tive. But politics opens a new door to these men."

Here at home, look back over the gubernatorial winners in recent years. Bill Umstead was well-heeled. Luther Hodges is a wealthy man. Terry Sanford is financially fixed far above the average constituent. The two announced candidates thus far for this office as Democrats are doing okey. Dan Moore has no financial pains, and Richardson Preyer is a mllionaire.

Most of the our North Carolina delegation in Washington is well up in the money. Senator Jordan is a rich man, Broyhill is from a very wealthy family.

And look what you've got coming up on the presidential front, Rockefeller, Goldwater, Kennedy, all multimillionaires.

Slowly but surely, we are getting government almost exclusively by what one of the above Congressmen called the "inheritors."

The days when an Andrew Jackson or Bob Doughton could make the grade to Washington is fast fading. I'm not certain it is all to the good.

On the other hand, if men of wealth will serve their country and not their private and selfish interests, good government is possible.

It was Marshall Field who once put the challenge to men of wealth. He said that each and every man ought to interest himself in public affairs. There is no happiness in mere dollars. After they are acquired, one can use but a very moderate amount. A man can eat so much, wear so much, and have so much shelter, and more he cannot use. When money has supplied these, its mission, so far as the individual is concerned, is fulfilled and man must look still further and higher. It is only in wide public affairs where money is a moving force toward the general welfare, that the possession of it can possibly find pleasure, and that is constantly doing more.

The greatest good a man can do is to cultivate himself, develop his powers, in order that he may be of greater service to humanity.

Also, it will mean a reduction in the station's fuel consumption of some 10 percent, it was stated.

When the station was built in 1950 it had seven units with a combined horsepower of 11,200. After these four units are turbo-charged, the station will have a horsepower of 22,400.

When the present improvement project is completed all compressor units will have push-button automatic starting panels, Burdette said.

Contracts for the project's foundation and structural steel work are expected to be awarded within the next week or 10 days. The mechanical work will be done by station personnel.

Completion date has been set for January 1, 1964.

The station here is one in a network of such units that move natural gas by pipe line to consumers from the gas fields in the Southwest to the densely populated East and Northeast.

Savior is the first requisite for him who is seeking the mind of Christ."

"In the last analysis the Christian who is seeking to incarnate the mind of Christ will always remember that he is dealing with people and not just things," the speaker declared.

"A Christian can ill afford material gain that despises the mind of Christ," he continued.

Pointing out that a person should be Christian in all relationships, the speaker declared that "domestic relations furnish a rich field for the incarnation of the mind of Christ in our time. If we do not have the mind of Christ in the home there is little hope that we shall have it, either in the church or the nation. Recent Supreme Court decisions emphasize what we already knew; namely, that the home and the church cannot escape responsibility in the supreme matter of forming a generation that will have the mind of Christ."

In discussing the political relations phase of his thought-provoking message, Dr. Calhoun stated that today's people are especially aware of the political world in which we live because it is geographically one world and because it is a world which has undergone changes which have shaken the foundation of the things to which we had grown accustomed.

"Let us have the mind of Christ as we take our part in the life of the local community," Dr. Calhoun said.

"It is an opportunity for Christian witness that may rapidly slip out of our hands," he continued.

In conclusion, Dr. Calhoun declared that "the most crucial problem which confronts the church and demands a solution governed by the mind of Christ is in the field of race relations."

He told his audience that "it is terribly urgent that you seek the mind of Christ while there is yet time, for there is danger that the church sleep through the revolution.

"If you would seek to witness to the cause of Christ around the world you must live like Christians where you are. We must seek to solve the problems of our day and of the generations to come in the spirit of Christ."

"This," the speaker stressed, "is the only way!"

meeting.

John Allred is serving as chairman of the speakers committee. Working with him to select the leader who will deliver the banquest's principal address are Robert Kerr and Marshall Crouch.

The business portion of the Thursday noon session at the Elks Restaurant was opened with the reading and approving of the board's last meeting. W. J. Haselden, executive secretary of the Chamber, called attention of the directors to the financial report that Haselden termed "healthy." The directors voted to use the Elks Restaurant as their regular monthly meeting place.

During a report on the status of Mooresville industry, Dr. Brawley pointed out that the town is in the "rather enviable position" of having less than two per cent of its available work force unemployed. The directors agreed such a high rate of employment is a sign of the area's good industrial climate.

"In another sense," Haselden said, "such a low rate of unemployment presents problems, although I would guess they are problems many towns would welcome. But as an example of those difficulties, we have the devil of a time explaining this two per cent to prospective industries."

The directors talked at length about the possibilities and feasibilities of preparing a brochure designed to promote Mooresville, not only as an alert industrial community, but as an all-around fine place to live and work.

that will be shown along the two blocks of the main business district.

Koury also announced the car dealers collectively will provide a good used car that will be given to some lucky person during the day-long program.

Koury said this week that he still is adding attractions to the celebration that already includes such crowd-pleasers as a parade, the appearance of television personality Pancho, drawings for gifts to be contributed by downtown merchants, music by several string bands and a display of cars that will compete in the Charlotte 400 stock car race later in October.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is handling the promotion as a club project, and the Jaycees will operate refreshment stands along the street. All proceeds go toward the United Fund goal. The festivities will begin at 9:30 a. m.

In addition to Jones and Koury, these leaders are serving as division chairmen; Roy Creamer, public employees; Mrs. Mac Gibson and Mrs. Ira Ussery, co-chairmen of residential; Joe Gilley, rural; Clyde Millsaps and Jimmy Brawley, commercial co-chairmen; and T. C. Homesley, professional.

The local United Fund is a financial bulwark for seven local charitable and community service organizations. While 13 other state and national agencies are aided by UF, the bulk of contributions remain in this area. The community recreation program gets $5,500, and this appropriation is a matter of life and death for local recreation. The Red Cross program here gets $5,000 from the 1964 budget, and local Boy Scouts get $5,071. Girl Scouts have been assigned $3,921 of the total; the Mooresville library gets $1,500. The Christian Mission will receive $500 and the Mooresville Rescue Squad $800.

MR. AND MRS. DONALD WAYNE TURMAN

Turman-Cochran Nuptials Spoken In Evening Ceremony

Miss Ramona Margaret Cochran and Donald Wayne Turman were married in an 8 o'clock ceremony recently at Marietta First Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Cochran of Marietta, Georgia, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Turman, of Mooresville.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the bride's father, Dr. C. B. Cochran, pastor of First Methodist; and Lt. Reg Russell, brother-in-law of the bride, of New York City.

Pink and white flowers were arranged before the chancel, which was lighted with pink tapers in branched floor standards entwined with ivy. Aisles were marked with the branched candelabra.

Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. C. T. Watkins, organist, and Lindell De Jarnett, of Decatur, who sang "Entreat Me Not To Leave Thee," "O Lord Most Holy," and "The Twenty-Third Psalm."

Amos Tinnell, of Richmond, Virginia, was best man. Usher-groomsmen were Alan Moulton, of Wilmore, Ky., brother-in-law of the bride; Dr. Emerson Cochran, of Jacksonville, Florida, brother of the bride; Capt. Dick Morrow, of Columbus, brother-in-law of the groom; and Thane Erney, of Montgomery, Ala.

Miss Adelia Cochran served as her sister's maid of honor. Miss Raffiona Lindsay, of Decatur was bridesmaid. The attendants were gowned alike in floor length dresses of pink peau de soie fashioned with empire waistlines and graceful trains. They carried cascade bouquets of pink rosebuds.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of white peau de soie designed on empire lines. The skirt and chapel train were appliqued with lace motifs encrusted with sequins and pearls. She carried a Bible covered in mother of pearl, which was used by her college roommate at her July wedding in Germany. The bridal bouquet of orchids and stephanotis was mounted on the Bible. Her fingertip veil of illusion was caught to a crown of lilies of the valley.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Cochran chose a blue embroidered satin sheath worn with pink cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Turman, mother of the groom, wore a beige embroidered sheath with bronze cymbidiums.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. The bride's table, overlaid with pink, held a three-tiered wedding cake and arrangements of pink and white flowers. The silver punchbowl held a wedding ring mold floating in pink punch. Pink tapers burned in silver candelabra.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Alan Moulton and Mrs. Reg Russell, sisters of the bride; Miss Linda Lowry and Mrs. M. T. Thome, Jr., of Decatur.

Mrs. Emerson Cochran, of Jacksonville, Florida, kept the bride's book.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. W. B. Thompson, maternal grandmother of the bride; Mrs. A. D. Houglin of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Griffith, of Cincinnati, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Estroff, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Bowers, of Augusta, and Miss Jean Turman, of Columbia, S. C., and Mrs. Richard Morrow of Fort Benning, Ga.

For a wedding trip, the bride chose for travel a cranberry two-piece knit suit worn with brown alligator accessories.
