Remember Leif Ericson? He's the hardy chap who sailed, rowed or otherwise pilled the North Atlantic in an open boat. Rugged Norseman though he was, Eric wouldn't feel up to that mode of exploration today—this frosty winter or some such year notwithstanding. South of the Arctic and the rest of the world are getting colder. For some reason we assume the elements have kept pace with our technological age, that the weather, like everything else, just gets better and better.

Not so, say meteorologists. Unless you forgot to put in anti-freeze or had trouble with your furnace during the recent blizzard hereabouts, you probably haven't given much thought to the temperature. Well, baby, it's getting colder out there. The weathermen are puzzled—and worried. After several centuries of cold weather, the average temperature had climbed one degree from 1880 until 1949. But about the beginning of the political cold war, we began experiencing a cold war of another type. Today, we are back to pre-1880 weather, and the average temperature appears heading downward still more.

So why sweat one degree? That little bit would give London a much more pleasant climate. It would allow crops to be planted 600 feet farther up the world's mountainsides. Since 1946, North Atlantic storms that used to rage over the Arctic have been moving south. Moving south ahead of the ice have been the fish and even the Gulf Stream. Norway's chief port, open for as long as seven months in the early forties, was open but two weeks last year. The failure of Russia's virgin lands farm program is due partly to colder weather.

The weathermen have sundry theories, ranging from possible changes in the sun's radiation to increasing carbon dioxide in the atmosphere. As yet, no one has blamed the Democrats or Republicans, or even the communists. It's the same old story: Everybody's talking about the weather, but nobody's doing anything about it.

Take The Family To The 'Rotary Movie'

Hold everything. Gather the brood around and announce that Wednesday, January 15, is the date of that family night out you've been promising. Mark all the calendars and plan to join other families like yours at the State Theater for "Rotary Day at the Movies." The local civic club has hired the hall and secured "The Delicate Delinquent" for four showings during the afternoon and evening. Don't worry about a baby sitter. Bring everybody.

Rotarians are sponsoring the movie as a fund-raising project. Whether they raise any funds depends on you. Rotary is one of our hard-working civic groups. You can enjoy wholesome entertainment and contribute to the support of the club's civic projects, all for a small admission. So, why not?

Muddying The Water About Water Bills

The water bill you got this month was for water you used way back in November. For some reason, we Moorevillians are having one devil of a time grasping this fact.

A harried town office staff spends a good bit of time during every bill-paying period explaining why bills were so high to customers who were out of town a couple of weeks during the month immediately preceding. City Manager Cy Brooks asked us to pass along an explanation in hopes of clearing up the matter for good and all.

Water meters are read between the first and sixth of each month. The readings then are sent to a data processing firm in Charlotte that uses the electronic punch-card system to prepare the bills. The ready-to-mail statements are returned here for distribution the first of the following month. So, your January charge is for water used during November, based on the early December reading.

One further point, Brooks says all meters are read each and every month. We also can explain why your bill may be the same two or more months running. The readings are taken at even 100 gallons. Say you used 3,400 gallons of water in November, you were charged for 3,400 gallons. You didn't get 90 gallons of free water though, because the meter readings are cumulative. When your meter was read in January you were charged with all water used, to the nearest 100 gallons, in excess of the last reading.

Now that all your water bill questions are as clear as mud, we can move on to weightier matters.

Political Focus On The Have-Nots

A series of articles dealing with poverty in North Carolina appeared under Governor Sanford's name recently in the state's major daily newspapers. The stories dealt with the effect of the very poor on all phases of the state's growth. Terry Sanford's compassion for this less fortunate has been manifest throughout his public life, and few men in our history have given more of themselves to ease the burdens of poverty. Governor Sanford realizes full well that helping the poor means more than public giveaway programs, more than a full stomach. The solution, long-term as it may be, lies in enabling the weak to grow strong and help themselves. Governor Sanford is convinced education is the force that can break through the more formidable barriers to a better life. Contrary to too many political promises; Governor Sanford's administration has made a vibrant social and economic movement of the "Crusade for Education" he outlined when he asked for the state's highest office.

It is interesting, then, to follow national political thinking that is merely an extended, magnified version of the Sanford approach. Expects say President Johnson already

Preyer Picks Johnston To Head Drive

Statesville Realtor To Lead Iredell Campaign

James William (Bill) Johnston Jr., Statesville realtor and well-known civic leader, has been appointed Iredell County manager of Richardson Preyer's campaign for governor.

Announcement that Johnston has accepted the position was made Wednesday through Judge Preyer's campaign headquarters.

The man who has assumed the responsibility of directing the "People for Preyer" movement in Iredell has his roots in Mooreville, although he lived here only for the first six months of his life.

Johnston is very active in civic, church and professional affairs in the county seat. He is a member of the Statewide Board of Education, a former president of the Statesville Junior Chamber of Commerce and a former member of the Statesville Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors. He is a Presbyterian and a leader in his church.

Three Alleged Robbers Bound To High Court

Three Catawba county teenagers face trial in Iredell Superior Court on charges of robbery and assault with a deadly weapon without intent to kill.

The three youths are charged with robbing R. E. Davis, of Mooreville, and robbing his Catawba county grocery store of more than $700.

They were bound to high court Monday following a probable cause hearing in the Mooreville Recorder's Court.

The Iredell Sheriff's Department lodged the charges against the trio.

The crime was committed around 7:30 a. m. Saturday. The youths, who cannot be named, admitted the robbery and assault, were identified by Deputy Richard E. (Dick) Perkins, John Marshall Isaac, 17, of Claremont, Route 1; George Robert Steele, 19, of Sherill's Ford; and Herschel Eugene Flynn, 16, of Catawba.

According to Deputy Perkins, See CRIME—Page 2

Uncle Dan From Doobie Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night was discussing everything from Vietnam to the Congress and from foreign aid to women.

They was a little confusion on some items, for instant Zeke Grubb argued Vietnam was in South America and nobody claimed to know anything about women. But general speaking the fellers was overflowing with wisdom on all matters.

First off, Ed Doobie said he wanted to pay his respects to them noble Congressmen on the matter of trying to get their wages raised $10,000 a year. Ed allowed as how ever Congressman in Washington knowed when he was beating the bushes for votes two years ago exact what the wage scale was for the job. He was of the opinion that any Congressman that had any respect for himself or his constituents would wait till after the general election in November afore voting himself a fat hike in pay. Ed figured a Congressman had ought to come home and tell the voters he was going to support a bill for more pay and then let the people give him a raise if he was elected. That made sense to all the fellers and it was so voted.

Zeke brought up the matter of foreign aid again. He said that the fellers had ought to put a lie bag on his head over time

Mooreville C-C Elects Officers, Four Directors

Mooreville Chamber of Commerce officers for 1964 and four directors have been elected. The directors were chosen during a brief membership meeting, which was held at noon Tuesday in the courtroom of the Municipal Building, and the officers were chosen during a meeting of the directors which followed the membership session.

J. Mack Morrow, part owner and manager of the Safety Chevrolet Company, was named president of the Chamber succeeding J. Boyce A. Brawley. Morrow advanced from the vice presidency.

The directors selected John Allred to serve as Chamber vice president, and Sam Price, Jr., was named treasurer.

W. J. Haselden, executive secretary of the organization for several years, was re-elected to this post.

During the meeting of the full membership, a nominating committee made up of the three immediate past presidents—Dr. C. L. Bittinger, John V. Barger, and William S. (Bill) Need—presented their recommendations for several years. The men suggested by the committee and unanimously elected by the membership were: John C. (Johnny) Miller, Jack Duffy, W. K. (Billy) Brawley, and Chester Johnson.

Retiring from the board were: Dr. C. L. Bittinger, Ray Crumpton, John Simpson, and Mitchell Mack. In addition to the new members, who were named to three-year terms, these men serve on the Chamber's board of directors: Dr. Boyce A. Brawley, J. Mack Morrow, Gene Johnston, S. E. Murdoch, T. C. Deik, E. C. Cavin, M. F. Croun, Joe Gittrey, Sam Price, Jr., John Allred, and Robert Kerr.

After his election to the presidency, Morrow spoke briefly, telling

Mooreville Citizens Will Decide Tax For Recreation At The Polls

First National Bank Schedules Stock Dividend

Directors of the First National Bank of Mooreville have approved and will recommend to stockholders of the institution at their annual meeting next Tuesday that a stock dividend of 50 per cent be paid to all stockholders of record on December 31, 1963.

If the dividend is approved, it will increase the bank's capital stock account $42,500—from $125,000 to $167,500.

This announcement has been made by the officers of the 44-year-old financial house and letters, concerning the annual meeting and proposed dividend increase, have been mailed to all stockholders.

Prior to announcing the proposed dividend increase, directors of the bank requested and received approval for the dividend increase from the Comptroller of Currency in Washington, D. C., which regulates national banks.

The bank's stock dividend is the capital stock of the institution was split by a vote of the stockholders in the early 1950s on a ratio of 20 shares for each share then held by each stockholder.

The first proposed increase is approved, it will be the first such dividend for the bank since the capital reorganization in the early 1950s.

With the approval of the proposal, the lending capacity of the First National Bank of Mooreville will be increased to the extent that one borrower may receive up to 10 per cent of the capital and surplus account of the bank, it was pointed out.

This is in accordance with the regulations set forth by the Federal Reserve Board.

Safety Chevrolet Co. Begins Repairs After $40,000 Blaze

ALL-STATE Safety Chevrolet Howard Pender said Tuesday that the firm was working feverishly to get its fire-damaged plant back in operation. Spokesmen for the business said they hope to restore normal service within 60 days.

The blaze at the 156 North Broad Street firm was the second major fire in this area in as many weeks. Dillon Manufacturing Co. was destroyed by fire December 31. That loss was placed at $50,000.

Jim Mack Morrow, president and general manager of Safety Chevrolet Co., still is evaluating damage caused by the blaze. Even as he surveyed his gutted repair shop Monday, he was receiving offers of assistance from all sides.

The way people in Mooreville have come to our aid really has been heart-warming," Morrow said, "every other car dealer in town has come to us and offered use of their facilities and equipment. Several independent mechanics have volunteered their shops and services."

Henry Connor, an employee of Mooreville Ice Cream Co. that is next door to the auto firm, noticed fire in the rear of the building when he came to work at 5:50 a. m. Monday. His alarm was answered by about 30 Mooreville regular and volunteer firemen.

The blaze was centered in the rear of the 60-by-120-foot building, which houses the repair shop, the used car reconditioning operation and the auto parts stockroom. Mooreville Fire Inspector

Probable Date Of Balloting Is April 28

The ballot box now holds the key to the future of Mooreville's recreation program. Town voters will decide in late April whether public recreation there shall be publicly financed.

The Town Board this week adopted a resolution calling for a referendum on the tax-for-recreation question. Machinery for the vote was put in motion following another in a series of discussions of the critical need for more support for the community's physically robust but financially ailing recreation program.

Members of the local Recreation Commission were on hand during the regular monthly meeting of the board to plead for the vote, and to answer questions concerning local recreation. Among those who spoke out for a more adequately financed recreation program was Dr. Roland Morgan, superintendent of Mooreville schools and ex-officio member of the Recreation Commission.

"I feel very strongly about recreation," Dr. Morgan said, "and I feel public recreation is a definite need for Mooreville."

Amendment Vote Set For Next Tuesday

If registration for a vote on two proposed amendments to the North Carolina State Constitution was as high across the state as it was in Iredell county, there won't be many voters left next Tuesday, January 14.

That's the date North Carolinians go to the polls to decide the so-called "little federal pie" and an amendment regarding married women's property.

Small Savings Promise Change In An Attitude

One persistent reaction to President Johnson's self-styled economy drive is a yawn. One rather snide political commentator mused over his claim that we have had no fewer than 35 one-for-each administration—such economy crackdowns. And, naturally, there are those who say the cutbacks represent no economizing to speak of, that the whole business is just a trick by a master politician, which, no doubt, Mr. Johnson is.

There is this apparent difference in the new President's cost-cutting. Where others talked, he is doing something. Hardly a day passes now without Mr. Johnson saving the taxpayers some money. True, it is exceedingly difficult for outsiders to tell whether an economy drive is the genuine article. There have been too many cases of public window dressing following by unpublicized reckless spending. It placed foreign aid and general welfare as targets. Since the end of the second world war, the budget of this country has become so monstrously unmanageable that few outside the Bureau of the Budget appear to take an interest in economy. The budget people are hailed as enemies in government offices.

The pork barrel grows and grows; military budgets soar. Business has been reaping such a harvest off government defense contracts, prosperity has been so widespread that the ordinary rules of prudence in spending money seem to have been lost in the shuffle.

As everyone knows, the comparatively

Parson Jones' Pulpit

DEAR MR. PUBLISHER:

I wish you could begin with us last week. Our Man's Bible Class had a awful good Sunday School lesson. It was Rube's time to teach and he always brings a good lesson. Last time he taught, he told the men about his new possum dog. There was a lively discussion about all of my men folks are interested in dogs—and possums too, for that matter.

First I hear that several of the men traded dogs during the business session. I'm shore glad they didn't take time out from the lesson to do it.

To get back to last Sunday—ole Rube taught on "How to Use the Bible." He told 'em they ought to read the Bible at least once a day. Right away Big Slim disagreed. He said if a fella read the Bible too much it might run him crazy. When I pointed out to him that folks read the paper every day and it didn't run 'em crazy, Big Slim swore that was a horse of another color. (I don't know how we jumped from the Bible to colored horses, but Slim always was a good jumper, er.)

Herakiah said he thought most folks used the Bible like a antique spinning wheel—something just to look at. I think Ellie Nicklesinger does this. Why, she's got a great big Bible in her living room that still got the pages stuck together. For all I know it could be a Sears and Roebuck spinning wheel. A Bible cover on it.

Brother George was of the opinion that lotsa people used the Bible for good-luck charms. He told now his sister had a Bible in every room. She said it made the place holy. Course she never did read 'em cause they would wear out too quick that way. I reckon the reason some folks use the Bible like a rabbit foot is so they'll look religious instead of superstitious.

Amos said his wife used the Bible to press flowers and 'till pictures in it. I know that to be so, cause one day when I was over there I picked up the Bible and stuff fell from everywhere. It looked like a 'tillage parade had passed through the house. One good thing that came from it was a ted dollar bill that fell out. Amos' wife said she had put it in there 20 years ago and forgot about it.

Ben Twist said his daddy read the Bible so he could argue. That's so too, Mr. Publisher. His paw is known as the best Bible arguer in these parts. He knows the Bible backwards. (Course he don't live by none of it, but he shore can quote Scripture.)

I read where some fella burned a Bible not too long ago. That's mighty bad, Sir, but I don't reckon it's no worse than having one in the house as a "whatnot."

Gotta go now. See you in Ignoramus. That's six blocks from Bristmore.

Yours Truly,

Parson Jones

The Right To Hear, Learn And Evaluate

(From The Smithfield Herald)

"Please tell me," the man said, "why it is that you North Carolina newspaper editors keep harping on that Communist Speaker Law, demanding its repeal. And now I see that the Governor of Virginia says he wants no such legislation in his state. Now let me say that I, for one, don't think your editors are Communists. And I don't believe the Governor of Virginia is one. But, frankly, I don't see why you would want to let Communists speak at the University."

The editor replied: "I appreciate your confidence and I can assure you that the opponents of the Speaker Law are certainly not trying to promote Communism. They are primarily defending democratic freedom."

The man wasn't satisfied and he asked: "Freedom of speech is a wonderful thing, but should we grant anyone freedom to talk against freedom, and isn't that what Communists do?"

The editor said he could understand how that question bothers some Americans, but he explained that something more important is at stake than the right of a Communist to make a speech on Communism at a University.

"What do you mean?" the man asked.

"I mean this: The Communist Speaker Law ultimately curtails your freedom, and you aren't a Communist trying to destroy freedom. That law curtails the freedom of all Americans."

"Tell me more. You must have a point, but it's not clear yet."

The editor pulled a clipping from his pocket. It was the clipping of an article written by Dr. Clarence Poe, editor of The Progressive Farmer. The article had appeared in the Open Forum of the News and Observer.

"I want you to hear this," said the editor. "Dr. Clarence Poe, one of the most beloved, North Carolinians, champion of the rural people, believer in American principles of government, lover of Southern traditions, answers your question."

And the editor read this from Dr. Poe's article:

"The vital issue is not the right of some objectionable persons to speak. Rather the real issue is this: Your right and the right of every other citizen to hear, to learn, to small economies Mr. Johnson has proposed will not save the federal budget—not would more of them. We all know we can't have an efficient day's-work-for-a-day's-pay government economy without weeding out political slush, such as the farm surplus subsidies, and dealing sternly with military spending. In fact, it would appear that only in the arms budget can we make substantial savings, and here we are dealing with our national security.

Consider the bed of snakes Secretary McNamara plowed up in his efforts to close unnecessary bases and shipyards, and the violent reaction to his epic efforts to economize on the big weapons systems like TFX. Here we have rich veins of pay dirt for the truly economy-minded.

Economy, then, is a state of mind, a public and private attitude. Obviously, Americans generally, and especially those in public office have an attitude toward budgets that could stand some changing.

Now, about Mr. Johnson's small economies. We say more power to him, and we ask him to keep bearing down. Small cuts can create a climate for big cuts. We agree with The Christian Science Monitor that individuals must set the standard in their personal desires. Mighty empires of economy from little empires of economy grow.

Some sources insist the President means business in the control of government spending. Certainly his performance thus far indicates he intends to do more than talk about intelligent federal spending.

MY PICTURE'S IN THE PAPER

Sure it is! And you're looking at it right now.

Most people get their pictures in the paper because they've done something. But not I!

I haven't done anything. Not yet, that is...

But one of these days I'm going to do lots of things. Big things. Great things. Why, I might even be President of the United States some day.

Want to know why my picture's in the paper?

Because I'm one of millions of youngsters who needs to grow up with faith, fortitude, character. And we boys-and-girls want you to come to Church next Sunday and to bring us with you.

'Little Fed' Plan Is Topic For Kiwanians

Bill Pope of Mooreville, Iredell's representative in the General Assembly, was scheduled to discuss the controversial "Little Federal Plan" Wednesday night before members of the Mooreville Kiwanis Club and their guests.

The regular weekly supper meeting of the club was slated at 6:30 p.m. at the War Memorial. Bill Bader was in charge of securing the speaker.

Rader said Rep. Pope, a local attorney, was to inform the Kiwanians of the "Little Federal Plan" and to describe how the proposed amendment to the state Constitution would effect the makeup of the General Assembly. Rader said the representative would speak neither for nor against the amendment, "he's merely going to try and explain the workings of the plan in layman's terms."

The redistricting plan will be decided at the polls Tuesday, January 14.

Mrs. Brewer Laid To Rest In Glenwood

Mrs. Bessie Dean Shoemaker Brewer, 75-year-old resident of 316 Clover Street, died in the Lowrance Hospital in Mooreville at 11 p.m. Saturday. In declining health for the past year, she had been critically ill three weeks.

Her husband, James Robert Brewer, passed away on February 19, 1958.

A native of Iredell county, Mrs. Brewer was born on October 6, 1888, a daughter of the late William Burre and Martha McLean Shoemaker. She had lived in Mooreville since 1927.

The survivors include three sons, Lester Brewer of Charlotte, Clay Brewer of Mooreville, and Paul Brewer of New Jersey; and the Merchant Marines; three daughters, Mrs. Faye Cookrell and Mrs. Betty Bradley, both of Mooreville, and Mrs. Irene Huffman of Chula Grove and four brothers: Will and Sol Shoemaker, both of New Hope; Frank Shoemaker of Statesville; and Ray Shoemaker of Elgin.

Twenty-four grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services were conducted at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Calvin Baptist Church, with Rev. R. E. Armstrong, pastor of the Methodist Church, in charge, assisted by the Rev. Floyd Alexander, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran Church. Burial was in Glenwood.

During a meeting in early December, Messrs. Poston and Staley, who are both in the military service, were elected to the committee to study the U.F. constitution for possible updating.

The committee will meet during the Tuesday morning session.

1st Presbyterian Cub Pack Getting New Lease On Life

A Cub pack reorganization meeting, the second in as many weeks, will be held Sunday, January 12, at First Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Joe Poston, said the planning session will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the church's educational building.

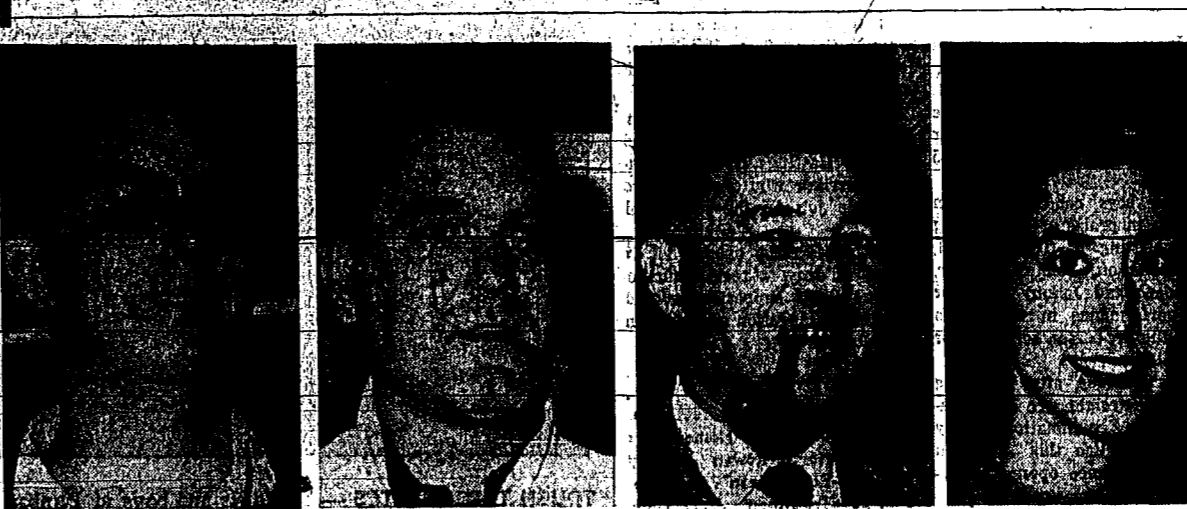

Michael Mack, Iredell Boy Scout District chairman, will be on hand to assist in efforts to bump new life into the Cub unit that was sponsored by local youth by First Presbyterian.

During 1963, the unit lost its charter. Mack said fresh interest in the Cub program was shown during the past year. The pack is now a county-wide program to rescue scout units in the district.

Mr. Poston and Mack believe are coordinating the program with the First Church. The pack is expected to have all persons interested in keeping the Cub unit growing to attend the meeting.

What Would Be Major '64 Achievement For Town?

THE PEOPLE SPEAK:

With few exceptions, it is safe to say people at this time of the year look back on the year just ended and look forward to the year just beginning—pondering what the new year holds in store for them.

Leaders of a town always take time out to talk about plans for the new year. Many of the taxpayers do, too.

Realizing this, the Mooreville Tribune's roving reporter asked the following question this week as he went about preparing one of the paper's weekly features—The People Speak:

What do you feel would be Mooreville's finest achievement during 1964?

The answers of the four on-the-streets, in full, were as follows: BILL MILLS, Mooreville Senior High School student, 210 East Kennery avenue: "I think Mooreville's finest achievement during 1964 would be for more business houses to go along with the Mooreville Plan."

FRANK UPRIGHT, policeman, 405 Wedgewood: "The annexation of more areas to the town would be a major achievement for the town in '64. I would like to see the town's proposed annexation program become a reality during this year. This would be a big help to the town."

DR. ROLAND MORGAN, superintendent of the Mooreville City Schools, 116 Cedar street: "A well-rounded recreational program, adequately financed, would be a fine achievement for Mooreville in 1964. Too, I would like for Mooreville to get a new Junior High school building."

MRS. JAMES CROSS, Reeves Brothers, route 3: "I would like to see the town grow in size, area as well as population. The annexation of the areas designated in the town's proposed annexation program would be a fine achievement for '64."

Date Of UF Meeting Set

The annual meeting of the Mooreville South Iredell United Fund is scheduled January 21 at the War Memorial.

The breakfast session will get underway at 8 a.m. All persons interested in United Fund are welcome to attend the Dutch affair.

Jimmy Brewer, president of the local U.F., said the election of a new slate of officers heads the business agenda. Another important item scheduled for discussion is proposed revisions of the United Fund constitution.

During a meeting in early December, Messrs. Poston and Staley, who are both in the military service, were elected to the committee to study the U.F. constitution for possible updating.

Before you make up your mind, consider that 31 of every 32 dryers purchased by Carolina homemakers are flameless electric.

Why the lopsided preference?

Many reasons. For one, an electric dryer costs less to buy and maintain... because it has fewer moving parts. And it's easy to install. One less connection because it's flameless.

Plus whiter, brighter, fluffier clothes every time you dry the family wash... reason enough to visit your favorite electric appliance dealer for a Duke Power showroom before you buy.

Cagers In League Opener Against West Rowan Friday

Tomorrow night (Friday) the Mooreville Blue Devil cage teams take on West Rowan in the North Piedmont Conference opener for both teams. The tilts, slated to get underway with the girls game at 7 o'clock, have the local boys sporting a 4-2 record in pre-season practice games. The lassies of Coach Roy Boyles will be seeking their first win in six outings. The Mooreville five is rated as one of the top contenders for the conference championship, with West Rowan and Troutman also given an even chance at loop honors. A victory for either could well be the factor in determining the eventual winner of the title.

Good Shooting Form

Boyles readily admits his team is perhaps the finest conditioned squad in the conference as shown by their hustle and determination. Only inability to put the ball through the basket has kept the Devil six from hitting the win side of the column.

Boyles also predicts that as the season rolls along his team will show shooting improvement. Before the season is over the girls will pull a few surprises on the opposition. Only time will tell just how fast the lassies will improve.

The boys, with all five starters back from the '63-64 campaign, have all the material to become the cream of the crop among N.C. teams. In pre-season games, Bowman's charges ran through four opponents while their two losses came from a very talented Statesville team which is rated to win the South Piedmont title.

Granda-Tommy Deal and Mike Robinson are rated as two of the top ball handlers in the area while Johnny Cade, Tim Roach, and Johnny Barrier are all top shooters and rebounders.

Bowman has good depth, being able to go to the bench and pick out Tony Hastings, Gary Laws and Gary Karriker who can do a commendable job on the round ball court.

The conference opener is expected to draw a record number of Blue Devil supporters as well as a large delegation of fans from West Rowan.

Annual Meeting Of Members

The annual meeting of the members of the Mooreville Recreation Association will be held in the office of the Association at 283 North Main Street, Mooreville, N. C., at 2 o'clock WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON, January 15, 1964.

Junior High Invades D. Matt
For Contests This Afternoon

"Ready, willing and able," reports Coach Dave Richardson and Dan Woody as they put the finishing touches to their practice session Wednesday afternoon in preparation for their encounter against D. Matt Thompson this afternoon.

The newly-formed Junior High Conference contains six schools and will give each team to basketball games on a home-and-home basis. The conference was created to give the schools opponents for athletic competition with no emphasis placed on the win and loss record. No conference championship is declared in any sport. No team will be recognized as awarded a title trophy.

Coach Richardson, coaching from scratch this year, has only one boy returning from the starting line of last year's season. New players will be in starting slots during the coming season.

The coach was highly pleased with the line showing of the team in the game. Hustle and spirit in practice was outstanding the past three weeks has been at a high pitch.

Mike Deaton is the returning veteran while John Verbie, John Beam, Tony Levan and Bill Keeler round out the first line for the Imp five.

Ricky Moore, Joe Benson, James Benfield, Chuck Byrd and Mitchell Cogdins are boys most likely to crack the starting team as the season moves along. Other boys who could possibly see duty in the coming games are Brent Curtis, Clyde Millaps, Sammy Ingram, Tim Brown, Rex Mayhew, Sammy Archer and John Goodman.

Defense was the key for the Imp lassies in their opening 7-6 final score win over Landis and Coach Woody expects defense to be the main force as his shooters still haven't developed their full scoring ability. Judy Robinson, one of the starters of last year, provides the bulk of the scoring punch for the sextet while Judy Kistler, Jeanne Talbert, Lisa Alexander, Jane Kelly and Jane Church round out the starting unit for Woody's team.

The coach lists Donna Allison, Ponda Hayes, Betty Jo Wilke and Linda Benfield as possible game makers during the coming games. He is also high on the efforts of the remainder of his squad which has been working real hard in preparation for the game against D. Matt.

Following the game against D. Matt the Imps will be on the home court Monday afternoon, January 18, with China Grove providing the opposition.

John D. Beam, the financial house's secretary and treasurer, reported that $57,600 in dividends were paid on June 30 and the December 30 dividend total was $59,900.

The association's assets increased $388,000 during the 12-month period just ended, to an all-time high of $2,600,000, according to Beam, who said the "past year" was the best in the history of the institution.

The financial house made 125 loans during 1963, and added 200 new savings accounts, bringing the total of savings accounts to 4,410 or $3,140,000, Beam stated.

Officers of the association, which was organized in 1922, are: E. V. Fields, president; T. C. DeWitt, vice president; W. J. Haselden, president; and John D. Beam, secretary and treasurer.

Excitement has not been so great in the Cascade village in many a year, it is said, as it was around the time that Roy E. Davis had been knocked unconscious and robbed of something over $700 dollars about 7:15 a. m. Saturday morning shortly after he opened his store at 201 Cascade street.

Fortunately the boys, John Marshall Isaac, 17, of Claremont, route 1, George Robert Steele, 19, of Sherrills Ford, and Herschel Flynn, 18, of Cascade, route 1, were arrested in Cascade County about 9:30 a. m., and the money returned to the Davis store.

Mr. Davis is feeling well at his home on Mount Ulla Highway where he will have to remain a bed patient for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Weber of Forest, Miss, visited Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Callaway Saturday.

Rev. E. J. Childers, pastor of the Cascade Baptist Mission Church, assisted in the funeral service of G. C. Tate at the First Baptist Church in Statesville Sunday.

The Cascade Good Samaritan Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Edmiston Monday evening at 7 o'clock, with Mr. Edmiston presiding.

Mr. Edmiston gave the devotion during his last topic, "Make Me Like Job."

During the business session, the set of rules as were in effect last year were approved.

The club urged all people of the area to assist the needy, if possible. If it is impossible to send each one it is urged to send dues, $1.00 per family for each quarter, in order to keep the treasury in good condition, so that the club can continue to help the needy.

Mrs. Hartnell Lattie, treasurer, reported that she had spent for funeral wreaths a total of $40.19 and now has in treasury a total of $87.80.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: president, T. E. Edmiston; vice-president, Marvin Karriker, treasurer, Mrs. Hartnell Lattie; secretary, Mrs. Hartnell Lattie; program chairman, Mrs. Thomas Nannery; and Mrs. Nannery is also sympathy card.

Political Situation Unchanged In Iredell, GOP Leader Declares

The assassination of President J. F. Kennedy in Dallas, Tex., on November 22 hasn't changed the GOP situation in Iredell county or North Carolina, according to R. T. Brantley.

Brantley, a lifelong resident of Mooreville, has been active in Republican affairs since he became old enough to vote. He is often referred to as "the Republican of South Iredell."

Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona is still local Republicans' choice to go against the Democrats in 1964, Brantley said.

Brantley voiced his views this week in talking with a representative of the Mooreville Tribune following the lifting of the month-long moratorium in effect since President Kennedy's death.

"I don't think the situation has changed in Iredell county," Brantley said. "The Republicans are still very much for Goldwater," he continued.

He said possibly the reason for this is the fact "the basic policies of the Administration haven't changed any," and, therefore, he said he did not think there had been any changes locally.

Brantley said he did not think Senator Goldwater's national policy has changed noticeably either.
