monroe to stop Children's Home 19-6, Davie County to win over Troutman 13-7.

Midget Gridders To Play Saturday At 3 On Moor Mill Field

The popular Midget gridgers wind up their regular season this Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Two games are on tap and the action is expected to wind up at 5:30 p. m. with the Iron Works emerging as the league champion.

The Iron Works are unbeaten, although the Ironmen and Draymore played to a 21-21 tie earlier in the season.

Other teams of the league are Champions-Templeton and John V. Berger. The end of the regular season will not be the end of mid-gate football as the All-Star game Saturday, October 19, will be the final game for the 11-12-13 year-old boys.

The all-stars will be made from members of each team in the league. Pairings for the game will have players from the top team and the last place team playing a 1-2 like squad of boys chosen from the third and second place team based on the final standings of the regular season.

Against the Gridders, the Irons played a good brand of ball with a single mistake by a defensive player allowing the winning score which came on a pass play in the first half.

Richardson was high on the fine line play of Joe Benson, who was reported to have either made or assisted on tackles all over the field. He also singled out guard Randy Oliphant, who played a good game and was credited with an important fumble recovery.

During the past week of practice, Richardson and his assistants, Conrad Tharp and Bill Griffith have been working him hard, generating offensive spirit to go along with the fine defensive spirit in the game last week.

Richardson is expected to go along with this starting unit for

The contest between Kings Mountain and Mooresville has the focal point of local area fans. In this one, although our hearts go to the Blue Devils, with the injuries to key players we don't see how they can do it. It'll be Kings Mountain 20, Mooresville 7. You be there and help reverse this prediction.

Seriously, though, we back the Blue Devils all the way and from the fine turnout of fans we know they have the finest backing and support of any high school in this part of the state. We urge each and every one of the many sports fans to continue this fine support whether the boys win or lose. They are our boys and we're proud of them. You be too.

Mike Brewer Top Winner In Weekly Grid Contest

Mike Brewer, a resident of 1427 North Main street, with eight correct guesses out of a possible 11, took first place and a cash award of $7 in the weekly contest being sponsored by Mooresville Tribune. He guessed the total score of the Mooresville-Monroe game at 27. However, he did not turn in his entry until 1 p. m. Thursday.

Leon Gabriel of 621 East Iredell avenue also had eight correct guesses out of a possible 11, but was four off on the total score of the Mooresville-Monroe contest, guessing the total score at 20.

Mrs. W. L. Moore of 250 Institute street also had eight correct guesses out of a possible 11, but was 17 off the total score of the Mooresville-Monroe game, guessing the total score at 7.

Kenny Brotherton of Mooresville, route 1, guessed correctly the exact score of the Duke-Maryland game, 30-12, and, therefore, will receive tickets for two free games of bowling at Moor Lanes.

Last week, Mrs. Charles B. Miller of Mooresville, route 1, guessed correctly the exact score of the N. C. State-Southern Mississippi game and, therefore, will receive one-half gallon of DeLuxe Ice Cream from the Mooresville Ice Cream Company.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: Steve Stutts, president; Janice Howard, vice president; Neil Howard, secretary and treasurer; Lynne Stewart, reporter; and Maxine Stewart, Tommy Thompson, and Pam Morrison, recreational leaders.

Robert Howard told the group about the Automation Project and the members then selected their projects for the coming year. Delicious refreshments were served.

The next meeting is scheduled to be held at the Darrell Stutts home.

Cook Accepted In The Cadet Wing

U. S. Air Force Academy, Colo.—Cadet Douglas F. Cook, of Mooresville, has been accepted as a member of the U. S. Air Force Academy Cadet Wing following his completion of basic cadet training.

Cadet Cook, son of Mrs. Avis H. Cook of 220 Patterson avenue, Mooresville, is a member of the 850-man class of '67. His four years of study at the academy will lead to a bachelor of science degree and a regular Air Force commission as a second lieutenant.

The basic cadet training was designed to prepare him morally, mentally and physically for the academy's comprehensive military and academic program.

He attended Mooresville Senior High School.

DEVILS TALES

BY DIANN SINGLAR

A school, like a person, has both moments of happiness and sorrow. Wednesday was a day of sorrow. The death of Mr. D. H. Pfeiffer emptied the school of feeling as we all recognized our loss. The sadness was fully felt during a special assembly of tribute Wednesday morning. We, the students of Mooresville Senior High School, dedicate this column to Mr. Pfeiffer.

When a student first comes to MHS, he probably feels apprehensive toward the principal. But after one gets to know him, one knows that he is there to help and not just to discipline. Mr. Pfeiffer was respected by the teachers, as well as the students. No one can put into words how much he meant to us. He was a man, a principal and a friend.

Mooresville Senior High School will never be able to replace him and we shall never be able to forget him. Perhaps a few lines of poetry can express our sentiment. As I grow older, looking back, I see Not those the longest planted in the heart Are the most missed. Some unions seem to be Too close for even death to tear apart.

Recreation is wearing yourself out on your own time. —Miller

Brooks Will Attend National Meeting Of City Managers

City Manager Cy Brooks will leave Saturday, October 12, for Denver, Colo. to attend the 48th annual conference of the International City Managers Association.

The meeting will begin Sunday, October 13, and continue through October 16 in the beautiful mile-high city.

More than 650 city and county managers are scheduled to attend the four-day conference, including a host of university and public administration experts who will appear on the program and wives of those attending. Total attendance is expected to exceed 1,200.

More than 1,800 communities in the United States and Canada and 1,750 communities in Western Europe have adopted the council-manager plan of local government since its inception some 50 years ago. In addition to Canada, where there are 72 council-manager communities, the plan is used in Norway, Sweden, West Germany, Ireland, and Finland. Since World War II, council-manager government has shown a rapid gain in popularity with more than 75 communities adopting the plan each year.

Master of Ceremonies Wayne Simpson of China Grove calls the magic numbers during drawings for $1,000 worth of gifts provided by local merchants. The top prize of the day, a used car, was won by Michael Warren, a Mooresville eighth grader. The theme of the event that raised $425 for United Fund and built immeasurable good will was a showing of models of all 1964 autos sold in Mooresville. The cars, which may be seen in background, were displayed along the 200 block of North Main Street, where the event was centered.

Pancho, known in this area primarily because of his appearances over Charlotte television, was a favorite with the younger set. Practically every one of the hundreds of kids who were downtown Saturday got to talk with the "Mexican cowboy." He is showing this group of children the huge knife he carries. Other special entertainers who performed during the day included Hugh Sykes, Sonics and Bill McDow and his Blue Grass Ramblers. The festivities began with a parade at 9:30 a. m.

The object of adoration and the victim of a constant barrage of questions throughout the day was famous race driver Ned Jarrett of Newton. He, his mechanic and his racer were on hand Saturday to lend support to the United Fund promotion. Jarrett talks with some of the boys who flocked about him all day. He stands beside his car as he explains features of the high-powered machine. Things like torque and spin-out were Sanskrit to the uninitiated, but fascinating to racing fans young and old.

State Fair Will Open October 14

"Going to the Fair?"

Throughout the Tar Heel state the question is being tossed back and forth wherever two or more people gather.

The answers vary, but one thing is certain: Many people will attend the 95th annual State Fair, October 14-19, in Raleigh.

What will this year's fair offer? Does that oft-used phrase, "bigger and better than ever" really apply? Fair officials answer both questions by pointing out that the North Carolina State Fair is the biggest single exposition in the state, each year presenting a complete picture of the state's progress in agriculture, industry, commerce, science, education, entertainment, and the arts.

"As North Carolina grows and progresses in all these vital areas, so grows the annual state fair," says Fair Manager L. V. Ballentine. "We're constantly adding new facets to the fair in order for it to keep pace with new developments throughout the state," Ballentine said.

"This means that when the fair opens this year it will, as nearly as possible present a total picture of our growing state."

A rundown of the various exhibits, displays and attractions which will highlight this year's fair supports Ballentine's comments.

The vast panorama that is the State Fair officially opens at noon Monday, October 14, with brief ceremonies in which state officials and leaders will participate.

The essence of knowledge is having it, to apply it; not having it, to confess your ignorance.—Confucius.

CINDY JACOBS AND MARY WALTON

Last week we really goofed on our column. Don't worry about it though, it won't happen again. Regarding the interview, we received a letter correcting us on our mistakes. Here it is:

Dear Editors:

Your last week's column contained an interview with a student teacher from Appalachian State Teachers College. This teacher's name (if I remember correctly) is Sandra Lee Allen.

On August 12, 1942, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Allen became the parents of a baby girl whom they named Sandra Lee. This event took place in Raleigh.

During this time most of us students weren't even born. How were we to know that on September 2, 1963, Miss Allen would come to Mooresville Junior High as a student teacher in Home Ec?

Miss Allen's favorite color is green. She's lucky because most of our school is green.

Yours truly, U. S. N.

We are grateful for this letter which gives us quite a bit of enlightening information on our student teacher.

News Bits:

Last Monday our Red Imps lost to D. Matt 27 to 0. Saturday they played China Grove, and again lost 6 to 0. We'll be ready for Oakwood Saturday night though. It's a home game so come watch us win!

We'll have to admit that we don't know what a "mobbingator" is either.

The defense attorney heard a prosecution witness admit on direct examination that he had not actually seen the accused bite the victim's ear.

The defense could hardly wait for his opportunity to cross-examine.

He took the witness back to that earlier question. "Did you actually see the accused bite the victim's ear?"

"Well, er, no, not actually."

"Then how do you know he bit it?"

"Well, I saw him spit it out."

The secretary kept turning the pages of the dictionary until finally another office worker asked what she was trying to find.

"Bankruptcy," said the secretary.

"Well, why are you looking way back there?"

"I know how to spell 'bank,'" she replied, "and now I'm looking for 'rumpy'."

The sweet young thing was complaining about a stiff neck and a sore arm after a recent week end.

"How come?" she was asked.

"We were necking in a drive-in."

"Why should that give you a stiff neck and a sore arm?"

"We were in different cars."

"See that big fellow over there?" said Jones to his friend at the bar. "He was a famous shark fisherman. His specialty was sticking his arm into the shark's mouth to remove the hook. The old-timers used to call him 'Fearless!'"

"Used to? What do they call him now?"

"Laffy!"

The doctor was discussing health and hygiene with his spinster patient.

"Even though you take a bath every day, you can't stay healthy just by bathing alone!"

"Maybe not, doctor," snapped the lady, "but I'm still going to bathe alone."

New Executive Named By Boy Scout Council

Eugene C. Bowden has been named scout executive of the Piedmont Council, Boy Scouts of America, to succeed Eugene Jones, who has been transferred to Florence, South Carolina.

He will report to council headquarters in Gastonia to assume his new responsibilities on October 21. He has been serving on the national staff of Boy Scouts of America as assistant director of volunteer training working in region five and six, the nine southern states, for the past six and a half years. This summer he directed the volunteer training at Philmont Scout Ranch near Cimarron, New Mexico.

Bowden is a native of Forman, Arkansas. His Boy Scouting started in 1936 at Little Rock, Arkansas, where he attained the Eagle rank with the silver-gold palm. As a Scout he held all the Junior leader posts in the Boy Scouts and was a crew leader in the Sea Scouts.

As a volunteer leader he served in several capacities including Scoutmaster and Sea Scout First Mate before becoming a professional leader in the Boy Scout movement.

Bowden served for three years in the United States Navy and was commissioned a first lieutenant. He attended Little Rock Junior College and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. In September, 1946, he graduated from the 118th National Training School for professional leaders in Scouting conducted at the Schill Scout Reservation, Mendham, New Jersey.

Bowden became a field Scout executive at Jacksonville, Florida, in 1946 and three years later joined the local council at Atlanta, Georgia, as district Scout executive.

In February, 1954, he was selected as Scout Executive at Suffolk, Virginia, where he remained until he joined the national staff as assistant director of the volunteer training service, educational division, Boy Scouts of America, in February, 1957.

Charles Karriker Attends Seminar At USAF Academy

Two Catawba College commerce students attended a two-day seminar on textiles and the textile industry in Greensboro last week. James Davault of Kannapolis and Charles Karriker of Mooresville, both commerce majors at Catawba, and Millard Wilson, head of the college commerce department, attended the seminar sponsored by Walter F. Fancourt Company, manufacturers of textile chemicals.

The purpose of the seminar was to provide students who are considering a future in textiles with the opportunity of hearing industry leaders discuss various aspects of the business and the future it holds for young people. Twelve colleges were represented at the seminar.

Moore Participates In Sea Maneuvers

Robert A. Moore, sophomore third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Moore of 413 Dinger avenue, Mooresville, is serving aboard the dock landing ship USS Oak Hill, participated in extensive amphibious maneuvers conducted September 16 through 27 off the coast of Southern California.

Dubbed "Exercise Merit Badge," the operations were designed to provide training in amphibious landings, replenishment-at-sea exercises, shore bombardment, surface and subsurface reconnaissance and Marine maneuvers ashore.

Twenty-two Pacific Fleet ships and more than 13,000 men took part in the training exercises.

Last Mile Toughest United Fund Drive Soars To $23,505

"I can't believe it. I must have added wrong and picked up four or five thousand somewhere."

That's what Jim Rosser said last week after he totaled the United Fund contributions reported by the six UF division chairmen. Rosser, who is president of the Mooreville-South Iredell United Fund, double-checked his figures.

He got the same happy results — $23,505 of the $27,815 UF goal assured.

The division reports were received last Thursday during the first two luncheons scheduled for the purpose of discussing progress of the UF campaign that began September 30.

The second report meeting is slated Friday, tomorrow, at 12:30 p.m. at Elks Restaurant. John Simpson, UF campaign chairman, has asked that all division chairmen attend this important session.

The highlight of the meeting last week was announced by Dave Jones that his industrial division was racing along, already 102 per cent over its division target of $17,257. The $17,884 contributed by area industries and industrial employees through last Thursday noon is $427 over the goal. Industries were assigned 61 per cent of the entire UF budget.

Jones would accept no personal compliments.

"I haven't done any work, really," he said, "all I've done is a little bookkeeping. The people in the plants and those in the plant offices deserve all the credit."

Jones singled out Templeton-Chempun for sparking the drive that is, by far, the most successful in the industrial division's.

$500 Robbery At Mt. Mourne Store, P. O.

The Iredell Sheriff's Department today continued its intensive investigation into a Tuesday night armed robbery at the Caldwell General Store and post office in Mount Mourne.

John William Caldwell, owner-operator of the business and the Mount Mourne postmaster, was beaten and robbed of about $500 at 10:30 p. m. Tuesday, according to Sheriff Charles Rumble. The officer said half the money belonged to the store, the rest was government funds taken from the post office safe.

This is the story pieced together by the sheriff after talking at length with Caldwell.

The merchant postmaster had closed his store and was inside working on his books when the two men knocked at the front door of the store. He admitted them, and they said they wanted to buy cigarettes. When Caldwell turned to walk behind the counter, he was slugged. He fell, stunned, but apparently he was not hurt seriously. He had been working in the post office books, and he had the safe open. The post office is in an enclosure inside the store. The robbers rifled the post office safe, and took another $250 in store money that Caldwell was carrying.

The men cut about 30 feet of rope from a roll and bound their victim. Caldwell held officers he See ROBBERY—Page 7

Got to get in my two bits worth about Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu. This little spitfire with the fetching smile and neatly-stacked torso is giving us a rough time.

She is not a Communist, therefore doesn't come under the unfortunate gag law passed by the last General Assembly. I am glad to help welcome her to speak on the campus of North Carolina State College of the University of North Carolina at Raleigh.

There isn't a mother's son or daughter at that fine institution who doesn't see through that little poppin' like she was made of glass.

The name of Nhu rhymes so neatly with zoo that I think her last American appearance should be before the animals at the N. Y. Central Park Zoo.

And speaking of Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu, we've recently entertained another distinguished visitor from abroad. His official title is Elect of God, King of Kings, King of Zion, Conquering Lion of the Tribe of Judah, Branch of the Tree of Solomon and Imple-ment of the Holy Trinity. We call him Haile Selassie for short.

This little runt owns four gold-plated palaces in Ethiopia, filled with priceless furniture and art, which contrast with the extreme poverty of his people.

He has been the recipient of millions and millions of dollars in U. S. foreign aid. In 1950 he laid the cornerstone for a university. As of last week, only the gate has been built.

In 1959, he ordered work on a municipal stadium, and a giant American crane was set up on the grounds. As of last week, the crane was still standing there, rusty and unused.

But the Conquering Lion of the Tribe of Judah

Gov. Sanford Will Address Students Here

Governor Terry Sanford will deliver two brief addresses in Mooresville Friday, October 25.

The state's chief executive will speak at Senior High School and at Dunbar High School. His appearance here will be continuation of his efforts to visit every county in the state and beat the drums for education.

The governor will address the Senior High student body at 8:30 a.m. At 9:15 a.m., he will speak to Dunbar students. His talks will center about the future of the state and the importance of education.

Uncle Dan From Doolie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where Senator Symington has popped a question to the Defense Department that calls for a answer. I ain't expecting him to get no answer and I reckon he didn't figure on getting no answer either.

But it's mighty comforting for the taxpayers back home to know a U. S. Senator can still inquire about such matters without somebody throwing him out of the meeting.

It has been brought out that the United States has now got stock piled with is equal to 5 tons of TNT for ever human being on earth. This comes to around 15 billion tons. Senator Symington says we got enough nuclear bombs stockpiled to wipe out 2,000 cities of 100,000 population and wipe out not only 125 times. He says we've got the bombs in storage to destroy every city of any size on earth 125 times.

Now what Senator Symington wants to know is why we keep spending $2 billion a year to stockpile more and more bombs. It has been hinted by some folks in Washington, brave enough to hint about such matters, that the big reason is the uranium mines has gone one of the most powerful lobby organizations ever to operate in the Congress.

As a general rule, Mister Editor, I don't go around with murder in my heart, but I might be willing to help pay for killing everybody on earth once, but I'm agreed spending $2 billion a year to kill over 125 times. For all practical purposes, when a feller is dead once, he is dead. It looks like our standard stockpiling procedures calls for multiplying our needs by 125 and putting it in the warehouse. And Senator Symington ain't going to come no closer getting an answer to his question than Senator Williams did a year ago when he asked what we was doing with that $8 billion worth of Chinese feathers we was keeping in storage.

Outside of this question by Senator Symington, they ain't been much in the papers this week to get a feller shook up any more than usual. They was a couple little items I aim to put on the agenda at the country store Saturday night. For instance, I was reading where a milkman in England was listed official in Government records as a "Bovine Produce Distributor." I'm shore the feller will have some comment to make on that one.

And I was reading where them Americans that climbed to the top of Mt. Everest reported they was a lamb with that speed to get to the side of the mountain that could run 30 mile a hour. I was just thinking, Mister Editor, that in this day and age it would take a lamb with that speed to get enough to Mary to go everywhere that Mary went.

Yours truly, Uncle Dan

Electronics Manufacturing Firm Comes To Mooresville

Operation Will Get Underway In Two Weeks

Mooresville's "right kind of people" have attracted another industry. An electronics manufacturing concern will begin operations here about the first of November, according to a joint announcement today by officials of the firm and the local Chamber of Commerce.

The highly-specialized industry now centers its operations on the West Coast, hothbed of the fast-growing electronics field. It has sales offices throughout the nation, but its plant here will mark the beginning of its manufacturing operations on this coast.

Speaking for the Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Boyce Brawley welcomed "this fine addition to our community." Dr. Brawley, who is president of the Chamber, stressed the fact that, since electronics is new to Mooresville, "this plant will be able to move into a new labor market and it will add to the diversity of our industrial life."

It was, in fact, prospects of a good labor market that figured strongly in the organization's decision to locate in Mooresville. See ELECTRONICS—Page 2

Miss Babson Finalist In State Event

Beverly Babson, a senior in the Lawrence Hospital School of Nursing, is one of four finalists in the Miss North Carolina Student Nurse Contest.

Miss Babson was notified this week she has been selected from the dozens of entrants to compete in the state finals during the annual meeting October 25-26 of the Student Nurse Association of North Carolina. The statewide session will be held in Raleigh.

With the announcement of Miss Babson's position in the contest was a congratulatory letter from Sylvia Vincent, chairman of the State Nurses Association.

'Choo Choo' Justice Speaker For Midget Football Banquet

If you're out of your teens, you won't believe this. Grady Shoo excitedly announces to his young son: "I'm going to try and get Choo Choo to speak at our Midget Football banquet!"

Says the kid: "Who's he?" To 99.4 per cent of us pre-war babies, Charlie "Choo Choo" Justice is no more familiar than, say, George Washington. In North Carolina, it borders on subversion to be unaware of what is wistfully called "The Justice Era"—the most exciting period Tar Heel (the state and the team) football has ever known.

Well, Grady did, and Justice will speak at the Midget Football banquet here next Tuesday night, that is, the October 22 supper affair at the War Memorial will get underway at 6:30 p. m. A story inside the paper gives details. Suffice it here to say only 300 persons can be accommodated—and tickets are first-come, first-served.

Shoo, who was in charge of securing a speaker for the first annual Midget League Recognition Night, didn't quit when he got Justice as the principal speaker. He also got his old friend Crowell Little of Chapel Hill to come here and introduce Justice. Little, now a car dealer, was an outstanding player. In his own day at the University of North Carolina, he was UNC backfield coach during the Justice heyday—1946 through 1949.

The former football great has maintained a strong interest in youth. He coached Midget Football four years at Hendersonville, and he still devotes a great deal of time to working with youngsters.

C-C Officers Welcome New Industry

Wesley R. Carter, center, an electrical engineer and an official of an electronics manufacturing firm that has located in Mooresville, was in town this week to direct launching of the new operation. He and his industry got an official welcome from the local Chamber of Commerce. Carter chats with Chamber President Boyce Brawley, right, and W. J. Haselden, executive secretary of the Chamber.

MORE MOORESVILLE PLAN Raylass Building Getting Canopy

The Mooresville Plan, now fully awakened after months of dormancy, is fast making inroads in the 100-block of North Main Street.

Contracts were awarded this week for the construction of the attractive Mooresville Plan canopy along the 42-foot frontage of Rayless Department Store at 100-block of North Main Street.

Ray W. Troutman said John V. Barger & Co. will do the work. Troutman is president of Mooresville Manufacturing Corp., which owns the building in which Rayless is located.

The announcement that the canopy will be added at Rayless follows by seven months the completion of an extensive outdoor building. The remodeling that was finished in March included the installation of a new heating and air-conditioning system. Mooresville Manufacturing Corp. financed the earlier work, and it will pay the cost of the canopy.

During the work earlier this year, the store front was modernized. Troutman said the soon-to-begin project will not involve additional facelift of the structure.

Until mid-summer, the touted

Twelve girls, representing the Mooreville Senior High School FHA, attended the annual District VII Rally Saturday, October 5, at the South Rowan High School. Each girl there returned with much helpful information to share with the other FHA members.

The purpose of the District Rally is for all the individual clubs to meet and discuss goals and purposes determined by the National Rally. The clubs organize their projects and make plans as a whole to achieve them.

The theme: Your Home — a key to the future was carried out excellently by the guest speakers, Mrs. C. H. Ould and Mrs. Josephine Foster. Mrs. Ould is the roy R. Carter, an official of the parent firm, was on hand to explain why.

"We looked all up and down the East Coast — from Maine to Florida — in search of a supply of good labor," he said. "Some time ago, we settled on the Piedmont of North Carolina, and now we have narrowed our choice down to Mooreville."

"There are many reasons, of course," Carter explained, "but the deciding factor, I would say, is that here in Mooreville we found the right kind of people. That's really what it boils down to. We can get what little we need in the way of utilities anywhere. We wanted a small town, one not dominated by a single industry. At the same time, we wanted to grow with a community of friendly, energetic people."

W. J. Haselden, executive secretary of the Chamber, called Carter's remarks "a real tribute to the citizens of Mooreville." Haselden added that another member of the new firm, Bob Wullenwaber, was in Mooreville in August making a plant location survey. He said he knew Wullenwaber visited numerous towns and cities in this area.

"That the attitude of the people of Mooreville impressed these folks this way," he said, "is, I think, a real fine testimonial for the town."

Carter said a building to house the operation already is under option. He said the firm will begin hiring workers in about two weeks. While the operation requires highly skilled labor, the officer emphasized that the plant will conduct its own training program. No history. The sister plants raised their goals within three hours of the opening of the campaign, and Jones said this set the pace for the entire campaign.

The UP leaders also were highly complimentary of Bill Koury's special events committee that put on the promotion downtown October 5 for United Fund. That event produced $435 and immeasurable good will.

The amounts reported by the other divisions last week were: commercial, $3,539; public employees, $979; professional, $941; residential, $112; and retail, $125. Optimism was everywhere. T. C. Homeley, chairman of the professional group, said "we can see $1,000." The public employees director, Roy Greener, said "we'll make our quota. Gifts are coming through better than last year."

The United Fund is this community's lifeline to recreation and many equally vital services. Local agencies, in addition to the Recreation Commission, served by UP are the Christian Mission, Boy and Girl Scouts, the library, the Red Cross and the Rescue Squad. The bulk of all funds given through UP remain in Mooreville. Small appropriations go to support a number of area, state and national charitable organizations.

Requirements other than a sound education are necessary to handle the work, Carter added.

Haselden said the North Carolina Employment Securities Commission will assist in accepting and screening applications for work in the new plant. Carter said his concern preferred the "experts" handle the employee processing "because they are equipped to help us better than we can help ourselves."

Representatives of the Employment Securities Commission are in the courtroom in the municipal building each Thursday. The Chamber and Carter urged persons interested in working in the new plant to apply through the commission.

MRS. KENNETH OSBORNE SUMMERVILLE

Afternoon Ceremony Unites Miss Cherry, Mr. Summerville

In a ceremony of beauty on Sunday, October 13, in the First Presbyterian Church of Mooreville, Miss Patricia Ann Cherry became the bride of Kenneth Osborne Summerville. The Rev. Joe E. Stowe officiated at the 4 p. m. ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Paul Cherry of Mooreville, route 3, attended Meredith College in Charlotte in 1956 to 1958 and graduated from King's Business College in Charlotte in 1959. She is presently employed as a secretary with the Adjutant General's Department of North Carolina at Raleigh.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Price Merritt Summerville, of 2807 Toddville Road, Charlotte, and is a graduate of N. C. State College, Raleigh, where he joined the Farmhouse Fraternity. He is presently employed with the School of Forestry at N. C. State College as a staff assistant.

Prior to and during the ceremony a program of wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Asa McNelly, of Mooreville, organist.

The nuptials were spoken in a lovely setting of clematis palms, emerald and huckleberry foliage interspersed with numerous seven branched candelabra holding cathedral candles. Baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums and pew markers of white satin ribbon and foliage completed the wedding scene. For the final benediction, the couple knelt on a white iron kneeler.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a floor length gown of white pearl de soie fashioned with long sleeves ending in points over the hands and a low scoop neckline accented with lace appliques of iridescent sequins and seed pearls. The bouffant skirt ended in a chapel train and featured lace appliques of sequins and seed pearls. A small crown of pearls, lace and iridescent sequins held her veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white cymbidium orchids, stephanotis, and frenched carnations with tiny pearl roping and English ivy.

Mrs. Everett R. Mitchell, of Florence, S. C., was matron of honor and Miss Polly N. Page, of Kings Mountain and Raleigh, was maid of honor.

The honor attendants were dressed of seafair green brocade styled with a scoop neckline and tiny self bows accented the bell shaped skirt. Their headpieces were of green satin petals with pearls and a circular veil. They carried bouquets of bronze and brandywine chrysanthemums with gold velvet ribbon and English ivy.

Honorary bridesmaids were: Mrs. Everett R. Mitchell, of Florence, S. C., was matron of honor and Miss Polly N. Page, of Kings Mountain and Raleigh, was maid of honor.

The bride's table, covered with a linen cloth, was appointed with a silver candelabrum with an epergne of white snapdragons and snowdrift pompons. The three-tiered wedding cake, topped with wedding bells, was placed at one end of the table and the silver punch service graced the opposite end of the table. Silver compotes held nuts and mints.

After the couple cut the traditional first slice of wedding cake, Mrs. P. L. Shinn and Mrs. J. B. Powers, both of Mooreville, completed the serving of the cake. Mrs. Kelly Summerville, of Charlotte and Mrs. Grier Powers, of Mooreville, presided at the punch bowl.

The honorary bridesmaids assisted with the entertaining and serving. Mr. and Mrs. Eural Clippard, of Mooreville, kept the guests register and Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Moss, of Mooreville, said good-byes.

Following a wedding trip to western North Carolina, the couple will make their home at G 3 B Cameron Court Apartments, Raleigh.

For her going-away outfit the bride chose a cranberry red jacket dress with black accessories and she added a corsage of orchids lifted from her wedding bouquet.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were from Raleigh, Durham, Greensboro, Charlotte, Kannapolis, and Florence, South Carolina.

Tamara McCann Celebrates 3rd Birthday

Little Miss Tamara McCann was honored at a birthday party Saturday afternoon at her home, 336 Glenwood Drive. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe McCann and was three years old on Sunday, October 13.

Guests enjoyed playing games and delicious refreshments consisting of birthday cake, sodas and nuts were served.

Tamara presented favors of whistle blowouts to her guests.

Those attending the party were: Susan Pilgreen, Joann Guffey, Melissa Sherrill, Lisa Rogers, Donna Chamberlain, Robin Pries, Tanya Deede and Carla Talley, and Rachel Ott.

The honoree received many nice gifts.

Troutman PTA To Hear School Superintendent

The Troutman PTA will meet tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 in the school auditorium. This will be a joint meeting of the two PTA groups to hear Iredell county school superintendent, T. Ray Gibbs speak. Supt. Gibbs will discuss the general educational needs of Iredell county. Afterwards the two groups will hold separate business meetings.

Teachers will be in their classrooms before and after the meeting to meet and talk with parents of students.

Little Tamara McCann had some trouble blowing out three candles on her birthday cake—two went out but the third just kept burning. Maybe the excitement of the day had something to do with it since Tamara's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe McCann, gave a party in her honor Saturday afternoon.

Park View PTA Has Meeting Tuesday Night

The first meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association of the Park View School was held Tuesday evening, October 8, in the school auditorium.

Leon Gabriel, president of the PTA, opened the meeting and introduced the Rev. Joe Stowe, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, who led the evening's devotion.

During the business period, the grade count was taken and the first grade was the winner. The secretary, Mrs. Jack Curtis, read the minutes and Mrs. Bill Harwell, treasurer, gave her report. Other officers of the PTA are vice-president, Donald Gibson and those serving on the committees are: membership, Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Perkins; program, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Davis; and Mr. and Mrs. Grady Shoop and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Ferguson, and hospitality, Mrs. George Harbison.

Mr. Gabriel recognized Mrs. T. D. Miller, who is general supervisor of the Mooreville City Schools and Hugh Hagaman, principal of Park View.

Mr. Hagaman welcomed the parents and introduced all of the teachers. After the introduction of the teachers, each was presented a white carnation corsage.

Parents were invited to the cafeteria to meet their child's teacher and refreshments, consisting of punch and cookies were served.

Mrs. J. B. Powers presided at the punch bowl and assisting with the serving were Mrs. J. P. Christensen, Jr. and Mrs. Leon Gabriel.

The luncheon table was covered with a white linen cloth and appointed with a handsome arrangement of gold and yellow chrysanthemums, snapdragons, and carnations. Wedding bell place cards marked the seating arrangement for the guests.

The bride wore a moss green velvet dress to which she pinned her hostesses' gift corsage of white chrysanthemums.

The Baker home in Woodmoor was decorated throughout with mixed garden flowers. The dining table was covered with an arrangement of eucalyptus, pink garza chrysanthemums and lighted candles.

Entertaining in the living room were Mrs. Ruth Barber and Mrs. McCormick.

Miss Sandra Brown and Mrs. J. J. Almond presided at the punch bowl. Assisting with the serving of sandwiches, cheese straws, cakes, and mints were Mrs. Hassell Graeg and Miss Nancy Baker.

Miss Sandra Shaffer presided at the register in the den while Mrs. R. H. Baker entertained.

Goodbyes were said to Mrs. Wilson Brantley.

Approximately one hundred guests called during the appointed hours.

is no Communist. He is, therefore, eligible to speak on the campuses of our state universities.

I only regret he wasn't scheduled for an address on the campus at Chapel Hill. I would have made the trip over there to hear him try to explain why, after millions in U. S. aid, 92 per cent of his inhabitants still can't read and write.

See where a New England poet of sorts whose name has escaped me at the moment says what this country needs is a President with beard and whiskers like in olden days, claims it denotes "great intelligence mixed with common sense."

He must be a Republican. Abe Lincoln was the first President to sport beard or whiskers. We went 72 years, from George Washington to Lincoln, without that facial foliage. And some of those boys did pretty well, too. Washington, John and John Quincy Adams, Thomas Jefferson, to name a few.

Got a laugh out of a recent talk by Comptroller of the Currency James J. Saxon trying to stimulate private banking to "keep pace with community needs."

At last count, there were more than 30 government agencies lending money at rates below profit levels of private banks. The Area Redevelopment Administration, for instance, is out trying to lend money at 4 per cent to anybody who'll borrow it on the pretext that it'll create jobs. A few typical loans: one to build a roadside handicraft stand in Arkansas, another to study sea lions in Alaska, one to sight-seeing guides in Hawaii, others to build golf courses, ski slopes, cocktail lounges, bowling alleys.

The Mooresville Tribune is putting in its application... will let you know how we come out.

See where a gal at Fort Dodge, Iowa, named Kelly Fitzgerald married a guy named Patrick Kelly. Now her name is Kelly Kelly.

If I recall the spelling correctly, the Claude Kipkas have an attractive daughter named Katherine Karolyn Kipka.

Kelly Kelly, Katherine Karolyn Kipka. Very neat and attractive.

Olin Miller says President Kennedy's sending on-ly two men to ease the giant racial tension in Birmingham reminds him of the story about a call to the Texas Rangers to quell a riot. When only one Ranger arrived he was asked why more Rangers were not sent. The Ranger replied: "They ain't but one riot going on around here, is there?"

These college professors are always up to something. See where an English prof claims the expression "a more perfect union" in the U. S. Constitution is a grammatical error. He says you can't improve on perfection, therefore the expression is redundant or superfluous. I wouldn't know about such things, am just telling you what the man said.

still was groggy from the blow on his head. The men then carried Caldwell to a pickup truck, placing him between them in the cab. They took a shotgun and a rifle from the store. They drove around the area and finally pushed Caldwell from the truck on the U. S. 21 bypass near the gas plant road.

The victim managed to free himself and make his way to his sister's home nearby. He called the sheriff's department. Rumble said the call was received at 2:10 a. m. Wednesday.

Deputies Dick Perkins and Richard Crawford, who were patrolling near Centre Presbyterian Church, rushed to the scene of the robbery. An alarm and a description of the men and truck was flashed throughout the area. Late Wednesday morning, a truck was stopped by Newton police, but Caldwell well viewed the truck and said it was not the getaway vehicle.

Sheriff Rumble said his men have very little in the way of solid leads in the case. A Cornelius policeman, Larry Cook, reported seeing a 1964-model Ford pickup pass through his town at 12:30 a. m. Wednesday. He said the truck contained three men at the time, and that it had a dog rack with a V-type goat on the back. Later, at about 2 a. m., Cook observed the same truck, with only two men in it, going north on U. S. 21.

Zoning For Lake Basin Is Law

At long last, Iredell's zoning ordinance for the Lake Norman basin is law.

The county commissioners adopted the long-in-the-making control measure this week. The Iredell Planning Board quickly met and studied the application of the new law.

Among the topics discussed regarding the zoning ordinance was Moore'sville's request that the county zone the town's perimeter. Backed by the commissioners' approval, the planning group extended its zoning authority to the Moore'sville town limits.

In other developments this week, H. W. (Bubba) Slop of Moore'sville was named to the county planning board. The commissioners are expected to give Slop a formal vote of approval during their session Monday. Two other Moore'sville men are serving on the planning board. They are Jim Mack Morrow and Harry Keeter. Young White of Moore'sville has been a member, but he has submitted his resignation.

Commissioner Robert Holshouser of Mooresville moved for the adoption of the zoning ordinance. The zoning ordinance was adopted by a vote of 10-2.

Why do Catholics believe in Purgatory and prayers for the dead?

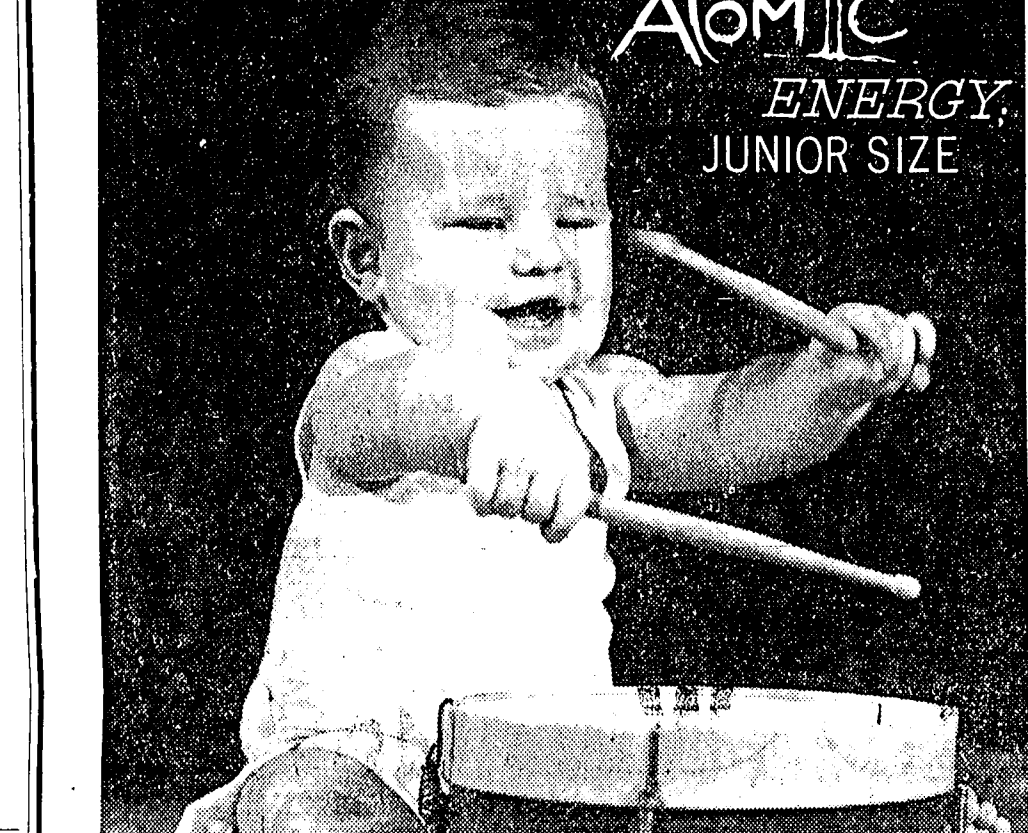

Is every dying person either a saint going straight to heaven or a sinner going straight to hell? Not according to Jewish belief before and after Christ. For in II Maccabees there is ample evidence of men praying for their dead "that they might be loosed from their sins. There are indirect references in Matt. 12:32 and I Cor. 3:13-15.

On tombs of the early Christians, and those of later times, inscriptions are to be found begging prayers for the dead.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

How wonderful is enthusiasm. Mom and Dad will forgive this noise. They catch the spirit and joy of their young drummer boy.

Enthusiasm is not limited to small fry. But as we grow older, these joyous moments when our spirits ride high, wear thin and are diluted by everyday cares.

This is true of our religious experience. Often we are filled with eager enthusiasm when we pray and worship. Our church can guide this energy in channels of service and love.

But often our religious enthusiasm fails. In these moments when our spirits lag, we are sustained and encouraged by the enthusiasm of our fellow Christians.

How wonderful is enthusiasm. Come to church to have it renewed — Sunday and always.

CB Club Sets Party Nov. 3 At Drag Strip

The Lake Norman Citizens Band Club has invited the public to attend a get-together jamboree at the Mooreville Drag Strip November 3.

Richard Atwell, president of the growing club, said valuable door prizes, including a CB radio set, will be given away.

The festivities will feature barbecue with all the usual trimmings. The CB Club is made of area citizens who use their two-way radios for pleasure and business. CB units sprouting up about the country now are concentrating CB radio as a valuable aid in emergencies.

The club members will be on hand to explain the operation of the CB system. The Mooreville Drag strip is located east of town on N.C. 152.

Methodist Men Plan Session

The Methodist Men of the Central Methodist Church will have their regular monthly meeting Sunday morning, October 20, at 8:30 a. m.

The program, first of a series of programs, to be conducted on "Know Your Church Better" will be on "World Service."

Hopewell Baptists Announce Barbecue Sale On Saturday

Hopewell Baptist Church will conduct a fund-raising barbecue sale Saturday, October 19, from 11 a. m. until 8 p. m.

The church is located three miles east of Davidson on the Concord Road. Plates, which will sell for $1.25 each, will be piled high with barbecue, yams, slaw, pickles and cake. There will be coffee aplenty available.

The meat will be prepared by J. W. Oehler, "the barbecue king." Members of Hopewell Church will assist in the preparations. They will assure the public only the finest meat of hams and shoulders will be used.

The Rev. Powell Wilkins, pastor of Jones Memorial Methodist Church, will be the principal speaker tonight (Thursday) for the regular weekly meeting of the Mooreville Optimist Club.

Frank Burke, president of the civic club, urged all members to attend the 6 p. m. dinner session at Stonestreet Cafe Dining Room.

The club program chairman, Jack Wooten, said Mr. Wilkins will speak on some phase of youth work. The Optimists are best known for their youth projects.

Funeral Wed. Morning For J. W. Wilson

Funeral services for John William Wilson, 61, were scheduled Wednesday morning at Thyatira Presbyterian Church. Burial was to follow in the church cemetery.

Mr. Wilson, who lived at Mount Ulla, Route 1, died at his home Monday night. He had been ill about four months, and in critical condition since last Thursday.

A native of Rowan County, Mr. Wilson was the son of the late George Locke and Corinna Kimball Wilson. A retired farmer, he had been a member of Thyatira Church 50 years. Final rites were to be conducted at 11 a. m. with the church pastor, the Rev. Carl May, in charge. A former pastor of Thyatira, the Rev. James Phillips, and the Rev. Wilkes Macaulay, pastor of Prospect Presbyterian Church, were to assist in the service.

Mr. Wilson is survived by his wife; two sons, James of China Grove, J. Lindsay of Mount Ulla; three daughters, Mrs. T. C. Sloan of Mount Ulla and Mrs. James Kepley of Salisbury, Route 6; 16 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

Optimist Club Will Hear Rev. Wilkins

The Great American Pastime—politics—is as fascinating as it is necessary. Politics is a noble calling in its true form, even if it's not often found this way. Public service is nearly always disillusioning if a well-meaning citizen goes into it for the honor and glory. Filling an elected office is never easy, and getting elected to fill it is twice as frustrating.

Down east, barbecue and politicking are synonymous. And the way you make pork barbecue (best "cue" is unheard of), is you throw in a handful of skin, a handful of fat, a handful of lean and a double handful of red-hot pepper. You serve it with something wet to keep the throat from breaking out in open flame. You have plenty of "cue," hire the ball park, invite the candidates and you've got yourself a rip-snorting rally.

After an aspirant for high office makes the eastern circuit, even so much as his breakfast bacon is likely to give him heartburn. We once knew a successful office holder who always stopped off and bought a quart of milk on the way to a rally. The milk gave credence to his lie about his ulcer acting up, and his remark about how he loved to sop thick cornbread in milk got him in with the overall crowd.

So food and running for public office go hand in hand, or hand to mouth, as it were. For the sake of the city boys who would like to be the people's choice for something, let us pass along this word. When you speak at a breakfast of the faithful, don't say "pass the hominy grits, please" and add that "I've enjoyed hominy grits all my life." Saying "hominy grits" is like saying "tooth dentist" or "widow woman." It's redundant, and folks who have been eating grits all their lives will find you out real quick.

And they are of the opinion we have enough double-talk and wasted effort in government already.

How To Win Votes And Influence Taxpayers

Addendum to any discussion of federal tax cuts: Sen. John Williams of Delaware says the Kennedy administration is adding a new federal employee every two minutes. In his first 30 months in office, 152,000 have been added to government payrolls. This is a rate of 5,000 each month, 250 each working day. The existing 2½ million federal employees represent an increase of 1.4 per cent since the start of the Kennedy dynasty.

Our Wheat May Wind Up As Red Firewater

One of the stories behind the story of selling wheat to the Russians: Some time ago, Khrushchev put aside his vodka glass and soundly condemned boozing. So workers on the collective farmers did what any free enterprise advocate might have done—they held back part of their grain to feed their own private stills. The grain famine forced these people to look elsewhere for the makings. Soviet officials have noted a sharp increase in the number of requests from state agencies for alcohol to be used in industry, laboratories, clinics. The requisitions specify that the alcohol be fit for human consumption.

It may very well be that a good bit of the wheat they're getting from us will wind up as firewater. Let us hope that this thought does not occur to the guy who guards the Big Button. He may come in hungover one morning, blame us for his throbbing head and decide to do us in.

SHUCKS and NUBBINS

This Is The Week That Tries Our Souls

At this writing, I am at the start of the week I dread all year—the week Everett isn't here—and I'm scared. He can gather and write more news in an hour than I can all day. We have no doubts, as a staff, about getting out a paper; I have no illusions, personally, about being able to handle Scoop's job. In spite of willing and able assistance from all hands, history has proven when Everett is on vacation, something gets left undone.

I could launch into a flowery discourse calculated to discourage any thoughts our teamate may have about taking two weeks off, but, frankly, I haven't got the time. He says he doesn't read this corner of the paper anyway.

This Kind Of Spunk We Can Use More Of

Those Troutman Legionnaires aren't waiting around for federal grants or handouts from anybody. They want a job done, so they're taking no chances—they're doing it themselves. Heaven knows, we have all too little of their brand of self-reliance and determination in the world. It was a pure delight talking with these men and getting the report we had in last week's issue. They talk with just pride about the new Legion post, they're building, and they are proud of the fact they're getting a fine building for about half what it would have cost to hire somebody else to do the work. Right now, they are racing winter to get a roof on the structure.

More power to 'em.

The Best Kind Of Proof Of UF Support

Barring some drastic unforeseen circumstance, South Iredell will record another 100 per cent-plus United Fund campaign this year. Rarely have we seen so optimistic a group as the UF leaders who gathered for a report meeting last week.

The frosting on the cake ($23,505 of the $27,815 goal in hand) was word that Dave Jones and his industrial division were soaring along 102 per cent over the division target of $17,684. That single division was assigned 61 per cent of the total, and everybody came through in magnificent fashion. By last Thursday noon, industries had contributed $487 more than last year's total in that division—and more was coming in.

Congratulations go to the hundreds of citizens who believe in United Fund, and who have proven they do in the finest possible way—by giving to it.

Politicians Must Have Cast Iron Insides

The Great American Pastime—politics—is as fascinating as it is necessary. Politics is a noble calling in its true form, even if it's not often found this way. Former Local Resident Earns Doctor Of Education Degree

Chester Richard Freeze, a former Mooreville resident, has been awarded a Doctor of Education degree by the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa, Ala.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Freeze of 149 Mackey avenue, Mooreville, Freeze attended the Mooreville City Schools and, following a tour of duty in the U. S. Air Force, he completed work for his high school diploma at Central College in Central, South Carolina.

He received his Bachelor of Science degree from Marion College in Marion, Indiana, in June, 1953, and his Master of Arts degree from the University of South Dakota in Vermillion, South Dakota, in August, 1954.

For his Doctor of Education degree, Freeze, in addition to his academic course work training, presented a dissertation entitled, "A Study Of Openness As A Factor In Change Of Student Teachers."

He has accepted work as associate professor of education at Alabama College in Montevallo. Freeze is married to the former Miss Oleta Leys of Aberdeen, South Dakota, and the couple has two children, Teresa, 8, and Tamea, 5.

Former Local Resident Earns Doctor Of Education Degree

Chester Richard Freeze, a former Mooreville resident, has been awarded a Doctor of Education degree by the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa, Ala.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Freeze of 149 Mackey avenue, Mooreville, Freeze attended the Mooreville City Schools and, following a tour of duty in the U. S. Air Force, he completed work for his high school diploma at Central College in Central, South Carolina.

He received his Bachelor of Science degree from Marion College in Marion, Indiana, in June, 1953, and his Master of Arts degree from the University of South Dakota in Vermillion, South Dakota, in August, 1954.

For his Doctor of Education degree, Freeze, in addition to his academic course work training, presented a dissertation entitled, "A Study Of Openness As A Factor In Change Of Student Teachers."

He has accepted work as associate professor of education at Alabama College in Montevallo. Freeze is married to the former Miss Oleta Leys of Aberdeen, South Dakota, and the couple has two children, Teresa, 8, and Tamea, 5.

CINDY JACOBS AND MARY WALTON

Our ninth grade English teacher, Mrs. Peiffer, is back with us following the death of her husband, Donald H. Peiffer, principal of Senior High School. Even at Junior High this loss is felt because many Junior High students attended Park View School when Mr. Peiffer was principal there. We extend our heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. Peiffer and her family.

Playwriting Housewives Will Take Part In Theatre Seminar

Mooreville's trio of amateur playwrights have been invited to take part in a theatre workshop in Chapel Hill late this month.

At least two of the three will participate in a panel discussion on "Writing the Musical Play". The one-day workshop, scheduled Saturday, October 26, is being held by the Carolina Dramatic Association. The session will be held in the Playmakers Theatre on the University of North Carolina campus.

John W. Parker, executive secretary of the Carolina Dramatic Association, asked the three housewives to take part in the workshop. Mrs. Bill Neel and Mrs. Gene Johnston already have agreed to serve on the panel that will discuss musical plays.

The third member of the team that wrote the award-winning "Listen to Your Heart," Mrs. Phil Horton, is not certain at this time whether she will be able to attend. Mrs. Horton, who lived in Moore-

SLIGHT OVERSIGHT — Everything went beautifully Monday afternoon. For the giant crane, lifting the steeple to its resting place atop the new St. Mark's Lutheran Church under construction off Fieldstone Road was no sweat. After the delicate job was completed, and the steeple was towering its full 105 feet, the job foreman noted, to his dismay, a slight oversight—the cross at the tip-top was facing the wrong way. He said he could rig up a way to turn the cross from inside. The steeple was moved from its gantry at left.

DEVILS TALES

By DIANN SINCLAIR

That's all right. That's O. K. We CAN still be conference champs if we try just a little bit harder. The boys really played a fine game. At the half, the score was 0 to 0 even though King's Mountain scored in the third and fourth quarters.

—Congratulations to David Oliphant, who was selected the best player in the Monroe game. Mooreville Senior High School is very proud to have Mr. Max Nanney as principal. We all know that he will do everything he can for the improvement of our school. All he needs is the co-operation of every student in our school. Let's try to do the very best we can also.

FAT OVERWEIGHT
Available to you without a doctor's prescription, our drug called ODRINEX. You must lose weight in 7 days or your money back. No strenuous exercise, laxatives, massage or taking of so-called reducing candies, crackers or cookies, or chewing gum. ODRINEX is a tiny tablet and easily swallowed. When you take ODRINEX, you still enjoy your meals, still eat the foods you like, but you simply don't have the urge for extra portions because ODRINEX depresses your appetite and decreases your desire for food. Your weight must come down, because as your own doctor will tell you, when you eat less, you weigh less. Get rid of excess fat and live longer. ODRINEX costs $3.00 and is sold on this GUARANTEE: not satisfied for any reason, return the package to your drugist and get your full money back. No questions asked. ODRINEX is sold with this guarantee by: Beville Drug Store, 227 N. Main. Mail orders filled.

ON-THE-SPOT COVERAGE? — Well, yes and no. It was on-the-spot coverage, true enough, but it really wasn't a school fire. It was make-believe with a purpose and a message. Last week was Fire Prevention Week, and in connection with the annual observance, local photographer Fletcher Davis wrote, produced, directed and filmed a 30-minute sound movie depicting the work of the fire department. Local schools had fire drills planned during the week, so Davis got firemen to set off harmless smoke bombs at South School to make the "movie set" more realistic. He is at right filming the scene as children pour from the building. Davis made the movie as a public service. The fire department will have it available for groups interested in the work of local firemen.

COUPLE KEEPS WEDDING CAKE THROUGH 40 ANNIVERSARIES

Even after 40 years, a New York City clergyman and his wife are still celebrating their wedding anniversaries by nibbling pieces of their wedding cake. They marked the occasion while separated by the Atlantic Ocean.

"We will be thinking of each other as we eat our cake," said the Rev. A. E. Campion, who was on vacation with relatives in England. His wife's doctor had advised her not to make the trip.

A large piece of wedding cake was left over after their wedding in 1923, and they have eaten a piece of it each year since as a part of their anniversary celebration.

"It is rather a nice way to celebrate," said the minister. "I think it must be something of a record to keep a cake for so long, and I reckon with care it will last until the time comes for our golden anniversary."

To us, the Mooreville Tribune is something akin to childbirth every Wednesday. It is the tangible product of our collective efforts. A sizable part of each of us goes into the package you get for a dime. We hurt when things don't go well with the paper; a telephone call telling us we spelled a name wrong is a stinger, but these failings are balanced by a word of praise now and then.

It is impossible for one not in the newspaper trade to understand, much less appreciate its personal nature. It is at times terrifying to know your work is literally an open book. When things go well, the job of recording day-to-day community history is very rewarding.

Newspapers also can be likened to people in that some are reliable, some aren't. We try to be reliable, even at the risk of being dull. What we try to keep in mind is that the Tribune always will reflect the character of each of us. Character is not easy to do.

By Reading This, You Are Proving Our Point

Somewhere in your Tribune news package this week is a feature story that has something to say about the inner workings of this newspaper. In that article we purposely left out mention of one of a newspaper's roles—that of helping to mold public opinion. Theoretically, that is the function of this editorial page, but we hesitate to harp on that point too much for this reason: We have our reservations regarding this so-called "power of the press" when it comes to telling a well-informed citizen what's best for him and the country.

Back during the big war, when newsprint was exceedingly hard to come by, Tom decided to save space by doing away with the editorial page. He expected a great public outcry, but, to his puzzlement, the absence of the page of opinion pieces created not a ripple of course, this is not altogether indicative that editorials are unanimously ignored; Tom had his Chaff, and he, in all modesty, believe to be one of the state's most influential journalistic instruments.

A couple of years back, we received a rather controversial letter to the editor. We commented on its fiery nature, but somebody around the paper said, in so many words: "Why worry; it'll be back there with the editorials, so nobody'll see it." That was a great help, ego-wise.

But editorials are read, certainly not by every subscriber, but by at least a fraction of them. If even one reader takes note of an idea we present and if it moves him to action, to anger to disgust or delight, at least he is moved. We will have conveyed an idea, and in so doing we will have had some part in shaping that reader's thinking. That in itself is an awesome responsibility. We recognize and accept this, be our responsibility to one reader or to one

We Must Try And Plant 'Seeds Of Cure'

When we think of hunger in this state in this day and time, we think of a school kid who spent his lunch money for a yo-yo. There are North Carolinians who are hungry today because they have nothing to eat, and little hope of getting something. Poverty is not a nice word, but it's all we have to describe these conditions that exist in our midst.

All of North Carolina is to be congratulated for the successful efforts led by Governor Sanford in securing a fund of $14 million to help rid this state of poverty. The Ford Foundation has pledged $7 million to the project, the largest amount it has given to any state project and with the amounts received from North Carolina, and matching money now in sight at state and local levels, the total amount will reach $14 million.

Some of this money will go into statewide projects, some in rural as well as metropolitan areas. The people in these areas will be asked to locate the sources of their school, welfare and economic problems and to help find the methods of curing them.

Typical of Governor Sanford's forward thinking and bold courses of action, is his statement that even though there is lack of certainty in identifying the complex problems at their roots and planting seeds of cure, we must try.

We agree wholeheartedly with Governor Sanford in his belief that charity and relief are not the best answers to human suffering. Neither are schools the answers so long as only a third of the students finish. Hence the dropouts will be one of the targets of the program. Governor Sanford wants to break the cycle of poverty and give the less fortunate children a better chance for better living in North Carolina.

How will this experimental project be operated? Out of the $7 million of the Ford Foundation grant, $500,000 will go toward the administration of the fund for a five-year period. $2 million will go to a special project, requested by the State Board of Education and the State Department of Public Instruction to find better ways to teach reading, writing and arithmetic in the

DEAR MR. PUBLISHER: How time flies! Here it is almost the end of another year, and time for our annual "sheep-stealing drive." As you know, every year we have to fill out a whole stack of papers, just like Sears & Roebuck. We have to show what kinds of business we did during the year. When the papers are all in, then us preachers are rated by who made the biggest show. So, Mr. Publisher, you can see why there's such a big scratch to get ahead the last few months of the year. Most Churches call it their annual membership campaign. I call it a "sheep-stealing drive."

I'll tell you why. There ain't but 3 sources that a Church can draw on for new members. First, there's the out-and-out heathen that don't have no Church connections at all. Course, this is the bunch Jesus told us to go after. We don't mess with this kind too much, Mr. Publisher, cause they're too hard to win over. They've gotta be converted, and this takes too long. A fella can't make too much of a show working with these folks. Why sometimes it takes 5 or 6 years just to win one convert.

Then there's the group, Mr. Publisher, that moves into town during the year. We get a few members this way, but the number of folks who move in is too small to make much of a showing. Then too when you figure that this group is made up from all denominations, that kinda whittles it down finer.

The third group is the most "profitable" one of all. Its made up of Church members from other denominations. Our main job is trying to win these folks over to our Church. I believe the Good Book calls it "sheep-stealing." Years ago when folks used to raise sheep, why, one shepherd would sneak in while the other wasn't looking and take it over to his flock. That's where us modern Churches got our idea. Sometimes even this method has its problems. You see, a fella has to first of all talk a man out of his own denomination and then talk him into your own. Course there's a few things that help us out. When some member has a falling-out with some of the other members, this is a good time to rush in. They're a pushover while they're pouting. When somebody gets all riled up at the preacher, that's a good time for "sheep-stealing." You can smile and whistle right hard and they'll come running. (Course, you don't have too much assurance that they won't get mad at you!)

Another good time for this "Christian" campaign is when a Church is without a preacher. A good fast snap can rip in and grab a whole buncha members in just a short time. Well, I gotta close for now and get to work. We've got to keep the "Kingdom" moving. I understand there's a family down the street that's mad at their preacher cause he wears shorts in his front yard. It looks like I'm gonna have a new member. I wear my shorts in the back yard, so nobody can see me. So long.
Yeays Truly,

Parson Jones

1954
9 YEARS AGO
IN OTHER YEARS

Town officials, the VFW and Chamber of Commerce are working together in an effort to secure a National Guard unit for Mooreville.

The unit, to be known as B Battery of the 48th Field Artillery, will have to be organized locally from the bottom up. If secured, such a unit will add an additional $30,000 yearly to the town's payroll.

The battery at full strength will consist of a commander, six commissioned officers, two warrant officers and 130 enlisted men. Securing a commander will be the first undertaking involved. Any veteran who has held a prior commission is eligible for a commission in the new unit, as is any veteran enlisted man who has formerly attained to the first three enlisted grades and is less than 28 years old. The unit commander will receive from $1,000 to $1,500 a year for his services.

Mr. and Mrs. Price Sherrill, Jr., of Gastonia, were week end guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Price Sherrill, Sr., at her home on West Center avenue.

Raymond Hayer, who has been seriously ill at the Western North Carolina Sanatorium at Black Mountain for the past 10 days, is reported to be much improved. He is a brother of Mrs. Clyde Moore, of this city.

Roy Turner, son of L. C. Turner of 515 South Broad street, this city, has enlisted in the Marines, and is taking his boot training at Parris Island, South Carolina. His address follows: Pvt. Roy Turner, 1455764, USMC, Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, South Carolina.

Mrs. Irma Wise Burgess is a surgical patient at the Presbyterian Hospital in Charlotte. She was admitted to the hospital Sunday and underwent the operation Monday morning. She is reported to be getting along nicely.

Jimmy Moore, engineer second class, United States Navy, is spending an 11-day leave here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Moore, at their home on North Church street. Mr. Moore has just returned to the States after a five-month tour of duty in the Mediterranean. He will return to his ship, USS Mulphien, at Norfolk, Va., at the termination of his leave.

Miss Carolyn Cooper has returned to her classes at Queens College in Charlotte after spending the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Cooper, at their home on East Center avenue.

Miss Sarah Nell Morris, who is a freshman at WCUO, Greensboro, spent the past week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Morris, at their home on Cabarrus avenue.

We believe the possibilities of this massive project attaching poverty are unlimited and are optimistic that great results can be achieved in helping to erase poverty and misery.

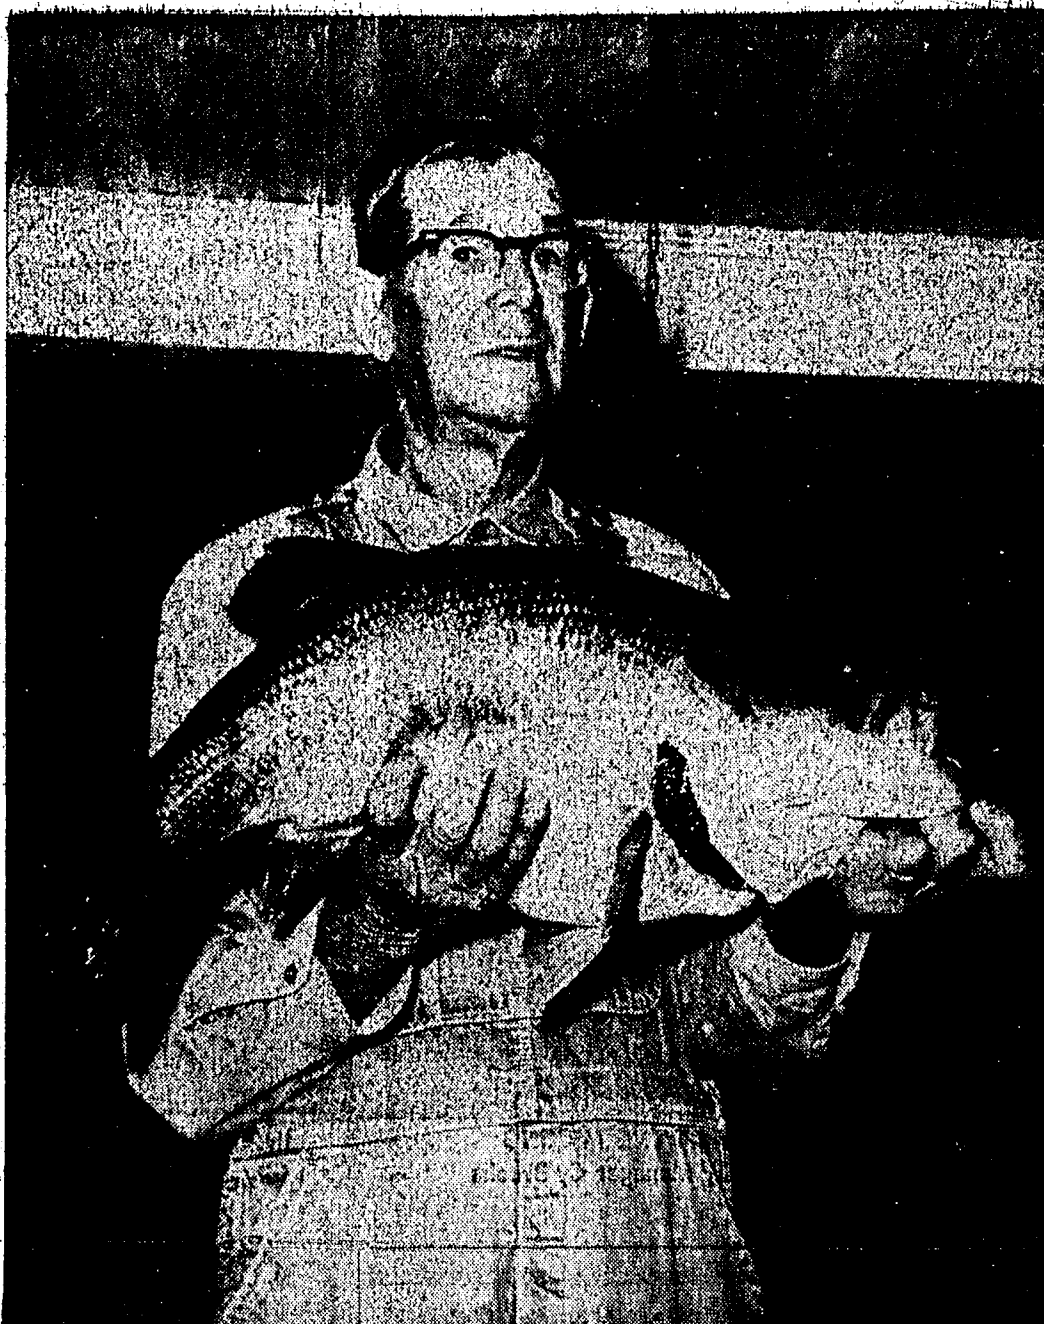

Work on other proposals to foundations is continuing in the governor's office, and it is expected that federal agencies will begin to make grants to the fund, also. The total value of the projects is not, therefore, predictable. But the North Carolina Fund appears to be the largest effort on the part of any state to identify the basic causes of poverty and disadvantage, and to find ways to correct them.

We believe the possibilities of this massive project attaching poverty are unlimited and are optimistic that great results can be achieved in helping to erase poverty and misery.

10 Minutes In Fisherman's Paradise

Grover Brown of 318 Culp Street has been fishing since he could hold a pole. All the thrills of all that angling were packed into 10 minutes of pure pleasure last Saturday afternoon. Brown and a partner, Robert Deal, were trolling on Lake Lookout at 3 p. m. when Brown felt a surge of power on his line that turned out to be the catch of all catches. For 10 minutes, Brown fought this 13 1/2-pound largemouth bass before boating it. The bass, as well as we can learn, is less than a pound off the North Carolina record. Brown was using a No. 9 reel with a green "whopper-stopper" on an 18-pound test line. The "whopper-stopper" stopped one for sure. Brown gave the fish to Dr. L. B. Sken, who is having it mounted for display in his office.

Lowrance Wins First, Third Prize Money

Tommy Lowrance won both first and third places last week in the Tribune's football contest. Lowrance, who lives at 217 East Catawba Avenue, took top spot and $7 by hitting on eight of the 12 games, and by missing the total number of points scored in the Mooreville-Kings Mountain game by one point. He guessed 13; KM won 14-0.

In his entry that won third place prize money of $3, Lowrance also guessed correctly the outcome of eight games. He missed the total score in the local game by six points.

Arthur Matheny, 347 Patterson, took second spot and a $4 cash award. He hit on eight games and missed the local score by six points. He beat out Lowrance, however, because his entry was submitted at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday. Lowrance got his pages in at 9:05 a. m. Thursday.

Harold Cline, 158 West McNeely Avenue, guessed all but four of the games correctly and he, too, came within six points of the local score. He finished out of the money because he didn't get his entry in until 4 p. m. Thursday.

A number of contestants hit on eight of the 12 games, but all missed the mark on the score in the local contest.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1963 —THE MOOREVILLE (N.C.) TRIBUNE—

LOOKING FOR WAY OUT—"Hey fellows, I'm over here" shouts halfback David Oliphant (41) as he sets sail for a good game against Kings Mountain last Friday night. Oliphant had his usual fine night for the locals both offensively and defensively. The Mounties proved too much for the Blue Devils and the visitors scored a 14-0 verdict. Other Mooreville players are Gary Karriker (61) and Jimmy Bailey (41).

Blue Devils Hobble To North Rowan For Conference Tilt Friday Night

Monday afternoon at the closing of the school day, Coach Roy Boyles and his assistants, Perry Pearson and Jack Loftin, took stock of what they had left in the way of football players.

On checking the squad, the same story was repeated. Injuries to Dewitt Hinson, Tim Roach, Mike Robinson, Pudgy Johnson were still the biggest problem the locals had to overcome as they began preparations for their conference clash with North Rowan tomorrow (Friday) night.

The game, to be played at North Rowan, is expected to draw the same large number of sport fans of the Mooreville area that in the past has supported the team to the hilt in all previous games.

Mooreville dropped a 14-0 non-conference game to Kings Mountain last week, while North Rowan rebounded and gave a fine account for themselves in downing Concord 26-7. North Rowan, after a slow start, has come along into a well-rounded outfit and from all indications has a well-laid plan of battle waiting for the Blue Devils Friday night.

Gary Medinger, who quarterbacked the Cavaliers, is rated by his coach, Frank Barger, as one of the best in the conference. In the game last week, Medinger had a hand in all the North Rowan scoring, either running across the goal line or passing over the heads of Bright spot for the locals is the fact that linebacker-center Dewitt Hinson will be available for full game duty, as will Mike Robinson, who got a knee injury in the Monroe game.

Mike Chester, who operated earlier in the year at fullback, was switched to split end with the injury to Roach. He has done a good job at that position. Mike Plyler has taken over the fullback post vacated by Chester.

Jim Bailey, who replaced the injured Robinson last week and played the greater part of the Monroe game, counts heavily in the offensive efforts of the Blue Devils as they go after their fifth victory.

David Oliphant, perhaps the most outstanding player on the team thus far, has had a great year. He is slated for the starting unit at game time. Up front changes are in the making. David Curtis has moved into one of the guard slots along with Bobby Pope. Garry Karriker and Ray Brannon, with help from Pudgy Johnson, are slated for tackles while Roy Thompson and Larry Dyson gets the nod at the end positions.

Game time is set for 8 p. m. on the North Rowan Senior High athletic field.

Concord defenders for the biggest victory margin for the Cavaliers in six games.

Mooreville, on the other hand, is expected to stage a comeback after suffering two straight defeats. From the start of practice the first of this week the locals have been working hard sharpening up their offensive attack and plugging the gaps on defense.

To date, the Blue Devils sport a 4-2 mark and hope to improve the ledger at the expense of the Cavaliers tomorrow night.

With Tommy Deal directing the attack at quarterback, the locals in their earlier games had their offense clicking in either the first or second half. Only in the Monroe contest did the team make a good showing the full 48 minutes. Working out an evenly balanced offense has been the objective of the coaches during the past week of practice.

AGAINST TROUTMAN

Junior High Gridders To Try Again Saturday

Mooreville's Junior High gridders, still undaunted after three straight losses, will be on the field again this Saturday night to try and break their losing streak.

Troutman will provide the opposition in the game slated to get underway on the Senior High Field at 7:30 p. m. Coach Richardson has had troubles working the lumps into a scoring threat.

In their last outing last Saturday night, the locals had a tough time against a well-oiled Oakwood gridiron machine and came out on the short end of a 45-6 score, the largest number of points scored on the Mooreville turf in many a season.

In this contest the blocking and tackling of the lumps was way off form. The previous week they played a close game against China Grove in losing 49-0, and from all indications, the team has its work cut out for it in the remaining three games.

Actually, the Oakwood defense made the difference in the game, holding the offensive efforts of the locals completely in check with the exception of a long 65-yard gallop to record the only score by the hard-pressed lumps.

Kicking proved the lumps' downfall as the Oakwood charges bounced through the imp wall to block attempted punts on three occasions, all of which resulted in touchdowns for the visiting team.

Throughout the past week of practice, efforts have been put forth by the coaching staff to put a winning spirit in the players. Little time has been spent on reviewing fundamentals.

From all indications the game Saturday night should be a real corker for the stout-hearted Junior High fans who turn out for the contest. Both teams will be seeking their initial win. Scoringwise, the Troutman team will be rated as the favorite, having held Oakwood to a 14-0 score and losing to BENCH WARMERS — Tim Roach (24) and Mike Robinson (42), two of the many casualties on the Blue Devil team, spent the greater part of the game on the sidelines Friday night as the locals dropped a 14-0 contest to Kings Mountain. Latest addition to the injured list was Ray Brannon, who turned out for practice Monday afternoon with his knee taped up. This brings the injured list to six, and all are doubtful starters against North Rowan tomorrow night.

Offense Doesn't Go; Devil Defense Bows To KM 14-0

Halfback Mike Huffstickler, a thorn in the side of the Devil takers all night, accounted for half the distance to the scoring stripe with runs of 10 and five yards. From the eight-yard line Murphy raised up and pitched a strike to Steve Baker for the touchdown. Hultert Medinger led his first of two extra points for a 7-0 Kings Mountain advantage.

The second Kings Mountain score came on a 78-yard march with Murphy again spiriting the Mounties down the field. Line busting by Mountie fullback Pete Putman was the standout of the drive as he cracked through for gains of 14 and 12 yards.

After moving to the locals' one-yard line, Murphy called his own play and moved across for the score. Following the touchdown, the Mounties again held the Devil offense and had another scoring drive going before a fumble killed

Only the passing of Tommy Deal, which accounted for six of the scores, did the locals' Blue Devils, kept the locals from being backed clear off the field.

Halfback David Oliphant was the only threat of the Mooreville running attack, which, with the exception of occasional bursts by Oliphant, was held in check by the big, aggressive and talented Kings Mountain forward wall.

Only the good graces of faith kept the margin of defeat from being wider. On other occasions the Mounties had the ball inside the locals' five-yard line. Once as the first half came to a close and another time at the tail end of the game. The first was stopped by the clock while the last half effort was killed by a fumble.

Only once during the entire 48 minutes of play did the Blue Devils bring any rise from the Mooreville fans. This came midway of the third quarter when the locals made their biggest effort of the night.

Behind the passing of Deal and the running of halfbacks David Oliphant, Jim Bailey and Mike Plyler, the students of Coach Roy Boyles moved down to the visitors 23-yard line before being stopped by the Kings Mountain defense. Injured Mike Robinson, who left the bench for a brief spell, also had a hand in spiriting the locals down the field.

Deal, on a roll-out, made the biggest gain of the drive on the first play, gaining 11 yards. Deal also connected on a pass to Plyler for another six-yard gain while Robinson and Oliphant headed the ground game which moved to the KM 25-yard marker. Here, Robinson was stopped for a yard loss. Deal threw incomplete. Robinson gained five up the middle and on fourth down a pass from Deal fell to the turf and the effort came to an end.

Kings Mountain, behind the expert quarterbacking of Pat Murphy, moved for the first score in the early minutes of the second half. Mooreville punted to Steve Goforth on the Mounties' 34-yard line, he returned to the locals' 25-yard line where Murphy engineered the Mounties in seven plays for their touchdown.

Punt, Pass, Kick Contest Saturday

Friday, October 18, at 4 p. m. is the deadline for registering to compete in Mooresville's second annual Punt, Pass and Kick Contest.

Grady Shoe, official of Mooresville Motor Company that is sponsoring the event, issued the reminder this week. He said all boys who already are registered will be reminded of the event by mail.

The contest will get underway at 10 a. m. Saturday, October 19, on Hood Field, adjacent to South School.

A number of prizes will be awarded to boys who win or place well in the separate phases of the contest.

Dave Richardson, Junior High School football coach, will direct the competition. He will be assisted by Conrad Tharpe, one of his assistant coaches.

MIDGET GRIDDERS

Draymore Wins; Iron Works Toppled, 6-0

A Henry Thompson-to-Ricky Young pass was the play of the year for Temple as the young gridder reached glory in the final Midget League football game of the regular season.

Thompson, charged back and fired a pass to Young who went over for the score as Temple upset the Iron Works team 6-0. Temple Coach John Cook had nothing but praise for his charges following the contest. He was all smiles as he walked among his squad slapping shoulders and shaking hands. He reports that the victory was a just reward for the fine job his boys have done all year.

In the other game of the double-bill Saturday afternoon, Draymore fought off a hard-biting John Barger squad to register a 9-0 decision.

SIDELINE COMMENTS

Backing A Winner Is Easy; Cheering Loser Takes Guts

BY PHILIP PARKER

Now don't think we've got out the crying towel, don't think we're making excuses for the loss to Kings Mountain. We make no excuses. Kings Mountain had a fine ball club and they showed it on the field Friday night. Still, we're for the Blue Devils, no matter what the final score.

The reason is simple, we're from Mooresville, we know every player on the team, admire each one individually and feel each one is a credit not only to the team but to the whole town as well. Thus, in the Kings Mountain game we were rooting for them down to the final whistle, the same as we will be doing at North Rowan tomorrow night.

Back in the heyday of Coach Joe Popp, most folks around here got the idea we were riding with a winner. Little did they realize that we have been following Mooresville football for close to 20 years now, and at one stretch we saw the locals lose 28 straight ball games. Even then we supported them and rooted for them to win. We admired the losers as well as the winners. We will continue to do this as long as we are a part of Mooresville and the fine athletic program of the local school.

To date our record is 4-2, we are in second place in the conference and have four games remaining on the schedule. We see no reason why the Blue Devils cannot win them all and Lord willing we will be at each pulling for a Blue Devil victory.

Our advice to the fans: Keep supporting the team, keep turning out for the games and whenever possible lend a word of encouragement to the players. After all, they are our boys and each one deserves the support of the people of Mooresville regardless of the win-loss record.

Still, we feel that injuries to many of the key players will work a hardship on the team during the remainder of the season. It will just take a harder job by the rest of the team to make up the difference. Should all these lads who are on the injured list have been available for duty we feel the team would have a real good chance at the conference title. Now that hopes of a championship have faded away, let's just enjoy the rest of the season.

Our predicting took a real upturn last week as we came out right on all five games played. (We would have liked to have missed that certain one.)

Monroe took Children's Home 33-0, Davis County downed Troutman 31-12, East Rowan edged out West Rowan 19-14, North Rowan decided Concord 28-7 and, as you know, Kings Mountain defeated Mooresville 14-0.

Our standings for the year now is 2-4 right and 7 wrong for a percentage of .777, not bad. This week it could get even better.

Four games, all conference affairs have teams of the North Piedmont going against each other. Davis County is at Children's Home, Troutman journeys to East Rowan, Monroe takes the old bus to West Rowan and Mooresville goes to Rowan County in a game against North Rowan.

Here is the way we see it: Davis County over Children's Home 16-6, East Rowan to stop Troutman 13-7, Monroe to roll over West Rowan 29-0 and our Blue Devils to triumph over North Rowan in a tough one 12-7. You be there and help make it possible.

At the banquet many trophies purchased by the league will be presented to various players on the field of the four teams. Highlight of the awards will be presentation of the league championship trophy to the Mooresville Iron Works team which lost only one game and had one tie for a 4-1-1 record during the six-game schedule and thereby reign as league champions.

Also, trophies will be presented to an outstanding lineman and an outstanding backfield boy on each of the four teams.

It is the estimation of all fans that the league was a complete success in its first year of operation. Making the league possible were four sponsors of each team: the four teams, the league, individuals and fans who banded together to support the league financially.

The four main sponsors who put up the bulk of the money to get the league into operation were John V. Barger, Mooresville Iron Works, Draymore and Templeton-Chempun.

DRAYMORE CHARGERS — Midget League football fans have been amazed with the hustle and ability shown by the teams of the league in this first year of operation. The Draymore team coached by Vichard Cooke, Bobby Liner and John Berg are one of the top teams in the league. Members of this team are Bill Lane, Tommy Berg, Jerry Mullis, Thomas Knott, Don Morton, Kenneth Sherrill, Rickey Riesner, Crayton Johnson, Bobby Brawley, Johnny Brown, Ronnie Talbert, Gary Bumgarner, Sam Archer, Lawson Holland, Bill Archer, Brent Curtis, Larry Cook, Michael Reddish, Johnny Morrow and Winston Mayhew.

Monroe Needs One Win To Take NPC Title

Monroe's Rebels, riding the crest of a six-game winning streak and a 5-0 conference record, need but one more conference victory to wrap up the 1963 North Piedmont Conference title.

Of their four remaining games only two are conference affairs and a victory over West Rowan would assure Monroe of playing in the first round of the play-off games in the Western North Carolina High School Activities Association eliminations for the Association championship.

Actually, most grid circles are ready to concede to an unbeaten season to the power-laden single-wing offense of Coach Danny Williams, Albemarle, Charlotte Catholic and Troutman are the remaining tilts for the Rebels following the tilt at West Rowan tomorrow night. All are deep in the standings of their respective conferences and will be just warm-up sessions for the championship playoffs.

Second place in the standings is held by the Blue Devils of Coach Roy Boyles who sport a 3-1 league mark and an overall record of 4-2. Having lost their last two games after winning four, Mooresville is rated an even chance of ending up the season in the runner-up spot.

Davis County, by virtue of a 31-12 decision over Troutman last week, moved up to the third spot while North Rowan is fourth at 1-1-1. East Rowan has fifth place with a 2-3 league record.

Overall mark of Davis County is 2-4, West Rowan is 3-2-1, North Rowan is 2-4-1, Children's Home 3-3, East Rowan 2-3-1, and Troutman is 1-4-1.

At the banquet many trophies purchased by the league will be presented to various players on the field of the four teams. Highlight of the awards will be presentation of the league championship trophy to the Mooresville Iron Works team which lost only one game and had one tie for a 4-1-1 record during the six-game schedule and thereby reign as league champions.

Funeral Rites Conducted For Mrs. Honeycutt

Funeral rites for Mrs. Minnie Moore Honeycutt, 78, wife of Noah E. Honeycutt, were conducted at the Calvin Funeral Chapel at 4 p. m. last Thursday, and burial was in the Blue Door cemetery north of town on the Mooresville-Statesville Highway.

The services were conducted by the Rev. Joe Newton, pastor of the Laura Memorial Church of God on By-Pass 21 and the Rev. J. E. Armstrong, pastor of the Missionary Methodist Church on Clover street.

A long-time resident of Mooresville, Mrs. Honeycutt died at her home at 84 Spencer avenue at 11:30 a. m. October 8.

She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jake Moore.

Surviving, in addition to the husband, are three sons, Ralph, Eugene, and Harry Honeycutt, all of Mooresville; three daughters, Mrs. Banks Benfield of Mooresville, Mrs. Raymond Calloway of Mount Mourne, and Mrs. Lewis Baxter of Mooresville, route 1, two brothers, J. J. and H. D. Moore, both of Mooresville; and three sisters, Mrs. C. E. Sherrill of Mooresville, Mrs. A. D. Hager of Newton, and Mrs. Marion-Hager of Stanley. Twelve grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren also survive.

China Grove Man Hurt In Monday Wreck

A China Grove man still is in serious condition in Lowrance Hospital, recovering from injuries suffered in a violent two-car crash on N.C. 150 bypass early Monday.

Hospital spokesmen said Wednesday morning that Joel A. Threalt, 28, of China Grove, route 3, was in serious condition, but improving satisfactorily. The young man is suffering from multiple head injuries, including a skull fracture.

Threalt was driving one of the autos involved in the 6:45 a. m. accident. The other motorist was Gary Beaver, 17, of Mooresville, route 4, Beaver was treated for minor injuries at the local hospital and released Monday.

The investigating officer, Highway Patrolman W. E. Bost, said Threalt was driving east on N.C. 150 and Beaver was going west when the smash-up occurred. Bost said Threalt lost control of his car as he attempted to avoid crashing into the rear of cars waiting in his lane to make a left turn.

As Threalt swung into the left lane, his car skidded into the path of the oncoming auto operated by Beaver. Both cars were damaged heavily.

Threalt was pinned in the wreckage, and he was freed by ambulance personnel.

HANK HARNAGE
Florida Youth Leader

Busy Florida Youth Has Local Ties

Hank Harnage of St. Petersburg, Florida, son of Mrs. Jamie Lee Harnage, and the grandson of the late Mrs. Lou Channing Henry of Mooresville, was elected president of the 1964 Florida Youth Workshop, held annually in Gainesville, Fla. The 11th annual workshop training program was held during September.

Harnage, a senior at St. Petersburg High School, served as secretary-treasurer of the workshop this past year.

His duties for the coming year include planning next year's workshop along with the other officers and board members, and promoting the organization throughout the state.

The Florida Youth Workshop, held on the University of Florida campus, is made up of leaders of student councils, service clubs, and recreation centers throughout the high schools of Florida.

The purposes of the workshop are to develop the individual teenager along many lines which include strengthening a keener awareness of the civic and organizational problems around him.

Harnage's new position gives him a seat on the Governor's Youth Advisory Council, which meets with the governor to give him "youth's views on important issues."

He will preside at two of the workshop's board meetings this year as well as at its regular meeting next summer.

Hank will serve as chairman of the assembly committee at St. Petersburg First High School and also as president of the youth fellowship group at First Methodist Church. He will serve as treasurer of the St. Petersburg High School National Honor Society. He is a member of the school's Junior Exchange Club.

Along with this schedule, he will work part-time at a St. Petersburg surgical supply house.

PTA District 3 Schedules Fall Confab

The annual fall conference of the 10-county district 3 of the North Carolina Congress of Parents and Teachers will be held at the Trinity United Church of Christ in Concord on Thursday, October 24.

A check with local school and PTA officials revealed that several local PTA members would likely attend the all-day meeting which will convene at 10 a. m.

Hostess for the meeting will be the Thornton PTA of Newton.

"Mental Health—A Target For Action" will be the theme of the program for the one day meeting. Delivering the keynote address will be Dr. Charles Vernon, deputy director, Community Mental Health Services, State Department of Mental Health, Raleigh. In developing his topic, "The North Carolina Story," Dr. Vernon will show the extent of the mental health problem in the state and graphically illustrate the resources now available. In his concluding remarks he will point out the needs and plans for mental health in the state in the years ahead.

Mrs. Felix S. Barker, state president of the PTA, will address the group on the many concerns of children and youth in the state and nation. Also appearing on the program will be other members of the State PTA Board.

Mrs. S. A. Wilson, district director, from Lincoln, will preside over the one day meeting and conduct a short business session. New officers for the district will be elected at this meeting. The district is comprised of the following counties: Alexander, Alleghany, Catawba, Gaston, Iredell, Lincoln, Mecklenburg, Surry, Wilkes and Yadkin.

Dorothy And Jezebel

We would like to add our voice to the welcome song being sung for Mr. Wesley R. Carter and his electronics firm who have chosen to locate a branch in our town.

The textile industry has always been our bread and butter in Mooresville, probably always will be. But it's nice to get some marmalade to go along with it. In short, we need a more diversified industrial picture here, and we hope this electronics firm is the beginning of a trend toward diversification of industry here.

See where the 14 telephone owner-subscribers of a small community in Idaho have sold to the Bell system. They were still using the old wall-type hand-cranked telephones. Bell plans to put 'em on the new-fangled dial system.

How well do I remember those old hand-cranked telephones. Ours was installed on the wall in the hall. You left the receiver in place while you cranked her a few times, then you took the receiver down and you were in business.

One of my earliest boyhood recollections centers around that old telephone. Mama would turn the crank, take down the receiver and say, "Central, give me Neel's Grocery Store." As time wore on the system got a bit more complicated and sophisticated. It was announced in the local paper that all calls would have to be made by number. This caused a squawk among the old-timers but automation was on its way. Mama would turn the crank, take down the receiver and say, "Central, give me Number 5. That's Neel's Grocery, you know."

There must have been a dozen subscribers on our line and all you had to do to hear the town's gossip was to pull up a chair and take down the receiver.

Another oddity I remember about those old phones was that you had to "ring off," that is, hang up the receiver and give a short crank to let "Central" know you were through.

Them was the days!

We get the word from in-the-know sources that Dorothy is getting along swell as a sixth grade teacher in the Charlotte schools. Cousin Kays Gary, for instance, reports she is well liked by her bosses, popular with her fellow-teachers and the kids in her class.

She spent Sunday with us and it is for sure that she is enthusiastic about her work. That is a requisite for success in any job, and we no longer have any doubts about her making an excellent teacher.

That wonderful couple in Charlotte that financed her education all the way polished off their six-year program of faith and love with another act of kindness. Her school is several miles from her home and they wanted her to have a car. As a sort of "going away" or "getting started" present, they bought her a spanking new 1964 automobile. She had it up home Sunday. It is solid red, with red leather upholstery and all the trimmings. She has named it "Jezebel."

And so, this is to report that Dorothy and Jezebel are both doing fine.

We note in the "Letters To The Editor" section of the N. Y. World-Telegram & Sun where one citizen by the name of Murray A. Weber is recommending a tax on pedestrians.

He wants to establish a Bureau of Pedestrians and issue licenses to every man, woman and child living in Greater New York at an annual fee of $5 each. This is for the unlimited privilege of walking on the sidewalks of New York.

"First, of course," writes citizen Weber, "a walking law would have to be passed, set up with a graduated series of fines and demerits based on points for various violations."

"For instance, jay-walking should be worth an official penalty of at least three points and the usual $2 fine. Failure to give moving vehicles the right of way should be worth a couple markers. Yelling or screaming at our sensitive cab and bus drivers should easily command another two points. Asking them a question would only cost a minimum one point."

"Anyhow, when a qualified pedestrian accumulates 10 demerits, he automatically loses his walking license and has to stay home for six months. Just think what this will do for the crowded streets of New York!"

Hearings have begun on a bill to raise the pay of Senators and Representatives from $22,500 to $35,000 a year—a 55 percent increase.

We have just finished the fiscal year with a deficit of $6.2 billion and in the budget for this year we have programmed a deficit of $11.9 billion.

One of the arguments being used in favor of the pay hike is that it would attract better men to Congress. But there seems to be no trouble getting any and all kinds of candidates for Congress and once they are elected, few of them ever quit voluntarily.

In the last 10 years, the overall cost of keeping Congress in business has almost tripled.

Robert L. Shuford, Jr. Selected To Fill Post As Iredell's First County Manager

Comes Here From Similar Davidson County Position

Robert L. Shuford, Jr. has been employed as Iredell's first county manager.

Forty-one-year-old Shuford, who has been serving as Davidson County manager since 1960, was unanimously named to this newly-created Iredell post Monday night by the Iredell Board of Commissioners.

He was employed at a yearly salary of $10,600 plus $800 travel expense. Shuford's resignation as Davidson County manager was accepted by the board of that county Tuesday night.

He will assume his work as Iredell County Manager around December 1.

In announcing the employment of Shuford, E. E. Boyer of Statesville, chairman of the Iredell Board of Commissioners, stated that a man of Shuford's calibre had been secured as Iredell's first county manager.

"The board," Boyer continued, "has spent months searching for a man to fill the highly-important post and confidentially we feel that we have a good man... a well qualified man."

Boyer went on to say that Shuford comes well recommended by his neighbors, townspeople, and business associates.

"We (the board) especially are pleased that we were able to secure a person with experience in North Carolina laws and county government," Boyer added.

As county manager, Shuford will be administrative assistant to the Iredell County Board of Commissioners.

Following the second report meeting of the campaign Friday, the consensus of area UF leaders was that the drive is safely out of the woods. Three of the seven separate fundraising divisions already had collected more than their quotas, and those short of the target had more money in sight.

The most pleasant announcement came from T. C. Homesley, chairman of the professional division. His group reported contributions totaling $1,212. The division quota was $1,200. Homesley said still more gifts were promised.

Dave Jones and his industrial division passed their $17,257 goal.

Lion Glaucoma Clinic Planned Here Nov. 5-6

If you're over 35, area Lions have a message of vital importance to you.

Let them preface their message with this note: You may have glaucoma, an insidious thief of sight, without realizing it. The disease can impair your vision, even rob you of precious sight altogether, before you do realize it.

Now, the message: Thanks to the Lions, you will have an opportunity November 5-6 to take advantage of a free eye examination. It will be a chance to give your eyes a clean bill of health and to put your mind at ease. More importantly, it will be an opportunity to detect glaucoma and to halt its progress.

Schools Set For Sanford Addresses

Governor Speaks Friday At Senior High, Dunbar

Arrangements have been completed for Governor Terry Sanford's brief visit to Mooresville Friday morning.

The governor will deliver two addresses at local schools tomorrow. He will speak at Senior High to the combined student bodies of Senior High and Junior High, then he will carry his plea for education before Dunbar High pupils.

The state's chief executive will be here under the auspices of the North Carolina Citizens Committee for Better Schools, Inc. His stops here are part of a week-long series of personal challenges to Piedmont North Carolina youngsters. Governor Sanford is challenging students to make the most of opportunities available to them through public education.

The governor is scheduled to see GOVERNOR—Page 2

New Teacher Employed At Senior High

Mrs. Beverly Wine Bowers has been employed as instructor of social studies in the Mooresville Senior High School, it was announced today by Dr. Roland Morgan, superintendent of the Mooresville City Schools.

She was named to this teaching position to fill the vacancy created when Max D. Nanney was elected principal of the senior high school to fill the unexpired term of the late Donald Harry Peiffer.

Mrs. Bowers attended Warren County High School in Front Royal, Va., and is a graduate of West Hampton College in Richmond, Va., receiving a B. A. degree in history. She has done post graduate work at the University of Virginia.

Uncle Dan From Doolie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I see by the papers where they folks that got the Supreme Court to take prayer out of the public schools ain't having much success with that atheist colony they started.

It don't surprise me none fer nobody to be doing so good that they believe in some sort of Supreme Being. I ain't qualified to speak on the legal end of prayer in the schools and it could be the Supreme Court was holding according to law, but they didn't hold up a fellow having a prayer in his heart.

I ain't never felt out with a fellow over what kind of politics or religion he's got, so long as he's got some. But I believe everybody ought to have a little politics on his mind and some sort of religion in his heart. I heard a preacher say once that a atheist was worried about getting a shirt over his wings when he ought to be worried about getting a hat over his horns. And that about sums up my feelings in the matter. A fellow's religion might not be deep as a well or as wide as a church house door, but so long as he has got some, there was hope fer him. It was a comfort to me, when things looks had with Russia, to remember they outlived God. No nation that has outlived God can win over America in the end.

But I better get this out subject, Mister Editor, afore Zeke Grubb's preacher has me arrested fer preaching without a license.

I was reading last night where 54 per cent of all the food people in the United States eat today comes out of tin cans, and 50 year ago it was only 3 per cent. And over in another place some science feller was writing that a human weighing 140 pounds contained enough fat for 7 cakes of soap, carbon for 9,000 pencils, fustiferous for 2,200 matches, enough iron to make a 8-penny nail, enough lime to whitewash a chicken coop, and enough water to fill a 10-gallon bucket.

It could be, Mister Editor, that with folks now building the body with 54 per cent from tin cans, the composition of the human body would be changing. In another 50 year, fer instance, it could contain enough water to fill a 10-gallon bucket and enough tin to build a 12-cylinder automobile. We got to be thinking about such matters.

And to close my little piece this week on an encouraging note, I see where Congress is spending $21,200 to study tons, $103,000 to make pictures of the Eskimos, $2,911 to study flowers in Peru, and $5,700 to study the swimming habits of seals. All of which I reckon is good on account of our deficit fer 1963 ain't going to be but $8 billion and we don't owe but $300 billion.

Yours truly, Uncle Dan

Gridiron Great And Would-Be Great

Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice of Asheville, one of football's immortals, was guest speaker Tuesday night for Mooresville's first annual Midget Football Awards Banquet. Nearly 300 players, parents and patrons packed the War Memorial for the affair. The Justice Era was over before these Midgets were born, but the awe the former Carolina All-American still commands is evident in their faces. The Choo Choo uses Randy Stutts' shoulder to autograph a program for Chris Cooke. Justice told the group his greatest football thrills came during four years as coach of a championship Midget team in Hendersonville.

DELK IS ADDING CANOPY

Not 42 feet, as we said last week, but 88 feet of the 100-block of North Main Street are involved in the face-lifting operation that will begin in about a week.

Last week, the Mooresville Manufacturing Corporation announced it was constructing the Mooresville Plan canopy along the 42-foot frontage of Rayless Department Store at 179 North Main.

Now comes word that the new canopy will extend across the front of Delk Variety Store next door to Rayless. Delk's front is 46 feet. The building that houses the Delk's also is owned by the Mooresville Manufacturing Corporation.

John V. Barger & Co. will do the work on both buildings. The head of the company said materials already have been ordered for the project. Completion of the stylish and practical canopy at the two firms will extend the Mooresville Plan canopy from the State Theatre at 241 North Main south to Rayless—nearly a block and a half solid on the east side of Main.

Roy W. Troutman, president of the corporation that owns the two buildings, said more renovation is involved at Delk's than at Rayless. A complete renovation project was completed less than a year ago, and the remodeling conformed to requirements for the installation of the canopy.

Considerable changes must be made on the building in which Delk's store is located before the canopy can be constructed. Tom Delk, owner of the business, will pay the cost of remodeling the structure of the adult center and the organization of the youth center, comprised of high school students, according to the pastor, the Rev. R. Paul Kercher.

Payne will assume responsibility for the total music program of the church, including the directorship of the adult choir and the organization of the youth choir. Other adults interested in scouting are being invited to attend.

"Tickets for the banquet are $2 each. They are on sale in Mooresville at John Mack & Son Department Store, and they may be purchased from John Roberts or Nesbit here.

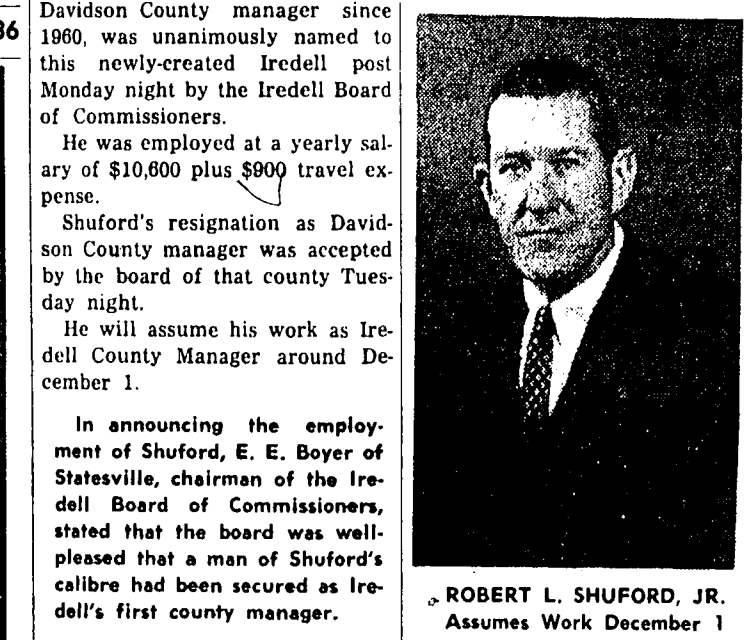

Guest speaker for the affair will be Veddie W. Huffman, the industrial relations director for Burlington Industries. Huffman is one of the speakers at the annual meeting of the church for junior and senior high school students.

Meeting in all-day session at the Governor's Presbyterian Church in Concord, the nine-county church court defeated the proposal, 56 to 47.

Each of the denomination's presbyteries is considering the amendment. More than 50 per cent must approve it before it becomes effective.

In other action, Concord Presbytery dismissed three ministers to other presbyteries and received four ministers in order that they might accept calls to service in churches within Concord Presbytery.

Dismissed were: (1) The Rev. Charles E. Parrish, pastor of the Newton First Presbyterian Church; (2) The Rev. George W. Alexander, Jr., from Savannah (Ga.) Presbytery to become pastor of the Bayless Memorial Presbyterian Church in Concord; (3) The Rev. David S. Maxwell, from Cherokee (Ga.) Presbytery to become pastor of the Belk Memorial Presbyterian Church in Hickory; (4) The Rev. James M. McNaughton, from the Newton First Presbyterian Church to become pastor of the Ebenezer Presbyterian Church at Rock Hill, S. C.

Scout Leaders Will Be Feted Tuesday Night

The Iredell Boy Scout District will hold its annual appreciation dinner for adult Scout leaders Tuesday, October 29.

The recognition banquet, a highlight of the district's social activities each year, is scheduled at the Moose Lodge in Barium Springs. The program will get underway at 7 p. m.

Ray Nesbit of Mooresville and Andy Williams of Statesville are in charge of the banquet arrangements. The two men are co-chairmen of the scout district's activities committee.

In a joint statement, Nesbit and Williams explained the purpose of the dinner is to pay tribute to volunteer personnel in scouting who are the lifeblood of the youth organization. The affair is being plush fringe benefits.

Such as travel.

When he goes abroad—as most of them do often—a Congressman can spend a considerable part of his funds, accumulated by the U. S. in other countries, and this is not a part of the Congressional budget.

The budgeted expenses go to pay his salary, office help, free mail, stationery travel, furnishings, etc.

For his comfort and convenience, the taxpayers maintain gymnastics, swimming pools, barbershops where he can get cheap haircuts, hospitals where he gets special rates, military planes he often uses to fly here and there.

He can park in a free garage, tape speeches for back-home campaign use at cut prices—and draw a generous pension (to which he contributes as well as the taxpayers) when he retires.

Anyway, as Rep. J. Albert Younger of California says, if this Congress was paid on the basis of production, the members would be owing refunds to the taxpayers.

Commissioners.

"In Iredell county, the work load carried by the members of the county board has become tremendous and, in order to do a good job, a county manager has become a necessity," Boyer pointed out. The county manager form of government is used in several nearby counties, including Mecklenburg, Catawba, Gaston, and Davidson.

After voting to adopt the county form of government soon after taking office last year, the members of the Iredell County Board of Commissioners began looking for a man to fill the post.

More than 70 applications were received and the commissioners spent months processing and screening the candidates, reducing the number to 18.

The 18 were interviewed in person and the field was finally reduced to Shuford.

A native of Thomasville, Shuford was born on September 28, 1922, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Shuford, Sr. of Thomasville.

He attended the Thomasville City Schools and East Carolina College at Greenville, where he received a B. S. degree in 1944. He received his M. A. degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1954.

He served three years in the U. S. Army, 1943-46.

Following his discharge from the Army he became associated with the New Hanover County Schools at Wilmington, as teacher and coach.

Burlington Posts Sales, Earnings Record For Year

Burlington Industries, Inc., today reported consolidated net sales of $1,084,981,000 for the fiscal year ended September 30, 1963, compared to 1962 sales of $1,000,988,000.

Net earnings for the year were $40,620,000, equal to $3.28 per share on the 12,112,000 common shares outstanding on September 30, 1963. For the 1962 fiscal year, net earnings were $37,466,000, equal to $3.04 per share on 11,888,000 shares outstanding.

The Board of Directors, meeting here today, increased the regular quarterly dividend to 35 cents per common share from 30 cents per common share. The dividend is payable December 1, 1963, to stockholders of record at the close of business on October 31, 1963.

Consolidated net sales for the third quarter of the year (three months ended September 30, 1963), were $271,435,000, compared to sales of $255,550,000 for the same quarter a year ago. Net earnings for the quarter were $9,820,000.

Equal to 70 cents per share, compared to earnings of $2,240,000 or 74 cents per share for the same quarter last year.

Results for the 1963 fiscal year are subject to confirmation by the company's auditors.

Charles F. Myers, Jr., president, said both sales and earnings reached new high for the nation's largest textile company. He attributed the improvement to Burlington's broad product diversification and to increased volume and efficiencies brought about by the introduction of new products, expanded research efforts and continued high level capital spending for plant and equipment modernization. Capital investment totaled more than $50 million for the year, he reported.

Mr. Myers stated that earnings for the past fiscal year will result in a company contribution of about $4,200,000 to the new Profit Sharing Retirement Plan for eligible wage employees of Burlington and its divisions.

Mrs. Fairies has asked the students to gather at Central Methodist Church for assignments. The sponsoring women's organization will provide refreshments for the workers following the town-wide canvass in residential areas.

UNICEF is an abbreviation for United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, but it now is commonly known as the UN Children's Fund. the irreparable ravages of the disease.

What you should do is this: Take yourself to the National Guard on the mentioned dates, anytime between 1 p. m. and 7 p. m. An examination will take about three minutes. There is no pain, neither is the body nor the pocketbook. A skilled ophthalmologist will measure the fluid pressure inside the eyeball, using an instrument that rests lightly on the eye, and that's all there will be to it.

This will be a glaucoma detection clinic. Persons suspected of having glaucoma will be referred to doctors for further examination and, if the disease actually is present, for immediate treatment.

The clinic will be sponsored by the Mooresville, Shepherd, South Iredell and Troutman Lions Clubs. The value of this service by Tar Heel Lions has been proven here and throughout the state. These areas sponsored this area's first glaucoma clinic two years ago. At that time, 27 persons were referred for more thorough examination, and a dozen of these had glaucoma.

In North Carolina last year, 10,629 persons were tested for glaucoma in clinics such as the one scheduled here. More than 600 persons were suspected of having the disease, and were referred for further examination. Doctors estimate two of every 100 Iredell residents are or will become victims of glaucoma.

Shaw Brown of Mooresville is state director of glaucoma clinics. Ray Nesbitt and Sam Brown are co-chairmen of the clinic. Their assignment of all, because nearly all residents they contact contribute at work or through their business.

The two ladies, who head the division as a project of Gamma Omicron Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, called on housewives to rescue their struggling drive. They expressed their appreciation to all who have worked in the drive and to all who have given to it, but they explained they need more of those cookie jar collections that accumulate around the house.

The commercial division reported $4,611 of its $5,200 goal in hand. Public employees listed $1,768 collected, and Roy Creamer said he was sure of $800 more.

Campaign Chairman John Simpson said the appeal will continue through Tuesday, October 29, with a final report meeting planned the following day.

MR. AND MRS. HAROLD ALLEN WHITLEY

Whitley-Dyson Vows Spoken In Double-Ring Ceremony

In a beautiful ceremony at the Church of God in Mooreville, Miss Martha Raye Dyson and Harold Allen Whitley were united in marriage at eight o'clock in the evening on Friday, October 18. The Rev. R. W. Tedder officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Dyson of 182 North Church street, Mooreville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Whitley, of Raleigh.

Prior to and during the ceremony, wedding music was rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Little, of Mooreville. Mr. Little sang "Always" and Mr. and Mrs. Little sang as a duet "Whither Thou Goest." Mr. Little, organist, rendered the traditional wedding marches for the processional and the recessional.

The wedding vows were spoken before a lovely background of palms and ferns with candelabra holding Cathedral tapers. Floor baskets of white gladioli and a wrought iron arch with wedding bells completed the scene.

Given in marriage by her uncle, M. L. Edson, of Kannapolis, the bride wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace, embellished with sequins, over satin designed with a portrait neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. The full skirt ended in a chapel train. A crown of pearls and sequins held her veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white chrysanthemums, and lily-of-the-

Ostwalt Home Club Plans Fashion Show

Mrs. B. C. Howard and Mrs. R. T. Nesbit were hostesses to the Ostwalt Home Demonstration Club Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Howard in Troutman. Fourteen members were present.

Mrs. J. E. Smith presided, and during a brief business session Mrs. S. O. Whitener, clothing lender, announced that the club would have a fashion show at its November meeting. The members were asked to bring an article of clothing or handkerchiefs which they made, for display at this time. It was also announced that the achievement meeting of the Iredell Clubs would be held Nov. 7th at 8 a. m. at Rose Chapel Methodist Church, and all members were urged to attend.

Mrs. Smith presented Mrs. Willis Teeter, president of the Iredell County council, who was speaker for the club, due to the absence of the Home Economics Agent, being in Raleigh. Mrs. Teeter's topic was "A Better You." She emphasized the importance in planning our days so that we could have one third of the time each for sleeping, recreation, work, thus arranging our work to get recreation, or to do the things we would like to do.

She brought out that time in itself has little value, it is what you do with time that makes it valuable or worthless. That we, as club women, should strive to interest the younger adult women, imparting to them the wisdom of our experience. She also stated that we should try to get along with people, should be choosy about food, being careful of diet, have orderliness in our homes, to have neatness of appearance, but good taste in color, style and fitting of clothing. After Mrs. Teeter's talk, a question and answer period was held, which was most informative and interesting.

The hostesses used lovely arrangements of fall flowers in the living and dining rooms. Miss Lavinia Howard and Mrs. Kenny Brown assisted the hostesses in serving ice cream, cake, nuts and coffee during the social period.

Michael Sims, of Charlotte, served as the bridegroom's best man. Ushers were: Terry Hoke and Billy Radford, both of Mooreville. Little Miss Jeanette Ammons, of Mooreville, was flower girl and Master Mark Ammons, also of Mooreville, served as ring bearer.

Mrs. Dyson chose for her daughter's wedding a black wool dress with black accessories and a corsage of white chrysanthemums and lily-of-the-valley.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride couple, their parents, and attendants received in the vestibule of the church.

After a honeymoon trip to an unannounced destination, the couple will make their home at 1028 Long street, Albemarle. For traveling the bride chose a brown fall suit with matching accessories and she lifted the orchid from her bride's bouquet for a corsage.

Mrs. Whitley attended China Grove High School and prior to her marriage she was employed at Draymore Mfg. in Mooreville. Her husband attended Albemarle High School and is employed at Wisconsin Mills in Albemarle.

The wedding was followed by a double wedding reception at the home of Mrs. J. E. Smith, of Troutman. The bride couple, their parents, and attendants received in the vestibule of the church.

MR. AND MRS. CLYDE NOBLES

Bride's Father Officiates At Saturday Evening Wedding

The Rev. Ralph W. Tedder, of Rocky Mount and a former pastor of the Church of God in Mooreville, officiated at the wedding of his daughter, Miss LaWanda Jewel Tedder and Clyde Nobles on Friday, October 18. The 8 p. m. ceremony was performed in the Church of God in Mooreville.

Prior to and during the ceremony a program of wedding music was presented by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Little, of Mooreville. Mr. Little sang "Always" and Mrs. Little sang "Whither Thou Goest." Mr. Little, organist, rendered the traditional wedding marches for the processional and the recessional.

After a honeymoon trip to an unannounced destination, the couple will make their home at 1028 Long street, Albemarle. For traveling the bride chose a brown fall suit with matching accessories and she lifted the orchid from her bride's bouquet for a corsage.

Circle No. 1 of the WSCS of Vanderburg held its October meeting Friday, October 11, at 2:00 p. m. with Mrs. F. C. Honeycutt as hostess.

Mr. J. K. Day, circle chairman, presided.

Mr. W. M. Smith gave the opening devotion and led the prayer. In addition to the substantial increase in the per share earnings, our percentage of share improvement increased from 1.03 per cent in 1962 to 1.10 per cent in 1963.

Quarterly cash dividends of 10¢ per share continued to be paid throughout the year on our common stock and the total amount paid of 40¢ per share was the same as for the preceding year. Cash dividends on the preferred stock continued at the rate of $6.00 per share, the same amount per share as was paid in the 1962 year. Because of the higher earnings in the 1963 year, the dividends paid amounted to 32¢ for each dollar of earnings whereas in 1962 the company paid out 40¢ for each dollar earned.

The firm's working capital position was somewhat better at the end of the 1963 year than it was at the end of 1962. At the end of the 1962 year, working capital was $1,884,904 whereas at August 31, 1963, it amounted to $2,039,142 which represents an increase of approximately $204,000. The ratio of current assets to current liabilities was somewhat higher also, increasing from 2.39 in 1962 to 2.51 in 1963.

At the end of the 1963 year, the book value for each share of common stock was $11.63. This compares with $10.67 per share at the end of 1962.

In the first sale, held on Thursday, October 3, 1,915 feeder calves were sold for a total of $225,059.94. Farm Agent Wayne Franklin said that bidding on the animals was brisk and that the cattle went to several different areas in North Carolina and other states.

Animals sold in Tuesday's sale brought a total of $140,240.04. The average price paid for calves was $23.69 per hundred weight.

There were 809 steers and 507 heifer calves.

Hugh Owenby of Richmond, Va., was the auctioneer. Some 400 persons attended the sale.

Mary E. Cobb Appears In Musical Play

Mary Elisabeth Cobb of Mooresville will perform in "Once Upon A Mattress" given by the Highland Players of St. Andrews Presbyterian College, Laurinburg, October 25-26.

This production opens the 1963-64 drama season at the college. It is a musical comedy taken from the fairy tale, "The Princess and the Pea."

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hayden C. Cobb of 354 South Academy street, Miss Cobb is a junior at St. Andrews.

John Johnson Laid To Rest Tuesday At 3

John William Harris Johnson, 84-year-old retired farmer, died at his home in the Shearer's Chapel community of Mooresville, October 21, at 2:45 p. m. Sunday.

He had been ill since September 4, when he suffered a stroke of paralysis while attending a meeting of the Senior Citizens Club at the War Memorial Building in Mooresville.

A native of Mecklenburg county, Mr. Johnson was born on March 28, 1879, a son of the late William and Mary Jane Andrews Johnson. He was a member and retired elder of the Shearer Presbyterian Church, and was well known and highly esteemed by a wide circle of friends.

Mrs. Johnson, the former Miss Luxora Oseash Irvin, died in February, 1921.

The survivors include: four sons, Irvin, Morrison, and Cecil Johnson, all of Mooresville, route 1, and Owen Johnson of Charlotte; four daughters, Mrs. J. C. Stutta, Mrs. Leona Johnson, and Mrs. A. E. Honeycutt, all of Mooresville, route 1, and Mrs. L. M. Gurley of Charlotte; three brothers, O. E. Johnson of Hopewell, Va., Arthur Johnson of Davidson, route 2, and Q. H. Johnson of Mooresville; and two sisters, Miss Lizzie Johnson of Davidson and Mrs. J. C. Martin of Davidson, route 2. Fifteen grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were conducted at 3 p. m. Tuesday at the Shearer Presbyterian Church, with the pastor, the Rev. Charles R. Carter, in charge, and burial was in the family plot in the church cemetery.

Logical Reasons Why All Your Luck Is Bad

Is this you? You play "animals" while you're driving to keep the kids occupied so they won't rip the insides of the car to shreds, and the graveyard always is on your side. You drive downtown, you're in a hurry and you see plenty of parking places—all on the other side of the street. You get a birdie on the toughest hole on the course when they're playing alone, then you scramble for a seven when you're playing in a foursome for a buck a hole.

Don't think you were born under the wrong sign. What you experience is merely the application of two laws discussed in a recent Reader's Digest article. They are Gumperson's Law and Petridge's Law.

Gumperson's Law may be defined as the contradiction of a probability that will assert itself when least expected and most frustrating. Like it, it is the answer to such questions as why you throw a stubbed-out cigarette from a car window and start a raging forest fire, why it will take you an hour to kindle a flame in a fireplace loaded with dry wood and kerosene, why grass seed planted in rich soil, tilled and kept moist, won't grow a lick, when grass seeds that blow onto the cement driveway will take root in a crack and grow like crazy.

Petridge's Law is the reason why important things that are supposed to happen do not happen, especially when people are looking. It is most common in our lives. Your child talks nine miles a minute all day long, then when you want to show the baby to the baby, he won't utter a sound. The television set works perfectly all week, then lapses into crazy-quilt patterns just in time for the big Sunday afternoon game. That's Petridge's Law.

Somehow, you feel even worse when you're told there are such perfectly logical reasons why nothing works out right for you.

Here Are Tips On How To Help The Blind

The Mooresville Lions Club works constantly to prevent blindness and to help those who have lost their sight. The recently completed White Cane Drive is Lions' chief source of revenue for their work with the visually handicapped. Another glaucoma clinic is scheduled here, and this too is a Lions project. Recently, June Roper, president of the local Lions Club, passed along to us a list of "don'ts" when dealing with the blind. We who can see unthinkingly commit these errors, so we thought they might be of some value if we passed them along.

Never talk to a blind person as though he were deaf. Never express sympathy for a blind person in his presence. Don't try to "carry" a blind person when he is entering a car, crossing the street or mounting the stairs. He needs only to be directed, to have his hand placed on the handle or rail. When assisting him to a seat, simply guide him to the chair.

Don't address a blind person through a third person. For example, it is very annoying to a blind person for his host to ascertain if he uses sugar in his coffee by asking a companion:

Don't fail to speak, if only a word, upon entering a room in which there is a blind person.

And, of course, we are guilty of carelessness that actually endangers the blind. Such as attempting to help a blind person across the street by pushing him ahead of us. We should let him hold our arm, the movement of our body will help him know what to expect. The door left ajar is the most dangerous obstacle blind people have to deal with. Always keep a door fully open or fully closed.

Here's A Way To Help Assure Your Sight

One of the finest projects the Lions ever have come up with is the glaucoma clinic. Glaucoma is an insidious thief of sight that steals painlessly and unsuspected until its damage is done—unless it is caught through periodic examination. Two years ago, area Lions Clubs sponsored the first such clinic ever held in Mooresville. Early in November, on the fifth and sixth, Mooresville, Shepherd, South Iredell and Troutman Lions will conduct another glaucoma detection clinic at the National Guard armory. If you're over 35, you owe it to yourself to take advantage of this opportunity to protect the most precious physical possession you have, short of life itself.

SHUCKS and NUBBINS

By LEN SULLIVAN

A Martyr He Ain't; But Civic-minded, Yes

John Simpson suffered some sort of attack late in September while he was attending a Troutman High School game. He'd had some dizzy spells earlier, but he had dismissed them as no more than passing discomfort. The most notable thing about his attack was a sudden and pronounced swelling about the face.

On Monday of this week, John allowed himself the "luxury" of a hospital stay. He is undergoing examination and observation to determine what caused his trouble last month.

The reason John wouldn't agree to hospitalization earlier is because he is chairman of the Mooresville-South Iredell United Fund campaign. He was so wrapped up in launching the drive, so determined to do his utmost to make the appeal a success, he would not permit himself to put his own physical well-being first.

We wish John well, and certainly we hope his trouble isn't serious. We don't mention the incident concerning John in a mushy attempt to make a martyr of him. We simply use him as an example of the dedication to a cause shown by all associated with the local United Fund drive. In fact, we're sure even mentioning what we consider selfless service above and beyond the call of duty will be a source of great embarrassment to John Simpson.

We have given considerable thought to what we're going to say when he jumps up for saying anything about the reason for his delayed hospital visit.

Here's what we'll say: "We didn't do it for you, you bum, we did it to keep interest in the United Fund campaign." That'll hold him for sure, because that guy will do anything legal to boost United Fund. We were something like $1,600 shy of the goal after all the tallying done at the report meeting last week. The drive will run through October 29. A sure cure for whatever ails John Simpson will be word that the drive has hit the target and is going right on up.

Here's A Way To Help Assure Your Sight

One of the finest projects the Lions ever have come up with is the glaucoma clinic. Glaucoma is an insidious thief of sight that steals painlessly and unsuspected until its damage is done—unless it is caught through periodic examination. Two years ago, area Lions Clubs sponsored the first such clinic ever held in Mooresville. Early in November, on the fifth and sixth, Mooresville, Shepherd, South Iredell and Troutman Lions will conduct another glaucoma detection clinic at the National Guard armory. If you're over 35, you owe it to yourself to take advantage of this opportunity to protect the most precious physical possession you have, short of life itself.

Funeral Rites Conducted For Ned T. Mills

Ned Triplett Mills, 44, died at his home at 220 East McNelly avenue at 1:15 p. m. last Wednesday. A cancer victim, Mr. Mills had been ill since April and critically ill two weeks.

A native of Iredell county, Mr. Mills was born on September 7, 1919, a son of Mrs. Lillian Pope Mills of Mooresville and the late Floyd Triplett Mills.

He was an Army veteran of World War II. An automobile salesman, Mr. Mills was employed by the Mooresville Motor Company.

The survivors, in addition to the mother, include: one son, Ned Triplett Mills, Jr., of the home; a daughter, Melanie Annette Mills, also of the home; six brothers, Louis C. Gray, Clyde H. Harold E., Mack P., and Tate L. Mills, all of Mooresville; and three sisters, Mrs. Addie Mae Helms and Mrs. W. B. Christensen, both of Mooresville, and Mrs. Robert Jones of Laurel Bay, South Carolina.

Funeral services were conducted at the Cavin Funeral Chapel at 4 p. m. Friday, with the Rev. W. P. Grier, pastor of the Mooresville Reformed Presbyterian Church, in charge. Burial was in Glenwood Memorial Park cemetery.

Mrs. Benfield, Of Kannapolis, Taken In Death

Mrs. Mary Lee Hess Benfield, 57-year-old resident of 1311 East 11th street, Kannapolis, died in the Cabern Memorial Hospital at Concord at 7:10 p. m. last Wednesday. She was the widow of Eppy Benfield.

A native of Rowan county, Mrs. Benfield was born on March 10, 1906, a daughter of Mrs. Thomas R. Hess and the late Mr. Hess. She was well known and highly respected by a wide circle of friends.

Surviving, in addition to her mother, are two sons, Richard Benfield, route 2, Rockwell, and Eppy Benfield, Jr., of Concord; one brother, George Odell Hess of Kannapolis; four sisters, Mrs. R. L. Wiedlin and Mrs. Treace Trull, both of Concord, Mrs. Glenn Carter of Faith and Miss Annie Belle Hess of Kannapolis. Five grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were held at 11 a. m. Friday at the Lutheran Redeemer Church in Kannapolis by Rev. Billy L. Vanderford officiating. Burial followed in the Carolina Memorial Cemetery in Concord.

People Are Any Town's Best Natural Resource

Wesley Carter, an official of the West Coast electronics manufacturing firm that will begin a branch operation here, was driven about town last week by W. J. Haselden, the local Chamber of Commerce secretary. As the two drove past the hospital, Carter observed in jest that "if I can't find a house right away, I can just find one for a while."

He wasn't sick. His point was that the $20-a-day rate for a private room at Lowrance was exactly half the going per-day rate for hospital stay in California, and about equal to the daily rate for a decent motel room on the West Coast.

Mr. Carter was visibly impressed by what he saw as he toured our town. The price of goods and services was not the item that most impressed him. What was? The people themselves.

We take it as a compliment of the highest order that a stranger could come here and be so overwhelmed as Carter was with what he termed "the open friendliness of this community." It was his favorable impression of Mooresville citizens that, in the final analysis, convinced his company that our town was the best town on the Eastern Seaboard in which to live and grow.

Mooresville was one of dozens of small towns studied as a prospective site of this firm's first manufacturing operation on the East Coast. It is a feather in our caps that we were the pick of the lot.

To temper the flattery a bit, we should, in fairness, mention that Mr. Carter came here from the Los Angeles area, where the cost of living and the cost of doing anything is as high as it is anywhere in the country. We should mention, too, that we normally expect a newcomer to town to scatter a few plaudits around in the interest of public relations. Even so, that Mr. Carter chose to take note of the quality he saw in the people here is a good sign we are as good as our "friendly town" slogan suggests.

Oh, yes, in our excitement we almost forgot: Welcome to all associated with this new plant that will be a boon to industrial diversification. We are impressed by you, too, and we wish you well. We hope we all grow together and live happily ever after.

We Can't See Poverty For Prosperity

On this page last week, we mentioned the North Carolina Fund and its tremendous potential as a weapon in the state's never-ending war against poverty. In this connection, we noted with interest a recent speech by Senator Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin. His point was that the great prosperity achieved in this country during the past quarter-century has created the illusion that ours is a nation without poverty. Senator Nelson pointed out the "sad fact that these great changes have not eliminated poverty. He told of the "invisible poor" among us, and he said we can't see them for the prosperity around us.

Who are the invisible poor? Senator Nelson says they are the poor farmers, especially the marginal farmers who eke out an existence on $500 to $1,000 a year, "unreached by a federal farm program which pours five billions into our economy each year."

They are, the Senator says, the migrant laborers; the unskilled and unorganized workers in offices, hotels, laundries, hospitals, and restaurants; the victims of automation; the residents of depressed areas in the North, in West Virginia, in the rural South.

The invisible poor, says Senator Nelson, include Puerto Ricans and Negroes—"last to be hired and first to be fired," workers who receive "half the wage of a white man when they do find jobs."

Among the poor are an estimated eight million senior citizens without adequate income—one million of them living on less than $500 a year.

And the Senator would have us remember "the handicapped, the alcoholic, the hillbillies who forsake their ancient society in the mountains for a life of confused poverty in the cities."

Today's poor are invisible because the American middle class—"twice as big and twice as prosperous as before"—have moved to the suburbs and left the poor behind in the cities.

They are invisible because they don't have powerful organizations pleading the cause.

They are invisible "because the rest of us have become so gay and prosperous that we don't want to look at them."

So declares Senator Nelson in an indictment of American society that should not go unnoticed.

Has the American tradition of sympathy toward the underdog been corroded by the development of a prosperity-prosperity and an extension of it to millions of families that formerly lacked an abundance of this world's goods and comforts?

If we show little or no concern for the 40 or 50 million Americans who do not share today's great prosperity, we are traitors to the democratic ideal, and all our talk about "the dignity of the human individual" becomes empty speech.

One Original Idea Can Lead To Others

(From The Laurinburg Exchange)
North Carolina taxpayers had some good news this week when it was announced that the State Highway Commission had adopted a new policy on the purchasing of highway rights-of-way. In the future every effort will be made to purchase in advance property which will form part of the right-of-way for new routes.

This is a commendable move and should have been commissioned policy long before now. It is understood that it cannot be carried out without the necessary funds. However, with the great savings possible, as Highway Director W. F. Babcock points out, surely the legislature would make available an appropriation for this purpose. Especially when it can be shown that in the long run the total amount of public money expended will be less.

Now the State Highway Commission could show more further originality. It would take a still more distant look into the future. Long lacking is any concrete proposal about a master highway plan for the state. With the ever increasing mileage of our highway system it would seem that something other than the apparent piecemeal system of attacking the problem is needed. This would seem to be an area in which an appreciable saving could be realized.

It is inconceivable that we can tolerate any further highway construction without some idea of what the system is going to look like when eventually we run out of space to build roads. While there are still virgin vastnesses in some areas of the state, in other areas the development assumes metropolitan proportions. Already the latter areas present problems about location of new roads, or improvement of old roads.

A considerable amount of duplication could be avoided with a master plan, and a lot of money saved. It would not seem unreasonable to hold up the construction of all but the most essential highway projects until at least a tentative master highway plan has been brought forward.

Parson Jones' Pulpit

DEAR MR. PUBLISHER:

I just got through reading one of the funniest books I ever read. It's a record book that shows how much our folks gave to the Church last year. Its hilarious—our folks after another. I been thinking about having it published. Only thing is I'd have to change the names to protect the guilty.

I ain't got time to tell you all I saw in this book, but I'll give you just a few of the highlights. You remember old Doc Charge Wright who's a member of our congregation? He really had the business this year. I reckon you know he's got a house at the beach and one in the mountains. Well, to hear old Doc talk you'd think he was the sole support of our little Church. Listen to what I found out—he gave $200 to the Church last year. Why, Widow Jape gave more than that and she's living on Social Security!

I counted it up and old Doc gave a little shy of 4 dollars a week. That wouldn't much more than pay his tobacco bill for a week. I'll tell you one thing though, Doc Wright ain't nobody's dumb-bunny. Instead giving it by the week, where it would look so measly, he gives it all at one time, so's it will look good. (Nothing like a good front.) At the end of the year he'll want me to swear to Uncle Sam that he gave 10% of his income. I reckon he figures if he can steal, it won't hurt me to lie a little.

Another little joke in the book was Ellie Nicklasinger. Ellie has give a dollar a week every since the depression. She's switched all the way from a T-model Ford to a Cadillac since then, but can't get out the dollar run.

Mr. Publisher, Ellie paid more for hats last year than she gave to the Lord. When I called this to her attention, she said she wanted to be dressed proper when it come her time to go. Sir, I don't believe she'll be able to take them things she wears along when she goes, and if she does, they shore won't let her in Heaven with 'em.

Another funny thing I saw was what all the people that didn't give nothing during the year. I suppose you wonder why it was funny. Well, sir, the reason I laughed was to keep from going crazy. You'd be surprised, Mr. Publisher, at the folks that don't even pay for the varnish they wear off the pews. They don't pay nothing on the heat, light, nor water. They must believe the preacher lives on hot air, cause they shore don't help to buy him no groceries.

In Church we mark folks who don't give nothing all year as inactive. Over at the Lodge they call 'em bums.

Well, I gotta be moving along. My wife said I had better go pick up some groceries or we was gonna have hot air for supper. Bye.

Yours Truly,

Parson Jones

OUR COMMUNITY

9 YEARS AGO

IN OTHER YEARS

The directors of Mooresville Mills postponed indefinitely action on resignations tendered the board Tuesday afternoon by J. F. Matheson, president; G. G. Matheson, executive vice-president; Ralph Tanner, vice-president in charge of the New York sales offices; and H. C. Cobb, Jr., vice-president in charge of production and superintendent of the mill.

The action followed a four-hour meeting of the board Tuesday afternoon at the local plant. T. V. Turlington, one of the attorneys for the mill, handed out the brief statement following the meeting. None of the directors would elaborate or comment further on what happened at the meeting.

Considerable tension was evident throughout the community for 24 hours prior to the board meeting. In congregating around the up-town spots, the mill employees showed considerable concern over the matter. The tension eased considerably immediately following the statement by the directors that Matheson was still president of the firm.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Gibson, Jr., returned to Wake Forest College Sunday, after paying a special visit to Mr. Gibson's sister, Mrs. Ray Stutts, who recently underwent a major operation here.

SIX POINTS FOR THE BLUE DEVILS
Mike Chester (14) Crosses Over; Mike Robinson (13) Looks On

Oliphant, Deal, Chester Pace Devils Over North

Halfback David Oliphant scored two touchdowns and fullback Mike Chester banged one across from a yard out in pacing the Mooresville Blue Devils to their fifth win in six starts with a 21-12 decision over North-Rowan last Friday night.

The game, billed as a sure Devil win could easily have gone the other way as the Cavaliers fought hard all the way. North Rowan put a real heart-stopper on Mooresville fans when, on the very first play from scrimmage, tailback Gary Medinger went right through the Devil center wall defense and raced 73 yards to put the home team out front 6-0. Medinger was off on the PAT try.

Using a determined offense, the locals came right back into the ball game, grinding out 69 yards for the equalizer. Gary Karriker put Mooresville ahead by splitting the uprights. During the drive, Oliphant, Deal, Chester and halfback Mike Robinson took turns carrying the leather. From the North 21-yard marker, Oliphant cut through a hole in the line made by Billy Watson and Bobby Pope, darted away from the secondary defenders and covered the distance to pay dirt.

Biggest action in the first quarter came in the final thirty seconds when both Mooresville and North Rowan scored. Trailing 7-6, North put together their finest drive of the season as they drove from their own 36-yard line for the go-ahead tally. The Cavaliers used up the major part of the second period in the march in which Medinger, Ellengrub and Pope all ran.

During the second half, Coach Perry Pearson had his forwards wall playing to full form as end Roy Thompson and Larry Dyson, Karriker and Pope, along with center Dewitt Hinson, and linebacker Pudgy Johnson put up a stiff defense against the Cavalier runners.

The final score of the game came in the third period when Roy Thompson jumped on a North Rowan fumble on the Cavaliers 12-yard line. Thompson was credited with two recoveries during the night work. It took the Boyles boys just four plays to run the score to 20-12 and with Karriker's boot making it 21-12 the locals practically had the game on ice.

In going for the last score, fullback Mike Chester was the big gun, cracking up the middle three times with the final effort being a score thrust from one-yard out.

During the remainder of the game the two teams traded fumbles and opportunities to score but neither could muster the strength to push one across.

Defensively, the locals had perhaps their finest night (taking away the long scoring run by Medinger with backfield boys Chick Pless, Oliphant, Chester and Deal holding the Cavaliers without a single pass completion.

Others with eight correct guesses but one or more points off of the total score of the Mooresville-North Rowan game were: Graham Barnhardt of Mooresville, route 1; Mrs. W. L. Moore, 250 Institute street; Melvin Hager of Mooresville, route 4; Larry Reid Hager of Mooresville, route 4; Steve Mack, 746 North Main street; Mrs. Woodie Wacham, 642 Boger avenue; Benny Cook of Kannapolis, route 3; Melvin Daryels, Jr., of Mooresville, route 1; Mrs. Alice Lowrance, 217 East Catawba avenue; Edgar Moore, 250 Institute street; and Lionel D. Donaldson, 121 Manor Circle.

For all practical purposes that was all the scoring, but the lads of Templeton-Draymore had their own final fling at glory when in the final five seconds of the game a pass almost connected for what could have been the winning points. The ball just barely slipped off the fingertips of Young in the end zone.

Homecoming Festivities To Highlight Mooresville - Troutman Clash Friday

Old grads, friends of the school, and the regular delegation of South Iredell football fans will cram Mooresville Senior High football stadium Friday night to watch the crowning of the homecoming queen at halftime of the Mooresville-Troutman football game.

The 8 p. m. kickoff will send the locals against their mid-ireddel cousins for what is considered the Iredell County championship of the gridiron. The locals have already beaten Statesville and need the win over the Bobcats to claim the title.

Troutman, which has entered a new football era under the direction of Coach Perry Pearson, reports his charges in the Devil forward wall are now considered experienced veterans. In the game last week against North Rowan they did their best blocking of the season. With another week of practice gone by, they could be even better at their specific defensive and offensive assignments.

Without a question, Tommy Deal is a sure bet for the all-conference team in his junior year at quarter-back for Mooresville. Deal, during the season, has shown he can get the job done, both in running the ball club and connecting with the receivers on his passes. Passing receivers on his passes. Passing receivers on his passes.

Winning their first game of the season 14-0 over Celeste Henkel, the Bobcats have gone through six games, without a win, although they have a 0-0 tie with Scots to give them an overall mark of 1-4-1. The Bobcats have been very impressive in most of their games. Going into the "T" for the first time, Mayhew has found a real spark plug in quarterback Bobby Brackett, who is rated one of the top passers in the conference despite the team record, the club should give the Devils a rough battle tomorrow night.

Mayhew, during the past week of practice, has installed a spirit of beating Mooresville and it would be regarded a successful season for the Bobcats to come to Mooresville and leave the grounds carrying off the winning margin.

However, statistics-wise the locals will have all in their favor, both in the season record and the number of points scored. Mooresville, from all indications, should have the power to contain the passing of Brackett and the running of the Troutman backfield.

Should School Terms Be Extended To 12 Months?

THE PEOPLE SPEAK:

Another school year is underway—a nine-month one in Iredell county and throughout North Carolina.

But ever now and then you hear someone suggest a longer school term—10 or even 12 months. Those in favor of the longer term quote facts and figures to bear out their thoughts while those in favor of the nine-month term have just as many facts and figures.

In view of all this, the Mooresville Tribune's roving reporter asked the following question this week as he went about the task of preparing one of the paper's weekly features, The People Speak:

Should school systems extend their academic year from the present nine months to 12?

The answers of the four, in full, were as follows:

LATHAN LINEBERGER, merchant, Mooresville, route 2: "Well, a 12-month school term would be pretty rough on the children. However, they would get their education quicker that way and would be able to start to work earlier."

G. C. LINEBERGER, merchant, Mooresville, route 2: "No, I don't think the school year should be extended from nine to 12 months. A 12-month school term is too long. Children, when they get old enough, should be permitted to work some during the summer vacation in order that will know what to expect in later life."

MRS. AL ELLIOTT, homemaker, route 2: "I have three children in school and at times I think I would like to have them in school the entire 12 months. Yes, I think it would be a good idea to extend the school term from nine to 12 months. After about three weeks of summer vacation children become bored for something to do."

J. G. HARWELL, oil salesman, 722 North Church street: "Grammar grade children should be kept in school the entire 12 months. However, older children, as they become old enough to work, should have a three-month vacation from school in order that they can 'try their hand' at work."

Local VFW Unit To Sponsor Benefit Dance

Sponsored by Tom Swann Post No. 1072, Veterans of Foreign Wars, a benefit dance will be held at the Post Home on the Mount Ulla Highway Saturday evening, October 26, from 8 p. m. until 12 midnight.

RECEIVE PERFECT ATTENDANCE PINS—A number of Sunday School awards were presented recently at the First Baptist Church. Among those receiving perfect attendance pins were the six teenagers pictured above. Left to right, Ann Martin—5 years; Ray Lyles—7 years; Becky Wylie—7 years; Hugh Sykes—8 years; Jean Mills—5 years; and William Kelly—8 years. Clark Webb also received a 7 year pin but was absent when the picture was taken.

"Dear God..."

When Grandmother was a girl, prayer was no stranger to her. She learned early to turn her thoughts to God and to ask Him for courage and for guidance.

The country was younger then. Men were still probing physical horizons in search of a better life for their families. Their quest took them to the sea in ships, or along the danger-filled trails to the West. Sometimes the women shared their peril. Other times, they stayed at home and waited, and that was even harder. But whichever their course, they prayed.

Our horizons are different today, and our lives filled with less danger. But we need prayer just as much—if not more—than we did in Grandmother's day.

Remember that prayer is our greatest source of strength. If the habit of prayer has become unfamiliar to you, start rediscovering it by attending church services regularly.

THOUGHT FOR THIS WEEK...

Omission lets God's vineyard grow up in weeds. It robs God of His rightful return, stunts his own growth and crucifies his neighbor, true symbol of wickedness is not a drunk beating his wife, but a lazy human being sitting on his rump.

"I didn't do it," is an excuse. It is also a sin! Omission is the stuff the road to Hell is made of. The loads because there are too many freeloaders in the Church and community. A handful of society is exhausted from the load put on their "backs" by those too lazy to carry their share.

The true martyrs of our day are those who are crucified by the burdens of others. It's high time for every man to carry a burden. "For every man shall bear his own burden." (Galatians 6:5).

Holmes Poston Wins Expense-Paid Trip Given By Whirlpool

Holmes Poston, service manager for Davis Supply Company, has returned from a three-day expense-paid trip to Whirlpool factories at Marion, Ohio, and Saint Joseph, Mich.

Poston won the trip, offered by the Whirlpool Corporation, on the basis of his sales during a given period of time.

Traveling by plane, Poston and other winners left Charlotte at 9 a. m. last Thursday and returned at 8 p. m. Saturday. They visited the company's two plants, other places of interest, and attended the Notre Dame and UCLA football game at South Bend, Ind.

"It was a wonderful trip," was the way Poston put it Monday morning after returning from the trip.

Hospitals Take Baby Portraits

To double-check the identities of new-born babies, 2 hospitals at Sydney, Australia, have installed a device enabling nurses to photograph all babies moments after their birth.

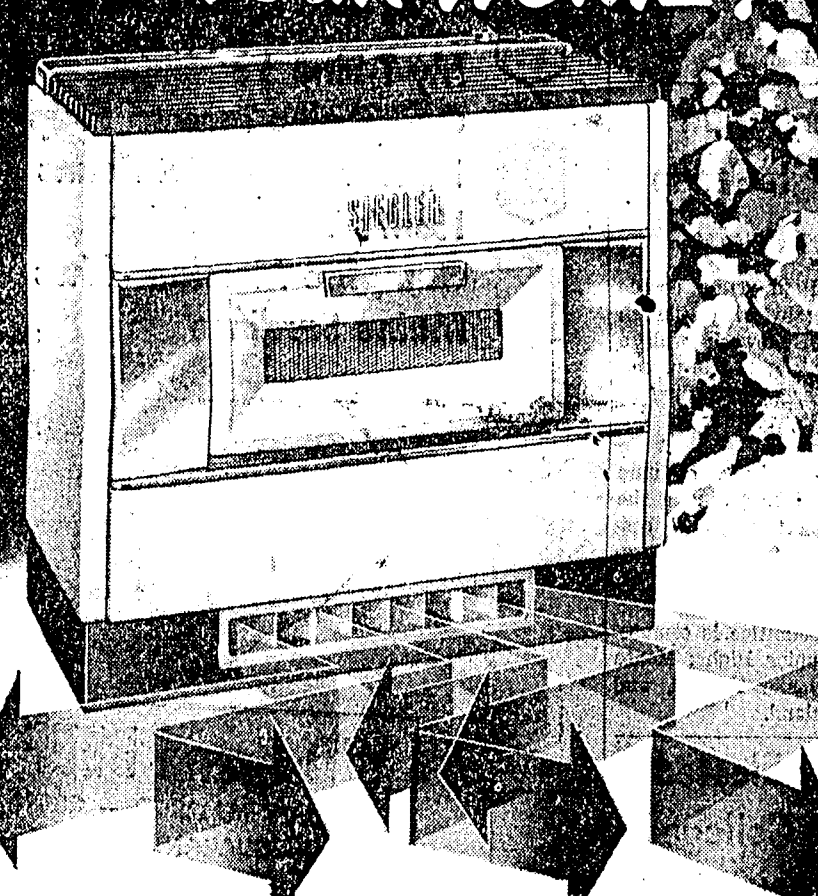

Hospital authorities say the new method will supplement the tagging of both mothers and babies. To take the infant's first portrait, a nurse simply places the baby on a tray under a camera and steps on a handy foot control.

Barkley Gets Attendance School Post

A Statesville, route 7, resident—Harry E. Barkley—has been appointed attendance counselor for the Iredell County Schools, effective November 1.

County School Superintendent T. Ray Gibbs said funds for the new school post were appropriated in the last legislature and are on a matching basis between the state and county.

Barkley is resigning as inspector of correctional institutions of the North Carolina Welfare Department. He has been with the state for the past six years and has been instrumental in getting bills across the state improved. He will complete his work with the state October 31.

Barkley served 10 years as superintendent of an orphanage at Black Mountain and taught school for 18 years in Iredell County, including nine years at Barium Springs where he formerly coached football and basketball. He officiated high school and college football for 30 years and was in charge of Barium Springs camp on the Catawba River for eight summer seasons.

A native of Iredell, he was educated in the county schools, Warren Wilson High School at Swannanoa, and received his A. B. degree at Erskine College. Barkley is married to the former Beatrice Galtney of Cheraw, S. C., and they have one daughter, Harriet Barkley, who is teaching in Beaufort, S. C. Barkley is a member of First A.P.C. Church in Statesville. Barkley said he considers attendance one of the major problems in the school system. He will counsel students and parents and try to point out to students what they are missing by not attending school. "I'm looking forward to doing this," he added.

2nd Presbyterian Junior High Group Schedules Party

The Junior High young people of Second Presbyterian Church will celebrate Halloween with a party Saturday night, 8:30 p. m., at the pastor's home, according to Alexander Smith, teacher of the Junior Highs.

The event will be a costume party. Prizes will be given for the "best" and "most original" costumes. Games, dancing, and refreshments will constitute the activities.

Faye Kerr Elected Catawba College Queen's Attendant

Faye Kerr of Mooresville has been elected attendant to the Homecoming Queen at Catawba College. Miss Kerr was one of two attendants and a queen elected to grace the festivities of the Catawba Homecoming October 28.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kent S. Kerr, 147 West Stewart Avenue. Majoring in mathematics and English, she is a very active student, being a member of the Student Christian Association, Westminster Fellowship, secretary of her junior class and a member of the college annual staff.

Elected queen of the homecoming was Donna Anderson of Elon College.

Stewart Serving As Local United Nations Chairman

Gay C. Stewart, principal of the South Elementary School, is serving as United Nations chairman of Mooresville.

In this capacity, Stewart was invited to participate in a statewide United Nations Workshop which was held in Raleigh Wednesday under the sponsorship of the Governor's State Committee For The United Nations.

Chairman of this committee is Mrs. Leo R. Pritchett of Boone. The workshop began at 9 a. m. Wednesday with a message from Governor Terry Sanford. After workshop sessions throughout the remainder of the morning, a luncheon featuring a panel of personnel from the United Nations, the session ended early in the afternoon.

At 3:30 p. m. Governor and Mrs. Sanford gave a United Nations reception for the county and municipal chairmen who attended the workshop.

All members of the council are urged to attend the meeting.

The Eyes Of Ike Are Upon Them

Some 200 of the party faithful turned out last week for the Eisenhower Dinner at Elks Restaurant here. The gentleman in whose honor the event was staged couldn't attend in person, but by way of a giant photograph above the speakers table, Ike kept a stern eye on the proceedings. Two men who did attend and who figured prominently in the doings were Frank Fields, left, of Mooresville and Ninth District Rep. James Broyhill of Lenoir. Fields is chairman of the South Iredell Republican Club, which sponsored the banquet, and Rep. Broyhill was the principal speaker.

County Tax Collector Will Be Here Thursday

Thurston Houston, county tax collector, will be in Mooresville at the Municipal Building today (Thursday) from 10 a. m. until 4 p. m. for the purpose of collecting county taxes. He will have the tax books for Barringer, Coddle Creek, and Davidson Townships.

Rep. Broyhill Speaks At Area's First Ike Dinner

Mooresville's first Eisenhower Dinner may well have been the start of an annual tradition. The Friday night affair that drew 200 of the party faithful had all the trappings of a political rally, which, in fact, it was, and which everyone there wanted to be.

There was the usual lambasting of the other party; in this instance the Democratic Party, and there was the usual pointing with pride to accomplishments of their own party.

Former President Eisenhower sent a statement to the dinner, and this greeting was read to the group by Edd Canupp, chairman of the Iredell County Republican Party. General Eisenhower stressed the importance of the two-party system of government and, naturally, he made it clear he preferred the Republican way of running things. He pointed also to the value of strong interests in government on the local level.

"I feel deeply that meetings such as the one you are holding are the lifeblood of good government in the United States," the former President wrote, "vigorous intelligent local efforts are imperative necessary to the well-being of the United States."

The main speaker was Ninth District Rep. James Broyhill of Lenoir. In his address, the freshman congressman attacked the Kennedy administration in general. He directed specific criticism at the Kennedy family, the farm program, the sale of wheat to Russia, the handling of the Cuban situation and the proposed tax cuts.

Rep. Broyhill was introduced by Jay Frank of Statesville, Frank is secretary of the Iredell County Republican Party. Frank Fields, chairman of the South Iredell Republican Club, also spoke briefly. The area Republican Club sponsored the dinner, and Fields was in charge of arrangements.

R. T. Brantley of Mooresville was awarded a plaque recognizing him as "Mr. Republican" for his long service to the party in this section.

Ralph Brown Accorded State Honor

A Mooresville native—Ralph Brown of Statesville—has been selected North Carolina's nominee for the National 4-H Alumni Recognition Award.

As North Carolina's nominee, Brown will compete with other state winners for the national award.

This award will be presented in Chicago, Ill., during National 4-H Club Congress, which is scheduled to be held the latter part of November.

A native of Mooresville, Brown is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Brown of Mooresville, route 3, and was active in 4-H work during his youth.

Thirty-three-year-old Brown is manager of the Iredell FCX Service in Statesville.

He is married to the former Miss Christine Freeze of Mooresville, and the couple has three children.

Central Men Set Barbecue Sale Saturday

Men of the Church of Central Methodist Church will conduct its annual fund-raising barbecue sale Saturday, October 26.

The project will begin at 11 a. m. and continue throughout the day. The Central congregation has urged the public to take advantage of a good meal for a good cause.

Earnings from the feed will be used in the church's activity and scholarship fund.

Letters to the Editor...

(Editor's Note: The ladies who prepared the following are officers in the Mooreville Senior Citizens Club. One of them, Mrs. P. D. Lipe, is president of the state Senior Citizens Association.)

Dear Mr. Editor:

We wish some space in your paper to bring to the attention of the elderly and retired Senior Citizens of Mooreville an organization that could and should do much to bring recreation and happiness to many of our older citizens. The organization is known as the Mooreville Senior Citizens Club.

First, let us say it is far from a local organization, but is part of a National group, recognized and sanctioned by both State and National Governments. It is fast becoming one of the most active groups in the Nation. The over-65 groups now number nearly seventeen million and by 1970 will be twenty million. It has been recognized by people in authority that this huge segment of our population could not be relegated to the rocking chair or turned out to pasture, and with work rules as they are and physical conditions playing a large part in this group, something must be done to relieve and furnish some form of entertainment to break the long, lonesome days of so many people.

The recreation leaders of our country came up with a wonderful plan to organize our elderly folk into clubs where they could get together with congenial people with various activities. The activities vary in different areas, some point, some work, some games, some dances, play cards and numerous other games. Most of the clubs are sponsored by one of the other organizations of a city and are under the supervision of the Recreation Department of the city.

The State of North Carolina is well organized and is considered one of the foremost states in the nation in caring for its elderly citizens. Once a year we meet in a statewide convention where business and pleasure, along with good food, bring together a large group of Senior Citizens. The first of these conventions was held in Durham six years ago and drew 75 people. Last May in Statesville there were 42 registered delegates and when we met next May 22nd and 23rd at the Queen Charlotte Hotel in Charlotte, we are expecting to have over 100 people.

The convention is a two-day and one-night affair and is arranged by a state of state officers, namely, President, first Vice President, second Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer, all chosen from various state clubs. They are able assistants.

The ministers met at the Methodist Building in Statesville Tuesday morning for a brief session and lunch. The trip began from there shortly after noon.

Along with our pleasure and recreation, we try to help those who are in unfortunate circumstances and each year at Thanksgiving and Christmas we collect food, clothing, and money for some needy family, working with Mrs. Cooke of the Christian Mission.

We feel, in fact we know, there are many people in Mooreville who should get into this wonderful organization. They could be of so much help to us and we hope to them. So everyone over 50 come and visit with us at least and see what we are doing and we know in a few weeks you would be bringing your covered dish and meeting with us regularly.

Sincerely,
Mrs. W. L. Hobbs, President
Mrs. P. D. Lipe, Vice President
Mrs. D. A. Grissett, Secretary
Mrs. T. E. Ervin, Treasurer

These state officers and members of the state committee meet several times during the year to make plans for the convention. We have an afternoon meeting on the opening day with a keynote speaker, a business meeting where officers for the coming year are elected, and at 7 o'clock the highlight of the convention, the banquet, where another well-known speaker is present.

The second morning is given over to the discussion of business, the voting of the entire group on the new state officers, a brief memorial service, and usually some entertainment by the host city. It is a very enjoyable occasion and is eagerly looked forward to from year to year.

Now a few words about our own Mooreville Club. This club was organized eleven years ago and sponsored by the Mooreville Women's Club. The membership has never been below 40 members but it is a wide-awake, enthusiastic group, playing a large part in this War Memorial Building from 10 a. m. until 3 p. m. We have various games including Bingo, Canasta, and Rook, with most of the men playing back-bank. We also help plan to organize our elderly folk into clubs where they could get together with congenial people with various activities. The activities vary in different areas, some point, some work, some games, some dances, play cards and numerous other games. Most of the clubs are sponsored by one of the other organizations of a city and are under the supervision of the Recreation Department of the city.

The tour began Tuesday morning. It is the third annual orientation tour of the conference's commission on town and country work. The tour will include visits to four colleges, to both the Children's Home and Methodist Home for the Aging, as well as to Hugh Chatham Hospital in Elkin and to the offices and printing plant of the North Carolina Christian Advocate.

The Rev. Garland Stafford of Statesville, executive secretary of the commission on town and country work, and the Rev. Everett Lawman of Charlotte, chairman of the commission, were in charge of arrangements for the tour.

The ministers met at the Methodist Building in Statesville Tuesday morning for a brief session and lunch. The trip began from there shortly after noon.

South Piedmont Teachers Argue Value Of 'Original Research'

Meeting in Charlotte Thursday, teachers from 32 South Piedmont school districts talked about science fairs and got hung up on the concept of "original research." Representing 14 counties in the South Piedmont Science Fair region, they keyed their discussion to a remark by Atomic Energy Commission scientist Dr. Burrell Wood.

Wood, who as a professor at Princeton University helped establish the S. C. State Science Fair, told the teachers meeting at Charlotte College that "science fairs are designed to aid educational programs."

"Some people feel we should only consider projects showing original research, but this notion is divorced from reality," Dr. Barry Houshelt, director of science and mathematics for the Charlotte-Mecklenburg schools, agreed that projects required as regular classroom work should be designed first for "the sake of investigation and experience," with only the best of these being encouraged for fair entry.

The teachers carried their debate on to dinner at the Charlotte College student union and to a summary session afterward, where National Science Fair Director Joseph Kraus raised a new point.

Kraus said that a survey of nearly 2,500 national fair contestants over 15 years showed that most of them first became avidly interested in science at 10 to 12 years of age. "We encourage fairs right on down into elementary school," he said.

The 1964 South Piedmont fair is sponsored by The Charlotte Observer and by business and civic organizations in the region.

Elizabeth Cooke has made 175 home improvements in the family home. She believes that helping others and has made 10 home improvement exhibits. She made a survey on proper lighting in her community and this resulted in 17 improvements being made. She also conducted two lamp-making workshops and a better lighting campaign.

Elizabeth has also been a state winner in the fruit and vegetable marketing demonstration contest and received the American Junior Jersey Breeders Junior 4-Hers award with demonstrations, exhibits, record books and speeches. Her trip to Chicago to attend National 4-H Club Congress is sponsored by the Sperry-Hutchinson Company.

Howard Williams, who won state honors in the field of dairying, is an old hand in this field. He has consistently won honors in this department for several years on the county level. He has accumulated a vast amount of knowledge about the dairy production.

3 Iredell 4-H's, 2 Adult Leaders Named State Winners

Three Iredell county 4-H's and two adult leaders from the county have been named State 4-H winners for 1963, according to Leonard Sullivan, executive director of the National 4-H organization, who placed fourth in the nation on an individual basis. He placed as the top judge in judging 4-H's.

The most state winners any other county had was two, therefore, Iredell county 4-H's, leaders, and sponsors are justly proud of the county's showing.

Iredell county winners are: Anne Cooke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cooke of Cleveland, route 2, citizenship; Elizabeth Cooke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Cooke of Cleveland, route 2, home improvement; Howard Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Williams of Olin, route 1, dairy; and Mrs. C. W. Watts of Statesville, route 8, and Avery Slope of Mount Ulla, route 1, outstanding adult leaders from North Carolina.

Their records have been sent to Chicago where they will be judged for national honors and Dixon says he expects North Carolina to be the most brilliant among the national winners are named.

As state winners, all of the Iredell winners will go to Chicago for the national meeting with the exception of Anne Cooke, and she will go if she is picked as a national winner.

Anne Cooke has taken citizenship as her main project for seven years. She has completed 50 projects with the main emphasis on citizenship. As a result of completing 27 citizenship activities, she was state winner in the N. C. Tercentenary Essay Contest; a delegate to Tar Heel Girls State where she was elected secretary of the National Party; and received the good citizenship award at Troutman High School where she is a senior this year. She has already been tapped into the state 4-H Honor Club and plans to enter State College where she will major in food science and processing.

—This correspondent is plumb peeved at Leonard Sullivan and jealous of Everett Jones, city editor. Everett was absent last week, and his place was taken by another correspondent's column was not in the paper because of another reason, illness.

Len just saved and raved about how he missed Everett and nary a word did he say about my column. I believe it would take a pretty strong person not to be peeved and jealous.

Just you wait until I go to the office. —Ricky Wilson and David Wenzel celebrated their second and third birthdays at a joint party at the home of Ricky's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wilson, Saturday afternoon. Out-door games were enjoyed and refreshments were served. The honorees received gifts. Those present were Don, Margaret Ann, and Johnny LaFoy, Debbie Bradford, Tommy and Judy Wenzel, Danny and Larry Wilson, Susie Conrad, Junior and Jimmy Davis.

Mooreville Area Training School Begins November 3

This year the Mooreville Area Training School of the Methodist Church will be held the week of November 3-7 at Central Methodist Church. The sessions will begin at 7:30, with a nursery maintained for small children each night.

"Understanding the Bible" will be the course for workers with children which will be taught by Dr. Kenneth Taylor of Greensboro College.

For the workers with youth, Dr. Robert Parker, Director of Christian Higher Education, Virginia Annual Conference, will present the course, "The Use of the Bible in Teaching Youth."

The adult teachers will be taught by Rev. Courtney Ross of First Methodist Church, Elkin, in the course, "The Use of the Bible with Adult Groups."

The course entitled, "The Life and Mission of the Church," taught by Dr. Thomas Langford of Duke University, is the fine course for the general membership of the church.

For those interested in Audio-Visuals, Rev. G. G. Adams, Jr. of the Methodist Church, Troutman, will teach, "Audio-Visual Resources in Christian Education."

Last year the Western North Carolina Methodist Conference Board of Education sponsored 33 training schools, enrolling over 11,000 persons and awarded over 9,000 certificates. The Mooreville Area School seeks an attendance goal of 400 persons.

Everyone is invited to attend.

Area Wrecks Keep Officers On Jump During Week End

Area wrecks kept investigating officers on the go quite a bit during the past week end.

Nine persons were injured as a result of two separate two-car crashes on U. S. Highway 21 at Kerr's Branch, some six miles north of Mooresville.

The first of these wrecks occurred at 1:10 p. m. Saturday. Six persons were injured in this smash-up.

Treated and released from Iredell Memorial Hospital in Statesville, were Joseph Edmond Martin, 70, route 1, Troutman; Clyde Nelson Dixon, 33, Negro, 646 Harland street; Fred Long, Jr., 18, Sylvia street; Mary K. Davidson, 18, Templeton Hill; and Jacqueline Wallace, 18, and Brenda Covington, 18, both of East Sharpe street, all of Statesville.

Martin was driving south in a 1950 Ford and Dixon was also driving south in a 1955 Pontiac when the accident occurred.

Patrolman R. D. Cranford said that the Martin vehicle was attempting to make a left turn and was struck in the left side by the Dixon vehicle, which was attempting to pass.

Martin told Patrolman Cranford that he gave a signal and he was substantiated by an eye-witness. Dixon stated that he did not sound his horn before attempting to pass. Damages were estimated at $200 to the Ford and $350 to the Pontiac. Dixon was charged with improper passing.

Three persons were hurt in the week-end second wreck at Kerr's Branch, this accident occurring at 12:10 a. m. Sunday.

Treated and released from Iredell Memorial Hospital in Statesville were Jerry Clyde Hall, 22, and his wife, Frankie, both of route 4, Statesville, and Fred Willard Malcolm, 21, route 1, Troutman. A hospital spokesman this morning said that the trio only suffered minor cuts and bruises.

Hall was driving north in a 1961 Chevrolet and Malcolm was driving south in a 1959 Ford when the accident occurred.

Patrolman C. L. Brown said that Malcolm was driving at a high rate of speed and drove his vehicle across the center line where it hit head-on with the Hall car. The Malcolm car then went off the left side of the road where it cut off a light pole and hit the front of a house.

Patrolman Brown added that Malcolm was apparently drinking prior to the accident and was driving west in a 1963 Oldsmobile. The vehicles were estimated at $1,000 to the Chevrolet and $500 to the Ford. Malcolm was charged with driving on the wrong side of the road.

Approximately $150 damages resulted from a two-car collision approximately three miles west of Mooresville on N. C. Highway 150 at 1:20 p. m. Sunday.

Paul William Bumbarger, Jr., 43, of Hickory, was driving west in a 1962 Oldsmobile and Lorena Stubbs Skeen of Biscoe was also driving west in a 1963 Oldsmobile.

Patrolman Gaither said that the Skeen vehicle was attempting to pass the Bumbarger vehicle when both of the drivers noticed that another vehicle was passing in front of them. Both of the drivers applied their brakes and the Skeen car struck the left side of the other car.

Patrolman Gaither said that the Skeen car skidded 64 feet before the impact which apparently occurred on the center line. Damages were estimated at $10 to the Oldsmobile and $150 to the 1962 Oldsmobile. No charges were filed.

Brawley PTA Schedules Carnival Event

The Parent-Teachers Association of the Brawley School has announced there will be a Halloween carnival at the school on Friday night, October 25, beginning at 6 p. m. until 11 p. m.

A number of activities, including games, contests, Bingo, and etc., are being planned for the annual carnival.

Hot dogs and cold drinks will be sold and cakes will also be available.

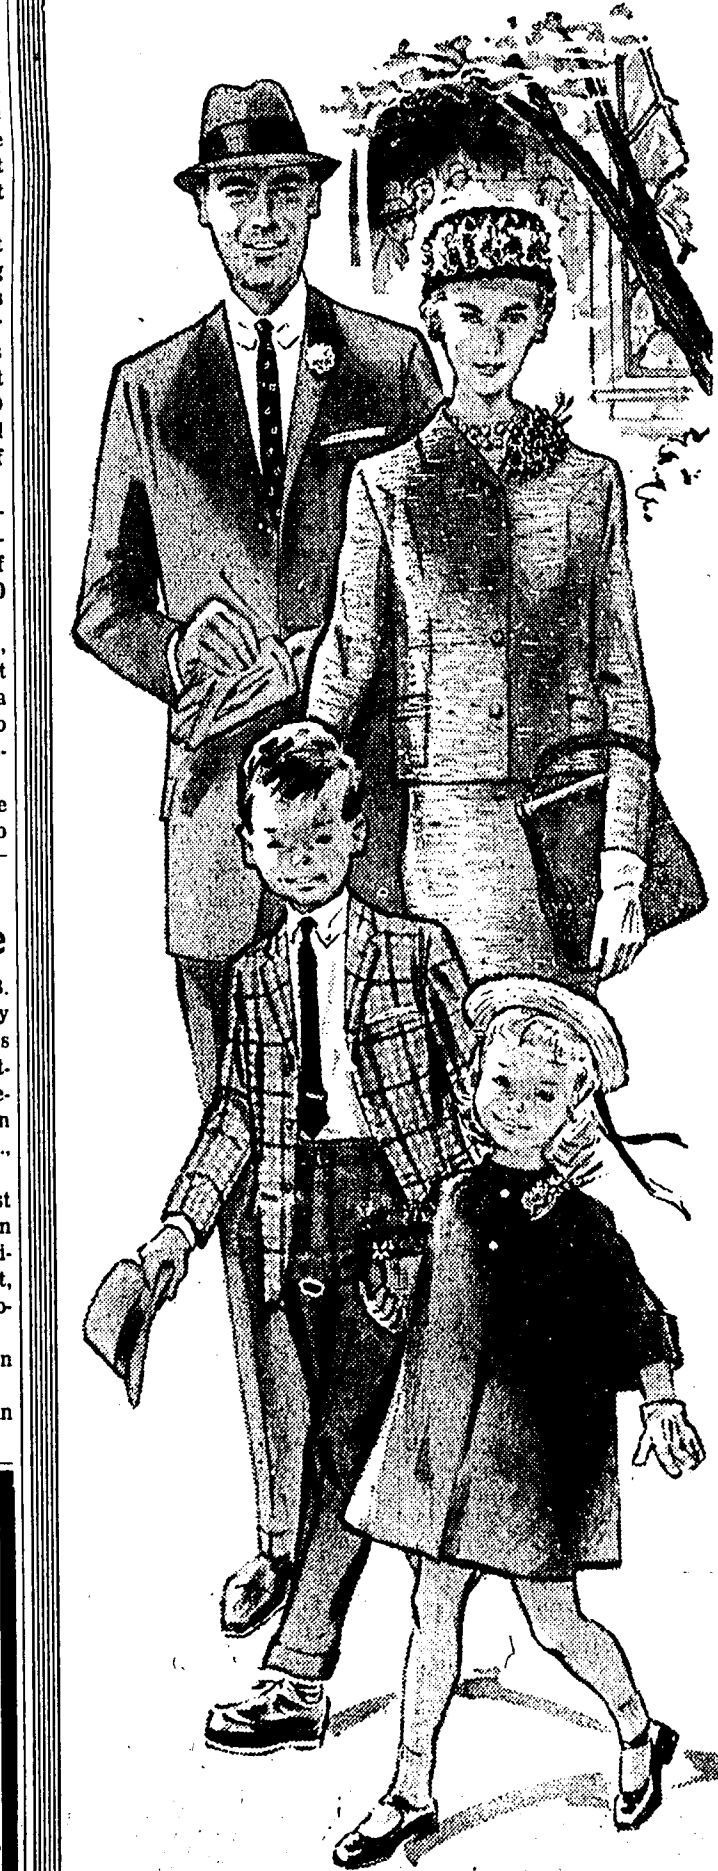

The highlight of the evening will be the crowning of the King and Queen.

All parents and children of the school, as well as the public, are invited to attend the affair for a delightful evening.

CENTRE MEN CHARTERED—Men of the Church of Centre Presbyterian Church was chartered during ceremonies at the church last week. Official Welcome For A New Tar Heel

During his visit here last week, Gov. Terry Sanford reversed Horace Greeley's advice. The Tar Heel chief executive met Wesley Carter, an official of Continental Device Corp. of Hawthorne, Calif., and welcomed him to North Carolina and Mooresville. The firm will begin operations here early in November. The Governor asked Carter to invite others from the West Coast to "come east, especially to North Carolina." Between the coast-to-coast handshake are Dr. Boyce Brawley, right, president of the Mooresville Chamber of Commerce; and Roy Creamer, chairman of the Chamber's industrial committee.

Amendment Must Be Defeated

On January 14 the voters of North Carolina will go to the polls to pass judgment on a proposed constitutional amendment that would give each of North Carolina's 100 counties one representative in the lower branch of our General Assembly and 70 senators.

We hold no quarrel with the recent special session of the General Assembly that voted to submit this issue to the people. We agree with Cliff Blue, Speaker of the House, whose vote broke the tie that sent this question to the people. It is generally believed by Blue's closest friends that, although he comes from a small eastern county, he is against the amendment. However, Speaker Blue said it was the right of the people to decide this issue, and his vote was in support of this right, not in support of the amendment.

Should this amendment be adopted by the people on January 14 it would be a vicious turn in the government of North Carolina.

It is, in effect, government by geography rather than by representation. It would give, for all intent and purpose, to a relatively small percentage of the people of North Carolina the power to govern the state.

One has only to examine the political history of Georgia for the past several decades to see what this situation can, will do to state government. Until recently, when the U. S. Supreme Court tossed the idea out the back door, Georgia has been ruled by the county unit system. In short, certain hunkers of geography got certain representation, regardless of how few voters lived in such geographical locations. Under this geographical arrangement, little Echols county in south central Georgia, with a population of less than 3,000, had about as much power in electing the course of state government as did Fulton county with 500,000 population.

This constitutional amendment would do about the same thing to North Carolina. Little Camden county, with a population of around 6,000, would have the same power in the N. C. House of Representatives as would Mecklenburg with around 300,000 population.

This reporter has been a subscriber and daily reader of the Atlanta Journal for the past 23 consecutive years. Based upon the picture of Georgia as filmed by that great newspaper, it is our studied conviction that Georgia has had, year in and year out, the most corrupt state government in America. We cannot recall a 30-day period in the past 23 years when anywhere from one to a half dozen public officials in Georgia were not under indictment, in jail, out on bond, waiting for appeal decisions. Sometimes it is a sheriff charged with distilling white liquor, again it is a member of the state House of Representatives charged with embezzlement. At this very moment a recently resigned high state official is under criminal investigation.

As a result of this type of state government, Georgia ranks near the bottom of states in the nation in its prison system, school system, public roads system, and on down the line. One follows the other as day follows night.

Under a more representative system and a new Governor, Georgia is making great strides today to correct the evils of the past, but it still has a long way to go.

No state can have good government—with its resultant progress and prosperity—when 19 per cent of the population is in prison.

Moor Mills, Cascade Set Pay Increase

Salary Boost Becomes Effective November 4

Some 2,000 of Mooresville's textile workers will be affected by the pay increase announced recently by Burlington Industries.

This week, officials of the town's two Burlington plants, Mooreville Mills and Cascade Weaving Co., joined in local announcements of the salary hike that will average five per cent of the present earnings of all wage employees.

About 500 Cascade workers will receive more robust pay envelopes as a result of the hike; at Mooreville Mills, 1,500 employees.

HDC Women Plan Annual Review Event

The annual achievement day program of the Iredell County Home Demonstration Club will be held next Thursday, November 7, at Rose Chapel Methodist Church, five miles north of Statesville on U. S. Highway 21.

Mrs. Willie Trotter of Mooresville, president of the county home demonstration council, will preside.

Principal speaker will be Miss Ruth Current of Cleveland, who recently retired after serving for a number of years as State Home Demonstration Agent, with headquarters in Raleigh.

The work of the 26 clubs which make up the county organization will be reviewed and luncheon will be served at the Bethany Home Demonstration Clubhouse at 12 o'clock noon.

Mrs. Ray Chester, a member of the Brawley Club, and county secretary will have a part in the program.

Approximately 250 persons are expected to attend the meeting.

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

You might recollect I was telling you here awhile back about the U. S. Education Department advising a new kind of arithmetic for the school kids, claiming the old "tutem law" of 2 times 2 is four ain't necessary true in all cases. Well, we got another jolt coming from the deep thinkers. A science feller named Dr. Kaplan has announced that what we been calling the Big Toe since the beginning of time ain't always the Big Toe.

After studying this matter and measuring toes for years, he says about half the time the toe next to the Big Toe is the longest. It's giving to the place, Mister Editor, where nothing we and we was raised up to believe is sacred no more.

We was discussing these matters at the county store Saturday night and Ed Doolie said the worst ain't got here yet. For instance, he reported he was reading a piece in the papers where the women folks is gradual taking over the pool rooms. Ed said, this piece claimed the heavy mahogany tables with the green tops, the dirty light bulb hanging from the ceiling, the windows with soiled curtains, all was on the way out. Now they was putting in pool rooms with thick walled-walled carpets, sweet music playing, soft lights glowing, swanky lounge chairs setting around, and furnishing college girls to teach the women all

Sanford Challenges Students To Put Forth Greater Effort

In the interest of North Carolina's quality education program, Gov. Terry Sanford Friday placed the matter of better education directly in the laps of present-day students in talks at Mooresville and other Piedmont North Carolina Schools.

In his opening remarks, Governor Sanford declared that he could have gone to the county commissioners, boards of education, and adults of the community with his better education message but he

Teen-Agers Are Now $6.8 Million Economic Force In Iredell County

Iredell county's teenage population has become an economic force of importance — a force of $6,812,000 a year.

As a consumer group, they have this impressive amount of money at their command, which, incidentally, is a matter of great interest to local retail merchants.

The figure is arrived at through studies and surveys made by the Department of Agriculture, the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the Great Youth Research Organization and others.

They show that nearly $11 billion is spent annually by the nation's teen-agers.

As a result, they are being courted as never before by retail merchants.

At the midpoint, which is at age 16½, it averages $905 a year. This median cost, applied to Iredell county, with its teenage population of 7,527, as last reported by the Census Bureau, gives $6,812,000 as the estimated amount that is spent on them per year. For the individual teen-ager, according to the Department of Agriculture, the biggest item is food, which averages $450 a year. Another $275 or so goes for clothes and the remainder for housing, medical care, sports, entertainment and miscellaneous expenditures.

All in all, the teenage market has become an economic force and, in addition, the fastest-growing one in the nation.

The latest figures reveal that the number of teen-agers is increasing at 3½ times the rate of the rest of the population, reflecting the high birth rate that followed the last war.

The expectation is, as a result, that Iredell county's teenage population in 1965 will be 30 per cent above the 1960 total.

$28,147 Drive Soars Above 1964 Budget

In one sense, you could say it's all over but the shouting. But, to put it more positively, it's all over but the serving.

"It" is the Mooresville-South Iredell United Fund. This area has completed the most successful UF drive in its history. The Mooresville appeal was the first in North Carolina to raise 100 per cent of its goal.

The local UF budget for 1964 was $27,815—an increase of some $500 over last year's. At noon Tuesday, the "mercury" in the downtown UF "thermometer" registered $28,147.45. That figure represented the most money ever contributed to United Fund in this area. It also represented 10.18 per cent of the amount sought to aid local, regional, state and national service organizations.

Final figures on contributions were prepared Tuesday afternoon for presentation at the final report meeting scheduled at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday. Here is where the $28,000-plus came from: The all-important industrial division provided $17,910, the commercial and business division accounted for $5,012, public employees gave $2,635, the professional group contributed $1,300, the residential division collected $725, the rural workers turned in $133 and the special projects division produced $430.

Campaign Chairman John Simpson was elated, and understandably so, at the final tally. He heaped praise on all his key workers, but he emphasized that full credit for this tremendous effort must go to every citizen who opened his heart and gave.

He mentioned particularly those persons who work in Mooresville, but live elsewhere. He explained that only through unanimous support throughout the business and industrial community could the campaign have been so successful.

"It is impossible, not to mention unfair, to single out one person and say he or she got the job done," Simpson added, "we went into this thing united, and we made United Fund a success because we stayed united."

Simpson wouldn't take any credit himself, but he would admit to doing a good job in selecting his division chairmen. These are the key persons who directed the separate units of the appeal: Dave Jones served as chairman of industry, Clyde Millsaps and Jimmy Brawley were co-chairmen of commercial, Roy Creamer headed public employees, T. C. Honesley directed the professional division, Mrs. Ira Usery and Mrs. Mac Gibson had charge of canvassing residential areas; Joe Gilley was chairman of the rural division and Bill Koury headed special projects.

United Fund President Jim Rosser joined Simpson in offering congratulations to all South Iredell citizens. Rosser directed last year's campaign which reached the UF goal for the first time ever here.

So, the money is in, and vital community services are assured for another year. Local organizations whose very existence depends on United Fund are the Christian Mission, Boy Scout, Girl Scouts, and others.

A Dime... From One Terry To Another

"Back when I was campaigning for the governorship," Gov. Terry Sanford said here last Friday, "I gave a dime to everyone I met bearing the name Terry." And that is just what he is doing—presenting a dime to Terry Sprinkle, Miss Sprinkle gave the invocation last Friday when Governor Sanford addressed Senior and Junior High School students at the Roland R. Morgan auditorium. Others in the picture are: Tim Roach, who introduced the Governor, and Mary Sue Brawley, who gave the response to the Governor's message.

players will welcome the boost in pay.

The pay raise will become effective November 3, according to M. Riggs Goodman, plant manager at Cascade Weaving Company, 300 S. E. Murdoch, vice president and division manager at Mooresville Mills.

The announcement of the pay increase at the local plants came on the heels of a company statement during the past week that wage increases would be made by many divisions of Burlington Industries within the next few weeks. The pay boost will follow by a few months the establishment by Burlington of a profit-sharing plan for employees.

The company statement was issued by President Charles F. Myers, Jr., in Greensboro. He said that amounts and effectively would be established by management of Burlington's decentralized divisions, in keeping with the particular business situation in each type of operation.

"We believe that conditions justify wage advances in many areas of our operations, and have asked our division managers to work out appropriate rate increases on the basis of studies now being made," Myers stated.

He noted that wage increases this year would be the fourth by Burlington in the last five years for wage employees in most divisions of the company.

"Our policy continues to be one of establishing wage rates on a divisional basis," Myers said. "In this way wages are related to the competitive situation in each specific segment of our business."

Murdoch and Goodman, in making the pay increase announcement for their respective plants, pointed out that eligible wage employees at the plants also are participating in a new Profit Sharing Retirement Plan which was announced earlier this year by Burlington Industries.

They reminded that the entire cost of the plan is paid by the company and that for the fiscal year ended September 22, 1963, the company's contribution to the plan totaled approximately $43 million.

The amount to be credited to accounts of individual employees members of the plan for the year is equivalent to approximately 3 1/2 per cent of their annual wages, the plant officials reported.

Burlington Industries, the world's largest textile complex, has 25,000 employees in North Carolina, about 2,000 in South Carolina, and 62,000 company-wide. It operates 71 plants in the Carolinas and 84 others in 16 states, Puerto Rico and eight foreign countries.

cent of its people make the rules for the other 81 per cent.

Every voter in North Carolina who has any respect for representative government, even the voters in little Camden county, should go all out to defeat this proposed constitutional amendment in the January 14 election.

The gubernatorial campaign of Judge Richardson Preyer has a touch of the Mooresville flavor, so to speak.

Many of our folks around town, and perhaps all the old-timers at Mooresville Mills, will remember Ben Harris. For many years, Ben was head of the sales offices of Mooresville Mills in New York. He came to Mooresville often, was a favorite with all who worked for him and with him.

In his years in New York, Ben probably did more little favors for local folks than you could count without a computer. In our case it was tickets to the World Series, hard-to-get tickets for choice shows, and on down the line. He and his attractive wife, Annette, were always at home at their place over in Jersey to the friends of Mooresville Mills who came to New York. And anytime folks from Mooresville needed any type of arrangements, hotel reservations or whatnot, it was the rule of thumb to "call Ben."

Ben has retired from the textile business, bought a beautiful home at Pinehurst and spends his days playing golf and his nights playing poker and bridge.

We were chatting with Ben the other night. "How's Richardson Preyer going to run in Ireland?" he asked.

The question rather surprised us. Ben had many interests in life but politics was never one of them.

"From you, that's a shocking question," we replied. "In your old age, surely you haven't become entangled in politics."

"I'm in this one," he said, "up to my ears. I'm laying off golf and bridge and polking up a storm. Preyer is my brother-in-law, married my sister Emily."

We know Mrs. Preyer as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Consolidated University, an attractive, intelligent and capable woman. We didn't know she was Ben's sister.

Some of youse guys who were the recipients of many favors from Ben through the years might want to drop one in the box for Preyer in memory of Cousin Ben.

Candlelight Service At Antioch Baptist Church In Lincolnton Unites Miss Pearch, Mr. Ervin

At six o'clock in the evening on Saturday, October 26, in the Antioch Baptist Church of Lincolnton, Miss Peggie Ann Pearch became the bride of Howard Dexter Ervin. The Reverend Wray Barrett officiated.

Arrangements of gladioli and ivy with numerous candelabra holding lighted candles formed a lovely setting for the speaking of the vows. Adding to the beauty of the wedding scene were three candles in each window of the sanctuary.

Prior to and during the ceremony a program of nuptial music was rendered by Miss Hazel Cook, pianist, and Miss Marcia Ervin of Mooresville, soloist and sister of the bridegroom. Vocal selections were "Sweetest Jesus Ever Told" and "Wedding Prayer." The traditional wedding marches were used for the processional and the recessional.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1963 —THE MOORESVILLE (N.C.) TRIBUNE—3

flower girl. Her dress of gold velvet was fashioned after the other attendants' and she carried a basket of pink chrysanthemums.

Serving as ringbearer was a nephew of the bridegroom, Master Steve Ridenhour, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ridenhour of Mooresville.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Farris E. Ervin, Sr. of 528 Smith street, Mooresville, had his father as best man. Ushering were Randy Blackwelder of Mooresville and Carroll Cooke of Lincolnton.

Mrs. Pearch chose for her daughter's wedding a blue dress with black and white accessories. The bridegroom's mother, chose a gray dress with white and black accessories. Both of the mothers wore white orchid corsages.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride couple, their parents and attendants paused in the vestibule of the church to greet their guests.

Following a honeymoon trip to western North Carolina, the couple will make their home at 518 East Pine street, Lincolnton.

Mrs. Ervin is a graduate of Lincolnton High School and Carolina Business College, Charlotte. She is now employed at Crowell Hospital in Lincolnton. Her husband is a graduate of Mooresville Senior High School and is employed at Burris Manufacturing Company in Lincolnton.

Among those attending the wedding were: Mrs. Ralph Ridenhour and children, Mrs. Alfred Ridenhour and children, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Mundy and son, Mrs. Mae Davis, all of Mooresville and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ervin and children, of Forest Park, Georgia. Mrs. Vernon Southern of Albemarle and Mr. and Mrs. Farris Ervin of Statesville and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Freeman of Mooresville.

Following the wedding rehearsal on Friday evening, October 25, the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Pearch, entertained at a cake-cutting in the Buffalo Shoals Community Clubhouse.

A pretty color note of pink and white was used in the decor of the clubhouse and the bride's table was appointed with an arrangement of pink chrysanthemums and ivy. The four-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom, was placed on one end of the table and the crystal punch service was at the opposite end of the table.

After the bride and bridegroom cut the traditional first-lice of wedding cake, Mrs. Jimmy Mundy, of Mooresville, sister of the bridegroom, completed the serving of the cake. Mrs. Joe Bone, of Belmont, sister of the bride, presided at the punch bowl.

For the occasion, the bride chose a blue velvet dress to which she added a white corsage.

During the evening, the bridal couple presented gifts to their attendants.

"Although I Disagree With Everything You Say I Will Defend Unto Death Your Right To Say It"

VOL. XXX MOORESVILLE, N. C., THURSDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1963 No. 37

Mrs. Mayhew Laid To Rest Monday At 11

Mrs. Ada Howell Mayhew, 83-year-old Mooreville resident, died in the Brown Nursing Home at 4:20 p. m. Saturday, following a long period of declining health. She was the widow of Buren Mayhew.

A native and lifelong resident of Iredell county, Mrs. Mayhew was a daughter of the late James Richard and Alice White Smith. Prior to her retirement, she was employed at Mooreville Mills.

The survivors include: one half-brother, Fred Smith of Asheville; and two half-sisters, Mrs. Knox Morrison of Statesville and Mrs. Ella Hinson of Kannapolis. Four grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were conducted at 11 a. m. Monday at the Calvin Funeral Chapel, with the Rev. Carl Mauney, pastor of the Berea Baptist Church at Doole and the Rev. L. E. Paschal, pastor of the McKendree Methodist Church, in charge. Burial was in the family plot in the McKendree Methodist Church cemetery.

Laurel Memorial Church Schedules Week End Revival

A week end revival is scheduled to be held at the Laurel Memorial Church of God on By-Pass 21 North, it was announced earlier this week by the pastor, the Rev. Joe Newton.

The revival will begin tomorrow (Friday) and continue each evening at 7:30 o'clock through Sunday, November 3.

The visiting evangelist will be the Rev. James T. Shinn of China Grove.

The public is invited to attend these services.

Children Of Elks Invited To Party

The entertainment committee of the Mooreville Elks Lodge has announced plans for a Halloween party tonight (Thursday) for children of all lodge members.

The committee said all Elks' children are invited to take part in a supper, games and drawings for prizes. No reservations are necessary. The affair will begin at 6:30 p. m. in the main dining room of the lodge.

We Almost Used The 'Second Coming' Type

In every newspaper backstop, there is a case containing very special type. The type, usually made of wood, is rarely used. Occasionally, the six-inch tall characters will be flashed in an ad, but almost never in news columns. By tradition, newspapers are saving this type to use in reporting the second coming. The more exciting papers have even known to break it out to announce such events as declarations of war and the assassinations of Presidents.

Early this week, we toyed with the idea of using three of these giant characters—enough to shout WOW across the front page. We reconsidered, and began a search for new adjectives and a superlative exclamation mark. We failed in this too, probably because we were too excited to put our minds to it. The excitement and our basic conservative makeup account for the play we gave what, in many respects, is the biggest story here in many a year.

Mooreville is the first town in all Tarheelia to reach its 1964 United Fund goal. That one sentence tells more about our town, its people, its industry, its business, its overall character than all the reams of copy we could grind out on why Mooreville is a great place to live and work.

There were no juggling of figures, no slicing of budgets, no shortcuts and no gimmicks. The people of this little town simply opened their hearts and gave more to the United Fund than ever has been given in this area. When the figures were figured and the totals totaled at the final report meeting Wednesday, a hush, not unlike reverence, came over the group of UF leaders. After that came the exultation.

John Simpson, the campaign chairman, would take no credit. He would admit only that his choice of division chairmen was a good one. These chairmen wouldn't take credit for the victory. Somebody did it, and that somebody was everybody in this section who contributed to the drive. The UF workers at the luncheon said Rufus Dalton was responsible for giving the campaign the impetus it never lost. Rufus is head of Chemung-Templon, the sister textile plants that went over their UF quotas within three hours after the drive began. Rufus wasn't there to defend himself. Personal recognition also went to T. C. Homesley, the young man with the golden touch. T. C. directed the professional division that went over its goal for the first time in many moons.

As it is in any such undertaking, top-level leadership makes or breaks United Fund. This was never more true than during the most successful UF campaign in Mooreville's history. The fact that so many are to be congratulated for the tremendous drive only attests to the campaign's organization.

So, civic-minded and open-hearted citizens who live and/or work in South Iredell, we salute you.

Sports Can Be The Tie That Binds Boys

Choo Choo Justice posed a question in his talk before Mooreville's Midget football players and their parents: "A broken bone will be as good as new in six weeks; how long does it take to mend a boy's character once he has been into court?"

Governor Terry Sanford was here last week, and he put it this way in talks before Mooreville students: "Jim Beatty is working for me now. He's working on the school dropout problem. If I hear of any of you dropping out of school, I'm gonna run Jim after you." The "run" was a pun, since Beatty is a piston-legged Charlotte product, happens to be the fastest indoor miler in the world.

What is the connection between these two statements? Answer: Sports as a catalyst. Justice was concerned about developing a youngster's character through the personal challenge and competition of athletics. The Governor used sports as an incentive for education. The committee said, Beatty will use his achievements in track to stress the discipline and determination that must be applied to education.

Many youngsters, particularly boys, can be reached and helped through organized sports. Their energies can be properly directed and their experiences in dealing with each other can be of great value throughout their lives. This is not to say sports are vital to character building; we do say sports often can build character where nothing else can.

All of which brings us to this comment on the local sports scene: There were a great many men and organizations back of the successful Midget football play this year. No one man gave more of himself to this project than Clayton Dyson. As president of the Midget Football League, Clayton guided the project with a firm, able hand. Wherever work was, he was.

Last year, Clayton served as president of the local Boosters Club, an organization created to bolster sports, and club membership soared to an unprecedented 320. This fall, he was the prime mover in another project that did wonders to promote participation and interest in sports.

We're sure Charlie Justice and Governor Sanford will agree with us that service to youth by men such as Clayton Dyson will go a long way toward furthering the dual goals of character and education.

Gibbs Reunion To Be Held Sunday

The annual Gibbs reunion will be held at the home of L. A. Gibbs on Sunday, November 3. Relatives are urged to make plans to attend.

We Take All The Good Apples For Granted

While we're on the subject of youth, may we invite your attention to an item in "Our Community in Other Years" on the editorial page. It has to do with a bunch of kids who talked a man into buying them some liquor. It happened here 49 years ago. Needless to say, every group who read that item then muttered something about the younger set going to the dogs. Now another generation of youth sniffs glue and we are still saying they're going to pot. In our concern, we are prone to forget that the generation that contained those teenaged boozers a half-century ago now is the generation that is the bedrock of our society. We tend to forget that then, and now, the wayward kids who make the papers are but a fraction of the whole and that, then and now, the good we take for granted far overshadows the delinquency we read about.

Mr. Trexler, Darkest Horse Of Them All

The Rev. Floyd Trexler, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church, became a dark, dark horse in the governor's race recently. Trexler, where-when-why of his short-lived candidacy was covered by Del Lazenby in his Asides column in the Gastonia Gazette. Mr. Trexler held a preaching mission recently in Belmont. A member of the church where he was preaching promoted the visiting minister by displaying a poster picture of Floyd on the back of his car. This parishioner, Gene Cline, stopped for gasoline in Concord. A passing drunk spotted the poster on the car and announced "that's the man who's gonna get my vote for governor."

A Reprimand For An Unintentional Snub

Mrs. Florence Brown raked us over the coals, but good, in her Cascade news last week. The week before, we bemoaned the absence of our immediate cohort, Everett Jones, who was on vacation. In our haste and generally overwrought condition, we made no mention of our correspondent and friend, Mrs. Florence, who was laid up sick and couldn't round up the news in her community. She let us know, rather pointedly, that we left her out.

Mrs. Florence, dear, there were many things left undone or given a lick and a promise that week. All the same, we apologize, and we're glad to have you back, too.

Local Woman's Mother Passes In Huntersville

Mrs. Zula McCord Westmoreland, 73, died at her home, route 2, Huntersville, at 11:10 a. m. Friday.

She was born in Mecklenburg county on May 5, 1890, a daughter of the late David Pink and Margaret Dewese.

Her husband, Thomas C. Westmoreland, died in 1942.

Surviving are three sons, Delbert C. and Thomas M. Westmoreland, both of route 2, Huntersville; and Robert Y. Westmoreland, route 1, Davidson; two daughters, Mrs. Thomas C. Brown, route 1, Huntersville; and Mrs. Harry Sloop, route 1, Mooreville; one brother, Lloyd L. McCord of Huntersville; four sisters, Mrs. W. B. Knox of Dunn, Mrs. M. D. Hickox of Suffolk, Va., Mrs. C. M. Abernathy, Silver Springs, Mo., and Mrs. C. J. Roberts of Charlotte; and 10 grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at 3 p. m. Sunday at Mount Zion Methodist Church in Cornelius by Rev. Donald G. Bridger. He was assisted by Rev. Dwight Barker. Burial followed in the church cemetery.

Fines, Suspended Sentences Handed Joe Richard Lyerly

A local businessman—Joe Richard Lyerly—was given a sentence of six months, suspended for two years on condition that he pay a fine of $250 following a hearing in the Mooreville Recorder's Court Monday.

The sentence came after Lyerly was found guilty of selling and possessing lottery tickets and an illegal punchboard.

Judge William S. (Bill) Neel also gave Lyerly a sentence of six months, suspended for two years on payment of a fine of $200 and cost in the case charging him with selling and possessing illegal punchboards.

The charges were made on October 5 following a raid on the newsstand operated by Lyerly by SBI Agent Ray Garland, along with local and county officers. The officers found an illegal punchboard, 69 tip boards, and 78 football parlay cards.

R. L. Benfield Suffers Fatal Heart Attack

Robert Linney Benfield, 80-year-old retired farmer of 1029 Benfield street, died in the Lawrence Hospital at 8:05 p. m. Sunday. Although he had been in declining health for several years, death was unexpected, being attributed to a heart attack.

Born on August 15, 1883, Mr. Benfield was a son of the late David C. and Augusta Moore Benfield. He had lived in the Mooreville area for the past 50 years and was well known and highly esteemed by a wide circle of friends.

The survivors include: the widow, Mrs. Julia Lambert Benfield; six sons, Grady Benfield of Troutman, Robert Clayton Benfield of Mooreville, route 1, James A. Benfield of Oakville, Ky., and Coyt N. and Fred H. Benfield, both of Mooreville; and four daughters, Mrs. Helen B. Shinn of Mooreville, route 3, and Mrs. Vera Robinson, Mrs. Julia B. Johnston, and Mrs. Betty B. Moore, all of Mooreville. Two brothers, two sisters, 19 grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were conducted at 3 p. m. Tuesday at Knox's Chapel in Rowan county, with the Rev. Jesse Scott, in charge. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Community Day Set For November 1

All women of the churches are needed to join in the job of nation building.

The first World Community Day was held twenty years ago in the midst of war. November 1963 will mark the 20th anniversary at a time when conflict has been avoided but peace has not been established. Peace is our continuing Christian World Relation emphasis, with Nation Building a new channel being explored this year.

Help mark two decades of efforts for a more secure peace by joining church women across the world in the observance of World Community Day.

The Mount Union United Church Women invite you to World Community Day, Friday, November 1, at 7:30 p. m. at Triplet Methodist Church. The program will include a guest speaker, Mrs. W. T. Tatum of Olin, a soloist, Mrs. Homer Barker of Vandenberg Church, a worship service and a fellowship hour.

Mexican Adult Girl Scouters To Visit Here

Two Mexican adult Girl Scout leaders will visit Mooreville November 7 as part of their two-week stay in the Catawba Valley Girl Scout Council.

Mrs. Edna Rivero and Mrs. Angélica Cardena will be guests of the Mooreville Neighborhood for a luncheon at Central Methodist Church. The noon luncheon will follow a general discussion period that will begin at the church at 10 a. m.

All officials of the local Girl Scout program, plus other invited guests, will take part in the general session and the luncheon session.

Both Mexican visitors are in the United States to attend the 36th National Council of the Girl Scout of the U.S.A. This council was held October 21-25.

Required Traffic Safety Course Slated In County

After November 1, North Carolinians between 16 and 18 years of age will have to complete a traffic safety education course before they can qualify for driver's licenses.

The General Assembly said this in effect when it passed the law this year that requires all 16-18 year-olds to complete a course in driver education before being licensed.

For thousands of teenagers the new law means a delay in starting to drive. Both Mooreville high schools have driver education programs that are well run and well received by the students. All students may take advantage of this training, but, sadly, not all youngsters between 16 and 18 are students.

A traffic safety course designed to reduce the number of dropouts and students in high schools without driver education programs has been organized by the N. C. Motor Vehicles Department.

For persons in this area, this driver education course will be offered in the Statesville city council room during November. E. C. Davis of the Department of Motor Vehicles has made the necessary arrangements to offer this training.

The instruction is divided into two four-hour sessions. The first session will be offered from 1 p. m. until 5 p. m. November 1. The second session will be held during the same hours the following Friday, November 8.

The course will be repeated at the same time and place November 15 and November 22.

Persons who wish to take advantage of the training may enroll.

Special Musical Program Planned At St. Mark's

A special musical program will be presented at St. Mark's Lutheran Church Sunday evening at 7 p. m. The Fair View Methodist Church Choir at Mount Mourne under the direction of Mrs. Perry Waters, will be the highlight of the occasion. In addition to the choir presentation, there will be scripture reading and congregational singing.

The public is invited.

Lutheran Young People Schedule Special Program

The Young People of St. Mark's Lutheran Church will continue their special program studies next Sunday with the November topic of "World Problems".

Miss Kathy Stewart will be in charge of the November theme, and will deal with such problems as hunger, overpopulation, and war.

The final session will consider the United Nations and its role in world problems. A hayride is being planned for the November social.

Missionary Will Speak Sunday At Fair View Church

Miss Lorena Kelly, missionary to the Congo, who is home on furlough, will be the guest speaker in Fair View Methodist Church, Mount Mourne, during the 11 o'clock service Sunday, November 3.

Miss Kelly is a native of Mount Mourne and a former member of Fair View church.

The public is invited to this service, especially those interested in the mission work of the Methodist church.

ORGANIZED AT CENTRE IN 1788

Synod's Anniversary To Be Observed

By EVERETTE JONES

The 175th anniversary of the organization of the Synod of the Carolinas will be observed at Centre Presbyterian Church in the Mount Mourne community next Tuesday.

This celebration is being held at the historic south Iredell church since it was at this church that the church-governing body was organized on November 5, 1788.

Program plans for the all-day event have been completed, according to Dr. Frontis W. Johnston of Davidson, Dr. Johnston, professor of history at Davidson College, is chairman of the anniversary celebration committee.

Keynote speakers will be Dr. Daniel W. Hollis of Columbia, South Carolina, and the Rev. William H. McCorkle of Bristol, Tennessee.

Dr. Hollis, who will speak during the morning program, is professor of history at the University of South Carolina at Columbia, South Carolina. He will discuss the topic "Development Of The Presbyterian Church In The Carolinas."

The Rev. Mr. McCorkle, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Bristol, Tennessee, and moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S., will speak in the afternoon. He will use as his topic: "Church Is Mission."

In addition to these two addresses and a picnic-style dinner, which will be served by the host church, another feature of the day's program will be the presentation of a memorial plaque to the Rev. J. Kenton Parker. Mr. Parker served as pastor of the Centre Presbyterian Church from 1927 until his retirement from the ministry in 1959.

The Rev. Price H. Gwynn, Jr. of Laurinburg, moderator of the Synod of North Carolina, will preside during the morning service.

The invocation will be given by the Rev. Fred Hopkins of York, South Carolina, executive secretary and stated clerk of Bethel Presbyterian Church.

The scripture will be read by Charles T. Boyd of Greensboro, moderator of Orange Presbytery, and the address of welcome will be given by William R. (Bill) Pope, a ruling elder in the Centre Presbyterian Church.

Special guests will be recognized by Dr. Frontis W. Johnston, of Davidson, chairman of the anniversary celebration committee.

The speaker, Dr. Hollis, will be introduced by the Rev. Arthur M. Martin of Columbia, South Carolina, executive secretary of the Synod of South Carolina.

A history of Centre Presbyterian Church will be presented by the church's pastor, the Rev. Marcus B. Prince, III.

The benediction of the morning will be given by the Rev. I. M. Ellis of Knoxville, Tennessee, moderator of the Synod of Appalachia.

Presiding at the afternoon service will be Dr. Marshall W. Brown of Clinton, South Carolina, moderator of the Synod of South Carolina.

The invocation will be given by the Rev. Robert Bankhead of Laurens, South Carolina, moderator of the Presbytery of South Carolina, and the scripture will be read by the Rev. James Somerville of Wise, Virginia, moderator of Abington Presbytery.

The afternoon speaker, the Rev. Mr. McCorkle, will be presented by Dr. Harold J. Dudley, of Raleigh, general secretary and stated clerk of the Synod of North Carolina.

The afternoon benediction will be given by the host church's pastor, the Rev. Marcus B. Prince, III. Special music for the occasion will be presented by the Queens College Chorus of Charlotte and the Davidson College Male Chorus.

The one-day celebration is being sponsored by the Synods of Appalachia, North Carolina, and South Carolina.

Fraternel delegates from various presbyteries and synods have been invited, and some 500 persons are expected to be in attendance.

When the Synod of the Carolinas was organized, there were but three presbyteries embracing most all of the territory south of Virginia and westward without limit. At that time, Presbyterian churches were found in what are now the Synods of North Carolina, South Carolina, and Appalachia, the latter a territory composed of the western portions of Virginia and North Carolina and the eastern portions of Kentucky and Tennessee.

Communion Table From Another Age

Standing in the pulpit at Centre Presbyterian Church, the pastor, the Rev. Marcus B. Prince, III, reads from the Bible which was presented to the 188-year-old church in 1849. Of interest, too, is the pulpit's plush-covered sofa, the marble-topped communion table and cane-backed side chairs, which have been in use since the early days of the church.

Plaque Honors Revolutionary War Soldiers

Just inside the Centre Presbyterian Church, in the vestibule, is a marble plaque, honoring the men from the church who went out to fight for their country under Gen. George Washington during the Revolutionary War. Many of the men whose names appear on the plaque have kin residing in the area today.

Historic Centre Church Stands Amidst Stately Oaks

Centre Presbyterian Church, located in the Mount Mourne community, stands amidst stately oaks and cedars. It was at this church that the Synod of the Carolinas was organized on November 5, 1788—the 175th anniversary of which is being celebrated at the historic church next Tuesday.

At Age 198, Centre Is Growing Church

Two hundred years, minus two—that's the age of Centre Presbyterian Church.

One of the oldest churches in this section of the United States, having been organized a number of years before General George Washington and his troops stood the terrible winter at Valley Forge and accepted the surrender of the British at Yorktown, the historic church is located three miles southwest of Mooresville, a stone's throw east of U. S. By-Pass 21.

Iredell county can truly be proud that it is the home county of Centre Presbyterian Church, a church that long has been an active force in the molding of the lives of citizens of the community, county, and state—a church that is known far and wide.

Centre Presbyterian Church was organized in 1785, a year after the Revs. McWhorter and Spencer had been sent to this section of the country, from the north, to do organizational and other church work.

The site selected for the first church building was about two miles north of present-day Davidson, and here a church building was erected. Nine years later, in 1774, this church building was destroyed by fire and it was at this time that the officers and members of the congregation decided to move to the location now in use.

This second church building was of log construction, this being the material used most often for building at that time. In 1854 this log building was demolished and the building now in use took its place.

Centre Presbyterian Church had no ordained minister during the first 12 years of its life, being served by missionaries. The Rev. Thomas McCaulle, of Pennsylvania, was the first minister to accept a call to the local area church and he served eight years.

Among the ministers serving Centre Presbyterian Church from 1785 to 1858 were: the Rev. James McCaulle, Dr. R. H. Chapman, the Rev. Thomas Espy, the Rev. Walter Pharr, the Rev. John M. Ervin, the Rev. John LeRoy Davies, and the Rev. Stephen Frontis.

The Rev. William Walter Pharr began his 50 years of service at the church in 1858 and served until 1908.

The church has had only five ministers since the resignation of Mr. Pharr—the Rev. R. W. Culbertson, the Rev. W. E. West, the Rev. J. Kenton Parker, the Rev. W. Jack Sadler, and the Rev. Marcus B. Prince, III.

Centre Presbyterian Church, built of brick along simple lines, with its large windows, reaching almost from the floor to the ceiling, is quite picturesque. It stands in a clear clearing, with large trees spreading their branches over it.

Just inside the church, in the vestibule, is a marble marker, bearing the names of the Revolutionary War soldiers who enlisted from the Centre Presbyterian Church congregation, 1775 to 1781.

Listed are the following:

James Houston, captain; William Davidson, lieutenant; David Evans, lieutenant; David Byers, Robert Byers, Nathaniel Ewing, Alexander Work, William Creswell, William Erwin, John Hovis, John Thompson.

Also, John Beard, John Poston, Robert Poston, Paul Cunningham, John Cunningham, John McConnell, Moses White, Angus McCaulle, Robert Brevard, Adam Torrence, Sr., Adam Torrence, Jr., Charles Quickly.

And, James Gulic, Benjamin Brevard, Thomas Templeton, John Caldwell, Joseph McCawn, James Young, Philip Logan, William Kint, Daniel Bryson, John Singleton, and James Gray.

Much of the furniture in use today was placed there when the present building was erected in 1854. The pews are the same, as well as the pulpit's plush-covered sofa and the marble-topped communion table and two cane-backed side chairs.

The offering is collected in collection bags instead of plates, and the original kerosene lamps, now converted to electricity, add to the charm of the church.

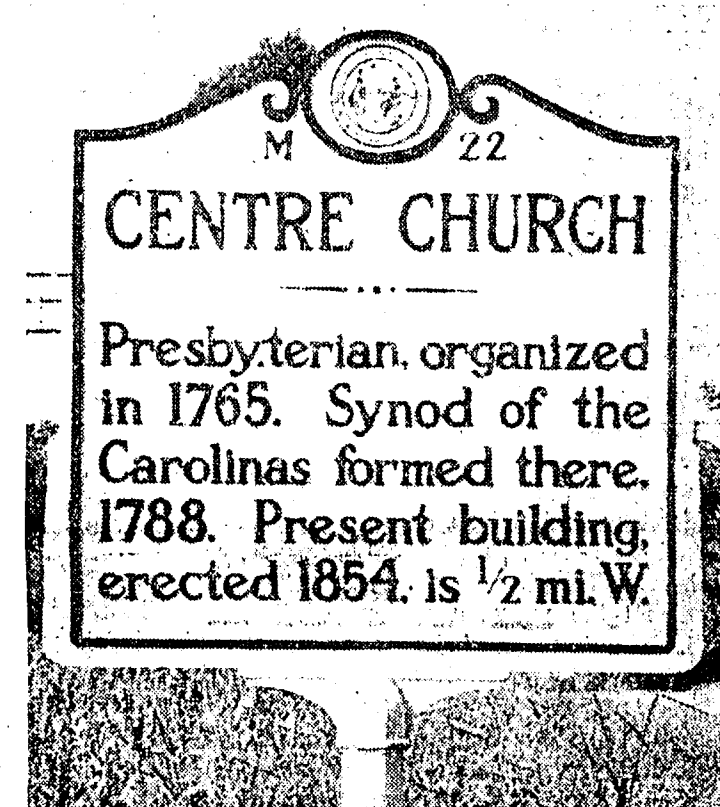

There is a balcony, built not so much to accommodate overflow crowds, but for the slaves who attended worship services there in former days.

The 150th anniversary of the organization of the Synod of the Carolinas was celebrated at Centre Presbyterian Church on Saturday, November 5, 1938, the Synod of the Carolinas having been organized there on November 5, 1788.

The first regular meeting of Concord Presbytery, to which all Presbyterian churches of this area belong, was organized at Centre on March 29, 1796.

In addition to the aged sanctuary, two other buildings have been erected in recent years—an educational building in 1946 and the Williams Fellowship Building in 1956.

Officers now serving the historic church include:

Historical Highway Marker

Three miles south of Mooresville, on N. C. Highway 115, stands this historical marker, calling attention to Centre Presbyterian Church, which stands nearby. The church, one of the oldest in this area, was organized in 1785.

Age-Old Collection Bag

Age-old collection bags instead of plates are used to receive the offering at Centre Presbyterian Church. In this picture, the pastor, the Rev. Marcus B. Prince, III, holds one of the collection bags. In the background, is a marble plaque calling attention to the fact that the Synod of the Carolinas was organized at the church in 1788.

Is There Room In Your Hectic Week For Boys?

Mooresville, like hundreds of hamlets, towns and cities across the nation, is in the midst of its annual Boy Scout recruitment drive. A national Boy Scout recruitment drive has been last week, working with Fredell District leaders to improve services scouting offers to boys in rural areas.

The membership campaign is more than an effort to increase the number of youngsters in scouting. While scout units welcome new troops now and at any time, the effort to the autumn program is a desire to serve boys better.

The nation's 135,389 Cub packs, Scout troops and Explorer posts are busily engaged this fall in what they are calling Adventure Roundup. They are opening their meeting places and all their facilities to welcome thousands of additional boys.

Boy Scouts of America needs no introduction. Formed in 1910 and granted a federal charter by Congress in 1916, the movement has affected the lives of some 36 million Americans. There is scarcely an American family that hasn't been touched for the better by the ideals of scouting. Former scouts today occupy high positions of trust in every phase of this nation's affairs.

At least two new scout units are being organized in Mooresville. First Baptist Church is in a training program preparatory to sponsoring a Cub Pack. The scout troop at Broad Street Methodist Church is being rejuvenated. It is our hope that every Mooresville area boy who wants to take part in an organized program of scouting

Political Ammunition From A Cesspool

That we try and concentrate our editorial efforts on things in this community, this county, this state does not mean we are unaware of the impact of what happens in a complex world that grows smaller and more tense with each advance in man's drive to do all and know all.

Few conditions in our history have developed into a dilemma such as the position of the United States in South Vietnam. To the American people, it appears that, in that faraway land, we're damned if we do, damned if we don't. The cesspool in Saigon has become the showplace of our policy toward all the marginal nations of the world. The airing of our policy to this point has not worked to our advantage, exactly. Everybody has looked for answers in Vietnam; everybody has suggestions, but not solutions. Everybody with even a remote role in the whole unpleasant business has been blamed for it, in whole or in part—even the journalists.

These happenings on the other side of the world surely will become a campaign issue next year, in spite of all the Kennedy Administration can do to avoid it. Because by nature we "select the facts" to suit our purposes, we feel we are justified in reproducing here, in a country weekly, a recent editorial in The Christian Science Monitor. In our opinion, it slices straight to the heart of the matter. It can help us prepare ourselves for the partisan charges and counter-charges sure to come.

What are the lessons of South Vietnam?

The United States now has a new policy toward the Ngo family regime—one of reserve, detachment and criticism. It no longer gives all-out support to President Diem. The changeover was painful and touched off a domestic political controversy back in the United States.

There is a moment of pause, now, while the new situation is being explored in Saigon by everyone concerned. It is worth a moment of reflection to ask: why did the United States get into this mess and what lessons can be learned from it?

The first is fundamental. The United States cannot for long afford to arm and finance regimes which use that American money and arms to oppress their own people. The maneuver will be self-defeating. Sooner or later the people of that country will turn anti-American and perhaps pro-Communist. The United States cannot present itself to the world as the champion of liberty and then actively assist tyranny.

Second, the kind of warfare—part cold

DEAR MR. PUBLISHER:

I hope you can come out to our little Church next Sunday. We've got something new I want you to see. For the last couple years every time the deacons met they talked about one thing—money. I know the Good Book says you can't serve God and money, but you shore gotta have a little cash if you gonna serve God. About the only thing you can give the Lord that don't cost nothing is talk, and I'd expect He's got more of that than He can use already.

I know something else too, Mr. Publisher. The Good Book says that there's two kinds of food—physical and spiritual, and it says you have to have both to keep going. Well sir, you can get folks to spend their money on bread easy enough—a fella ain't gonna let his belly down. But, you try getting folks to spend some of their greenbacks on spiritual food and you gotta almost try to lose from 'em with a crowbar. I always heard that you can't take your money with you when you die. I ain't too sure a that. I've got several members that I believe are gonna make it. (If the stuff will just hold up after they get there.)

Well, the good deacons knew if something didn't happen we was headed for bankruptcy, so they figured it was time to stop talking and go to doing something. Ole Hesheliah come up with a idea that's bound to revolutionize the Church business. He suggested that we put in parking meters.

Right at first the deacons were lukewarm on the proposition. They allowed that just getting ten cents a car wouldn't bring in too much money. (We'd charge regular price, five cents a hour, and with Sunday School and preaching that would be 2 hours.) We've got about 75 cars coming each Sunday, but that wouldn't be but $750 a Sunday.

I'm looking like cold water was gonna be thrown on the whole thing when Hesheliah begged us to listen to the rest of his plan. He said the parking meters wouldn't take but a nickel at the time, so folks would have to put another nickel in after Sunday School. Course some folks would forget so we would give 'em a ticket. That would cost 'em a dollar. Hesheliah pointed out that that didn't get a ticket after Sunday School would get one after Church cause the preacher would preach overtime. That way everybody would have to pay a dollar fine. Mr. Publisher, that comes to $82.50 a week, and that ain't half a motion was made and passed that the parking meters be put in right away.

Also made a motion that all sermons be long enough to run over time. The pastor too, I bet that's the first time in history of the Church where a preacher was made to be long-winded. Now that they've made me, I won't get no kick out of it.

Well, come on over and see us Sunday, and don't forget to bring a little money with you. The only problem with this whole thing is that the Good Book says, "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver."

It shore would be something if we went to all this trouble to get money and the Lord wouldn't have it. So long.

Yours Truly,

Parson Jones

49 YEARS AGO

IN OTHER YEARS

Feeling the need of something to stimulate the interest of the High School pupils, and desiring to create a greater spirit of loyalty to the school, Prof. W. C. Arian, with the assistance of the High School teachers has organized a Literary Society among the High School pupils decided to name the society the "Alpha Literary Society," with the motto "Labor Omnia Vincit." Labor conquers everything." The colors of the society are gold and black.

Following officers were elected: Miss Mary Lowrance, President; Sam Neel, vice president; Samuel Stevenson, secretary and treasurer; Tom McKnight, critic. Meetings will be held every Friday afternoon. A great deal of interest and enthusiasm is being manifested by the students. The work done will consist of debate, recitation, and essays.

The Main street of the town was in a terrible fix last Sunday and Monday, following the copious rains of that period. Many were the automobiles that were stuck in the mud during Saturday night and Sunday and on Monday traffic on the thoroughfare was practically cut off. However, the street force has been very diligent this week and within a few days the street will have a sand-layer dressing and in first-class shape once again. It is to be hoped that favorable weather will hold out until the streets are finished.

The thirst for strong drink on the part of several members of Mooresville beguiled a man of maturity into the ordering of a quantity of liquor, which was divided out among them last Friday night. Chief Brown was on to the game however, and confiscated the booze after the young men had hid it away. The man who ordered the whiskey and carried it to his home has departed, for the time being, until matters can be straightened out. This is a very unfortunate affair from every viewpoint.

Mr. J. B. Cornelius, a well-known manufacturer and business man of Cornelius, but residing in Davidson, died at his home last Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Monday he was at his place of business in Davidson, but had been confined to his home for some time. He appears to have been the cause of his death. He was in his eighty-second year, having been born in 1833, in Fredell County, where all of his life was spent till some 19 years ago when he was nearer his business interests he moved to Davidson. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Anne Sherrill, prior to her marriage in 1859. Three sisters survive: Mrs. Nancy Bravley of this place, Miss Alice Arrey of Elmwood and Mrs. W. L. Turner of Iowa. Four brothers of the deceased died years ago, two in the Civil War.

A meeting of members of Fredell and Alexander counties, comprising the district, will be held at Statesville on Friday, November 10. The Statesville lodge has issued invitations to all the 350 or more Masons in the two counties to be present on the occasion and the local lodge of Mooresville will send a delegation.

Mr. T. F. Walls was taken to the hospital at Statesville last Friday, where he is being treated for an injury to one of his legs. He was working with a rock hammer one day last week and a glancing blow, the hammer struck his shinbone, inflicting quite a severe if not serious injury.

The Mooresville Co-operative Creamery is making every preparation for starting up and the officers want a name for the pure, good butter they are to make. The Enterprise is authorized to ask the good members of the community or anywhere to select a name for it, and to award $1.00 to the one furnishing the name selected by the creamery company. This proposition will hold good for ten days, all contestants to have the answers in the Enterprise office before 10 o'clock on Saturday, November 14.

The White Drug Company at Davidson has opened up in its new and handsomely finished building, equipped with the latest labor-saving and sanitary devices. The inside woodwork is a beauty, being finished in sweet-gum. Mr. Clem Lowrance, who has been at his home here to Davidson, having accepted a position with the new firm, Mr. J. A. White of this place is one of the principal stockholders.

Several changes in real estate have taken place within the past week, through the agency of W. G. Conrad. Mrs. L. O. McLeure has purchased the house and lot of Mrs. C. C. Miller on Broad street; A. B. Parker has purchased the G. G. Truett farm; and J. B. Robbins has purchased several building lots from J. W. Arthur on Eastern Heights.

AA Unit Planned Here

An Opportunity To Help And Be Helped

Alcoholics Anonymous is as close as you can come to not having an organization, and still have one. There are no AA dues, no officers, no emblems, no slogans and, in many cases, not even membership rolls.

Yet, since AA was "organized"—you can get away from the word—in 1935, it has helped an estimated 300,000 persons to successfully fight their drinking problem. Alcoholics Anonymous got started when two drunks got together in Akron, Ohio and made up their minds they weren't going to be drunks any longer. They asked the help of a physician, who counseled them and others brought to him.

This is the way AA describes itself: "Alcoholics Anonymous is a fellowship of men and women who share their experience, strength and hope with each other that they may solve their common problem and help others to recover from alcoholism."

"The only requirement for membership is a desire to stop drinking. There are no dues or fees for AA membership; we are self-supporting through our own contributions. AA is not allied with any sect, denomination, politics, organization or institution; does not wish to engage in any controversy; neither endorses nor opposes any causes. Our primary purpose is to stay sober and help other alcoholics to achieve sobriety."

There you have it. Alcoholics Anonymous lists 12 steps to recovery. The first of these is for an alcoholic to face the fact he is an alcoholic—to admit he is powerless against alcohol that has made his life unmanageable. The 12th step is to help others take the first step.

T. C. Homesley is an energetic young lawyer and solicitor of Mooresville's Recorder's Court. In his positions as private attorney and as public prosecutor, Homesley has seen the mess liquor can make of lives. He has become convinced that unregarded alcoholism is at the root of a great deal of the crime and domestic problems he deals with in his court and in his practice.

Homesley has worked for some time to build enough interest to form an AA chapter here. Now, with the backing and encouragement of the Mooresville Ministerial Association, such an organization is nearing reality. Homesley said this week he will call an organizational meeting early in November for the purpose of determining once and for all if there is enough interest to warrant his work on the project.

In this connection, it is interesting to note that a two-year study on the value of counseling as a means of rehabilitating alcoholics will get underway soon in Charlotte.

If you would like to help or be helped through Alcoholics Anonymous, this is your hour of decision.

Let's All Make Plans To Back Junior High

By PHILIP PARKER

Saturday night Junior High will play its final game of the season at Landis. This group of boys for the past two years have really been suffering to win a game or two. Thus far during the 1963 season, they have lost all four games. In their final game of the year we think it would be a splendid idea for the many football fans who turn out for the varsity game to show up at Landis Saturday night.

Martin Takes Top Money In Grid Contest

Parks Martin of Mooresville, route 1, with 10 correct guesses out of a possible 11, took first place in the weekly football contest being sponsored by Mooresville merchants and the Mooresville Tribune. As first-place winner, Martin will receive a cash award of $7.

Second-place award of $4 was won by Mrs. A. W. Matheny of 324 Patterson who had nine correct guesses out of a possible 11. Kenny Brotherton was third-place winner and will receive a cash prize of $3. He had eight correct guesses out of a possible 11. The total score of the Mooresville-Trouman game was 66, and Brotherton guessed the total score 46.

In addition to Brotherton, 14 other persons had eight correct guesses out of a possible 11, but were further off on the total score of the Mooresville-Trouman game than Brotherton. These 14 were: L. A. Murdock of 141 Elm street; Webb Hager of Davidson, route 1; Odie D. Washam of 813 Spruce street; Shelby Jean Hager of Mooresville, route 4; Larry Reid Hager of Mooresville, route 4; Mrs. Alice Lowrance of 217 East Catawba avenue. Also Carol B. Donaldson of 121 Manor Circle; Terry White of 708 East Fredell avenue; A. W. Matheny of 347 Patterson avenue; Mrs. Bill Young of 339 Patterson avenue; Mrs. W. L. Moore of 250 Institute street; Jimmy Moore of 219 Bruce street; John L. Popvick of 2558 Lumina avenue, Charlotte; and Tommy Cogins of Mooresville, route 4.

Concord did not play Monroe, therefore, that game was thrown out and was not counted in the contest. Paul Dingler of 814 South Main street guessed the exact score of the UNC (7) and USC (0) game and will receive a box of Rumsen candy from the Medical Center Pharmacy and Goodman Drug Company.

Our predicting trail is still above the 200 mark even though we missed two of the six games played last Friday night. Our record for the year stands at 31 correct guesses in 41 attempts for a fine mark of .754.

We missed on Davis County, 29-0 loss to Southwest and our other miss was the 36-2 shelling of Children's Home by Griffith. Our right choices were North Rowan over East Rowan 20-14, Monroe over Albemarle 46-0, Statesville beat West Rowan 33-13 and (that close one!) Mooresville 44, Trouman 12.

Going into the ninth week of the campaign three league and two non-conference hills are set for the North Piedmont teams. Non-conference affairs have Monroe at Charlotte Catholic and the locals at Kannapolis.

Conference games have North Rowan at Children's Home, Davis County at East Rowan and West Rowan at Trouman.

This will be hard, but here we go. We like North Rowan over Children's Home 19-7, East Rowan to stop Davis County 13-0, Trouman to celebrate homecoming with a 18-12 decision over West Rowan.

Monroe will make it nine in a row with a 27-0 romp over Charlotte Catholic and, in an even ball game, we take the Blue Devil over Kannapolis 2-0.

Don't forget the Junior High game Saturday night. Be there.

SPORTS

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1963 —THE MOORESVILLE (N.C.) TRIBUNE—3

REAL DECEIVING—It appears halfback Mike Robinson is about to have the boom lowered on him. However, Robinson is just before scoring a touchdown after taking a pass from quarterback Tommy Deal and racing through the Trouman defense for six points. Robinson scored two times and set up two more with pass interceptions in the 54-12 victory over the Bobcats. Gary Karriker (61) has just thrown a block while Trouman's George Edwards (73), Gayle Murdock (83) and D. C. Viers (61) give chase to Robinson.

BY 54-12 SCORE

Blue Devils Stampede Over Troutman

Halfback David Oliphant took the opening kick-off, raced back to the Mooresville 49-yard line. On the first play from scrimmage he broke across tackle, racing 51 yards for the first of eight Blue Devil touchdowns. Mooreville celebrated homecoming with a 54-12 decision over the charges of Coach Bill Mayhew from Trouman.

Late in the contest, fullback Mike Plyler, on the same off-tackle play, covered 41 yards for the final score of the game. Between these two scores, both Troutman and Mooreville fans were treated to a most delightful evening of gridiron entertainment. Trouman, behind the composed passing of quarterback Bobby Bracken and the receiving of fullback Stanley McConeill, played a valiant game, but the Blue Devils' defense was too strong. In all, Brackett attempted 50 passes and connected on 29 occasions to keep the Blue Devil defenders in duress all evening.

Following the first three minutes of the first period the outcome was all decided in Mooreville's favor, but the thrills of the game continued to descend on the large gathering of South Piedmont football faithful. Following the first Mooreville score by Oliphant, Trouman put the ball in play on its 27-yard stripe. On the first play a completed pass from Brackett to Murdock resulted in a fumble recovered by Mooreville on the visitors' 27-yard line. Halfback Mike Robinson negotiated the remaining distance in two plays for the second score. Between Robinson's two runs, fullback Mike Chester netted six yards to the Trouman four, where Robinson crossed over for the score. Gary Karriker made his second PAT and with only two and a half minutes gone in the game Mooreville was out front 14-0.

Checking his longrange arm, Brackett engineered the Bobcats to their first score after kick-off. Ronnie Joyner, running from his fullback post, along with halfback Steve Byrum, accounted for the 'Cat ground attack while passes from Brackett to Joyner, Murdock moved the ball to the Devils' eight-yard marker. Here a penalty moved it to the five and then Brackett bulleted a strike to Murdock for the score.

Midway the third period, the lo- cals added another score when Deal intercepted a Brackett pass on the Moors 42-yard line. On the first play Robinson scampered around end and raced for the touchdown. Karriker booted, 42-12. Mooreville's next score was set up when Chick Pless recovered a fumbled kick on the Trouman 27-yard line. With Pless directing the attack the distance was covered in three plays with fullback Stanley McConeill hanging across from five yards out. Big gainer of the drive was a 22-yard rampage up the middle by Mike Plyler. McConeill's try for the EP was no good, the score 48-12.

With the second and third units, commanding the game, the locals, behind the running of halfback Jerry Coats, Plyler, McConeill and Bulley, used three plays to cover 48 yards. Plyler's 41-yard off-tackle scamper accounted for the touchdown.

Although the game was a runaway the contest allowed coaches of both teams to utilize the abilities of their entire bench as every player on both teams saw action with the exception of David and Puddy Johnson in the linebacking job. End Thompson returns to the line-up following a rest period in the Trouman contest due to a head injury.

Other boys on the Devil squad who will see action are Jim Bailey, Mike Plyler, Stanley McConeill and Jerry Coats. Kick-off time is set for 8 p.m. in the Kannapolis stadium.

IN WONDER STADIUM

Kannapolis Rated Serious Threat By Blue Devil Coaching Staff

Officially, the representative of the North Piedmont in the first round of the association playoffs is already determined. Unbeaten Monroe gets that honor, but as far as Mooresville fans are concerned their only thoughts are of the Mooresville-Kannapolis game to-morrow night.

The Blue Devils are having a fine season, going into their ninth game of the year with a 6-2 mark. Their objective in Kannapolis Friday night will be to move the record to 7-2. This could well be a major job.

Statistics-wise, the game will be rated a toss-up due to the record of the two clubs. Kannapolis is 5-3 for the year. Last week the Wonders were lambasted by Asheboro 53-0. The Wonders have scored wins over Statesville, North Rowan, Salisbury and South Rowan, while losing to East Mecklenburg, Thomasville and Asheboro.

Kannapolis Coach Ed Edmiston stated from the start of the year that his club was in the rebuilding stage. Despite their record in the conference his boys have shown steady improvement.

Coach Roy Boyles of the Blue Devils has spent the greater part of the practice periods during the past week getting his squad in the right frame of mind for the battle against the Wonders.

In the 54-12 conquest of Trouman last week the coach was well pleased with the showing of his entire team. Every boy on the Blue Devil roster got a chance to participate in the game and to gain valuable experience.

In the game tomorrow night, halfbacks David Oliphant and Mike Robinson and fullback Mike Chester will do the main part of the running chores, with Tommy Deal directing the attack at quarterback.

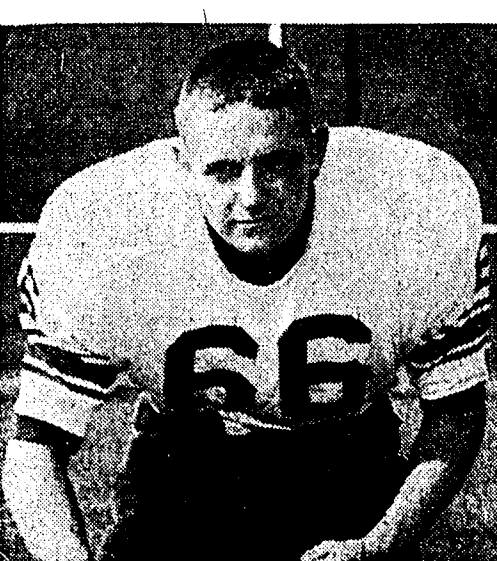

Deal through the season has proved to be one of the top backs in the conference, both with his running and passing abilities. Last week, Deal's passing arm could not have been carried in a sling, what with the breakaway sprints of Robinson and Oliphant. Mooreville's forward wall will be anchored by ball snapper Derrick Hinson while Gary Karriker and Bobby Pope will get the nod at guards. Tackles are Ray Brannon and Billy Watson, with Roy Thompson and Larry Dyson at the end positions.

On defense the locals will send Chick Pless in the backfield and Puddy Johnson in at the linebacking post. End Thompson returns to the line-up following a rest period in the Trouman contest due to a head injury.

Other boys on the Devil squad who will see action are Jim Bailey, Mike Plyler, Stanley McConeill and Jerry Coats. Kick-off time is set for 8 p.m. in the Kannapolis stadium.

HALFBACK WITH A MISSION—Halfback David Oliphant continues as the finest ball carrier in the Blue Devil backfield. Oliphant had a fine night against Trouman, getting off scoring jaunts of 59 and 71 yards as the Devils notched their sixth win of the year in downing the Bobcats 54-12. The locals travel to Kannapolis Friday night.

THOUGHT FOR THIS WEEK...

"Let's keep moving forward," advised a president to his company. This is good advice, for life is like a bicycle — it falls over when it stops moving. But, a life that moves only in a forward direction will soon fizzle into frustration. We need to move upward. This is the spiritual dimension of life that is often overlooked.

A great poet was once asked where he got his inspiration. "In my garden," he replied. "Upon request the inquirer was shown the poet's garden. To his surprise it was a plain little piece of land 10 x 20 feet. 'I know it isn't very wide,' said the poet, 'but look how high it is.' The Psalmist put it this way: 'Unto thee, O Lord, I lift up my soul.' (Psalm 88:4)

FIFTEEN CHURCHES TO PARTICIPATE

Area Methodist Training School Begins Sunday

With 15 churches participating, the annual Mooreville Area Methodist Training School is scheduled to be held at Mooreville's Central Methodist Church next week, beginning on Sunday, November 3.

Classes will continue each evening at 7:30 o'clock through Thursday, November 7.

"With an outstanding faculty and excellent courses, the school seeks to help every area of the church membership," according to the Rev. Robert J. Goldston, pastor of the Broad Street Methodist Church in Mooreville. Mr. Goldston is serving as the school's public relations chairman.

Members of the faculty are: Dr. Kenneth Taylor, Dr. Robert P. Parker, Dr. R. Herman Nicholson, the Rev. Courtney B. Ross, Dr. Thomas Langford, and the Rev. G. G. Adams, Jr.

Although everyone interested is invited to attend the classes, the 15 participating churches are: Broad Street, Centenary, Central, Davidson, Fair View, Jones Memorial, McKendree, Mount Pleasant, Rehoboth, Rocky Mount, Shiloh, Triplet, Vanderburg, Wesley's Chapel, and Williamson's Chapel.

A native of Miami, Florida, Dr. Kenneth Taylor received his education at Florida Southern College and Duke University. "Understanding the Bible," the course to be taught by Dr. Taylor, is a background course in Bible for workers with children, parents, ministers, and others responsible for the Christian nurture of children ages 1-12. This course is designed to prepare teachers for a better use of the new literature Christian Studies for Methodist Children, available beginning September 1, 1964.

Married to the former Frances Joyce Brantley of Mooreville, Dr. Robert P. Parker will teach the course, "Use Of The Bible In Teaching Youth" which is designed especially for workers with Junior Highs and Senior Highs. Rev. R. Herman Nicholson is now district superintendent of the Thomasville District. Dr. Nicholson attended Mitchell College, Lenoir Rhyne and Duke University and has served churches in Mooreville, Shelby, Charlotte and Wayneville. The course, to be taught by Dr. Nicholson, "Life and Mission Of The Church," is for young people ages 15-21. It deals with the present day church and the relevance of its ministry to the membership of the church and the church school and the mission of the church in the larger community and among the nations of the world.

Rev. Courtney Ross is the minister of the First Methodist Church of Elkin, and has served as instructor in Methodist leadership training schools throughout the Southeast. Mr. Ross will teach a course for adult teachers entitled "The Use Of The Bible With Adults." This class will make a survey of the great truths of the Bible and suggested procedure for teaching them in adult groups. Officers and teachers and members of adult classes are invited to enroll for this course.

Author of "Philosophy Of Religion," published by Macmillan, Dr. Thomas Langford was born in Winston-Salem and was educated at Davidson College and Duke University. The course which Dr. Langford will teach will deal with the present day church and the relevance of its ministry to the membership of the church and the church school and the mission of the church in the larger community and among the nations of the world.

District 3 PTA Holds Session In Conover

PTA delegates to the annual District Conference at Conover Thursday elected Mrs. L. W. Schreck of Charlotte as District 3 director.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Charles R. Pearce, Gastonia, vice director and Mrs. John Fitzgerald, Lincolnton, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Charles Vernon, deputy director of Community Mental Health Services, State Department of Mental Health, Raleigh, delivered the keynote address, illustrating the extent of the mental health problems changing daily. While clarifying mental health, mental illness, mental retardation, and related problems, he urged the delegates to promote community study groups and action programs.

Thornton School PTA in Newton was host for the meeting. The group accepted the invitation from Mecklenburg Council of Parents and Teachers to meet in Charlotte in 1964.

Counties comprising District 3 of the North Carolina Conference of Parents and Teachers are: Alexander, Alleghany, Catawba, Gaston, Iredell, Lincoln, Mecklenburg, Surry, Wilkes and Yadkin.

Shoe Certified As Sales Management Course I Graduate

Arthur H. Shoe, sales manager of Mooreville Motor Company, Mooreville, has been certified as a Sales Management I Course graduate at Ford Motor Company's Atlanta Marketing Institute.

Certification of course completion was announced by L. C. Brock, director of the Ford Institute.

The course is one of several available at the Institute for dealers, their personnel and Ford Motor Company employees. Classes are conducted by a staff of professional, full-time instructors. Subjects range from management and merchandising courses for dealers and their department managers to salesmanship and specialized workshops for staff members. In addition, the school of automotive business administration conducts training programs for selected management methods currently being used by outstanding automobile dealerships. Brock said. Group participation in simulated selling or management situations is a primary part of each course.

The Atlanta Marketing Institute annually enrolls more than 2,500 sales specialists of Ford Motor Company products from a ten-state area.

He told me that — of all things — it was because he hated this business of passing the plate for money. He said he saw enough money at the bank all week without seeing it worshipped on Sunday too.

I admit this shocked me. That's why I told him, frankly, that I thought he'd completely missed the point. I told him our minister once said that it gives him a good feeling when he receives the collection, not because this is money but because the people are giving the fruit of their own efforts to God. In the old days, it might have been a sheep, or the choicest fruits and vegetables from the harvest. Today, it's dollars and cents. But the motive is still the same, and it's a good motive.

I saw Jim at the morning service a couple of weeks ago, and something tells me that it won't be long before he'll be getting the point ... not missing it!

Letters to the Editor...

Dear Sir:

When the bell rang for the editor to come out swinging, he swung too high with the dollar marks in last week's editorial "People Are Any Town's Best Natural Resource." In fact, he hyper-inflated the cost of hospitalization at Lowrance Hospital by misquoting to our new neighbor from California, five dollars per day too much for the highest priced private room available. And there are only six of these rooms where as the majority of the private rooms are only twelve dollars per day. We are dated, however, that visitors and newcomers recognize our hospital facilities.

We would also appreciate the editor informing our new neighbor from California, that the average cost per patient per day for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1963, was $12.00. This represents only a five-cent per hour increase over last year. Average cost throughout the state are much higher. The cost covers not only room and general service but all fourteen supporting departments. 24 hours a day, every day. Plus a three-year diploma school of nursing and a two-year course for X-ray technicians. Through the continued co-operation and support of our medical staff, emergency service is always available when needed.

Mister editor, we would also like to further bring you and the Mooreville area residents up to date on some interesting information and statistics. First and foremost, Lowrance Hospital is accredited by the Joint Commission on accreditation of hospitals. This means that specified high standards are being constantly maintained by the hospital staff and that a continuing program is being carried out to provide the latest in equipment and supplies. By adhering to high standards, our school of nursing is also approved and accredited by the North Carolina Board of Nurses Registration and Nursing Education.

With money allocated by the County Board of Commissioners, renovation of the original wing is on schedule. By the summer of 1964, all of the patient areas will have been renovated as well as a general "face-lifting."

One of the hospital's busiest years ended September 30, 1963. For this year, 5,555 patients received 28,792 days of care. In performing this service, over 60,000 laboratory procedures were performed, 8,808 x-rays, 669 new citizens arrived, 2,247 operations were performed, 128,108 meals were served to patients and employees, and 2,228 persons received emergency treatment.

In order to finance these activities, 87 per cent of the revenue came from private paying patients, 10.5 per cent from county and government appropriations and 2.5 per cent from other income. To pay for all of these services, the dollar was primarily split three ways, 60 per cent for salaries and professional services, 30 per cent for supplies, and 10 per cent for other expense.

We are proud of our hospital. By sharing this information with citizens of the Mooreville area we trust that they have a better understanding of our day-to-day operation. We shall continue to make every effort to have available, equipment, supplies, and trained personnel to render the best in patient care and comfort. It is not enough to provide for the sick. There must exist the humane virtues of compassion and understanding to render effective medical care. This is our goal at Lowrance Hospital.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Paul Ellison, Administrator.

(Editor's note: Okay, so we had our coupepage coming, but we didn't go on all those figures sprinkled throughout this epistle. We pressured Paul, and he admitted he used our inflated version of his prices as a means to brag about hospital doing a good job. After all, he said, it's an annual report time. We grudgingly admit the error of our ways, and we are delighted to carry his "annual report" as well.)

Young Prospective Drivers Must Show Birth Certificate

Tar Heel youngsters got the word this week from the Motor Vehicle Department: birth certificates will be required for all 16-18 year old driver license applicants.

Commissioner Edward Schreidt said the new rule would become effective November 1.

Local examiner Newell M. McDevitt said the new regulation is in keeping with the provision of the General Assembly.

"For some time the department has recognized the need for birth certificates," McDevitt said, "in order to obtain a correct name and date of birth. In the past we have found it necessary sometimes to correct or cancel applications upon learning that incorrect information had been given."

An official birth certificate will eliminate such situations which are embarrassing and tend to create misunderstanding, the examiner said.

In Raleigh chief license examiner Ed Wade cited several cases of extreme eagerness among young men anxious to drive before their 18th birthday.

Wade said the youngsters would register prematurely with Selective Service, establish their age as 18, then make application to the Funeral Rites Conducted For Mrs. Lane

Mrs. Agnes White Lane, 72-year-old resident of 118 Dangler street, died in the Lowrance Hospital in Mooreville at 7:15 a. m. Monday. An invalid for a number of years, she had been hospitalized eight days.

Mrs. Lane was the widow of Dewey Boyd Lane, who died in March, 1958.

A native of Coffey county, Georgia, she was a daughter of the late George W. and Rosa Goodins White, and had lived in Mooreville since 1928.

The survivors include: one son, Adron Lane of Rockmart, Georgia; one daughter, Mrs. Joe Hagen of Mooreville; three brothers, Warren White of Montgomery, Ala., T. H. White of Saveria Park, Maryland, and Robert A. White of Dallas, Texas; and two sisters, Mrs. Nettie Bridges of Manchester, Georgia, and Mrs. Glenn Turner of Bolok, Mississippi. Seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild also survive.

Funeral services were conducted at 3 p. m. Tuesday at the South Side Baptist Church, with the pastor, the Rev. P. C. Gantt, in charge, and burial was in Glenwood Memorial Park cemetery.

Area Fire Dept. Plans Fish Fry

The Mount Ulla and Bear Poplar Volunteer Fire Department is sponsoring a Fish Fry on Saturday, November 2.

Servings will begin at 5 p. m. in the Mount Ulla School cafeteria. Plates, which sell for $1.25 and 75 cents, will be filled with fish, hush puppies, cold slaw, pickles, homemade pie or cake. Plenty of coffee will be included.
